

The British warship Caradoc firing on Bolshevik troops at Vladivostok. The troops opposing the Reds have received great assistance from the naval forces. Warfare continues in that quarter of the globe as if the question of peace had never been discussed.

Copyright, Central News Photo Service.

Col. Philippe Bunau-Varilla of Panama Canal fame, photographed on the Touraine on his arrival in New York last week. He lost a leg at Verdun. Photo by International Film Service.

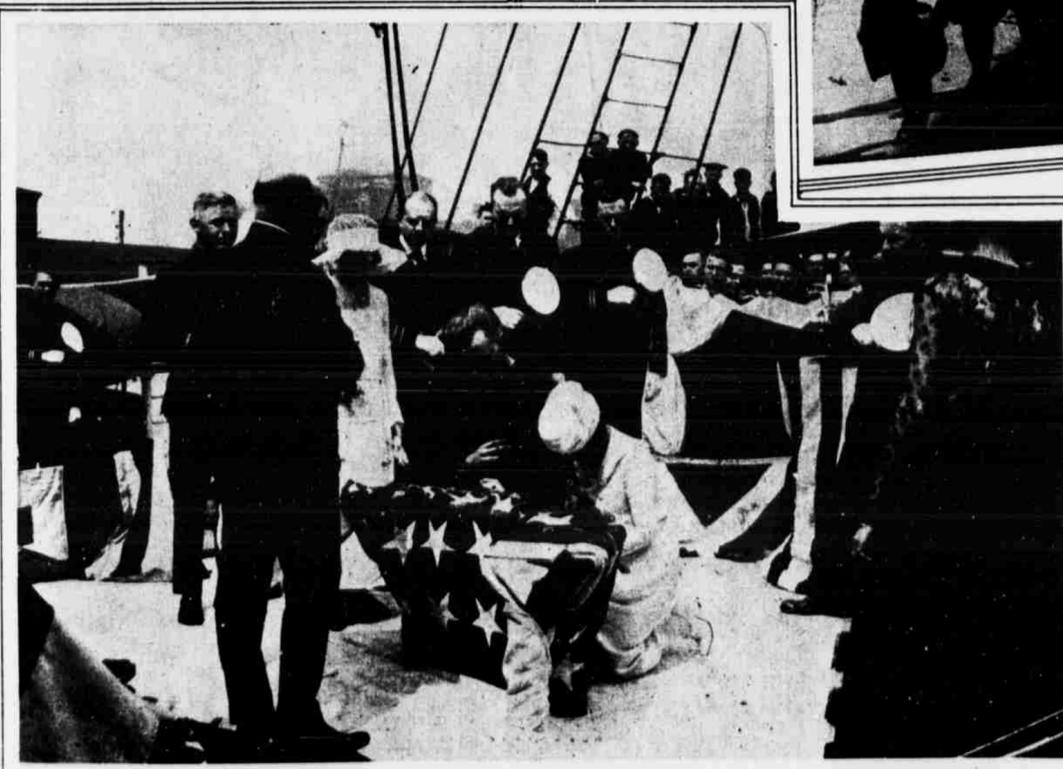

Four aces of the 94th Aero Pursuit Squadron, who got back home recently. From left to right they are Capt. Sam Kaye, Jr., of Ohio, Lieut. Lee H. Dawson of Colorado, Major Reid M. Chambers of Tennessee and Capt. William H. Palmer of South Carolina.

Photo by International Film Service.

Above—The first mandatory. French troops are shown occupying former Turkish territory in Syria. An infantry regiment is seen marching through the streets of Beyrouth, acclaimed by the Christian population.

Photo by Mirzoff.

At left—A naval wedding in every sense of the word this. Pharmacist's Mate Horace M. Folsom of the hospital ship Mercy and Miss Mary Valis being married on the deck of the ship. Everybody aboard from the captain to the mess boy attended the ceremony.

Photo by International Film Service.

Her name is often heard but her face is seldom seen. A recent portrait of Miss Rachel Crothers, the playwright.

Photo by Count J. de Streloeki.