

Yankees Down White Sox in Brilliant Game, Shawkey Yielding Only One Hit—Dodgers Drop Another to Reds

SHAWKEY YIELDS ONLY ONE HIT TO WHITE SOX TO WIN

Faber, Chicago Twirler, Gets Only Safe Drive Off Local Pitching Star.

CIRCUIT CLOUT FOR BAKER Breaks Tie With Cobb for Home Run Honors and Helps Yankees Win 4 to 0.

By FREDERICK G. LIEB. The Yanks again used the old razor strap on Kid Gleason yesterday, but the Polo was yesterday. Bob Shawkey especially yielded it with unerring accuracy. Robertus made the White Sox look about the same size of a needle's eye.

Once upon a time it was customary to designate the pallid Sox as the hitless wonder of the league. They were well hitless, but there was nothing wonderful about them. Shawkey pitched the classic of his career, when he held the Chicago league leaders to one pesky hit and blanked the Gleason outfit in the third game of the set by a score of 4 to 0.

The long fiber of the contest went to Casanova, the illustrious pitcher of Urban C. Faber. Faber usually hits less than a whipper. Besides he isn't supposed to be a batter; he is a pitcher. But the Yankee hit him after the fashion of yesterday that he caught the fever, and decided to blow himself to a bit.

Urban's wallop was a mean, little, no-hitter. Only three hits were allowed, an honest box score with a lot of self-respecting bingles. In the third inning Faber arched a little fly behind third base which fell into the hands of Duke Duffy. Duffy didn't even move for it, thinking it was a foul. But it beat Shawkey out of a no hit game!

Lewis Catches Eight Fliers. However, Duffy couldn't have caught it even if he had made a college try for it. It simply was one of those fool things that happen after the fashion of "where they ain't." Besides, Duffy was a regular little fellow yesterday. He attached himself to eight flies of various lengths and momentum—a fine day's work for any outfielder.

Only thirty Sox faced Shawkey; he walked two men and Schack got on via the fumble. The pitcher, who walked and stole second, was the only Sox player who was the only Windy City athlete to hold communication with Del Pratt during the afternoon. It was Shawkey's fifth straight victory.

Murderer's row still was "bustin' 'em" yesterday. Urban Faber, the same busy worker who threw three harpoons into the Giants in the 1917 world's series, was given a terrible pasting while he remained on the hill. In the three and a half innings Faber, fingered in the game the Yanks lit on him for a total of thirteen bases. They had to do some dodgy base running to restrain themselves to a total of three runs.

A pony leathersman, Dickie Kerr, imported from Milwaukee, checked the Yankee slugger after he relieved Urban Faber. The pitcher, who was used as a reliever of the southpaw midge, it was just as well that the locals didn't need many runs to win. They wasted much time in the eighth and ninth innings when they were nipped at the plate, two more were caught stealing and ten were left to perish on the towpaths. Great work by the Yanks' outfielders, who fielded their backs to the wall, held down New York's score. Especially was Nemo Leibold a nimble fly hawk.

Despite the cloudy weather, the Yankee-White Sox muss enticed a 12,000 crowd to the Polo grounds, which was very good under the circumstances.

Yankees Retain Third Place. As the Indians jumped out to Cleveland to beat the Athletics in their own home, the Yankees retained their position as only twenty-two points separate the first three teams. The White Sox now are receding as fast as they advanced a few weeks ago. The Yankees, who have won seven games, and Kid Gleason may resort to the razor strap instead of graceful harmony.

The second inning was painful to the loyal Legion of Fans. The Yanks fled 'em up with one out on singles by Lewis and Pratt and Bodie's pass, but nothing happened.

Better luck in the third! With one out, Peck sent a single down his favorite alley, between third base and the pitcher. The pitcher, who was healthy swing and lined the ball into the right field stand for his first homer in Harlem in 1919. Peck riding in ahead of him.

J. Franklin's well broke a tie with Ty Cobb for the home run leadership of the American League. Ty to yesterday's game. Frank and Ty were tied with sixty-seven homers, excluding Baker's world series products. Cobb, however, came into the American League three years ahead of Baker, and he was also out during the entire 1915 season.

Pratt Scores Pipp. The run getting did not stop in the third with Baker's homer. After Lewis lifted to right, Pipp pitched to Pratt, who Collins and dashed home when Pratt drove a ringing double to left.

The Yankees got another run in the fourth, but it took three singles and two balls to produce it. The pitcher, who was healthy swing and lined the ball into the right field stand for his first homer in Harlem in 1919. Peck riding in ahead of him.

The Hon. Kid Gleason opined Faber had enough and made a lot of motions in the Chicago dugout. Ed Collins, former Marine, deciphered this message to Urban. The message was "get out quick before they annihilate you." Little Dickie Kerr came in to oppose Baker. Rather an uncomfortable situation for a rookie!

Kerr kept it out of Baker's groove, and walked him, Shawkey being forced to a homecoming. The pitcher, who was healthy swing and lined the ball into the right field stand for his first homer in Harlem in 1919. Peck riding in ahead of him.

HIGH LIGHTS AND SHADOWS IN ALE SPHERES OF SPORT

THE slump of the Chicago White Sox, former world's champions, has Kid Gleason, their popular manager, worried more than he will admit.

The Sox continue to play with a lot of pep and they have as much spirit as the usual college team. When Ed Collins won a game with a home run with the bases full last Thursday the other Chicago players patted him on the back and did all but carry him around the field on their shoulders. But one cannot lose sight of the fact that this was Chicago's only victory in the last six games. The Sox lost three games before coming East and have lost two out of three to the Yankees. The club got off to its fine lead and later in rotation, but the last two named appear to be faltering. The Yanks prodded them hard. Only the veteran Cicotte keeps going at his old pace. He has won ten games out of eleven, his only defeat being a game in which he relieved a fellow hurler. The Yanks are coming along very strongly and should go still stronger as the season advances. The hitters of the club are delivering the goods and once the Yanks start after pitcher Robertus in baseball, not even the Giants can make him feel more uncomfortable than Faber, Peck, Bodie and Pratt started the last few days. Only Pipp continues in the 220 class.

The National League is tightening all around and may yet develop into an old fashioned free for all race. The two tallied clubs, St. Louis and Boston, have shown much improvement, the Cardinals having won five in the last three games, and the Braves, who have lost three of their last four, have won three of their last four. Monday when the Phillies lost after bagging six runs in the first inning, Brooklyn is going down so fast now that if the Dodgers don't wake up soon the first thing they know they will be taking their pennant dreams into the second division. Before leaving for the West last Saturday John Heydler, president of the league, said: "It will be a fine race. The teams all are about equal, and the season will develop into a very interesting one. Both Boston and St. Louis are closing up the teams ahead of them and may still get into the scramble. I am certainly pleased with the situation."

No Parallel Between the Jeffries of 1910 and the Willard of 1919. Followers of boxing who resurrect the Jeffries-Johnson pre-fight status for a parallel to the Willard-Dempsey situation and attempt thereby to prove that after three years in inactivity in the ring Willard will not be able to come back are only strengthening the champion's case.

Jeffries' failure to stand up against Johnson after the blemish had been out of the ring for nearly six years will develop into testimony to prove that Dempsey and his adherents should not bank too much on Willard's being any less efficient a ringster than he was when he fought Frank Moran in this city in March, 1916. No parallel can be drawn between the Jeffries of June, 1910, and the Willard of June, 1919. Jeffries at the time stated was only a shell of a one time great brawler—a man grown twenty years under only six weeks of illness in spittle and drags into the ring against his wishes by ill advised friends. Willard is a man who has had good care of his body, almost down to the weight at which he faced Moran, always smiling and full of confidence—a fast man though a big one—a clever boxer and the biggest heavyweight of modern days. The Jeffries of July, 1910, though handicapped so severely physically and mentally, was able to withstand the attack of his negro opponent for nearly fifteen rounds. The Johnson who was supposed to be a better fighter than Willard, was experienced and more formidable fighter than is Dempsey. Yet he is asked to accept the Jeffries-Johnson situation as evidence that Willard will not be able to come back for a twelve round bout with Dempsey.

We refuse to accept this dictum mainly because we have faith in Willard's being able to get himself into condition within the next three weeks. The fact that he has confessed the situation does not look any too promising with regard to the big fellow who may be sent down. A friend in Toledo writes us that he was out to see Willard work the other afternoon—the day he scored the knockout over Monahan—and that the champion looked slow. "Willard is rather deliberate and slow and after three rounds with Monahan he was puffing like a porpoise," writes our correspondent. "I note that various experts describe the champion as being under only six weeks of illness, which he looks good, but his showing to-day did not make me any too optimistic about his coming out soon enough condition to stand up against a slashing fighter like Dempsey. If Willard can get himself into condition to travel the first four rounds at a faster pace than he ever before travelled he will win. If he beats off Dempsey's first flurry he will whittle his challenger into submission."

Good Thing for Willard That Corbett Does Not Pick Him as Winner. We have a screed from Jim Corbett and he discusses the Willard-Dempsey fight in an open minded way. His says: "Any heavyweight could have beaten Jeffries, but he came back to fight because he willard will have the difficulties Jeffries had when he faces Dempsey. Jeff was not a natural fighter. Willard is. Jeff had gathered a little knack of course, an awkward way of his own. His crouch was awkward, but in its way it was clever. When Jeffries tried to come back he had forgotten the things he had picked up. Willard will not be handicapped along those lines. He will be a natural fighter. The real story of that fight will not be known till the day of the fight.

"Willard would have been great at any time, no matter who the heavyweights were, not because of his natural fighting ability, though he has that, but because of his great size. And he combines with that remarkable agility and speed for a big man. But the greatest fighter I have ever seen was Jeffries—whether I was for or against him. Jeff was a natural left handed fighter. This gave him a tremendous advantage over any other heavyweight. He carried a knockout punch in that left. And everybody must realize that the left is nearer to the opponent and it is easier to hit with that hand. What a wonderful man Jeffries was! And when a fighter who has defeated twice by a man, as I was by Jeffries, says that it means something, doesn't it?"

Without doubt Corbett's somewhat toward Willard he refuses to pick the winner. This may be regarded as a fortunate thing for Willard—just as fortunate for the champion as it is unfortunate for Dempsey to have named the winner by Dick Croker, who never picked a ring winner in his life. Corbett, likewise, always has been associated with losers. Rarely, unless we are mistaken—never—has he named a winner. From time to time he has associated himself with boxers whom he regarded as coming champions only to find, as he found in the case of Tom Cowley, that he had taken up with a "lemon."

Corn Tassel Comes to Fore, While Eternal Goes Into Eclipse. Another Suburban Handicap gone down into turf history, and the name of Corn Tassel, as honest and responsive a horse as ever stepped onto a track, added to the illustrious list headed by the great Salvator! Corn Tassel might not have been the greatest horse in the field, but at the weights he proved the fastest over the mile and a quarter. He proved himself a real winner, but his ability to go the route in bang up style and against formidable opposition. The time of 2:15.2 seconds, which he marked is two minutes flat and is credited to Whisk Broom II, but there is great doubt whether that record is genuine. Next to Whisk Broom II's disputed mark comes Corn Tassel's performance. Sweep On, regarded by the public as a probable winner, failed because, it is charged, he got a poorly judged ride, but his fact remains that he was beaten and has no excuse. It was a great day and a great race, and all honor and distinction to Corn Tassel.

While Corn Tassel was running his great race at Belmont Park he Frank was winning the Latonia Derby and leading a fast field, which included the renowned Eternal, conqueror of Billy Kelly over six furlongs last season. Last night when experts were taking stock of the three-year-old stars for this season many of the winners refused to regard Eternal as a contender. They said that he would not prove a stayer. On Saturday, however, the real Derby distance, Eternal finished sixth in a field of eight, after having led to the mile post, and gave final and convincing testimony that he cannot go the route. It is true that the track was a bit heavy, but it was not heavy enough to bother a first class thoroughbred, even if he really did have a real stake horse distance and he failed miserably.

MORTON WINS OWN GAME WITH SINGLE ALEXANDER BEATS BRAVES BY 9 TO 2 Sends in Tally in Ninth That Flack Hits for Circuit With Beats Athletics, 2 to 1.

CLEVELAND, June 8.—(American)—Morton won his own game here today when he singled to deep center in the ninth inning, scoring Johnson. Philadelphia was defeated, 2 to 1. The score:

Table with columns for Philadelphia (A) and Cleveland (A) showing runs, hits, errors, and individual player statistics.

PHILADELPHIA (A) CLEVELAND (A)
Runs, Hits, Errors, and individual player statistics for both teams.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.
At Kansas City, 3 P. M.
Indianapolis, 3 P. M.
Kansas City, 3 P. M.
St. Paul, 3 P. M.

BROOKLYN AGAIN BEATEN BY REDS

Cincinnati Makes It 3 Straight by Winning Five Inning Contest, 4 to 1.

Special Despatch to The Sun. CINCINNATI, June 8.—Everything broke against the Dodgers here this afternoon and the Reds won their third straight victory over Brooklyn. The game was postponed for an hour and a half when rain put an end to the contest at the end of the fifth inning.

It was raining when Umpire Klem called the game, but five minutes later the sun shined brightly. When the Reds were at bat in the fifth inning a heavy shower fell and time was called. After waiting twenty minutes the game was resumed and the Reds scored while the team was on the road, while Pratt had started the last few days. Only Pipp continues in the 220 class.

The National League is tightening all around and may yet develop into an old fashioned free for all race. The two tallied clubs, St. Louis and Boston, have shown much improvement, the Cardinals having won five in the last three games, and the Braves, who have lost three of their last four, have won three of their last four. Monday when the Phillies lost after bagging six runs in the first inning, Brooklyn is going down so fast now that if the Dodgers don't wake up soon the first thing they know they will be taking their pennant dreams into the second division. Before leaving for the West last Saturday John Heydler, president of the league, said: "It will be a fine race. The teams all are about equal, and the season will develop into a very interesting one. Both Boston and St. Louis are closing up the teams ahead of them and may still get into the scramble. I am certainly pleased with the situation."

No Parallel Between the Jeffries of 1910 and the Willard of 1919. Followers of boxing who resurrect the Jeffries-Johnson pre-fight status for a parallel to the Willard-Dempsey situation and attempt thereby to prove that after three years in inactivity in the ring Willard will not be able to come back are only strengthening the champion's case.

Jeffries' failure to stand up against Johnson after the blemish had been out of the ring for nearly six years will develop into testimony to prove that Dempsey and his adherents should not bank too much on Willard's being any less efficient a ringster than he was when he fought Frank Moran in this city in March, 1916. No parallel can be drawn between the Jeffries of June, 1910, and the Willard of June, 1919. Jeffries at the time stated was only a shell of a one time great brawler—a man grown twenty years under only six weeks of illness in spittle and drags into the ring against his wishes by ill advised friends. Willard is a man who has had good care of his body, almost down to the weight at which he faced Moran, always smiling and full of confidence—a fast man though a big one—a clever boxer and the biggest heavyweight of modern days. The Jeffries of July, 1910, though handicapped so severely physically and mentally, was able to withstand the attack of his negro opponent for nearly fifteen rounds. The Johnson who was supposed to be a better fighter than Willard, was experienced and more formidable fighter than is Dempsey. Yet he is asked to accept the Jeffries-Johnson situation as evidence that Willard will not be able to come back for a twelve round bout with Dempsey.

We refuse to accept this dictum mainly because we have faith in Willard's being able to get himself into condition within the next three weeks. The fact that he has confessed the situation does not look any too promising with regard to the big fellow who may be sent down. A friend in Toledo writes us that he was out to see Willard work the other afternoon—the day he scored the knockout over Monahan—and that the champion looked slow. "Willard is rather deliberate and slow and after three rounds with Monahan he was puffing like a porpoise," writes our correspondent. "I note that various experts describe the champion as being under only six weeks of illness, which he looks good, but his showing to-day did not make me any too optimistic about his coming out soon enough condition to stand up against a slashing fighter like Dempsey. If Willard can get himself into condition to travel the first four rounds at a faster pace than he ever before travelled he will win. If he beats off Dempsey's first flurry he will whittle his challenger into submission."

Good Thing for Willard That Corbett Does Not Pick Him as Winner. We have a screed from Jim Corbett and he discusses the Willard-Dempsey fight in an open minded way. His says: "Any heavyweight could have beaten Jeffries, but he came back to fight because he willard will have the difficulties Jeffries had when he faces Dempsey. Jeff was not a natural fighter. Willard is. Jeff had gathered a little knack of course, an awkward way of his own. His crouch was awkward, but in its way it was clever. When Jeffries tried to come back he had forgotten the things he had picked up. Willard will not be handicapped along those lines. He will be a natural fighter. The real story of that fight will not be known till the day of the fight.

"Willard would have been great at any time, no matter who the heavyweights were, not because of his natural fighting ability, though he has that, but because of his great size. And he combines with that remarkable agility and speed for a big man. But the greatest fighter I have ever seen was Jeffries—whether I was for or against him. Jeff was a natural left handed fighter. This gave him a tremendous advantage over any other heavyweight. He carried a knockout punch in that left. And everybody must realize that the left is nearer to the opponent and it is easier to hit with that hand. What a wonderful man Jeffries was! And when a fighter who has defeated twice by a man, as I was by Jeffries, says that it means something, doesn't it?"

Without doubt Corbett's somewhat toward Willard he refuses to pick the winner. This may be regarded as a fortunate thing for Willard—just as fortunate for the champion as it is unfortunate for Dempsey to have named the winner by Dick Croker, who never picked a ring winner in his life. Corbett, likewise, always has been associated with losers. Rarely, unless we are mistaken—never—has he named a winner. From time to time he has associated himself with boxers whom he regarded as coming champions only to find, as he found in the case of Tom Cowley, that he had taken up with a "lemon."

Corn Tassel Comes to Fore, While Eternal Goes Into Eclipse. Another Suburban Handicap gone down into turf history, and the name of Corn Tassel, as honest and responsive a horse as ever stepped onto a track, added to the illustrious list headed by the great Salvator! Corn Tassel might not have been the greatest horse in the field, but at the weights he proved the fastest over the mile and a quarter. He proved himself a real winner, but his ability to go the route in bang up style and against formidable opposition. The time of 2:15.2 seconds, which he marked is two minutes flat and is credited to Whisk Broom II, but there is great doubt whether that record is genuine. Next to Whisk Broom II's disputed mark comes Corn Tassel's performance. Sweep On, regarded by the public as a probable winner, failed because, it is charged, he got a poorly judged ride, but his fact remains that he was beaten and has no excuse. It was a great day and a great race, and all honor and distinction to Corn Tassel.

While Corn Tassel was running his great race at Belmont Park he Frank was winning the Latonia Derby and leading a fast field, which included the renowned Eternal, conqueror of Billy Kelly over six furlongs last season. Last night when experts were taking stock of the three-year-old stars for this season many of the winners refused to regard Eternal as a contender. They said that he would not prove a stayer. On Saturday, however, the real Derby distance, Eternal finished sixth in a field of eight, after having led to the mile post, and gave final and convincing testimony that he cannot go the route. It is true that the track was a bit heavy, but it was not heavy enough to bother a first class thoroughbred, even if he really did have a real stake horse distance and he failed miserably.

Picked up on League Fields Far and Near

This speaker's enforced vacation for being hit by a ball in the head, is the greatest Texas pitcher any harm. He cracked out three hits and stole a base, but he was not able to get any more. The Athletics pitchers count the same in the batting order.

No matter where the St. Louis team field this season they are giving it a good showing. The team is playing a great game and is giving it a good showing. The team is playing a great game and is giving it a good showing.

Del Pratt, Yankee second baseman, is playing a great game and is giving it a good showing. The team is playing a great game and is giving it a good showing.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.
At Kansas City, 3 P. M.
Indianapolis, 3 P. M.
Kansas City, 3 P. M.
St. Paul, 3 P. M.

Major League Records for the Last Week

The world's record in each league of games played, won and lost, with runs, hits, errors, and batting averages, as scored by opponents, including games of Saturday, June 7, is as follows:

Table showing Major League Records for the Last Week, including National League and American League statistics.

SISLER'S PLAYING FEATURES CONTEST

Accounts for Runs That Enable Browns to Beat Senators 2 to 1.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(American)—Brilliant playing by Sisler enabled St. Louis to beat the Senators 2 to 1 in a pitching duel between Gallia and Johnson. That St. Louis first baseman doubled in the second inning, and stole second, Sisler placed a drive over second which scored Bronkie and won the game. The score:

Table showing Sisler's playing features contest statistics, including runs, hits, and errors.

NEWARK BEATS READING.
Reading, Pa., June 8.—(International)—Patry Donovan's Newark Bears defeated Reading in the final game of the series to-day, 4 to 2. Bill Burtch allowed only three hits, but errors by Roman at short allowed three runners to score. The score:

Table showing Newark Beats Reading statistics, including runs, hits, and errors.

ROYAL GIANTS.
In a thrilling game Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey's team beats Royal Giants by 1 to 0. In a thrilling game Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey's team beats Royal Giants by 1 to 0. In a thrilling game Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey's team beats Royal Giants by 1 to 0.

AMES GOES TO THE ROUTE.
St. Louis, June 8.—(National)—Ames, pitching his first full game of the season, proved better than Woodward in his debut as a pitcher. He pitched a complete game, allowing only three runs, two earned, and one unearned, in a 2-1 victory over the Cardinals fifth consecutive victory.

SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION.
At Chattanooga, 8 P. M.
Chattanooga, 8 P. M.
Chattanooga, 8 P. M.
Chattanooga, 8 P. M.

BUFFALO BY SCORE OF 9 TO 5.
Buffalo, N. Y., June 8.—(International)—The first Sunday game played in the Buffalo baseball park resulted in a victory for the home team over Birmingham, 9 to 5. The score:

Table showing Buffalo By Score of 9 to 5 statistics, including runs, hits, and errors.

UP TO THE MINUTE PITCHING AND CLUB RECORDS OF LOCAL TEAMS

Table showing Up to the Minute Pitching and Club Records of Local Teams, including Yankees, Athletics, and other clubs.

FIVE LEADING BATTERS IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

Table showing Five Leading Batters in the Major Leagues, including batting averages and statistics.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.
Played, Won, Lost, P. C.
New York, 38, 25, 13, .658
Boston, 38, 21, 17, .553
Chicago, 38, 21, 17, .553
Cleveland, 38, 21, 17, .553
Detroit, 38, 21, 17, .553
Philadelphia, 38, 21, 17, .553
Pittsburgh, 38, 21, 17, .553
St. Louis, 38, 21, 17, .553
Washington, 38, 21, 17, .553

WOOD OLCOTT TROTS FAST HALF MILE

Wild Bill Donovan's Skeeters Is Timed in 1:05 3-4 in Road Drivers Meet on Harlem Speedway.

Wood Ocott, a bay stallion owned and driven by J. Manning, yesterday ran the fastest half mile of the season in the 1:07 class trot against time, the feature of the third matinee of the Road Drivers Association of New York on the Harlem Speedway. The opening yearling in the second heat, unplaced, covered the two furlongs in the good time of 1 minute 5 3/4 seconds. In the first heat Wood Ocott, who clocked 1:05 3/4 seconds. Wood Ocott was the only starter.

Bessie Baron, a bay mare driven by E. Carpentier, captured the 1:08 class trot, which was decided in three heats. In the first and third heats, which were won by Bessie Baron, she was timed in both 1 minute 1/4 seconds. The summaries:

Table showing Wood Ocott's performance statistics, including time and class.

OPEN SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER RED CAPS BY SCORE OF 4 TO 1.
The Ridgewood Grounds, Wyckoff avenue and Halsey streets, closed yesterday with a double header. The curtain raiser furnished a close and exciting contest between the Bushwick A. and Erie clubs, which was dropped 2 to 1. In the main attraction the Ridgewood defeated the Red Caps, 4 to 1. The features of the game were Sweetland's heavy batting, Halley's excellent catching, and left fielder McLaughlin. The score:

Table showing Open Season With Victory Over Red Caps statistics, including runs, hits, and errors.

CUBANS DROPTWO GAMES.
Defeated by Bushwicks by Scores of 3 to 2 and 4 to 0.
The Bushwicks humbled the Cuban Stars of Havana twice yesterday at Dexter Park, winning the first game by a score of 3 to 2 and taking the second, a seven-inning contest, by 4 to 0. Mitchell beat the Cubans to five hits in the opener. The score:

Table showing Cubans Droptwo Games statistics, including runs, hits, and errors.

LINCOLN WIN AND TIE.
Beat the Hoboken Team by Score of 10 to 0.
After swamping the Hoboken nine by a score of 10 to 0 yesterday at Olympic Field the Lincoln Giants played a 3 to 3 tie with the Hoboken 9. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning on account of rain. Williams allowed the Downey players only four hits. The Lincoln club plays at the Hoboken Club and shutters nine next Sunday. The score:

Table showing Lincoln Win and Tie statistics, including runs, hits, and errors.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.
At Milwaukee: First game, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.

AT MILWAUKEE: FIRST GAME.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.

AT MILWAUKEE: SECOND GAME.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.

AT MILWAUKEE: THIRD GAME.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.

AT MILWAUKEE: FOURTH GAME.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.

AT MILWAUKEE: FIFTH GAME.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.

AT MILWAUKEE: SIXTH GAME.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.

AT MILWAUKEE: SEVENTH GAME.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.
Milwaukee, 8 P. M.