

BRONX LEADS CITY IN HOUSING RELIEF

Brooklyn Erects More Structures, but Will Not Accommodate as Many.

Buildings to Be Examined Today as to What is Holding Up Work.

There are being erected for residential purposes 21 buildings in Manhattan, 28 in the Bronx, 143 in Brooklyn and 35 in the Borough of Queens, according to figures furnished by the Tenement House Department of the Reconstruction Commission, of which Abram I. Elkus is chairman.

"This looks very much as if Brooklyn led the borough," Mr. Elkus said yesterday. "At first this was the impression created by the figures. When we came to analyze them, however, we found that the number of buildings under construction did not in any way indicate the number of people who are to be provided with homes for the coming winter. For although Brooklyn is erecting almost three times as many buildings as are going on in Manhattan, so many of these buildings are two-family houses that the 143 buildings being put up in Brooklyn will provide 1,639 flats, whereas, the 52 buildings going up in the Bronx will contain 1,854 apartments.

Manhattan Leads Housing. "The 35 houses being built in the Borough of Queens will furnish 441 flats and the 21 buildings in Manhattan will provide homes for 681 families. The average number of people who are to be accommodated in the houses in the Bronx is 19. The average number of apartments per building in Manhattan is 32. We find, however, that these houses are likely to accommodate more people, since 11 of the 21 are from eight to thirteen stories high, which means that they are elevator apartments intended for people who are able to pay fairly high prices.

"As for the cost of construction, the cheapest buildings we find are going up in Brooklyn, where the structures are more expensive. Those in the Bronx are three times as much as those in Brooklyn and those in Manhattan ten times as much. The Brooklyn houses average 11.5 stories, the Bronx three stories high, but in the Bronx and Manhattan there is none under five stories. In this regard half of the buildings are from eight to thirteen stories.

"The Brooklyn and Queens apartments average four rooms, the Bronx under four and Manhattan five, indicating that the apartments in Manhattan are of the more expensive type. All these buildings are brick except one in Brooklyn, which is a stone structure. In Manhattan almost all the buildings are in a corner, in Brooklyn one-eighth, in Queens one-third and in the Bronx one-fourth.

Queens Houses Have Yards. "The Queens houses nearly all have yards more than fifteen feet deep. In Brooklyn the average yard is 12 feet wide, in the Bronx one-sixth and in Manhattan one-third. It is obvious that far less is being accomplished in Brooklyn to relieve congestion, in spite of the number of buildings going up, than in the Bronx, where there are fewer and smaller buildings, but in the Bronx and Manhattan there is no one under five stories. In this regard half of the buildings are from eight to thirteen stories.
