

SOCIALISTS SCORED AT COUNCIL SESSION

Vladeck Calls Declaration Signers Bolsheviks, and Storm Breaks.

TABLET CAUSES SCRAM

Security League at Work on Campaign to Counteract Propagandists.

The visit of wrath of the Republican and Democratic members of the Board of Aldermen were poured liberally on the Socialists at the meeting yesterday when Alderman B. C. Vladeck, one of the Seven Reds, declared that the signers of the Declaration of Independence were "Bolsheviks, pure and simple."

The outbreak came on the passage of the report of the committee on general welfare ordering the filing of the resolution of Alderman McCarry for the placing of a tablet containing the Declaration of Independence on one of the walls of the Aldermanic Chamber, and on the opposite wall a tablet with the Ten Commandments.

Alderman Quinn, Republican, was first on his feet. Alderman Vladeck, dare to stand on this floor," he roared, "and while expressing his admiration for the Declaration of Independence has the audacity to say that the signers were Bolsheviks. At the same time members of his party are preaching revolution every day. They are Benedict Arnolds, traitors to their country."

"It makes any man with red blood in his veins boil over," said Alderman Squiers of Brooklyn, "to hear the doctrine advanced by the Socialists. If they want a fight in America they can get it, and they may be assured that we are going to drive them out of the dark corners they have been occupying, out into the daylight. As a red blooded American citizen I cannot stand here and listen to their arguments without answering. If they don't like the form of government we have in this country let them go to Russia, as they seem to like the Government they have there."

The resolution was placed on file by a vote of 53 to 6. J. Black and I. M. Sackin, counsel for the American Socialist Society, which operates the Rand School and the Society for the Commonweal, which operates the People's House, in which the Rand School is operated, served on Attorney General Newton, counsel for the Louisiana legislative committee of a motion picture before Chief Magistrate McAdoo for a vacation of the search warrants on which the People's House was raided and announced that the warrants would be carried away. The argument will be made at 11 o'clock to-morrow.

The papers in the case were accompanied by affidavits from Bertha H. Malley, executive secretary of the Rand School, and George H. Strobel, general manager of the People's House. They charged that the warrants had been issued and served with undue violence. They charged Walter Converse, investigator for the Lusk Committee, on whose affidavit the warrants were issued, with making false statements. They asserted that his declaration that certain books and papers were designed to overthrow our form of government and that the house was nothing more than "evil imaginations." Also, the affidavits stated that the declaration of Converse that he had overheard a member of the school say after the raid on the People's House: "It's a good thing they have not opened the safe on the third floor," was a misstatement.

Charge Contention. Strobel also complained last night that the things taken in the raid had not been placed in the hands of the Magistrate issuing the warrants, but had been carried to the rooms of the Lusk Committee, contrary to law. "If warrants such as these are to stand," he said, "the property and papers of no person should be taken without search and seizure on hearsay by irresponsible persons and notorious seekers with political ambitions, such as certain members of the Lusk Committee. His organization would fight the case to the highest courts in the land, Strobel declared.

The National Security League in a statement last night said that the disclosures of the Lusk committee that the Bolshevik propaganda was being supplied among the negro teachers in the South. His organization would fight the case to the highest courts in the land, Strobel declared.

The American Russian Committee for the Relief and Salvation of Russia announced last night that on July 4 it would hold a parade and mass meeting "for the purpose of demonstrating the fact that upwards of 25,000 Russians in this country are opposed to the rule of the Bolsheviks." Senator William H. King of Utah and Count Tolstoy will be the principal speakers at the parade, to be held in Carnegie Hall, Gen. A. N. Dobrjansky of the Russian National Army, and Dr. J. E. O'Connor, formerly United States Consul at Petrograd, will also speak.

Announcement Has Had Effect of Speeding Enlistment.

The army will accept enlistments up to midnight Saturday, July 3, of men who want to see service in France or Germany.

This announcement was made yesterday at headquarters of the recruiting service in New York at Thirty-fourth street and Eighth avenue, and has speeded up recruiting; the total number accepted in this district for the day was 75. Recruiting stations will be kept open at night during the week in order that New York may show a good record for the last week of the overseas recruit drive.

SENECA BACK, SAVED 500 IN WAR ZONE

Ten Men of Cutter's Crew Lost in Bay of Biscay During Storm.

The Coast Guard cutter Seneca, built as a derelict destroyer and later used in peace time as a patrol in the waters of the region of the North Atlantic, got back yesterday from the war zone, where she distinguished herself in rescuing more than 500 persons and sinking submarines or keeping them under.

Ten men are missing from the crew she took out twenty-two months ago. Young Gilbooley is the famous Irish-Belgian stowaway who made three attempts to break into the United States. Gilbooley is a member of the Ellis Island Club and by sheer strength of arm and lung is a prizefighter.

But Byron H. Uhl, acting commissioner of immigration, declared the government and Gilbooley had not yet come to a definite understanding concerning the latter's status. This had in a trifle to hinder, they say, and while Miss Janis insists that she can tame just such wild men without any noticeable damage to the men, Mr. Uhl said it would be quite as well if young Gilbooley was somewhere else for a time.

The authorities have received more than 700 offers to adopt the youngsters at Ellis Island. One woman wrote from Connecticut that she would take the entire fifteen off of the Government's hands. It is understood she is very rich and that she had enlisted a dozen of her friends to adopt the boys. Some personal responsibility for the future of the stowaway allotted him or her.

SEARCHING FOR WIFE WITH $3,000 STOCKING

Stranger's Pledge Wins $10 From Policewoman.

Detective Morgan Callahan and Mrs. Mary Hamilton, a polygamist, are making a thorough search for Mrs. Jose Morales, who disappeared last October. The stocking contains $3,000 in bonds, cash and checks, representing the entire fortune of her husband, and disappeared along with her on June 12, 1918. Morales has been working for three years in a coal mine at Mount Hope, W. Va., and said he had lived very happily with his wife. She was taken ill and he brought her to New York for treatment.

BUS HITS ENRIGHT'S CAR NEAR BRIDGE

Patrolman Drives Auto Against John—L Trains Crash

Commissioner Enright thought he was in for a rough ride when a big passenger bus overtook his official car on the Brooklyn approach to the Manhattan Bridge and catching it by a rear fender lifted it into the air. The Commissioner's motor car was damaged and the bus driver was injured. The bus driver was taken to the hospital and the bus was damaged.

WOODSIDE TO HAVE WAITING ROOM

The Long Island Railroad was directed yesterday by Alfred M. Barrett, Deputy Public Service Commissioner, to erect a waiting room at the Woodside station. This station is a transfer point for the Corona branch of the Queensboro subway, as well as for the Long Island Railroad. Joseph P. Kenny, general solicitor for the road, said the waiting room would be put up at once.

QUITS ELLIS ISLAND AS ELISE VAN NIS'S SON

Mike Cardi, Bersagliero and Stowaway, Succumbs to the Star's Kisses.

WEARS 5 DECORATIONS

Miss Janis Wants Gilbooley Too; Says She Can Tame Famous Irish-Belgian.

Mike Cardi's out of luck! All that Mike got yesterday was Elise Janis for a foster mother, the Janis house at Phillips Manor for a home and, in addition to several of his foster mother's excellent kisses, an assurance that she'd see to it that colleges and motor cars and other educational requisites would be his if he'd just continue being reasonable.

Until yesterday Mike was a member of the Ellis Island Stowaway Club, which has headquarters in one wing of the detention building at Ellis Island. Until Elise deposited $5,000 on the desk of Superintendent Baker in the immigration office yesterday, and took Mike Cardi to return for her money, there were fifteen awfully healthy members of the club. They all became members just as Mike did—by stowing themselves away on troop ships a moment or so before the transports set forth for America, and like Mike they are all opposed to returning to Europe.

Miss Janis was rather set upon adopting Mike Gilbooley at the same time. Young Gilbooley is the famous Irish-Belgian stowaway who made three attempts to break into the United States. Gilbooley is a member of the Ellis Island Club and by sheer strength of arm and lung is a prizefighter.

But Byron H. Uhl, acting commissioner of immigration, declared the government and Gilbooley had not yet come to a definite understanding concerning the latter's status. This had in a trifle to hinder, they say, and while Miss Janis insists that she can tame just such wild men without any noticeable damage to the men, Mr. Uhl said it would be quite as well if young Gilbooley was somewhere else for a time.

Le Fevre was mustered out of the army at Springfield, Mass., and came home, according to his wife, Mrs. Jessie Le Fevre of 176 Herkimer street, Brooklyn, he was accompanied by a woman who had met. Some time after, said Mrs. Le Fevre, who is suing for separation, she found a letter in his pocket, addressed to "My Ned" and which was dated "3-17-19." It said in part: "Wasn't it good to talk to you yesterday? Why, Ned, my heart just sank when I heard that you were back. I concluded with the following statement: 'Cheer up, my boy. I will try to put strength in your fine decisions, and think of the offers as putting my arm across your shoulders with a smiling saying—'win, Good-by, dearest of mine, Yours, Ned.'"

WOMAN DROPS BABY AND FIGHTS GUNMAN

Baffled Burglar Flees Over Roof After Struggle.

While Mrs. Rose Schoenheit, wife of a jewelry salesman, was alone in her third floor apartment at 126 Lee avenue, Brooklyn, just before noon yesterday a burglar was seen running up the stairs to a question a man's voice told her she had a message from her husband. Mrs. Schoenheit opened the vestibule door of her apartment and a man with a gun was thrust into her face and was ordered to step back and hand over the valuables. The woman's one-year-old work also fell from her arms, then she grappled with the intruder with one hand, began to choke her and with the revolver in the other struck her on the head and face.

The screams of Mrs. Schoenheit brought Mrs. Rose Seldier, another tenant, and the gunman fled to the roof, landing down a fire escape in the rear of 126 Lee avenue. He was seen by the time detectives and policemen from the Clynner street station surrounded the block. Mrs. Schoenheit was attending to the wounds of her child, who was hurt in its fall. Mrs. Schoenheit told her husband that she was about 25 years old and appeared to be Italian.

JOHN WANAMAKER Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co. Broadway at Ninth, New York.

Good morning! This is July 2! The weather to-day will probably be fair.

New York accepts thankfully the work of the peace-makers at Versailles, subject, of course, to the approval of the powers that be at Washington.

New York did herculean work in waging war and New York will now do herculean work in waging a lasting peace.

Much must be said in praise of those who have laid out the first chart of peace. It cannot be possible that any one man on either side of the sea has the power to put in jeopardy the safety of a nation.

To many of us, to the manor born, the Monroe Doctrine, enshrined in our national life, has been regarded with a kind of sanctity.

We believe that American common sense and energy are equal to every emergency.

The Star Spangled Banner is our flag and justice is our ideal.

Let the discussions of the present situation be calm, careful and speedy.

[Signed] John Wanamaker Citizen.
