PROSECUTOR ASKS DEATH FOR QUIEN

Demands Alleged Denouncer of Edith Cavell Be Doomed.

DEFENCE LOSES POINT

Belgian Says De Rodee Was Traitor, but Probably Not Nurse's Betrayer.

Special Despatch to THE SUN.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Sentence of death against Georges Gaston Quien was requested by the court-martial which is trying Quien by Prosecutor Wagner to-day.

Quien is charged with having had treasonable dealings with the enemy and with betraying Edith Cavell, the English nurse who was executed by the Germans in 1915.

At the conclusion of the trial to-day, M. D'Armon, counsel for Quien, read a letter signed by Georges Brill, on behalf of the Brill family, saying that his sisters were ready to swear that Louis Brill, the last time they spoke to him, denounced Neels De Rodee as a traitor.

At a previous session of the trial M. D'Armon demanded that the Belgian authorities be requested to tell in full detail the circumstances which led Louis Brill, described as a patriotic Belgian, to shoot Neels De Rodee in Brussels in 1915 as the denouncer of Miss Cavell.

"Come what may, I will prevent him from continuing his infamous job; I will kill him," the letter of George Brill quoted Louis Brill as having said to his sisters. Previously, the letter added, Louis told his sisters he was convinced from information he had obtained that De Rodee had denounced Philip Baucq, a Belgian architect, who was sentenced by the Germans to death because he had drawn maps for the use of prisoners in escaping from Belgium, and also Miss Cavell.

M. D'Armon also read a letter from one Grimbreg, now imprisoned at Forest, Belgium, saying a Miss Carola Ernest, now a professor of languages in a university in the United States and a sister of Louis Brill, had written to him in Germany at Hasselt in 1917, told him that a German woman nurse in Miss Cavell's employ denounced Miss Cavell.

M. D'Armon's request for information was read. It asserted that a Belgian investigation in 1916 had established that Neels De Rodee was a traitor in the pay of Germany, but that it failed to establish that he denounced Miss Cavell.

The reply added that De Rodee's secretary, one Cielie, who is imprisoned in Belgium, affirmed from conversations among Germans overheard by him that the person who denounced Miss Cavell was a man known as Francois Cavell. The trial is continued in secret.

Mrs. Charlotte Eldridge and her mother, Mrs. M. J. Boyd of New York, are in Washington, where they will spend the winter.

UNION CARDS SAVE 450 RENT STRIKERS

Women in Tenants' League Flash Them and Movers Refuse to Oust Them.

STRIKE IN SYMPATHY

Brooklyn City Marshal Will Try Again To-day With Non-Union Ejecters.

When City Marshal D. McBride arrived with six members of the Movers' Union to evict or occupy 450 families of rent strikers who accept seventeen five-story apartment houses of the E. F. W. Realty Company, in the neighborhood of Flushing and Bedford avenues and Wallabout street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon six women strikers confronted them and asked the helpers if they were union men.

"So are we," said one of the women, and each produced her union card verifying the fact that she belonged to the Williamsburg Tenants' League.

The union men called a sympathetic strike right then and there with the rent strikers and walked out, leaving the amazed marshal alone in a room on the top floor of 445 Flushing avenue, where he had intended to start eviction operations.

But this was the strikers' day; the marshal said, and declared that he'd have his day to-day when he returned with the non-union movers to evict them.

"To-morrow's another day," the tenants said, and rejoiced that they did not have to sleep in the streets as it appeared they would before a brotherhood of unionists and blabbers.

The neighborhood has been spectacular for some time with women strikers, who have complained to the police yesterday that the police had treated them roughly and that they intended to complain to Commissioner Enright about the police.

The tenants said the owners of the houses demand a "rentors' increase" of $5 to $6 a room, and some of the rooms are so dark the gas must be lighted all the time to make them habitable. "The plumbing is old and the houses are in bad condition and we won't pay the unjust rate," according to Julius Swerdloff, 433 Flushing avenue, chairman of the strikers.

The bulk of the estate is represented by stock and bond investments valued at $232,569. Personal property is valued at $120,000 and cash in bank totalled $13,800. Principal beneficiaries are the deceased's wife, Mrs. Margaret L. Julliard, Chatsworth, Pa., France, who receives a life estate in $116,858; a brother, Edward L. Pollock of Lake Forest, Ill., who receives a similar legacy, and a niece, Gladys E. Pollock of 901 Twentieth street, Washington, D. C., who receives the income of $40,000, when the principal is to be paid to her.

G. E. POLLOCK LEFT $289,674.

N. Y. "Herald" Executive Died in Home Bennett Gave Him. George E. Pollock, vice-president of the New York Herald, died yesterday at the time of his death, August 2, 1918, left a total estate of $213,024 and a net estate of $289,674, according to the appraisal of his city last evening in the Louis XV, suite of the St. Regis. The Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise performed the ceremony under a canopy of palms, roses and white flowers. The bride was given away by her brother, Eugene Black, and the attendants, Benjamin Barnett was best man. After the ceremony there was a dinner at the Hotel Grand Central.

H. T. MILWARD DIES OF WAR HARDSHIPS

Enlisted at 63, When Second Son Was Killed.

Word was received yesterday in Greenwich, Conn., of the death of Henry Townsend Milward, 63 years old, father of Dr. Douglas A. Milward of Greenwich, who died from the effects of illness contracted while a volunteer in the Church Army attached to the British expeditionary force in France. Since the signing of the armistice and until his admittance to the hospital Mr. Milward was in Cologne, where he had charge of a large recreation establishment.

Mr. Milward was the second son of a time lost all his personal belongings during an air raid. Strenuous work and many dangers to which Mr. Milward was subjected during his two and a half years in the service of the Church Army, and in May, 1919, he was admitted to the Third London Military Hospital for treatment. By a strange coincidence this was the hospital in which his eldest son, Henry Townsend Milward, Jr., had been admitted a few weeks before for an operation as the result of wounds received in battle in August, 1918.

Mr. Milward was a graduate of Richmond College, England, and was buried with full military honors from the guard barracks in Chelsea August 25. Two of his sons, Lieut. Stanley Reginald Milward, Machine Gun Corps, attached to the Royal Berkshire, and Corporal Stewart Leslie Milward, Machine Gun Corps, were killed in action during the war. His wife, three sons, Dr. Milward of Greenwich, Frederick C. Milward of the Naval Air Force, and one daughter, Mrs. Albert Morrell of London, survive him.
