District Attorney Swann is on a hunt for a man or woman, or men and women, who voted for William M. Bennett for the Republican nomination...

These voters are directed to appear before the District Attorney at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. Among other things he purposes asking them for whom they voted.

It was a matter of speculation yesterday as to whether the District Attorney could force any one to say for whom they voted, as it would be a violation of the principles of the secret ballot.

The Board of Elections made no official report yesterday of its canvass of the primary returns on the Aldermanic contest.

Mr. Bennett had nothing to say yesterday. He asserted he did not know what the canvass had revealed.

Representative La Guardia was expected in the city yesterday, but remained in Washington.

"CASEY" CIRCUS MADE HIT IN "WAR AREA"

Career of Unique Organization to End Nov. 1.

The Knights of Columbus circus, which has three sawdust rings and performers representing many nationalities, is making its farewell trip through Belgium, France and the Rhineland.

Some idea of the magnitude of this American circus better known as the "Casey Circus" can be gained when one realizes that it takes twenty-five days to transport it about.

Two and one half hours are required for the programme. The concluding act is a real American spectacle.

COPS SMELL RUM IN GREEN TEA ROOM

So They Arrest Occupants in Early Morning Hours.

The Green Tea Room, just off Broadway at 207 West Forty-eighth street, was filled with men and women from the theatrical district early yesterday.

While the raid was in progress two men, who afterward said they were Raymond Conroy of 2116 Harrison avenue, The Bronx, and Eugene McGee, a lawyer of 144 Broadway, attempted to enter.

Later in the day Miss Palmer, Miss Olsen and Benson entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned before Chief City Magistrate McAdoo in the West Side court.

HYLAN WILL STAY HERE.

Will Greet Pershing Instead of His Fellow Mayors.

In a letter to C. F. Betts of the Syracuse Herald yesterday Mayor Hyman expressed regret that he would be unable to attend the meeting of the New York State Mayors' conference to be held in that city to-morrow.

"Gen. Pershing and his returning heroes arrive in our city on that day," wrote the Mayor, "and the Mayor's Committee of Welcome has arranged an elaborate programme in their honor which will prevent my attendance at the conference, as the many events arranged will take up practically the entire week."

TWO NEW PARTIES IN QUEENS.

The organization of two new parties in Queens, both of them allied with union labor, was announced yesterday, as well as the calling of a conference to nominate James P. Barry of Long Island City, an Assistant District Attorney, as an independent candidate for Municipal Judge.

Jersey Democrats IN BITTER CONTEST

Edwards-Nugent Race for Governorship Nomination Splits Party.

G. O. P. MORE FORTUNATE

Republicans Have Difficulty Over Prohibition and Woman Suffrage.

Special Despatch to THE SUN. TRENTON, Sept. 6.—The primary campaign in New Jersey, featured by the aspirations of seven candidates to be nominated for Governor, is drawing to a close with a degree of bitterness seldom equalled in this State.

The effect of these factional fights has caused much alarm on the part of Republican leaders that a special meeting of the State committee has been called for next Tuesday to consider means for mollifying the warring factions.

The difficulties in the Republican ranks are partly attributable to personal feeling between individual candidates and partly to a division upon the issues of the campaign, chief among which are prohibition and woman suffrage.

The Nugent-Edwards row has subordinated all minor factional fights in the Democratic ranks and has resulted in a series of charges and counter charges involving not only the principals and their intimate associates but the political organizations of Hudson and Essex.

There is a growing feeling among the candidates that the question of public utility regulation may cut a larger figure in the primaries than has thus far been anticipated.

The zoning system, approved by the Public Utility Commission, will become effective on the lines of the Public Service Railway Company throughout the State September 14, which is nine days before the primaries.

The zoning system is apparently destined to be unpopular at the outset at least. Its probable effect will be to focus public attention upon the claims of candidates who have promised to aid in the fight against increased rates on the part of public utility corporations.

Antagonism to the Public Service Corporation has been the main issue of Warren C. King, one of the four Republican candidates for Governor.

Mr. Raymond spent the greater part of the week in a tour of South Jersey and, except in Camden county, where State Comptroller Newton A. K. Bugbee has the support of a powerful Republican organization, he believes his trip has not been barren of results.

SEES BRITISH PLOT IN ARMENIAN PLAN

Secretary of Independence Committee Says Idea Is to Frighten U. S.

NO MANDATE IS NEEDED

Trade Grabbing Is Charged—Scheme in Urging America to Send Over Troops.

Plans for the establishment of a mandate over Armenia were denounced as a European plot to exploit that long oppressed country, and in Britain's suggestion that this country send 200,000 troops there, Arshag Mahdesian, secretary of the American Committee for Armenian Independence, declared yesterday that he saw a scheme to frighten away in order that other nations might have a free hand.

"Armenia does not need a mandate," said Mr. Mahdesian. "The Armenians are physically and politically competent to govern themselves if rid of the Turkish incubus. When the Greeks were liberated, notwithstanding their depleted numbers—there were only 400,000 of them—they were not placed under tutelage. The population of United Armenia will number at least 2,500,000."

Mr. Mahdesian said that his countrymen would have no objection to a mandate if it were assumed by America and guaranteed Armenia's independent nationhood. "But the latest developments indicate that Britain intends to assure herself a mandate over the Armenians as well as over the Turks. The recent suggestion from British sources that the United States send 200,000 troops as quickly as possible to police Armenia was made with the sole purpose of appalling the American people at the imminence of the task which, in assuming a mandate for Armenia, they would have to face."

"Great Britain does not desire the entry of America into the political field of the Near East. It was mainly due to her efforts, in which she was assisted by powerful American interests affiliated with Robert College at Constantinople, that the United States did not declare war on Turkey."

"It is the aim of Great Britain to become sole administratrix of the moribund Turk and to extend her rule from the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus to the Indian Ocean. This explains why Premier Lloyd George recently introduced to the Peace Conference Mohammedan delegates from India to protest against the dismemberment of Turkey."

"These delegates protested that the division of Turkey with the deposition of the Sultan Caliph would be the greatest insult to Islam. No one knew better than Mr. Lloyd George that this protest was farcical, as the two great divisions of the Mohammedan world, the Shiab and the Sunnis, do not regard the Sultan as Caliph or head of the Moslem world."

Mr. Mahdesian declared the Paris reports that the greater Thracian might be joined in the contemplated new State of Constantinople, and that Charles B. Crane's report favors America taking a mandate not merely for Armenia but for all Turkey and Asia, is perturbing to the friends of Armenian independence.

"The mandatory plan," he said, "was concocted by unregenerate Europe to keep its hold on countries like Armenia and Syria, that by becoming independent States would be lost forever to Europe's capitalistic exploitations. At a time when the public conscience is wide awake it would have been too great an affront to use the former euphemistic imperialistic terms such as 'benevolent assimilation,' 'spheres of influence,' 'peaceful penetration' or 'protection.' They therefore chose a more convenient term—mandate. The idea of mandates certainly did not originate with the weaker States; it was simply thrust upon them."

WROTE HASKELL'S NAME IN.

Three Democrats and a Socialist Voice Wet Protest.

Canvass of the primary returns in Brooklyn by the Board of Elections show that three Democrats and one Socialist wrote the name of Representative Ruben L. Haskell on their ballots for the nomination for County Judge.

He was running only in the Republican primaries, and announced that he would consider those who voted for him as making a protest against the Federal prohibition amendment.

Two Republicans voted for Capt. John J. Kuhn, Democratic candidate for Supreme Court in the Second district, by writing his name on their Republican primary ballots.

Six Prohibitionists voted for Alderman Arnon L. Squires, the Republican candidate for Supreme Court and the same number for Justice Norman S. Dike, one of the Republican candidates for County Court.

The official canvass of the city counties in the second judicial district yesterday raised the majority of George J. S. Dowling over Capt. Kuhn for the Democratic nomination for Supreme Court to 2,411.
