Social Activities and Arrivals at White Sulphur Indicate a Brilliant November

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., October 25. THE month of November here promises to be as brilliant as October. Mr. and Mrs. William F. R. Hitt of Washington, who pass much of their time at their estate in the center of the Virginia hunting country, near Upperville, will be among those here next week. H. Nelson Slater has taken rooms for a short stay and is bringing some friends with him. The Henry Sandersons of New York will also be among late October arrivals. The Philadelphia colony here in November will include Mrs. Thomas McKean, who will get in on the first, and Thomas Harris Powers of Schoohouse lane, Germantown, who is now in the White Mountains. Mr. Powers will pass most of the winter at the Greenbrier.

James J. Van Alen, who was one of the last to depart from Newport, will arrive at the Greenbrier on November 3, to remain several weeks. Phoenix Ingraham of New York will also join the colony here. Robert L. Gerry, who comes here from Newport every year, will arrive as usual. James Parrish, who kept open house at Southampton all summer, will be one of the November colony here and will probably be accompanied by his son, who is always welcomed in the golfing set.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brokaw are coming here for their usual stay in November. From Easthampton will come Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse. Allan McLane, Jr., of Baltimore will arrive at the Greenbrier for the Thanksgiving week. Mrs. George H. Brewer will get here this week from Oyster Bay. Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Stettinius are here for a short stay. Mrs. Harold Lee Judd of Minneapolis, the former Mrs. Charles Gates, will be of the younger set here. Miss Alice Sargent of Boston will be here for the cure, as usual. Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Scribner of New York will make a brief stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Hine and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fletcher of Glen Cove, L. I. will also be here for their usual month during November. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Porter will be here for their semi-annual cure. After rides over the mountain trails many go for tea to Elmhurst Farm, Sunnyside Farm, the Pines, Wash-bone Farm and Kate's Mountain Club, where the Sunday evening fests have been unusually brilliant this season. Many go to the Colonial Club for the evening after dinner parties at the Greenbrier or for an afternoon.

Mrs. Robert McCormick of Washington, mother of Senator Medill McCormick, is at the Greenbrier. With Mrs. Frank Gray Griswold and Mrs. Francis K. Pendleton Mrs. McCormick takes daily exercise over the trails and supplements the cure with long walks. Lena La Montagne of New York, who was here earlier in the autumn, has returned, joining a party of friends. Mrs. Arthur Gibb gave a farewell dinner at the Pines for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carhart, who have started for New York.

Malcolm Ludlum of New York motored to Virginia Hot Springs on Tuesday with a party of friends. George W. Stevens also took a party there on Tuesday. Working for Memorial Library. Miss Josephine H. McClure has raised several hundred dollars for the White Sulphur Memorial Library, Miss Virginia Wood of Virginia and New York, who makes silhouettes, has been devoting her evenings this week to turning out black and white portrait sketches of visitors here. She has raised more than $100 already for the purpose.

Mrs. Alfred N. Beadleston and Miss Mathilde Sportas of New York ride together daily. Miss Sportas and John Francis Harris were Mrs. Beadleston's guests at dinner on Monday and Mr. Harris was host at a dinner on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffer Tallor and their children, who are here from Newport, are devotees of golfing. They make all the side trips of interest. Passing their honeymoon here Mr. and Mrs. Harry Land Burrage of Boston. Mrs. Burrage, who was Mrs. Nobel Davis of New York, was known on the stage as Nobel Acker. Mr. Burrage's sister, Mrs. Harold Chalifoux, also passed her honeymoon at White Sulphur.

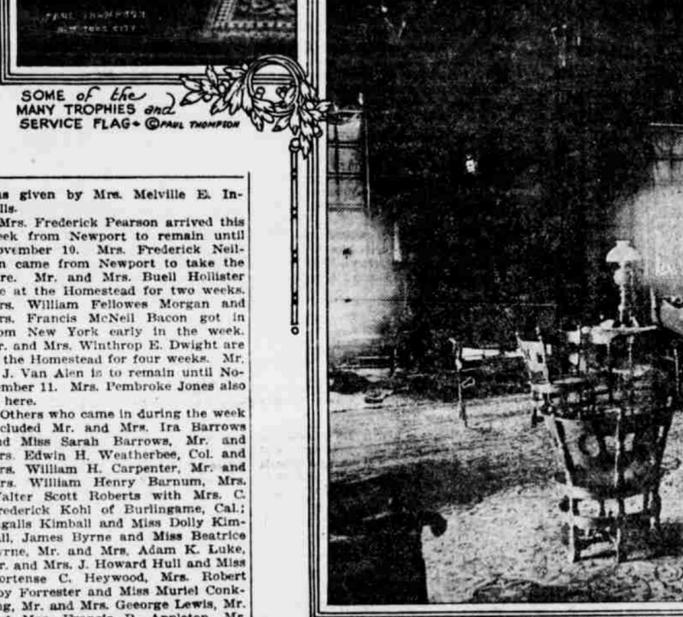

C. A. Sloum of New York has joined his brother, J. Howard Sloum, at the Greenbrier for a short visit. Mr. and Mrs. Sloum expect to sail next month for Europe for a two months trip. Mrs. Henry Clews has returned to New York. Herbert B. Newman of New York has joined Mrs. Newman at the Greenbrier. Mrs. H. M. Broadhurst of New York is here with Mrs. Robert W. Browning, Jr., of Germantown, Pa., who joined Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel S. Hurd of New York. Recent New York arrivals at the Greenbrier include Willard Parker Brown, Mrs. John E. Liggett and Miss Lily Gordon.
