

REDS SCURRY AWAY TO ESCAPE ARREST

Hundreds Leave the City or Hide Themselves in the Homes of Friends.

PRINTERS QUESTIONED

Larkin and Gitlow, Charged With Criminal Anarchy, Fail to Get Bail.

Fearful of the dragnets which Federal and State officials have spread to catch them, hundreds of radical radicals yesterday sought refuge in out of town haunts or in the homes of friends and relatives in this city.

Officers and meeting places that a week ago were hotbeds of anarchy were found deserted. There was evidence in several places that enormous quantities of literature had been spirited away.

A visit made by detectives of the bomb squad to the Edsonian branch of the I. W. W. in the basement of a building in West Seventy-ninth street netted a mass of Red literature printed in the Russian language and pictures of Lenin, Trotsky and Carl Marx. Three Russians who had been conducting a printing establishment on the premises were questioned at Police Headquarters regarding identity of the owners of the literature.

Radicals Are Questioned.

Six more radical sympathizers were taken to the District Attorney's office for questioning by Corporal Irwin Wexler of the State Guard.

Chief William J. Flynn of the Department of Justice, who started raids on the anarchists and communists last Friday night, announced that more arrests might be made at any hour.

Following conferences between Archibald L. Stevenson, counsel for Samuel E. Lusk, Deputy State Attorney-General; Alexander I. Rorke, assistant to District Attorney Swan, and Harry E. Lewis, District Attorney of Kings county, it was learned that the Communist party of this city has been preaching criminal anarchy and is soon to be presented to the Grand Jury of New York and Brooklyn. Ben A. Matlock and James W. Oberly, assistant United States Attorneys, are also prepared to lodge Federal charges against many of the local distributors.

"Big Jim" Larkin, the Irish labor agitator and leader of the Communist party, and Benjamin Gitlow, former Socialist Assemblyman, were held in $15,000 bail each by Chief Magistrate McAdoo, despite the vigorous protest of Walter Nelles, their attorney. It was learned later in the day that Federal and State officials are everywhere asking bail in this sum for those taken in the "Red" raids.

Larkin Shows Bravado.

Larkin sullenly puffed at a pipe while officials sat at work on the forming of his case and displayed an attitude of bravado in his answers to members of the Lusk Committee and the District Attorney's staff. Gitlow, who lounged at his side, remarked: "We are two souls with but a single thought."

The formal charge against this pair was criminal anarchy and was contained in an affidavit signed by Mr. Stevenson which charged: "That Larkin and Gitlow wilfully and feloniously printed, edited and issued and caused to be circulated a publication known as the Revolutionary Age, which advises, advocates and teaches the doctrine that organized government should be overthrown by force and violence or by unlawful means."

The thirty-six other prisoners seized under the orders of the Lusk Committee Saturday night and Sunday morning remained in their cells excepting for a short while when they were questioned by Mr. Rorke and Mr. Lewis. Larkin and Gitlow were returned to the Tombs in default of bail.

Efforts to release this pair and nine others were made at a late hour by Charles Recht, attorney of 47 West Forty-second street, who obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Justice Leonard A. Gierach of the Supreme Court. This writ is returnable this morning, but will be adjourned until Thursday.

It was learned that the "Reds" seized by the Department of Justice agents for deportation last Friday and Saturday have been making strenuous efforts to win converts to their cause among the other inmates of Ellis Island. They have been segregated.

Much Evidence Found.

P. A. Baker, superintendent of the Immigration Bureau, spent several hours yesterday in questioning these men and women, but announced that the task would take him several days because of the great amount of evidence that must be gone into. To their little colony was added one Cyzak, who gives his Christian name as George, who was arrested in Newark's Friday night roundup and in whose establishment a counterfeiting outfit is alleged to have been found.

Mr. Berger and Mr. Stevenson said that about half of their prisoners may be turned over to the Immigration authorities for deportation, as they have admitted that they obtained admission into this country through irregular channels.

One of the prisoners has admitted that he recently made his way into the country via the Canadian border. Mr. Berger and Mr. Stevenson said that they have already found evidence to warrant the rearrest of certain persons discharged from custody early Sunday morning.

An interesting discovery was made by the Department of Justice agents. While they were searching the city for four dangerous agitators named in Federal warrants those agitators were actually incarcerated on Ellis Island under assumed names.

ESTATE OF $2,364,232 IS WILLED TO CHARITY

Mary M. Roberts Also Left $5,000 to a Friend.

The executors of the estate of Mary M. Roberts, who died at 4 West Fifty-first street in January, reported yesterday to the Surrogate's Court that she left an estate of $2,364,232. After paying debts and administrative expenses there remains $2,364,232 for distribution. The testatrix willed the bulk of her estate to charity. The residue was divided as follows: Ladies Christian Union, $203,285; American Female Guardian Society and Home for the Friendless, $203,831; Young Women's Christian Association, $203,557; Presbyterian Rest for Convalescents, $203,300; Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, $203,355; Young Men's Christian Association, $100,598.

She left her friend, Miss Isabel Nugent, $5,000, and her wardrobe.

AMERICANISM IS LEGION KEYNOTE

Convention Delegates Cheer Patriotic Addresses at Minneapolis.

Special Dispatch to THE SUN.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 10.—Ringling Americanism was the keynote of the American Legion convention as it opened to-day in the Minneapolis Auditorium. The delegates from forty-eight States cheered patriotic speeches by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist and Mayor J. E. Meyers.

Convention issues looming up as the delegates organized were many, but with two predominating, the question of military training and the matter of a bonus. Swing of the convention to-day was strong toward a national bonus law. Action of the St. Louis caucus, it was predicted, would be reversed, and Congress will be asked to provide a liberal bonus based on length of service. The subject would be submitted to voters, the biggest delegation of all, reversed its former stand on the bonus to-day and declared for $1 a day extra pay for every man.

All convention issues were to be threshed out in meetings of twenty committees, "little conventions," as Chairman Henry D. Lindley of Texas termed them in his address.

Frank d'Olier of Philadelphia loomed to-day as a strong possibility for national commander of the order. There are no candidates, as such, for the convention has no use for a self-seeker, but the spontaneous sentiment for Mr. d'Olier came in evidence yesterday and spread to-day like wildfire, fostered by many who have been working with him as State organizers.

Mr. d'Olier has charge of general organization work at the headquarters, Col. William J. Donovan of New York, former commander of the 165th Infantry, on his arrival to-day announced that he would not accept the honor for business reasons and came out for Mr. d'Olier.

Chairman Lindley, in his address opening the convention, took no stand on the vexed issues coming before the delegates. He had been expected to speak out plainly on the bonus matter, having helped to sidetrack it at St. Louis, but he said to-day only that there is an "affirmative side" to the question, and that the convention should not do it. He said that a statement on the subject would be submitted to the proper committee, but declined to say what it would contain.

New York in caucus to-day stood two to one against a bonus resolution, but decided to split its vote. Western delegations showed a preponderant sentiment for the bonus.

The stand of Massachusetts was heralded to-day as a deciding factor on this issue. Reading of a message from Marshal Foch to the legion was an impressive incident in the opening ceremonies.

Minneapolis will be recommended for permanent headquarters of the legion by the permanent headquarters committee Tuesday morning. The Pennsylvania delegation favored the selection of Washington, D. C., so strongly as to serve notice on the committee that the fight for Washington will be carried to the floor.

NEGRO SLAYS POLICEMAN.

Charged With Murder After Shooting Unarmed Man.

John J. McCormick, 31, a policeman for only twenty days, was shot and killed last night by William Sanford, a negro musician, in Harlem's black belt. McCormick attempted to arrest Sanford after he had shot at his wife, Etta. The negro was caught by other policemen and locked up in the West 125th street station charged with murder. McCormick was struck by two bullets from a .45 calibre army automatic revolver. One pierced his left leg above the knee and the other his left arm below the elbow. The size of the bullet made the wounds fatal. McCormick lost so much blood while being taken to Harlem Hospital that he died in an hour.

He lived at 576 East 145th street in the Bronx with his wife and three children.

ENGLISH WAR ART PUT ON VIEW HERE

Water Colors by Capt. E. Handley-Read Are Shown.

One of the group of artists employed by the British Government in the war, Capt. E. Handley-Read, is holding an exhibition of water color drawings in the gallery of Philip Sayval on Madison avenue. The subjects were found at the front and have the special interest that attaches to paintings by a participant in the historic actions.

Capt. Handley-Read was in the Artists' Rifles before the war, but enlisted in the Hampshire Regiment as a private. He was quickly promoted and special duties in line with his artistic talent were given to him. He lectured on camouflage to hundreds of officers and used the cinema in his demonstrations. King George visited the studio and saw the first landscape target being painted.

The drawings, which are splattered, record the destruction of the churches and the havoc to fields and roadways in the devastated district. The battered spire of Albert Church, the "Railway to Nowhere, Arras," and "Hide and Seek in the Clouds" are among the most effective of these works. The artist has an especial feeling for skies and the series of studies of aviation exploits gives a chance to this enthusiasm. The pictures remain on view until November 15.

At the evening session of the sale Mr. Drake paid $2,575 for No. 218, a volume of Cicero, very precious in the eyes of bibliophiles, since it was bound for Malou, and was once owned by Jean Grollier. George D. Smith gave $2,250 for No. 324, a volume from the library of Diane de Poitiers.

Do you pay your employees by cheque?

A CHECK is a grievance to employees because it means a trip to the bank and often a tiresome wait in line. Getting it cashed elsewhere generally leads to unnecessary expenditures.

There are disadvantages from the employer's point of view also, but the difficulties of handling cash in the old way kept many firms from changing to a cash basis.
