

Democratic irreconcilables they would be very likely to count the number necessary to prevent ratification.

Finally, if the treaty should be navigated through the rocks and shoals of the parliamentary course that lies ahead of it, there is the great uncertainty whether the President would be willing to deposit the ratification.

When the Senate adjourned to-day after adopting the first thirteen reservations Senator Ashurst (Ariz.), Democrat and supporter of the treaty, issued this statement, which expressed the view of the Administration forces:

The reservations that have been adopted evince the treaty, interrupt its circulation, paralyze its ratifying organs, lop off its limbs, and thus the treaty is rendered a useless, hideous bulk, serving mankind in no useful capacity whatever.

After some wrangling the Senate proceeded to vote on adoption of the cloture rule. It limits Senators to one speech on each question and that not to exceed an hour.

Next came the reservation giving the United States exclusive control of domestic questions and the right to decide what these are.

Senator Johnson (Cal.) read a newspaper article which pointed out that there is a movement in Canada to obtain a better outlet to the Atlantic coast.

Imperial Main Boundary. All old treaties could be considered by the league and among these the one fixing the boundaries between Maine and Canada.

Senator Hays (Pa.) offered an amendment to include among "domestic questions" all boundary matters, the language being:

Congress to Extend U. S. Control of Dyes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Before adjournment of the special session, Congressional leaders agreed to-night to adopt a resolution, extending to January 15 the Government's control over the imports of dyestuffs.

Senator Johnson (Cal.) applauded, somewhat sarcastically, the effort of Senator Hale to protect Maine, and suggested that it would have been well for the latter to support the Johnson amendments, which aimed further to protect the dye industry.

Monroe Substitute Defeated. When reservation No. 6, the Monroe Doctrine reservation, came up Senator Hitchcock offered a substitute.

The United States will not submit to arbitration or to inquiry by the assembly of the council of the League of Nations, provided for in said treaty of peace, any questions which in the judgment of the United States depend upon or relate to its own established policy commonly known as the Monroe Doctrine.

Mr. Hitchcock's substitute declared that doctrine would not be impaired or affected and that questions under it would not be subject to inquiry or decision by the league.

Shantung Amendment Adopted. Senator McCumber (N. D.) begged that this be not adopted. Its adoption, he said, would of course make it impossible for Japan to approve the American reservations.

Exchange Conference Called. Rome, Nov. 15.—Spain, France and Switzerland have been invited to send delegates to an international financial congress, which is to meet in Rome.

Two Reservations Remain. Reservation No. 13 provides that nothing in the treaty shall confirm any act otherwise illegal against American citizens.

The matter of the National Guard and universal training will be fully considered by the committee in connection with the legislation of the reorganization of the military establishment.

It is believed by members of the committee that in the legislation that we will ultimately report to the House such branches of the army as a tank section and a chemical warfare section will have to be provided.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Senator Hitchcock (Neb.) began to-night final effort toward compromise on the peace treaty. He called a conference of the treaty's friends to meet as soon as the Senate completes action on committee reservations.

G. O. P. LIBERALS OF NATION WILL MEET

Declarations of Principles Reflecting Roosevelt Views to Be Framed.

TO WORK WITHIN PARTY Conference Will Aim for Unity in Securing Victory in Presidential Election.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—There will be a conference of Liberal Republicans, the leaders who followed Col. Roosevelt in 1912 and have now returned to the Republican party, either in December or January.

The objects of the conference will be to consider the political situation and to make the views of the leaders felt in the councils of the Republican organization to the end that both the candidate and the platform in 1920 may be such as to meet the approval of the former followers of Roosevelt.

The conference has grown out of a meeting of Liberals here in May. Twelve States were represented. Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas presided and Harold L. Ickes of Illinois was chosen as secretary.

It was decided at that time that there should be a national conference of liberal minded Republicans to discuss the advisability of adopting a statement of principles and, secondly, to consider what, if any, measures should be taken to secure the adoption of such progressive principles in the platform to be drawn at the next Republican national convention.

The leaders who are back of the movement wish it made clear that far from attempting to create any schism in the Republican party, it is their desire to make the success of the party sure by pointing out that such success depends on its placing itself on such a footing as to command the support of all liberally inclined voters.

"We Progressive Republicans stand, as we have stood, for the principles announced and fought for by Theodore Roosevelt," said Mr. Ickes to-day.

"We have not developed a detailed programme for the conference, but that matter is being worked out by several men. The idea is not to consider personalities or candidates for President, and we have no intention of deciding upon any candidate. We may consider types without going into the question of personality.

"But the main object of the conference will be to consider and if possible agree upon a statement of what the progressives in the Republican party stand for. In other words, we will meet to consider principles and not candidates.

LONDON IS GLOOMY AT TREATY OUTLOOK

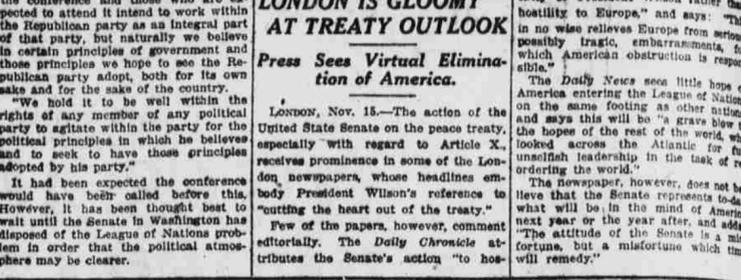

Press Sees Virtual Elimination of America.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The action of the United States Senate on the peace treaty, especially with regard to Article X, receives prominence in some of the London newspapers, whose headlines embody President Wilson's reference to "outing the heart out of the treaty."

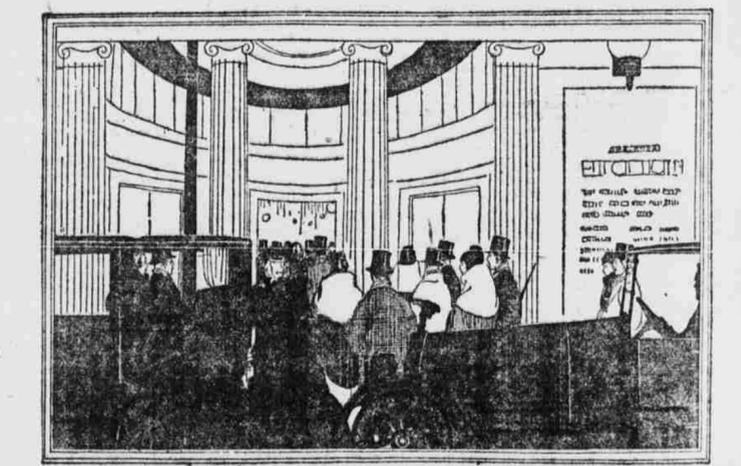

It had been expected the conference would have been called before this. However, it has been thought best to wait until the Senate in Washington has disposed of the League of Nations problem in order that the political atmosphere may be clearer.

The Daily News sees little hope of America entering the League of Nations on the same footing as other nations, and says this will be "a grave blow to the hopes of the rest of the world, who looked across the Atlantic for full unselfish leadership in the task of re-ordering the world."

The newspaper, however, does not believe that the Senate represents today what will be in the mind of America next year or the year after, and adds: "The attitude of the Senate is a misfortune, but a misfortune which time will remedy."
