

COTTON FUTURES STEADY AT CLOSE

Prices at the Finish Are Net 45 Points Higher to 10 Points Lower for Day.

TREND IS STILL UPWARD Liverpool Market Again Makes Good Showing and Contract Values Rise.

The trend of the cotton market continued upward yesterday, all options closing substantial gains from previous trading on Wall Street and cotton trade and Liverpool support and a little new buying by the uptown crowd. The factors remained about as they were on Monday, better tone in securities, early improvement in sterling and strong London market being stressed by the bulls. There was little to favor the other side; not even coal strike news seemed of any effect, an early agreement between workers and operators being looked for. The Liverpool market made a good showing again, first cables being sharply higher than due and contract prices in the later dealings moving to substantially better than due. The market was once more only in fair demand, sales of 8,000 being reported. The weather map showed mostly fair conditions, scattered showers being indicated in the central sections. The official forecast for the West coast called for decidedly colder conditions. Firmness prevailed at the opening here, first sales being 15 to 40 points above the previous final bids. There was not only buying by the trade, but Continental interests were contract takers. A short period of uncertainty after the call was followed by a better grade of support that soon carried the list to early high levels. Reaction was still mild but seemed to lean mainly toward the constructive side, it being felt that the market's technical position was very much bettered. After midday profit taking by the local element resulted in a sharp reaction from the best. Although prices eased somewhat the tone showed no change and remained very fair, prices again rallying in the later business. Fluctuation in the afternoon was rather erratic and the market also showed some nervousness owing to many operators being disposed to lighten off even up comments before Thanksgiving Day. On the dips a good grade of foreign demand usually appeared and rallied the market, although there was a distinct easing off noticeable in the last hour. At the close prices were not 45 points higher to 10 points lower, the final tone being steady.

The opening was higher on a better Liverpool market and by a favorable interpretation of foreign news and the higher quotations on foreign exchange. Wet weather in the central and western sections of the belt, with prospects of much lower temperatures, caused some buying.
