EMPORIUM, PA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1906

NO. 35.

Judge Green Backed to Succeed Himself.

Special to the Philadelphia Enquirer.

LOCK HAVEN, PA., Oct. 13.—The most important factor in the present political campaign in this county centers in the question, "Who is to be the president judge in this district for the next ten years?" This question is the paramount issue.

This county is to be the battleground of the contest between Judge B. W. Green, of Emporium, and Harry Alvan Hall, of Ridgway, the former the nominee of the Republicans and the latter the Democratic-Lincolnite candidate. It is conceded that Green will carry his home county of Cameron by a large vote and that Hall will receive a majority in Elk county. This leaves Clinton the bone of contention, with the outlook highly favorable to Green.

It is not a question to be decided by partisan politics. In the last two decades the voters of this district have risen above partisanship in the selection of their president judge, and they should certainly be prepared to participate in the present campaign by the exercise of calm judgment.

Judge Green was appointed to the vacancy in this district by Governor Pennypacker, and the facts that surround this appointment show that, while Judge Green is a Republican, his politics was in no sense a factor in the appointment.

The appointment was made on the sole ground of his fitness for the place—his legal fitness, his moral fitness and that mental cleanness that keeps a judge from wielding his powers in the promotion of a political machine and lack of which frequently debauches courts and becomes a travesty on justice.

Since these were the qualifications that led to the selection of Judge Green as the presiding judge of this district, they should lift his candidacy to a higher plane than that of a mere partisanship.

Judge Green is a clean, true man. He makes no public claims to a family tree that traces his genealogy back to a remote ancestry either on the male or female side. He claims to be an honest man, and that that no tree ever produced better or fairer fruit. Genealogies may be pleasant and interesting things to trace, but they may also begin in obloquy and end in shame.

Judge Green is temperate, both in habit of life and thought. This quality, always a great and valuable one in any man, is of utmost value in an official who should always be available to his constituents and whose acts affect the life, liberty or prosperity of the people.

If the people of this district want a clean, honest and capable administration of their courts they will elect Judge Green for the full term.

If they want to keep the courts out of the mire of politics they will vote for Judge Green.

If they want to keep the administration of justice out of things more mirey than politics they will vote for Judge Green.

If you want to meet a man who really says what he means and means just what he says, the chance will be yours on November 1st, 2nd and 3rd when Wilbur Symons, as leading man of Nick Russell's Big Comedy Company, will stop on the stage of the Emporium opera house as Hosea Howe in "Peaceful Valley," the role made so famous by the late Sol Smith Russell. This will be the first time for this notable play to be presented at popular prices, 15, 25 and 35 cents. There are five big vaudeville acts besides the play proper, including Nick Russell himself in his extraordinary piano playing act which has won for him the title of "the human pianola."

Vote for Cameron county's distinguished citizen and business man—Capt. Barclay.

Captain C. F. Barclay, Republican candidate for Congress in the district of which McKean county is a part, ought to receive every Republican vote in the county, equally as well as the Republican candidates for the Assembly. Much has been said by President Roosevelt and by the Republican press of the State upon the need of maintaining an unbroken front in the continued march of prosperity. It is a merited axiom that Republican policies and prosperity go hand in hand, and at no time in many years has the need for a strict party vote been more urgent than at the November elections this year; especially as the whole ticket, both state and county, is so absolutely worthy of support that not in a single case are its nominees in doubt as to their purpose, their honesty, their ability or their reputation. The whole ticket should be voted for the one abounding reason, that the business prosperity of everybody demands it. The people cannot afford to experiment—Bradford Star.

An Honorable Record.
It is hardly to be expected that all Democrats will be suited with the Hon. Josiah Howard as a legislator, but his record in that capacity pleases the Republicans right well.

Mr. Howard voted against two of the Erhardt bills and is so recorded in the archives of the State. Mr. Howard voted against the Philadelphia party often enough to place his position as a man of independence and stamina beyond cavil. Mr. Howard is no traitor, as the down town organ kindly insinuates.

When anyone insinuates that Josiah Howard would do anything, either in private or in public life, to support or encourage vice in any form, or in any manner, then that man goes a step too far, for every honest man in Cameron county knows better, and will resent at the polls this effort to be smirched the fair name of one whose life is an open book. Such a line of argument indicates that our friend the enemy is in the last ditch.

Mr. Howard prefers Pennsylvania to outside corporations does he? Well, what of it.

The Hon. Judge B. W. Green.
Avis Advance.

The voters of the twenty-fifth judicial district, composed of Clinton, Cameron and Elk counties, will be called upon on the 6th of November to make a choice for a president judge of the district to serve for ten years. It is of the utmost importance that the right man be chosen for this high office of honor and responsibility. It is an office that should be divorced from politics and the manipulation of politicians, with an axe to grind. A man with a clean record and sterling character, one with legal attainments and a judicial mind; a man upright in his private life and one who will administer the office in a way that will establish confidence and regard for the judiciary, is needed on the bench. A judge exerts a wide influence and should be a man with irreproachable private and public record, in other words the standard cannot be set too high for the man who aspires to the judgeship.

Governor Pennypacker made a wise selection when he appointed Hon. B. W. Green, of Emporium, to fill the vacancy on the bench in this district, caused by the death of Judge Mayer. He has proven in the few months he has been in office to possess the qualifications of an honorable, fair minded and just judge. Such a man as Judge Green is an honor to the judiciary and we truly believe that the voters of the entire district will honor themselves by honoring Judge Green with a triumphant election not by a meagre majority but by one so emphatic as will give a practical demonstration of the discrimination of the voters of the Twenty-fifth district.

Capt. C. F. Barclay has always been an advocate of giving an honest day's wages for an honest day's work. And it has been more than a theory with his firm. In their business career extending over a period of forty years there has never been even a suggestion of a strike.

C. B. Howard & Co., have received from the Pacific Coast what is perhaps the finest lot of RED CEDAR shingles that ever came to Cameron county.

Practically all of Capt. Barclay's life has been spent in this county, except during civil war days and the time he spent at school. He is in every sense of the word "a native product" and a representative type of the hardy, vigorous and courageous Pennsylvanian.

"Union Depot" at the Opera House, Oct 30th, don't fail to see it.

A Record That Counts.

EDITOR PRESS:—

Since I was elected to the Legislature two years ago, the State has spent in our County for roads and schools the following amounts:

West Creek Road:	1,575 feet.	$2,926.67
Fourth St., Emporium	2,528 do	4,018.50
Amount allowed on State lands under special bill I had passed.
For Roads for 1905,		403.24
For Roads for 1906,		1,277.56
For Schools for 1905,		604.86
For Schools for 1906,		1,916.34

Total. $11,547.67

An itemized list to be furnished next week. This is money that never came to our county before, and perhaps, never would have come if I had not put forth the special efforts I did.

If the people think this was worth while, and of any special benefit to them, I would respectfully solicit their support for my re-election this fall.

Yours truly,
JOSIAH HOWARD.

Beautiful Ceremony.

An event of much social interest, because of the prominence of the contracting parties, and notable for its beautiful solemnization, was the marriage Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the First Presbyterian church of Miss Besse Buckwalter and Mr. Richard Oldham Lackey.

Promptly at the appointed hour the ever beautiful strains of Lohengrin announced the coming of the bridal procession, which was led by the ushers, Messrs. James Wagers, Allan Young, Dr. M. Denny, of Richmond, and Mr. A. J. Buckwalter, of Mississippi, who walked singly down the side aisles, followed by the groom attended by Mr. William Dunne, of Lexington, while from the opposite aisle came the bride with her sister, Miss Nora Buckwalter. Rev. William Cumming was the officiating minister.

The bride is a beautiful young girl, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Buckwalter, formerly of this city, but now of Wingate, Mississippi, and during her residence here has endeared herself to all by her exquisite charm of manner and sweet modesty; her unselfishness and gracious courtesies being distinguishing features in her young life. She was elegantly attired in a costume of white panne crepe de chine over silk of fairy-like daintiness, with trimmings of Duchess lace and wore the regulation veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of valley lilies. Her maid of honor was attired in white crepe de chine with garniture of lace. She wore a pink sash and carried pink roses.

Mr. Lackey is a son of Mr. Monroe Lackey, of Waco, Madison county, and a cousin of Judge J. M. Benton, of this city. He is a thorough business young man and is engaged in mercantile pursuits at Richmond. Socially he is very genial and is highly esteemed for his many noble qualities.

Substantial evidence of the popularity of the young couple was seen in the number and elegance of the gifts received from friends.—Winchester, Ky., Democrat, Oct. 5.

The bride above referred to will be pleasantly remembered by many of our citizens. She was born here and like all members of her family was universally respected.

The voters of Cameron county will show that Judge LaBar is entitled to an election for ten years. He don't want the earth and requests the people to carefully consider his claim for this term.

Not for many days have we heard as many favorable comments on a man as have been passed on the Hon. B. W. Green since the present term of court. Men who have not met him personally and only know him as the judge of the court are satisfied that he is the right man for the place. "I believe he is honest," said one man; "his countenance tells me that, and his prompt action in disposing of cases which are especially for the betterment of the morals of your city and the county in general is praiseworthy. He dares to do right and that's the kind of man we are looking for on the bench." This is the picture of Judge Green that has been painted over and over again to us by his neighbors from Cameron county. The citizens of Clinton county, regard less of politics, will stand by Green on election day because he is possessed of the right qualities for the office for which the people have demanded him to run.—Lock Haven Times.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

CUMMINGS.

Mrs. Martin L. Cummings, widow of the late Capt. M. L. Cummings and mother of Thos. and County Treasurer John Cummings, died suddenly last Sunday afternoon, although her death had been expected for several weeks. Mrs. Cummings was in her 79th year, and came to Cameron county in 1878, residing at Cameron, where Capt. Cummings died Dec. 10th, 1879, rearing a family of nine children—only the two sons surviving their parents. Twelve grand-children also live. Mrs. Cummings was a very careful manager and, by strict economy, accumulated considerable means.

The funeral took place at St. Mark's Catholic Church, yesterday morning, from the aged lady's residence on West Fourth street.

The following relatives and friends from out of town attended the funeral: P. H. Gallagher, Bradford; John Gallagher, Buffalo; John and Mary Hayes, Renovo; Miss Agnes Creighton, Ridgway; Jas. Hayes, Olean; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Greenalch, Daniel Sullivan, Edward McFadden, of Cameron.

Geo. E. Eckstein.

Geo. E. Eckstein and family left Emporium yesterday for Westboro, Wis., where they will reside. Mr. Eckstein having entered the employ of Westboro Lumber Co. Mr. E., has resided here for twelve years, eight of which has been in the employ of Emporium Furnace Company. An honest, industrious citizen he carries away with him the best wishes of our citizens. The Press, of course, follows the family.

The Band Concert.

Don't forget the band concert at the Opera House on the 26th. This promises to be a rare treat to our people and a liberal patronage should be accorded them in their efforts. The proceeds are to be applied on new instruments. L. S. Fisk has been working diligently and deserves much praise for the good shape the present musical organization is in. Turn out and encourage the boys by your attendance on the above occasion.

A Lemon Squeeze.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will give a "lemon squeeze" in the parlors of the church, Monday, Oct. 29, 1906, at 8 o'clock. Admission, 10cts. Home-made candy will be on sale. A good time is assured to all. Everybody come. 35-2t.

Borough Bonds.

Burgess R. M. Overhiser will next Thursday issue $2,500 more Borough bonds, bearing interest at four per cent, free of state tax. First come, first served.

Perfumes.

We are selling perfumes that are recommended for their high quality and reasonable prices. Extracts from all sweet scented flowers. Give us a call. CHAS. DIEHL.

Hon. L. Taggart Easier.

As we go to press, Hon. L. Taggart, who has been dangerously ill for several days with pneumonia, is a little easier.

Notice to Jurors.

Jurors summoned for October Term, 1906, should read notice in another column.

Why I Will Vote for Hon. Josiah Howard.

Because his bill to tax State lands reduced our school tax about twenty-five per cent.

Because he spends his energy and money building up industries in his home county.

Because he made his money in honest production, and while he accumulated wealth, the whole community was made prosperous through his efforts.

Because his business supports and does not destroy homes or cause them to be unhappy.

Because he stands for a principle and no man or set of men has a string on him.

Because his methods of electioneering are elevating beyond criticism.

Because he represents the best element in society and is the incarnation of civic purity.

Because he is a better Democrat than some of our little mud slinging editors who belong to the old bond jobbing regime and only vote the Democratic ticket when they have an axe to grind. Now I am a Democrat and I believe that the only way to build and maintain a party worthy the support and respect of every good citizen is to shake off this element who are Democrats for revenue only. And I believe that the election of Mr. Howard would conserve to the best interests of our commonwealth.

Very truly yours,
A BRYAN DEMOCRAT.

Teachers' Institute.

The 46th Annual Institute of Cameron county was formally opened Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock with prayer by Rev. Cleaver of the Methodist church. After the devotional exercises, Miss Collins introduced Prof. Yoder, of the Lock Haven Normal, who assumed the duties of musical director, Miss Metzger, of Emporium, acting as pianist. Miss Collins in a few well chosen words made an address of welcome to the teachers, urging also the great need of good and prompt attendance among the sixty-four teachers enrolled. In order that the Institute be properly opened, Prof. Yoder then called upon all to join heartily in singing America. Miss Collins followed the singing by announcing that since Prof. Jackson, of the State College, was not able to be in attendance, she would introduce Prof. Green, of the West Chester Normal, who won for himself, at once, the entire audience by a most pleasing address on "A Recipe for Beauty," although not an agent for any cosmetics. The professor's advice if faithfully followed could not fail in producing the desired result, his recipe being the one given by the great German poet, Goethe: Every day—hear some good music; every day—see some good painting; every day—read some good literature. This was followed by music, and it in turn by an intermission of ten minutes.

Miss Collins then introduced Prof. Howerth, of Chicago, who talked on "The Teacher's Art"—A good subject, well and ably handled, and listened to with marked attention by the teachers. The closing song followed and the first day was over. Tuesday morning's session was opened by prayer, Rev. Calvin of the Baptist church leading. The entire assemblage then joined in singing, after which Prof. Green spoke on the "Ten Commandments for the Reader." These were concisely given as follows:

1. Take time to read.
2. Read authors, not merely about them.
3. Deal mainly with the great authors.
4. Select masterpieces.
5. Saturate your soul with song.
6. Choose somewhat as circumstances demand.
7. Form your own library.
8. Gasp firmly the thought of the book.
9. Let the imagination play.
10. "Learn, nor account the pang."

A proof of Prof. Green's popularity lies in the fact that he was listened to with unabated interest for over an hour. Prof. Yoder led in singing and Prof. Howerth spoke after this on "The Artist Teacher." The applause that followed the announcement of Prof. Howerth's name gave expression to the regard in which the teachers and in fact the entire audience held him. His address was pertinent and was listened to with rapt attention. The morning's session was ended by a brief talk from Prof. George Becht, of the Clarion Normal, an old favorite of Cameron county teachers, who makes new and lasting friends every year. Prof. Becht's address was on "Live Teachers" and every word seemed to be a message to all to live, to avoid the stigma of "dead teacher." Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 sharp, the session opened up by ten minutes' music. All were warned to the work in a few minutes and a volume of sound was produced. Prof. Howerth for the first period urged upon the teachers the advisability of taking care of one's health, since an ill teacher cannot be a good teacher. Prof. Becht followed with a most practical talk on "The Reading Problem." This talk cannot fail to make an impression on every teacher, the advice given was so clearly stated, the helping hints so thoroughly covered the case, that a noticeable improvement in this important branch of school work cannot fail but be the result. Miss Collins then introduced Prof. McCluskey, County Superintendent of Clinton county who gave an impromptu address of a few minutes in which he wittily recounted some of the difficulties he encountered in reaching Emporium. "A glance at the American Poetry" by Prof. Green, finished the second day's session. This address, needless to say, was given the utmost attention by the Professor's remarks.

Judge Green Pleases Elk County.

Ridgway Record.
President Judge Green is presiding over the Elk county courts this week in a very satisfactory manner. He seems to be giving everybody a square deal and those who have witnessed his manner of disposing of the business of the courts seem to think he is making a good record.

A vote for Barclay is a vote for continued prosperity and Republican principles.

"Let Well Enough Alone."

BY EDWIN A. HARTSHORN.
(Tune, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home.")

Your dinner pail is now well filled?
It is, you're right.
Yes, clean and bright.
A home in which you take a pride.
A balance in the bank beside,
With now and then an outing ride?
Yes, yes, you're right, quite right.
Are all the people doing well?
They are, you bet.
Then let revision go to—
It will; don't fret.
Each Tariff ripper's rate is right;
Suggest a change and he will fight;
But "other rates are too high, quite,"
That's Greed or Gall or Gold?
Would you avoid a panic, sure?
We would, indeed.
And have the good time long endure?
We're quite agreed.
Our Dingley Tariff's the best in sight;
It booms each booming thing all right,
And fills the nation with delight.
'Reviser it now? Nit, nit.
In peace the rippers borrowed cash?
They did, that's right.
Sold stacks of bonds to get their hash?
Yes; gresswome plight.
In time of war with Tariff gain,
The nation fought and conquered Spain,
Without a bond but with a brain?
Yes, yes; that's right, quite right.
Are Uncle Sammy's coffers full?
They are, check fall.
With thrift and cheer you have a pull?
I've heard the pull.
In Cleveland times you ate free soup
And marched with Coxy's hungry group?
And tried in vain to loop the loop?
We did; but—nevermore.
Our Congressman (Capt. Barclay) we will elect;
Three cheers for him.
Our hearts and homes he will protect;
He's in the swim.
With Roosevelt and the right he'll stand,
Our district boom to beat the band,
And lend the boys a helping hand,
Who "root" for the G. O. P.

Two Halls—Both at Once!

James K. P. Hall is the nominee of the Democratic party of the Twenty-sixth Senatorial district for State Senator and the Democrats of the district are expected to vote for him and will no doubt do so generally, as it is a political office.

Harry Alvan Hall, the brother of J. K. P. Hall, the above named candidate for the Senate, is the nominee of the Democratic party for the Twenty-fifth Judicial district for President Judge and the Democrats are asked to support him, too, at the same election.

These two brothers want both offices, that they may dominate the politics of both the senatorial and judicial districts. Is not this rather greedy? Should one family be given these two offices? It is up to the people to answer at the polls on November 6th.

Judge Green should be elected for the full term, because he is a plain, modest man, who knows his duty and does it. We want a fearless, upright judge on the bench in this district and Judge Green fills the bill exactly. Let the judiciary of this district be kept free from politics.—Lock Haven Express.

Edward F. Kidder, author of "Peaceful Valley," the opening bill of Nick Russell's Big Comedy Company at the Emporium Opera House, Nov. 1st, 2nd and 3rd, is also the author of Sol Smith Russell's other success, "A Poor Relation," and many other well known plays, but "Peaceful Valley" is by far his best work. It is a delightful play and it will be splendidly staged and conscientiously acted on the coming occasion. It is a play that all classes of people can attend feeling perfectly confident that they will have an evening of clean, honest enjoyment. Besides the play proper, there will be five high grade vaudeville features.

Teams for Sale.
Three young work teams for sale; weighing from 1200 to 1400 pounds. Good, sound horses. L. G. COOK, St. Charles Barn.

Capt. Barclay's political record, like his private and business life, is clean, honorable and untainted. He stands for the principles that have made the Republican party great, and when he takes his seat in Congress will uphold the measures of his party's brilliant leader, Theodore Roosevelt.
