The Man that Moved.

He went home one night as tired as a dog, Sat down in a chair with a thud like a log, Said I'm going to move there's no use of talking, I'm getting too old to do so much walking.

So he got a house in the brick pavement square Where he could dress up on Sunday and sling on airs,

Then he went back home got things tore up, And roared around like a poisoned pup.

There is the old stove, she's got to go, Be careful old man now take it slow, He lifted and lugged and sweat and swore, Till he got the stove out of the door.

Then he wiped off his brow said there is no use of lagging,

We have got to get the darned thing out on the wagon,

He worked and he t All day long, But the work was dit, at than the hammer and tong.

And the only smile the poor fellow showed,

Was when he was trowed down on the last load, But now he is settled of course you all know, And the man that moved is blacksmith Joe.

A Pleasant Time.

In strolling over Whittemore Hill on last Monday evening, as I passed by the school house, I noticed it was lighted up and that there was something doing, so I dropped in to have a good time with the rest. I was not in long when I found that it was near the last of the school term and that the children were speaking pieces. After the exercises they had refreshments which the children enjoyed, also the visitors.

Those present that did not live on the hill were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Radigan, Miss Welch and Mrs. Hout, of Emporium, Mrs. Emma Whittemore, of Binghamton, N. Y., and myself.

Miss Alice Quigley, the teacher, is to be congratulated for the successful way in which she conducted her school for the last two years, she having the confidence and respect of the scholars who have advanced well under her able teaching. She is also to be congratulated for the able manner in which she handled the phonograph—it was the most distinct and natural one I ever heard. Do not know the patent, was not an Edison, I was told it was loaned for the occasion and belonged to Harry Forrester, of W. Va.

One of the most important exhibits to be seen in the Marine appliances building at the Jamestown Exposition, is a display of ordinance from the Vickers Maxim Company, one of the largest manufacturers of guns and firearms in England.

Great importance is attached to the decision of this firm to participate in the ordinance exhibit at the Exposition, in that it is a recognition of the value to exhibitors to enter into the display of this line of manufacturers, at the Ter-Centennial.

The exhibit consists of one six-pounder, semi-automatic gun, with naval mounting and automatic pack gun, together with several pieces of lighter ordinance. The exhibit also include a display of saddlery and ammunition.

Mrs. Alton E. Housler pleasantly entertained a party of lady friends at her residence on Maple street, last Friday afternoon at whist. It was a pleasant social event.

The following guests were present and enjoyed the entertainment very much, especially the elaborate repast served at five o'clock, while the poor men were grouping around the kitchen and refrigerator upsetting the milk and other dishes: Mesdames Laura Bryan, Jos. Kaye, Allen Baldwin, W. H. Howard, Josiah Howard, J. D. Logan, H. H. Mullin, G. S. Allen, T. F. Moore, W. B. Thompson, R. K. Mickey, Jasper Harris, Geo. Metzger, Jr., Geo. Smutz, E. E. Forbes, Alex. McDougall, F. G. Judd, Lizzie Hinkle, H. S. Lloyd, Fred Seger and Miss Minnie Bauregt.

The contest was spirited all afternoon, but Mrs. Forbes carried off the belt, Mrs. Alex. McDougall coming in second best.

America's Majestic Sea-Line.—

Wonderful Array of Battle Ships on Hampton Roads.

Never yet has Norfolk-of-old the port of naval rendezvous witnessed so imposing an assemblage of war craft as now lies in the harbor between Old Point Comfort and the Exposition Grounds. Through but the advance guard of the great gathering of fleets that will be here during the Exposition, the fleet is impressive, not only for its numbers and power, but by reason of the fact that it is wholly American. Sixteen first class battleships strung along a line extending three miles, with a number of secondary craft make up this stupendous array of the nation's ocean power, presenting a spectacle to stir the soul of patriotism. Other ships are daily lengthening this majestic line, and never before have Americans been privileged to witness the power of the nation in such compact concourse. This first constitutes the greatest assemblage of American warships ever held. It is the great new navy on parade; the new navy with which the nation has assumed the second place among the naval powers of the earth. The fleet is manned with over five hundred officers and thirteen thousand men. Twenty abreast this splendid host of American seamen on the march would take two hours to pass a given point.

The passage through this formidable line on one of the many ferry boats that ply on Norfolk harbor, will arouse the amazed interest of the dullest, and one feels that the nation can never go wrong while such ships and such men stand sentinels at its sea gates. There is already a grand exposition on the waters of Hampton Roads, worth alone a trip across the continent to witness.

Slaughter of the Innocents.

Friday and Saturday, April 26th and 27th, although ten days after the closed season for wild ducks, geese, brant, swan, coot and mud hen, countless numbers of these fowls were ruthlessly slaughtered or wounded and left to die along the banks of our streams by our local game hogs. As the water was too high to secure the birds even after they were killed or wounded, they floated down stream to become a creator of disease germs or if not killed outright were left to die along the shores. As the mating season is now on it seems a shame to kill these birds as the average wild duck will ordinarily raise from eight to sixteen birds, so that every female killed at this time means not only the loss of that one duck but of the brood that she would have mothered. It does not take much intelligence to appreciate, that this kind of butchery will lead to entire extinction in a very short time. It seems sad that human and intelligent persons would deliberately kill birds at the time nature has allotted for the propagation of their species. The game laws are very plain on this point as on page 41 of the game laws of Pennsylvania, in the last part of section 15, Act of 22nd, 1905, we find the following: The open season for wild geese, wild duck, brant, swan, coot or mudhen shall be from the first day of September to the first day of January next following and from the first day of April to the sixteenth day of the same month.

It is safe to say that at least five hundred waterfowl were slaughtered in violation of the game laws of Pennsylvania on Friday and Saturday, April 26th and 27th, between Emporium and Renovo and the guilty parties should be taught a lesson they should not soon forget.

AN INDIGNANT CITIZEN.

Hon. L. Taggart's Joke.

One of the large plate glass windows in Taggart's drug store has been replaced by a handsome new pane. In order to escape answering so many questions, Len. hung up the following notice: "This window was broken from the building settling. We wish that some of our customers would go broke from same reason."

"Are You A Mason?"

There may be nothing new under the sun but there are more laughs in "Are You A Mason?" than in any farce comedy of the past twenty years. That is why it has been a tremendous success in every civilized country of the world. This always welcome play will be the attraction at the Emporium Opera House, this Thursday evening, May 2nd.

If you long for that agreeable feeling—self respect, let Bedard make your suits. 9-1t.

Fraternal Visit.

A number of Emporium Masons attended a session of Ridgway Knapp Commandery, No. 40, Tuesday and passed a delightful afternoon and evening, witnessing the beautiful work. Those in attendance from this county were Sir Knights John Gleason, Frank P. Strayer, John D. Logan, E. W. White and H. H. Mullin, accompanied by the "victim," H. S. Lloyd, who continues to hold his sides with laughter when meditating. The Ridgway brothers were untiring in their efforts to please all the visitors Ridgway is a wide-awake town, full of enterprising business men who continue to erect large and substantial business blocks, equal in style to those of large cities. The Masonic bodies have broken ground for a Masonic Temple, 60x130, four stories with loft, which will be one of finest at Elk's capital—solid brick and stone. It will be a "dandy"

JOSEPH BURNSIDE, Manager.

Slaughtering Wild Ducks.

Wild ducks, in large numbers, appeared on the streams in this section last Friday. We regret that sportsmen, as well as others, slaughtered the ducks in great numbers, evidently for sport, for the dead fowl floated down the stream. This was a flagrant violation of the law, as will be seen by reading the law of 1905, page 41:

"The open season for wild geese, wild duck, brant, swan, coot, or mud hen shall be from the first day of September to the first day of January following, and from the first day of April to the sixteenth day of the same month."

How to Beat the Gas Company.

It seems that everybody now knows how to burn ashes, but it remained for Joe Anderson, brakeman on the shifter at the passenger depot, to tell people how to burn bricks. Anderson's scheme beats anything in the fuel line so far heard of. Three bricks after being treated to his firemaking solution, will keep an intense heat in a stove for twenty-four hours. And then there is no smoke or ashes. This is the Anderson scheme. Put the bricks in strong salt water for half a day and afterward put them in coal oil until they are thoroughly saturated. Then they are ready to burn, and the cost of this kind of beat is much cheaper than burning ashes.—Altoona Mirror.

"Are You A Mason?"

Here are some facts. "Are You A Mason" is coming to the Emporium Opera House, this Thursday evening, May 2nd. This clever comedy is one of the most popular plays ever staged. It will play to one of the biggest houses of the season. The wise man is he who buys his seats early.

When Doctor Bardwell was defeated for County Treasurer three years ago, he took his medicine like a man and made no complaint, but has supported the republican ticket loyally ever since, and many voters think that he is justly entitled to the nomination now. Especially so as the new law gives him a better chance to win. adv

Free Samples of "Preventives" and a booklet on colds will be gladly mailed you, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., simply to prove merit. Preventives are a little Candy Cold Cure tablets. No Quinine, no Laxative, nothing harmful whatever. Preventives prevent cold—as the name implies—when taken early, or at the "Sneeze Stage". For a seated cold or La-Grippe, break it up safely and quickly with Preventives. Sold by all dealers.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, April 27, 1907.

The President is out of town, Taft is off to Ohio, the Secretary of State and most of the Cabinet officers have gone officially to Jamestown, and some of them have managed to get switched off in other directions. And the lethargy of summer is beginning to settle on the town. But it will not be a quiet summer. All eyes are on Ohio, and will be till the fight there is over, and every move of the President is being watched by both friends and foes to see whether it has not some hidden bearing on the general political situation.

The latest rumor that has been put out in the Ohio campaign and that has not even been noticed to be ignored at the White House, is that the Taft candidacy is all a bluff and that he is really being used as a stalking horse for the President who is after a "second elective term." This is a new way of referring to the third term, and was concocted by some of the advocates of the third term proposition who thought it sounded better than the bold third term statement. But it can be said that Secretary Taft is not worrying. He has gone into the Ohio fight with the idea of winning, but he will not be heart broken if he does not.

One of the most serious features of the situation against him now is the opposition that has been stirred up by the labor union element over the President's alleged impolitic reference to Moyer, Hayward and Debs on the eve of the trial of the first two for the murder of Gov. Steunberg of Idaho. The fight of the Western Federation in the cases of Moyer and Hayward, who are among its high officers, has been taken up by many labor unions, and it looks as though Secretary Taft were going to have the opposition of the whole organized labor element in Ohio on the strength of it. It will be remembered that the President in the course of the Harriman controversy, brought forward a letter in which he had referred to Moyer, Hayward and Debs as "undesirable citizens." All of the champions of Moyer and Hayward were quick to take up the words and declare that the President was trying to influence the course of justice in a pending case by his reference to the Idaho murder. Then the President came back with a characteristic reply, in which he denied any intention or ability to influence a pending case by his reference, and added insult to injury by saying in effect that Moyer and Hayward were all that he had called them originally and that he has no regrets to express over anything he had said. But the result has been to bring out a lot of protests from professional labor men all over the country, and the opposition will be quick to take advantage of the occurrence to make it as hard as possible for Taft in Ohio and elsewhere.

Glad I Live in the World With You.

When the break of day has come,
I lay awake listening for the street car hum;
The clatter of feet and laughter I hear,
Is the sound of the working class dear;

I meet them and I watch them one by one,
While the task of another day has begun;
I thank God for the work He has left me to do,
And glad to be in the world with you.

When the Sabbath comes with its holler spell,
I listen to the echoes of the distant bell;
There is a place I long to be,
Where blessed worshippers bend their knee;

I face the songs of our music here,
Loses itself into Heaven so near,
My very soul breathes happiness all the way through,

So glad to be in the world with you,
O'fall the sweetness and all the mirth,
That stir in the bosom of mother earth;
To the howling storms to the mist and rain,
And sunshine that always return again;

I sing a song and its very tune,
So glad I live in the world with you,
The good I live in is hard to win,
But my toil and labor are worth in;

To my marvelous work one day you shall see,
It's now hidden from blossom and sky and tree
You will not know until I have gone,
To live my life in eternity beyond,
How I opened the door of my heart,
A bright light shone through,
A I thank God I live in the world with you.
