Mauch Chunk Items.

By our own correspondent.

On Monday night the Germania Cornet Band serenaded Jerry S. Kessler, the new proprietor of the Broadway House. They were invited in and offered the hospitalities of the hotel, after which they marched through the town rendering splendid musical selections.

On Christmas eve the dancing school scholars give a complimentary sociable at Rhoads' Hall.

On Monday evening next the Junior Mechanics of this place, after the regular routine of business, will give a sociable to their friends in their lodge-room on Race street. A collation will be set down to, after which the beautiful silk flag voted to them at the Methodist fair will be presented. The flag is at present displayed in the window of Mr. Asa Boets, merchant. It was purchased of the well known firm of Harstman Bros., Philadelphia, and cost $65, the staff costing $15 additional. It is bordered with gold fringe, has silken tassels has a spear head at the top of the flag staff, and altogether is a very handsome gift.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Co. have paid off for November, and the situation of the condition between the company and the hands, as regards the reduction of wages, remains unchanged.

The survivors of Co. K., who went to the Mexican war on December 24th, 1846, will hold their 27th annual reunion and banquet at the Mansion House on Christmas Eve. Maj. Rob't Klotz is the commanding officer.

The Presbyterians celebrate their Sunday School Christmas Festival on New Year's Eve, the Episcopalians on Second Christmas, and the Methodists will dispense with the giving of gifts to their Sunday School children, owing to the unfinished condition of their new church building.

Col. Batchelor, a New England artist of great repute, is now busily engaged taking sketches about town for an extensive guide book, which he will publish, of the most prominent summer resorts.

Messrs. O. T. and J. Ziegenfuss, the former popular hosts of the Broadway House, received several presents from their friends the evening before their departure for Philadelphia. The presents consisted of a pair of elegant vases and a gold mounted pencil. Mr. Cole made the presentation speech, and the whole affair proved a very agreeable surprise. The Messrs. Ziegenfuss left Mauch Chunk very reluctantly, having made hosts of steadfast friends during their sojourn here.

The Junior Mechanics are making extensive arrangements for their grand ball, to be given at Rhoads' Hall on New Year's Eve. Renz's Orchestra, of Philadelphia, furnishes the music.

On April 18th, 1874, the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg will take place at the Mansion House, Mauch Chunk. The Scott Legion, of Philadelphia, have accepted Maj. Klotz's invitation to be present. Gens. Patterson, Hooker, Cadwallader, and other distinguished soldiers, will be present.

L. E. Klotz, son of Maj. Klotz, is at present sojourning in Paris and seeing the sights of that great city.

The banks will be closed on Christmas and New Year's days, and as a consequence all notes that fall due on those days must be paid the day previous.

Ex-Sheriff Raudenbush was in town this week, and says everything is lovely in the borough of Lehigh.

The horse attached to the wagon of J. W. Heberling & Co. got frightened while standing at the L. V. R. Depot, one day last week, and ran off toward the Mansion House, splintering a load of hardware and smashing the wagon very badly.

Smash Up.

Wednesday morning two coal trains on the Beaver Meadow Division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, coming down the grade between Hazel creek bridge and Weatherly, the brakemen were unable to control the rear train, and at the last named place the rear train ran into the one ahead, completely wrecking the engine of the rear train and the engine and a large number of cars attached to the front train. In jumping off the train one of the brakemen was slightly injured. The passengers on the 7:40 up-train had to be transferred to another train at Weatherly. Loss estimated at $45,000.

Trochville Items.

Walter — and Davy — went out gunning on Saturday last, and in a short time started a very nice rabbit. Walter fired his second shot, but of course the rabbit kept on; then Davy let drive, and from his shot received a handful of wool, and the discovery of wool on such animals is something new for the people of Carbon.

The Trochville teacher, on the stormy day last week, hitched the dentist's pony to a sleigh, and drove to the school house, but on arriving there he discovered that there was no place to stable the pony, so he had to drive half way home again to find stabling, and then plod through the snow to his school, and then back to his pony and sleigh. Nice, eh? JOHN.
Dec. 11, 1873.

Leg Broken.

On Thursday morning last, Mr. Lewis Grover, of Rickertstown, an employee of the L. & S. R. R., while at work on the railroad in the neighborhood of Packerton, had his leg broken below the knee by being accidentally struck with a "frog." Mr. A. Beckman conveyed him to his home, and Drs. Zern and German were sent for and reduced the fracture.

Early Assault.

Friday evening, after six o'clock, in front of Charles Lahn's saloon, on Broad street, Thomas Gannon was shot by Henry Dietrich, of Ebervale. The circumstances attending the case are about as follows: A number of men from Ebervale were in Lahn's eating over-tops, when a teamster from Ebervale opened the door and said he was struck, and repeated the remark that he was struck and was hurt, upon which the party from the back room came through the main saloon to the door. Dietrich, drawing a revolver, opened the door and fired two shots at parties standing on the sidewalk. The first shot struck Gannon in the shoulder, well up toward the neck. Some one raised the cry, "Catch him! He shot the wrong man!" whereupon Dietrich was arrested by Jess. Weber and John Meiss, of the borough police, and taken before Thos. Coburn, Justice of the Peace, who committed him to the lock-up. At 7 1/2 o'clock Marshal Shiltner and others appeared before the Justice and represented that the wound was slight—in fact, of no account, and offered to bail Dietrich out for any sum to the extent of $100,000. The Justice accepted bail in the sum of $400 for his appearance this morning at 10 o'clock. No sooner had bail been accepted than word was brought to the Justice that the man was dying, whereupon the Justice waited upon Dr. W. R. Long-horn to ascertain the truth, when the doctor told him he must not take bail, as the man's condition was critical, whereupon the Justice withdrew the bail and ordered Dietrich's commitment until the result of the injuries was ascertained. This morning he was taken to Wilkes-Barre by Constable Dunn and Policemen Weber and Meiss.

The wounded man's statement is that he was going up town and stopped in front of Lahn's to speak to a friend; saw no difficulty with any one; that the door opened and Dietrich appeared, pistol in hand, and fired two shots; the first struck him as he was standing with his left side toward the door, some few paces distant; the force of the blow knocked him around so that he was facing Dietrich when the second shot was fired. He had no words with any one; had never spoken to Dietrich. The parties were all sobbing, and no previous trouble had occurred to lead to such an event. Our reporter could not see the teamster, who, it was said, was struck in the beginning of the affray. For a while the excitement on the street was intense; but after it was found that Dietrich had been placed under arrest the second time, it quieted down, and all seemed satisfied to let the law take its course. [Hazleton Daily News, December 13th.]

Brutal Murder in Hazleton.

On Saturday night, between ten and eleven o'clock, David Storey, proprietor of a saloon at the corner of Broad and Locust streets, was most brutally murdered on the Harleigh road, about three hundred yards from his own house.

The testimony elicited by the coroner's jury was as follows: In the evening, about eight o'clock, a party of young men entered Conrad Krapp's saloon, on Broad street, below Locust; they were disorderly, and Mr. Krapp went for the police for protection; but finding none willing to serve, returned home, when he found the party had gone away, and he was informed they had stopped in Storey's. It seems there was some ill-will existing with them; but finally they were got rid of. A short time afterwards Storey was informed that some party was taking his horse from the stable, and he went out to prevent the taking of his horse and wagon. In a few minutes he returned and took down a rifle and again went out, and was not seen again by the parties in the house until found dead. The time of his last going out is fixed at about ten o'clock. In the course of half an hour or so, some of the inmates of the house, becoming alarmed at his long stay, one of them went out and quietly went up the hill on the Harleigh road. At the top of the hill he heard sounds of a scuffle, as though a party were beating a man. He came back and reported, when, obtaining a revolver from a companion, the two went up the hill until they found the body of Storey, still warm and bleeding. They at once returned and proceeded to raise help to bring the body home, which they succeeded in doing at three o'clock.

They found fragments of the greatest of the rifle Storey had taken out with him, but the butt and barrel could not be found.

Drs. A. B. Longshore and J. R. Casselberry were called to make a post mortem examination. The following is the report submitted by Dr. Casselberry, after examination:

"Found upon left side of head six contused wounds, ranging from 1/4 to 2 1/2 inches in length, three of these being scalp wounds merely, the balance reaching the skull. At one, near the crown of the head, a portion of the external table of the skull appeared to be clipped or shaved off, leaving a loosened scale and an abrupt edge. At another near the upper and back part of the head, was found a fissure fracture 2 1/2 inches in length. At another, extending from the supraorbital ridge to the temporal bone, was also a fissure fracture, reaching obliquely from the base of the nose to the temporal bone. At the external angle of the right eye a very severe contused wound, rupturing the eye ball, breaking the cheek (malar) bone from the temporal, fracturing the upper jaw near its middle, and crushing it and the inner bones of the face back against the anterior portion of the base of the brain; lower jaw fractured on left side, midway between chin and angle; on right side near the angle. Fourth rib fractured on the left side, and fifth rib dislocated, large contusion on right side over stomach and liver."

The jury held two sessions yesterday, and adjourned until to-day. The jury is composed of the following citizens: Wm. Klesner, Jos. Greenawalt, Chas. F. Hill, W. W. Smith, F. Landersburg, and J. C. Fincher.

wounds displaying the skull at every point. The jaw bones were so crushed that the teeth were loose in his mouth. Numerous minor bruises were found on his body, showing that the struggle had been a long one, as well as a brutal one, to the end. Numerous theories were started as to the manner of the murder, the most probable being that he followed the crowd to make sure of their getting beyond the probability of returning and disturbing his horse and wagon, and that the crowd turned on him, took his gun from him, and beat him to death with it.

The above is taken from the Hazleton Daily News of the 14th inst. On Monday four of the supposed murderers, who had been arrested, and had been identified as having been in the saloon, were taken to Wilkes-Barre jail. Their names are Hugh McGlynn, Patrick Gallagher, 7th, Ed. Toy, and John McElwee, 2d.

To-Day.

We call attention to the advertisement of To-Day in another column. This paper seems to have laid out a path for itself, aiming to furnish a finely illustrated paper at a price that places it within reach of all intelligent readers, and sparing no expense, to secure the best reading matter for its patrons. Added to this, the sound judgment and exquisite taste that is shown in the selection of Premium Chromos enables agents to offer inducements that are irresistible. Last year Mrs. Anderson's "Just So High" was the subject, and few thought it could be excelled; but now the publishers come forward with another charming child picture, "Little Sunshine," by the same artist, and also a Chromo of one of the celebrated Birket Foster's most beautiful landscapes in water color. Each subscriber has a choice of either one of the above named chromos, and we do not exaggerate when we say that neither one could be purchased for less than seven dollars. The publishers wish agents everywhere, and offer liberal inducements.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of THE CARBON ADVOCATE:

Sir: A militia tax of 50c. has been demanded of me, and is being demanded of others. Now, if I am not very much mistaken, the law authorizing said tax has been repealed. If his is true, it is very unjust to persist in its collection at any time; but now, when workmen feel their taxes so heavily, it is a gross imposition. Surely the Commissioners cannot be so ignorant of the facts of the case; and if they are knowingly imposing a tax which they know is illegal, we can characterize it as nothing less than dishonesty. We would like to hear from you or some of your numerous readers upon this matter. TAPPAN.

LEHINGTON, Dec. 17, 1873.

[The Military Tax was abolished last winter, and we cannot conceive why it should be collected at this time. The collector must be laboring under a wrong impression in regard to the matter.—ED. ADVOCATE.]

KIND WORDS.

The Associated Reformed Presbyterian Society—For years Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been known as a most useful family medicine. For pains and aches we know nothing so good as the Pain-Killer. For many internal diseases it is equally good. We speak from experience, and testify to what we know. No family ought to be without a bottle of Davis' Pain-Killer.

MESSRS. PERRY DAVIS & SON, Prop., R. I.,—Gents:—Although a stranger to you I am not to your invaluable medicine, Pain-Killer. I formed its acquaintance in 1847 and I am on most intimate terms with it still; my experience in its use confirms my belief that there is no medicine equal to Pain-Killer for the quick and sure cure of Summer Complaints, Sore Throat, Cramp, Bruises and Cuts. I have used it in all and found a speedy cure in every case. Yours truly, T. J. GARDINER, M.D.

Judging by our own experience whoever once makes a trial of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, will not fail to recommend it widely as an unequalled, efficient, and valuable internal remedy for colds and various other complaints.—Every Month

The efficacy of Perry Davis' world-renowned Pain-Killer in all disease of the bowels, even the terrible scourge, the Asiatic cholera, has been amply attested by the most convincing authorities. Missionaries in China and India have written home in commendation of this remedy in terms that should carry conviction to the most skeptical, while its popularity in communities nearer home is ample proof that the virtues claimed for it are real and tangible. Among family medicines it stands unrivalled.—Boston Courier.

The Saturday Even' Gazette of Boston, says: It is impossible to find a place on this broad land where Perry Davis' Pain-Killer is not known as a most valuable remedy for physical pain. In the country, miles from physician or apothecary, the Pain-Killer is cherished as the exclusive panacea, and it never deceives.

"Perry Davis' Pain-Killer is really a valuable medicine, and, unlike most of the articles of the day, is used by many physicians. It is particularly desirable in location where physicians are not near, and by keeping it at hand, families will often save the necessity of sending out at midnight for a doctor. A bottle should be kept in every house."—Boston Traveller.

"We have tested the the Pain-Killer, and assure our readers that it not only possesses all the virtues claimed for it, but in many instances surpasses any other remedy we have ever known."—Herald of Gospel Liberty.
