YOUNG'S DICTIONARY

OF
EVERY DAY WANTS,
CONTAINING
20,000 Receipts,
In Every Department of Human Effort.

It is printed on strong, heavy paper, from new electrolytic plates, in one volume of 530 royal octavo, double-column pages, alphabetically arranged in divisions and sub-divisions.

It is issued in two different styles of binding—English cloth, with gold back stamp, $4; leather, sprinkled edges, ribbed back (library style), $4.75.

Ask the first book canvasser you meet to show you a copy, when without doubt you will purchase it. If you desire a copy and cannot find a book agent who has it, a copy will be mailed on receipt of the price by the publisher.

It will be useless to ask for it in a book store, as it is sold only through canvassing agents, and it will never be on sale in book stores if the publishers can prevent it.

No trade, profession or occupation but what is represented therein. The Housewife will find aids and suggestions therein innumerable. The Carpenter, the Builder, the Blacksmith, will find material aid each in their respective departments. The young lady will find innumerable aids to pass her time not only pleasantly but profitably.

The Farmer and Stock-raiser will there read such valuable hints as cannot be found outside a small agricultural library. The Dress-maker, Dyer and Clean-starcher will find there just what they want to know to make themselves perfect in their different specialties. The Trapper can find in no other book or books the secrets contained in Young's.

The sick can turn up therein to the particular disease with which they are troubled, and learn the latest remedies with methods for home treatment. But it is impossible to enumerate every particular branch of every employment that Young's Dictionary does not advance new and valuable information thereon. S. T. LEOPOLD, Agent for Lehighton, Weissport, and Franklin township, Jan. 31, 1874.

THE MANHATTAN Spring

BED and Combination
MATTRESS.

P. J. KISTLER, POSTMASTER
OF WEISSPORT, has been appointed
vicinity to give our citizens a chance to see and test the merits of the arrangement of springs. He is willing to put them on trial for any person for one week, and if they do not prove superior to the Woven Wire Mattress, Putnam, Yankee, Norfolk, Wright, Springfield, Howe, Tucker, Eureka, Munroe, Imperial, United States, Walker, Connecticut, Eagle, Salem or any of the one thousand and one Spring Beds that have been put upon the market, you are not asked to buy it. The above named beds have been discarded to make room for the improved. It has no hiding place for bugs, has no slats on top of the springs, but heavy duck canvas, hooked at the base of the spring, that may be taken off and the slats removed (for cleaning or otherwise) by anybody in five minutes and replaced at pleasure. The springs may be changed to other portions of the bed with very little trouble. The springs are warranted to keep place and last longer than any other in use. For invalids it cannot be surpassed. He fits them to any bedstead or different weight of persons, the largest number under the heaviest part of the body, and with a light covering of hucks, cotton, straw ed, or hair mattress, they adapt themselves completely to the body. The lady's should call and see the arrangement of springs for the cradle, and not have to use feathers in warm weather.
They are better than soothing syrup or cordials for the little ones. The springs are made from the very best cast steel from the celebrated Sheffield works of England. Come one and all and see them. These beds have been fully established in twelve different States.
The Furniture men are especially invited to call and examine these beds.
Beds put upon trial and no one asked to purchase until after a fair trial.

P. J. KISTLER
Agent, Weissport.

Is it Safe to Trust?

BY MARY MONTREAL.

With high hopes of temporal prosperity, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, with their little ones, joined one of the first companies that emigrated from New England to Kansas.

Pioneer life and its privations, together with sickness and the death of all the family except the mother and one daughter—little Agnes—dispelled these hopes, but did not rob the widow of trust in her heavenly Father.

In the Autumn of 1860, the year known in Kansas as the famine year, she was reduced to great want. Her desperate condition could not be attributed to any lack of effort on her part.
She had paid with her own work for the ploughing of her large fields in early Spring, and her own hands covered the seed when Agnes dropped it in the hills.

Through all that long summer she had lugged and waited—vainly waited for the needed rain. Much of the seed that she had planted was blown from the dry, dusty field by the strong wind, and the little that came up soon scathed and died. Winter was approaching, and she had no food. She would not borrow of her neighbors, for they, too, were destitute. She could not go down into Egypt to buy corn, for she had no means of transportation, and no money to put into her sack's mouth.

She was usually cheerful, but at this time there was a cloud resting upon her spirits; yet this cloud had the "silver lining" of faith.

"We will eat our supper now, darling," she said, one evening, as she placed two heavy, wooden chairs by her side table.

"We haven't got anything to eat," said little Agnes.

"Yes, we have, dear," said her mother. "We have some very good corn-bread and some coffee. And here is some gravy, too, that I dipped off of the water that we boiled our last meat in. I am afraid there are a great many people who have not as good a supper as this, to-night. We ought to be thankful that we have so much as we have, and do not need to go to bed hungry."

But little Agnes could not believe there was any gratitude due for so poor a meal. "I want something more. I want some meat," she said.

"I think the Lord will give us meat before long. I know he has not forgotten us. Listen to the rain, my daughter, and thank God that we are nicely sheltered. We will thank him for the good rain, too. It is what we have prayed for all summer, and though it did not come in time to give us food, this year, it will help to prepare the ground for next year's crop. We must thank him for that."

"Yes, mamma, but if the Lord has cattle on a thousand hills I think he could let us have some of them as well as not, and it seems to me he ought to do it."

"Don't you think, darling, that Mr.
Call ought to give you some money?"

"No, mamma, he does not owe me any."

"Neither does God owe us anything, and we must not complain when he does not give us as we would like to have. If Mr. Call should give you a dime, would you thank him or would you fret because he did not give you a quarter?"

"I would not be so ungrateful. I would thank him for the dime."

"Then when God gives us health, a comfortable house, and food enough to keep us from suffering with hunger, shall we complain because he does not give us more? Will you treat your heavenly Father worse than you would treat a neighbor?"

As they were partaking of their course meal in silence, Mrs. Davis said to herself: "The Lord will provide in his own time; but how long must I wait?"

The sainted martyrs are not the only ones who cry: "How long, O Lord, how long?" Earth has many weary, aching hearts that echo back the cry:
"How long?"

There was a knock. The widow hastened to open the door, for nobody would be left standing outside in that pitiless storm. A neighbor was there with a package in his hand.

"Please accept this from my wife," he said, "and I have good news to tell you. The people of the North and East are going to send us aid. There will be a load of provisions here, for distribution, in less than a week."

The package was taken to the table and opened. Little Agnes clapped her hands, exclaiming: "It's a spare rib; a nicely baked spare rib! God will provide. I believe it now." When the widow again sat down to the table she did not say: "How long?" but with a lighter heart and brighter face, she exclaimed: "The Lord's promises are sure, and it is safe to trust."—Christian at Work.

A few evenings since, a widow, who was known by the entire congregation of one of our churches, to be greatly in want of a husband, was praying with fervency: "Oh! the kindest what is the desire of my heart?" she exclaimed. "A man!" responded a brother, in a broad accent. It was wicked; but we are quite sure that several grave members smiled on the occasion.

Important Legislation.

The following general bills have been introduced and are now pending in the Legislature:

One providing for the lawful increase of the indebtedness of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality.

One providing for the collection of taxes in the several counties.

One for the registration and taxation of dogs.

One authorizing boarding house keepers to attach wages for unpaid board bills.

One providing that all local or special laws which have heretofore been enacted for the purpose of exempting any real-estate or personal property from taxation for either state, county or school purposes, be and the same are hereby repealed.

One prohibiting the annual taxation for county, school, township or borough purposes, exceeding six mills on the dollar of valuation; also authorizing cumulative voting for school directors.

A bill was introduced in the House on Thursday by Mr. Tonner which repeals the Local Option law, and substitutes therefor a license law, giving the County Commissioners power to grant licenses. The applicant must give bonds for $1,000 to keep the law-these bonds to be filed in the Quarter Sessions. Dealers shall be rated as follows:—Where yearly sales shall be over $10,000, they shall pay $200 for licenses; where sales are between $5,000 and $10,000, they shall pay $100, when less $5,000, they shall pay $50, and no license shall be granted for a less sum.
