$1000 REWARD for an incurable case of Catarrh. After having suffered, deluged, gargled, hawked, spit and gagged to your entire satisfaction in your useless endeavors to get relief from catarrh, use Briggs' Alleviator according to directions. The filthy mass of mucus will be immediately expelled, and the inflamed surface soothed, the eyes sparkle with delight, the head feels natural again; hope revives, for a cure is sure to follow the use of this agreeable, scientific and reliable remedy.

Coughs! MUCH has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

Corns. THE excruciating pain produced by corns, the incessant twinging from blisters, the piercing, distressing pain from ingrowing nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of corns, inflamed and ulcerated bunions, the sorest itching, the largest and severest blisters, the most extensive callosities on the sole or heel of the foot, consequent on the use of ill-fitting or trodden feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unquailed by anything ever known. Ask for Briggs' Remedies. Take no other.

Piles! IT'S ALL VERY WELL, those not troubled to think it is nothing to have Piles. For this reason, the unfortunate sufferer gets very little sympathy. The agony of Piles is not or cannot be much worse than the torture endured by millions who are troubled with internal bleeding, external and itching piles. Great Relief for sufferers. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

Corns ARE THE MOST PLEASANT. A full kind of grain in the market. One has a supply from the three year old child to the grand old man; from a hundred stylish, handsome young ladies who daily promenade in fashionable resorts; middle aged matrons; old maids, dressed up to appear young and gay; domestic, with their potteries, and innumerable waiting-sticks; the clergyman, merchant, clerk, artisan and mechanic, of all ages and stations, have a full supply of corns, bunions, bad nails, and other blemishes of the feet, all of which are banished and cured by the use of Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies, Alleviator and Curative. Sold by A. J. DURLING, Druggist,
Lehigh, Pa.

A Love Story of the Rebellion

We were sitting in our room at the Glades Hotel, in Oakland, Md., one day with a charming lady who had dropped in on a visit. One of our windows looked into that of another room so placed by the position of the main building that half of its interior could be seen. We were looking and admiring a little chubby, blue eyed two-year old, white as snow, who was pulling a bouquet to pieces and tossing out the fragments, or clapping her little hands with delight as the train went thundering by.

"These rooms," said our fair visitor, "have some very tender associations for me."
"Why so?" we asked.

"Well," she answered, "during the war the greater part of the hotel was seized by the Government as a hospital, and we were crowded into few rooms. My sister and I had this. In that room where that little beauty is were two Union officers, one sick of the fever and another of a wound. It was hard to tell whether they were slowly dying or slowly getting well. I never saw such ghostly skeletons to be alive. We were 'seesh' and not modest about it either, but still our hearts ached for the poor young men, so ill, perhaps dying, far from friends and relatives."

"It bothers us to know how this should be a hospital," we said, "it is so far removed from active operations."
"It was thought," she answered, "that the mountain air of the glades would be more favorable than elsewhere, so this was made a hospital. One day one of these officers dragged himself to the window, and under the impulse of the moment my sister asked if we could do anything for them, and he answered, gasping for breath, that a little chicken soup would save their lives. Chickens were rare in those days—an army is hard on poultry. The men will work all night, after marching through the day, to secure a few chickens; so that when the hospital nurse and physicians had an unlimited supply of luxuries in the way of wines, potted meats and canned vegetables, they were without anything fresh. We knew where a few were hid in a cellar of a neighbor, and we coaxed one out of the owner, and after a deal of vexatious trouble—for at every turn we were met by a fixed bayonet and an insult—we got the soup ready, and as the guard in the hall would not permit us to approach our patients, my sister attempted to hand the bowl to the officer in the window. Just as he was feebly reaching for it, and she stretching herself out to give it to him, a harsh, ugly voice below cried aloud, "Look out there—poison!" She nearly dropped herself, soup and all. Drawing back she hesitated a second, and then she took the spoon and began eating the soup. "Oh bother!" cried the officer, "don't waste it in that way; I'm not afraid;" and she gave him the soup. It seemed to revive them, and they continued steadily to improve, as day by day we supplied them with chicken soup until the cellar was empty. During this time we sat at the window talking, and we sang to them—sang 'My Maryland' and all the Southern songs we knew, until they were well enough to leave the hospital and returned to duty. They both seemed sorry to go, and forced on us a quantity of hospital store and some coffee, which last we needed sadly. Then one gave a ring and the other a brooch, as tokens of their kind feelings."

"And did they never return?" we asked.

"One did not, for poor fellow, he was killed in the very next battle in which he was engaged. His companion wrote us about it, and the writer insisted upon opening a correspondence with my sister; and soon his letters grew into love letters, and after a time they were engaged. Nearly a year subsequent to this, our patient got leave of absence and came on to be married. He put up at a hotel, and will you believe it, our own brother, who was in the Confederate service, and knew nothing of my sister's affairs, led a band of guerillas at night into town and captured his intended brother-in-law from his bed. This not only deferred the marriage, but deprived the young West Pointer of his promotion, that had been promised for gallant services in the field. It was really aggravating, for exchanges had almost ceased, and it looked as if the lovers would have to wait until 'this cruel war was over' before they could be united."

"You should have applied to Abraham Lincoln to give a married brigadier for an unmarried lieutenant."

"We did better. Procuring passes, we went through the lines and appealed to Jeff. Davis. Jeff. said he would put my brother's prisoner in his sister's keeping. They have been happily married these many years. He is a brevet brigadier-general now, and it all came of our nursing the enemy in that room."

Twist 'em.
The following examples in articulation are old, still not worn out. Some of our younger readers may play 'twist the tongue' with them for a little while during the long evenings:—
Of all the saws I ever saw, I never saw a saw saw as this saw saws.
Crazy Craycroft caught a crate of crickled crabs!
If Crazy Craycroft caught a crate of crickled crabs,
Where's the crate of crickled crabs Crazy Craycroft caught?
Thou wreath'd ox, and muzzl'd at the farfetched ox, and imprison'dst him in the volcanic Mexican mountain of Popo-cat-a-pet-i, in Co-to-pax-i.
Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers; a peck of pickled peppers Peter Piper picked.
Peter Prang'er, the prickly pear picker, picked three pecks of prickly prangley pears from the prangley pear tree on the pleasant prairies.
When a twister twisting, would twist him a twist.
For twisting a twist three times he will twist;
But if one of the twists untwist from the twist,
The twist untwisting, untwists the twist.
Robert Royley rolled a round roll round; a round roll Robert Royley rolled round. When rolled the round roll Robert Royley rolled round?
Theophilus Thistle, the successful thistlesifter, in sifting a sieve full of thistles, thrust three thousand thistles through the thick of his thumb.
Villey Vite and Vife vent on a voyage to Vest Vinson and Vest Vindham von Vitson Vednesday.
I saw Esau kissing Kate;
The fact is, we three saw;
I saw Esau, he saw me,
And she saw I saw Esau.

Paraphoric.
Young ladies use powder, perhaps, because they think it will make them go off.
Naturalists claim that the crow is one of the bravest of birds, because it never shows the white feather.
Because a Colt pistol has six barrels, can it be told exactly how many barrels a horse pistol should have?
I. O. U. are the vowels which create more disagreeable sensations in the minds of honest men than all the rest of the alphabet put together.
At one of the ragged schools in Ireland a clergyman asked the question, "What is holiness?" A pupil in dirty, rags jumped up and said: "Plaze, yer reverence, it is to be clean inside."
An old clergyman spying a boy creeping through a fence, exclaimed: "What! crawling through a fence! Pigs do that!" "Yes," retorted the boy, "And old hogs go along the street."

TOBACCO IN PIPES AND CIGARS.
According to the German chemists, the action of tobacco juice is not due to nicotine, for it contains none, but to pyridine nicotine, colidaine, and other bases, forming a uniform series, which are produced during the combustion of the tobacco; and the reason why stronger tobacco can be smoked in a pipe than in a pipe is, that in a pipe a large quantity of pyridine is formed, which is very volatile and stupefying—while in a cigar, little pyridine and much colidaine are formed. The bases pyridine and picoline, greatly resemble nicotine, both in smell and physiological action, producing contraction of the pupil, difficult respiration, convulsions and death.

A BIG MONEY CHEST.—The Bank of England covers five acres of ground, and employs nine hundred clerks. There are no windows on the street. Light is admitted through open courts. No mob can take the bank there, without cannon to batter the immense wall. The clock in the centre of the bank has fifty dials attached to it. Large cisterns are sunk in the court, and engines in perfect order are always ready in case of fire. The bank was incorporated in 1694. Capital $100,000,000.
