A HAPPY NEW YEAR.
1899 is dying, and a few more days will see it numbered with the past that is gone forever with its thousand and one memories of death, devastation, ruin, crime, miseries and sorrows, while the New Year with its unsolved destinies will break slowly upon us to bring that portion of success or failure accorded to our merit. The Advocate, with interest, will watch the woe of time roll off the days one by one and hope for the best at the hands of God and man. By earnest effort we will hope to merit your generous patronage and now we wish you a Very Happy and prosperous New Year.

JUDGE DREHER ELECTIONEERING.
Judge Dreher is straightening his fences for next year, or at least thinks he is. To further his boom with the Republicans he awarded the publication of the liquor license to the two newspapers at Mauch Chunk at 40 per cent higher rates than the work can be done for. The joke of the matter is that it is Probationary Esler who will have to pay for this increase. That is a great scheme of Dreher's—electioneering at some one else's expense.—Laford Review.

And we may as well add, it is becoming more and more evident every day that he will electioneer, not only at the expense of others, but it is already rumored that several gentlemen with large corporate interests to subserve will use their bootie lavishly to carry Judge Dreher through, and these booties are not all Democrats. It has been noticed and commented upon by all observers for the last year or so, that Judge Dreher has been favoring on Republican leaders at Mauch Chunk, with the object of getting their support.

With lots of bootie to buy up rental and carry voters, and with liberal use of slander, misrepresentation and a corrupt bargain with some Republican leaders to deliver the honest Republican vote of Carbon county to Judge Dreher, by an endorsement on their ticket, the scheme may possibly work to defeat Mr. Rapsher. But after all we have too much faith in the honesty of the voters of Carbon county to believe that they will be diverted from an honest purpose by scheming booties. Any man at all familiar with the politics in this county, would have no hesitation in saying that Mr. Rapsher would get three votes to Judge Dreher's one in this county, if we got an honest election. And we have also been assured more than once that there is a large opposition favoring against Judge Dreher in Monroe county. Which shall control—the will of the PEOPLE or MONEY-BAGS?

BROADBRIM'S N. Y. LETTER

A bitter wall of grief and despair went up last week from a little corner of gambling snobs when the news got abroad that Jerome Park had closed its gates as a racetrack forever. It was the most calamitous reverse that has befallen Jerome Park since its opening in 1892, and there was a flavor of the elite four hundred about it that kept its flag flying long after bankruptcy struck it in the face. There is a wide difference in this world between Tweedledum and Tweedledee, though there are many people who can't see it. The fellows who bet on horseraces at Guttenberg and Elizabeth are gamblers; the persons who did the same thing at Jerome Park were sporting gentlemen. Larry Jerome was a sporting gentleman, and it was mainly by him the Park was founded, and for a time it captured whatever we have of sporting aristocracy in New York. It was to ordinary racetracks like Monmouth Park or Sheepshead Bay what Monte Carlo or Almack's would have been to John Chamberlain's or Daly's. All of our fine ladies went out there in their drags, drookies and landaus whenever there was to be a run of celebrated cracks, and it was thought nothing out of place to take a little flyer on the flyers, and sometimes when the cash ran short a diamond bracelet or a pair of solitaires testified their faith in their feet-footed favorites, and many a fine lady, after some of the big races, came back home metaphorically on her uppers, though really saved from humiliation by being the owner of her own turnout which fortunately had not gone up in the general ruin.

The stock was owned by a close corporation, and was considered a bonanza to which there was no bottom. It was a nice place for a man to be reaping every year from twenty to fifty per cent, when government bonds at three and a half per cent, were commanding a heavy premium. How was this heavy interest got? Was it by anything that was produced? The anything that was created for the benefit of mankind? Not a bit of it. It was gambling pure and simple, and nothing else. You were told at Jerome that everything was done on the dead square—No betting, no pulling, no tricks of any kind, but the fastest horse was sure to win every time. What of it? The games of faro dealt at John Morrissey's Chamberlain's or Daly's were just as square as the races at Jerome Park, but it was gambling and nothing but gambling all the same. It was very dangerous, for many a man, and woman too, stake their last dollar on the losing horse, who would no more have been seen inside of a gambling house than they would in a brothel, Jerome Park was the first great patron of American sleazebagging, which has cost more lives and broken limbs than all the athletic tournaments and battles in the prize ring put together. On one great racing day I saw six riders go down all in a heap, one was killed outright and several were more or less maimed or injured. Did the slight accident interfere with the amusement of these gentle savages? Certainly not. It was only a jockey killed, nothing more.

The grief of the strikers' mother when her son, who let her fall of life and hope and strength a few hours before, was brought home dead, was nothing. What was it to them? Clear the course of the debris, and quick bring out more horses, Croesus and Midas have the call. But the phenomenal success of Jerome begot rivals, Louz Brauch, Coney Island, and lastly the new racetrack at Westchester, which helped to complete its ruin, and last week it ran its flag of distress up half mast and closed its gates with a deficiency of one hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars. I am no sanguinary or morbidist on races; I love a good horse next to a good dog, he seems to be man's most natural companion of all the brute creation, but when the noble creature was doing his very best, as I have seen him do on many a racing day, as he turned the horses round and dashed towards the starting, every time the whip cracked his reeking flank I could feel my own little tingle and came as near using words as you would naturally expect from the superintendent of a first class Sunday school. So good bye, Jerome.

The trial of the sugar swindlers, of whom I gave an account some time ago, was brought to a sudden end by the confession of the two female conspirators, Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Friend. Professor Friend professed to have discovered a new process for refining sugar, by which millions of money could be made. He failed, however, to make any progress with his scheme till he met one Howard, a clergyman and a good smooth talker, who undertook to stock the Howard went down to Wall street with specimens of refined sugar, and it was not long till he had men of capital interested in the business. The stock was eagerly grabbed up. Professor Friend moved from his dingy quarters in Harlem to a palace down town; liveried servants waited on him, splendid equipages stood at his door; wealth rolled upon him in a mighty stream and the world was at his feet. His contact with the company was so much stock and so much cash, on the condition of his furnishing so much refined sugar per day, but the secret of the manufacture was to be retained by him. Thousands of dollars were subscribed for a building and thousands more for machinery. It seemed difficult to arrive at a commercial supply, though samples were furnished in abundance. The Professor's laboratory was triple locked and no one was allowed to enter but Mrs. Friend and Howard and his wife. At last Professor Friend died and then his wife and Howard became the sole depositaries of the wonderful secret. They held the stockholders for several thousands more and when discovery became inevitable they fled carrying their plunder with them. It then appeared as soon as the laboratory was broken open that they ran the crude sugar which was furnished them by the company down into the sewer and filled the package with refined sugar made by the Hayemeyers and smuggled in as machinery. It took some time to locate the swindlers, but they were finally found in Michigan. It was a long fight and Mrs. Friend, the Professor's wife was particularly bold and defiant. The Reverend Frank Howard was tried first and sent to State Prison for nine years. The confession of Mrs. Friend and Mrs. Howard ended the case, and as the District Attorney recommended them to the mercy of the Court the presumption is that they will get off with a nominal punishment.

The eleven tribes of Israel and Judah have been having an inning this week and have made a most splendid showing. Never in its palmyest days has the American Institute building appeared with such advantage as at the great Hebrew Fair now in progress. The latter has been converted into a fairy bower and the man's heart must be adamant who can wander about among the booths and not feel it go pit a pat faster than a railroad train. Oh, such Rutas, Rachels and Rebecas. I wonder that all the young Abrahams, Isaacs and Jacobs are nearly crazy, for a beautiful collection of women I never saw. The fair is given by the United Hebrew Charities for the benefit of the Hebrew Technical Institute, and it is proposed before it is ended to raise a quarter of a million of dollars. Many people only see the Jew in his office or store and only regard him simply as a money getter. But if you want to understand the other side of him, appeal to him for any worthy or charitable cause. It is notorious here in New York that there are no charities better administered or better cared for or more generously and liberally supplied than those supervised by the Hebrews, and to their honor be it said that there has never been a deficiency or default in the administration of their charitable funds. But the fair fairly elicits every emotion attempted by them before, and the lavishness with which they have expended their money in its support is attested by the magnificent receipts of fifty thousand dollars on the opening night. There is hardly a respectable Jewish family in New York, Brooklyn or the vicinity which is not represented in money or in person.

The curious traveler who ventures into this gilded sea with a full pocketbook will find his way beset with shoals and quicksands which threaten him with present financial ruin. It is impossible to withstand the appeals of those Hebrew witches; if you once look into their eyes you might as well surrender your pocketbook at once. Night after night the vast hall was thronged with thousands and thousands of high and low degree. The widow's mite is received with as much thankfulness as Croesus' princely gifts, for it is all given in the blessed name of charity. It is a fitting beginning to the Feast of the Passover which is now close at hand, and reflects honor on the Hebrews of New York.

All Brooklyn and New York is on a broad grin at a discovery of the historical accuracy which is to be attached to the Rev. Dr. Talmage's letters from abroad. The Reverend Doctor stood in the Coliseum at Rome and surveying its crumbling arches in the soft moonlight, drank in the splendid inspiration that this magnificent ruin suggests. He gave his exuberant fancy rein; he heard the screams of the Christian martyrs and the exultant shouts of the fierce Roman populace thirsting for Christian blood. No wonder his frame shook like an aspen leaf and his soul was stirred with horror, for he says that he stood beneath the very bow where the savage Nero looked down upon the sacrifice. Not bad that for the Doctor, but unfortunately for his historical accuracy, the poor old scallawag, Nero, was in a suicide's grave several years before the first foundation stone of the Coliseum was laid. Nero died A. D. 68. Vespasian, who built the Coliseum, did not succeed as emperor till two years after Nero was dead, and it was several years after his accession that he built the Coliseum for the Roman populace to celebrate his own victories and those of his son Titus, who destroyed Jerusalem. Explanations are now in order; we wait with awe and patience.

THE SUN. For 1899, Some people agree with THE SUN's opinions about men and things, and some people don't; but everybody likes to get hold of the newspaper which is never dull and never afraid to speak its mind. Democrats know that for twenty years THE SUN has fought in the front line for Democratic principles, never wavering or weakening in its loyalty to the true interests of the party it serves; with fearless intelligence and undisturbed vigor. At times opinions have differed as to the best means of accomplishing the common purpose; it is not THE SUN'S fault if it has seen further into the distance. Eighteen hundred and ninety is the year that will probably determine the result of the Presidential election of 1892, and perhaps the fortunes of the Democracy for the rest of the century. Victory in 1892 is a duty, and the beginning of 1899 is the best time to start out in company with THE SUN. THE SUN. For 1899, Some people agree with THE SUN's opinions about men and things, and some people don't; but everybody likes to get hold of the newspaper which is never dull and never afraid to speak its mind. Democrats know that for twenty years THE SUN has fought in the front line for Democratic principles, never wavering or weakening in its loyalty to the true interests of the party it serves; with fearless intelligence and undisturbed vigor. At times opinions have differed as to the best means of accomplishing the common purpose; it is not THE SUN'S fault if it has seen further into the distance. Eighteen hundred and ninety is the year that will probably determine the result of the Presidential election of 1892, and perhaps the fortunes of the Democracy for the rest of the century. Victory in 1892 is a duty, and the beginning of 1899 is the best time to start out in company with THE SUN.
