

THE GAZETTE.

The Execution of Prof. John W. Webster, For the Murder of Dr. George Parkman, in the Medical College in Boston, on the 23rd day of November, 1849.

From the Eastern papers, the Boston Transcript and Traveller principally, we copy the following particulars of Professor Webster's execution on Friday last:

THE INTERVIEW WITH HIS FAMILY.

Professor Webster was visited as usual by his family yesterday, and they remained with him nearly four hours. There is every reason to believe that they left entirely ignorant as to the date of the execution. The prisoner himself felt great anxiety in regard to this closing interview, lest he should betray himself. When it was over, he felt greatly relieved, and spoke cheerfully. He had detected no sign of a recognition of the fact that this was their last interview in the demeanor of his family. Neither had the jailer, to the latter, as they left the cell, they addressed some remarks, plainly indicating their expectation of re-visiting the prisoner. An immense crowd had assembled in Leverett street and about the jail, to see the unhappy family as they issued; but Mr. Andrews took Mrs. Webster and her family through his own house, to a door opening on Lowell street, where a carriage was waiting, and they thus escaped the scrutiny and remarks of the multitude.

THE PRISONER'S LAST NIGHT.

The last interview of Dr. Putnam yesterday with the prisoner took place between half past seven and nine o'clock last evening. Officers Jones and Leighton were present in the cell, by the Sheriff's orders. Dr. Putnam wished more privacy, and the matter was finally compromised by dismissing the officers, and having Mr. Gustavus Andrews, the jailer, alone present. Of this interview we cannot say much. There was no confession contradictory of that already made by the prisoner. Professor Webster declared himself willing to die on the gallows, as a partial expiation of the great wrong he had done to society.

His serenity he said was established on religious conviction. He alluded to the ceremony of his execution, and remarked that he felt that it would be through no fear of dying, through no effect upon him of the horrible surroundings and accompaniments of his doom; but because of his misgivings as to the efficacy of his own repentance, as to the future, to which he was going; because of the "clouds" that might come over his spirit at the last. He hoped, however, that he should bear up bravely, and that he should be tried by Mr. Andrews in preference to any other officer—and said that he expected to be tranquil during the night, although he might not sleep. After Mr. Putnam retired, Professor Webster resumed his reading of the Scriptures, which he alternated with inward and inaudible prayer, during which the two officers preserved perfect silence. Occasionally he would close the Bible, and burying his face in his hands, seem pained in supplication and thought.

INCIDENTS.

During a great part of the day yesterday the prisoner occupied himself with setting aside the materials for his last friends, in whose charitable feelings towards him he had confidence, he might hope. He selected a number of his books, and wrote in them the names of several persons, towards whom he wished to express some recollection of past obligations and favors. He seemed to take much interest in this occupation. He ate a little fresh fruit during the day, and exhibited a little or no nervousness or physical agitation. He had conversed with him of late days felt little apprehension as to his committing suicide. He was evidently fully impressed with a sense that it was the crime, and not the gallows, that made the shame. Mr. Sohler, counsel for the prisoner, visited him during the day, and took leave of him. Quite a number of applications have been made to see the prisoner during the last two weeks. Clergymen from various parts of the country have sought an interview; and he has received numerous letters of an admonitory or consoling nature. The interviews he has, in most instances, declined. The letters he has read. Indeed, throughout his imprisonment, he has kept up his interest in outward affairs, although his thoughts have seemed to be mainly devoted to studies and meditations appropriate to his situation. The cell of Professor Webster was No. 5, in the east corner of the criminal department of the jail; the same cell in which Washington Goodie was confined.

THE SERVICES IN THE CELL.

At a quarter past nine the religious services commenced in the cell, in the presence of Sheriff Eveleth, the jail officers, the legal writers, summoned for one occasion, and the reporters of the press. The prisoner, who had been seated in a chair in the centre of the cell, Dr. Putnam standing in the door-way, and addressing the throne of grace.

THE SPECTATORS.

The gallows was surrounded by some 150 persons, including several sheriffs and deputies from abroad, and a large police force. But few members of the bar or of the medical profession were present. The windows of the surrounding houses, with the exception of the jailer's, which was empty and closed, were crowded by persons of both sexes and of all ages. The tops of the adjacent buildings, the sheds, out-houses, and every available point of view were occupied. The rear windows of the houses on Lowell street, the houses on Leverett Wall streets, all had their eager throngs of spectators. Probably they numbered about a thousand. There was some slight disturbance in the crowd at one time, and the reading of the death warrant was interrupted by shouts and the crowding of those sojourning to see the appalling spectacle.

THE SCENE OF ALL.

At 25 minutes past 9, Sheriff Eveleth, and his deputies, Messrs. Coburn, Freeman and Rugg, mounted the steps of the scaffold, in the jail block, followed by the prisoner, supported by Dr. Putnam, and by jailer Andrews, and Mr. Holmes, a turnkey. The prisoner took his stand upon the trap door or drop, and immediately under the rope which depended from the top of the gallows frame. He was dressed in a black frock coat, buttoned up in front, black pants and shoes, without any neck cloth, and only a pair of white stockings visible. He immediately entered into conversation with his spiritual adviser, which he continued as long as practicable, and with apparent calmness and composure.—Deputy Sheriff Coburn called the attention of witnesses, &c., to the reading of the Executive death warrant, which was next done in an audible manner by the Sheriff—who, with his officers and the assembly, generally remained with uncovered heads during the reading, with the exception of the prisoner. The prisoner was then seated, while Mr. Andrews proceeded to confine his elbows by a strap, which also passed around the body and tied the hands crosswise in front. Another strap was bound around the legs just above the knees. After the prisoner had again risen upon his feet, the rope was drawn down and adjusted around his neck by Deputy Sheriff Rugg. The knot was passed a little behind the right ear, and the rope being by accident drawn too closely, the culprit's countenance became flushed and his eyes filled with tears, when the noise was instantly slackened. The black cap was drawn over the head by Messrs. Rugg and Holmes, thus shutting out forever from the prisoner's mortal vision the beautiful sunlight and blue sky of this fair summer day. The flushed appearance of the prisoner's face continued a few minutes descending, and at the last moment, he turned his eyes sideways upon Dr. Putnam, who stood at the left, leaning upon the railing, and much affected.

EDMUND LAFAYETTE, A GRANDSON OF THE GENERAL, ARRIVED AT NEW YORK ON SUNDAY LAST.

Edmund Lafayette, a grandson of the general, arrived at New York on Sunday last.

DIED.

On Friday, 16th ult., in Brown township, Mrs. MARY STEWART, aged 78 years.

prisoner fell some seven feet and a half, and his mortal career was at an end. This took place at 25 minutes before ten o'clock. The body swayed slightly to and fro; and, in a few seconds after the fall, there was a spasmodic drawing-up of the legs, once or twice. Beyond this there was no observable struggle; nor was there any subsequent agitation or quivering of the body. After hanging about thirty minutes, the body was examined by Dr. Henry G. Clark, City Physician, and by Dr. Charles H. Stedman, of the Lunatic Hospital, South Boston; and they informed the Sheriff that life was extinct. The Sheriff then announced the fact to the assembly, and after thanking the witnesses for their prompt attendance, he dismissed them from further service. A pine coffin, painted black, was then placed beneath the body. The corpse was lowered, the rope removed from the neck, the lid of the coffin was taken down, and the body drawn thither by means of a pulley. It was then removed to the cell which Professor Webster recently occupied, according to the Professor's express desire. It will remain there till evening, and then be delivered to the friends of the unfortunate criminal.

WHILE LIVING, PROFESSOR WEBSTER ENJOINED THE SHERIFF NOT TO PERMIT ANY PERSON TO LOOK AT HIS REMAINS WHILE THEY WERE IN THE JAIL.

Understand that late in the evening the body will be taken to Cambridge, where arrangements will be made for the funeral, which will take place on Sunday next. The body will be deposited in the family vault, at Mount Auburn, one of the most beautiful cemeteries in the world. Everything connected with the funeral was arranged by Professor Webster himself.

PROFESSOR WEBSTER WAS IN THE FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR OF HIS AGE.

SCENES OUTSIDE THE JAIL.

Crowds began to collect in the streets and lanes adjacent to the jail, at an early hour, and by half-past ten they were thronged with people drawn thither by intense interest in the tragedy, and a curiosity to witness its enactment if possible. The strong body of police who were stationed about the jail, obliged all pedestrians on that side of the street to keep in motion. Hundreds of people stood upon Leverett street, opposite the jail, with the sun pouring upon them, gazing at the massy walls of the jail building, not being able to obtain the slightest glimpse of the execution.

The roofs of the houses on Leverett street and the windows were filled with spectators, one of whom we saw making use of a ship's spy-glass to view the scene. On Cotton street, and in the little lanes that run from the jail yard, was also a large and excited crowd; and such was the eagerness of individuals to witness the scene that they had no scruples in forcibly entering dwellings in the vicinity for that purpose. We saw two or three young men ascend to the roof of a three-story house by a spout, at the imminent hazard of life and limb, for this purpose. At another house, entrance was effected, by a number through the cellar door; and such was the greatest difficulty that the proprietor, aided by his friends, could prevent the mob from taking forcible possession.

FROM THE BOSTON TRANSCRIPT, 31st ult.

The countenance of Professor Webster in death was serene and even pleasant in its expression; exhibiting no discoloration or sign of distortion. The genial, beaming smile, with which he was wont to encounter a friend, seemed to have just passed over it, and left its trace. Soon after the body was cut down, Dr. Putnam repaired to Cambridge to communicate intelligence of the execution to the bereaved family. For some days, through the vague communication of a friend, they had been anticipating that each interview with the prisoner might be the last; although they left the cell and the jail on Thursday, not supposing that the execution would take place the next day. As they entered their carriage, however, they noticed a bustle about the jail, and the assembling of a crowd, from which they drew dreadful auguries of the imminence of the fatal event; and when the visit of Dr. Putnam was announced yesterday morning, they knew at once that all was over.

We drop the curtain over the scene of domestic anguish that ensued. It was not unrelieved by hopes, that the father and husband had deeply repented of his crime, and that the bitterness of death was alleviated by sincere religious preparation and prayer to the Most High.

Dr. Putnam having inquired of the prisoner yesterday morning, before the religious exercises in the cell, whether there were any points he would like to have touched upon in the prayer, Professor Webster replied, that there were two, which would be agreeable to his feelings to have introduced: one was, that the hearts of his fellow-men might be softened towards him, after he was gone; the other that every consolation from the heaven for the suffering he had inflicted might be vouchsafed to the family and relatives of the late Dr. Parkman.

HARRISBURG, SEPT. 4.—This morning an alarming accident happened at the warehouse of Mr. Witmer, at Salung, four miles below Mount Joy, on the Harrisburg and Lancaster Railroad.

Owing to sheer negligence, the switch at this point was turned the wrong way, and the locomotive engine, which was coming along with the passenger train, was thrown from the main track, ran over the terminus of the branch along the warehouse, and down an embankment. The engineers saved their lives, but sprained their legs considerably, by leaping off the engine. All of the passengers escaped miraculously. Had the engine been reversed as soon as it was, the loss of life would have been immense.

ANOTHER NEW COUNTERFEIT.—A $20 note on the West Branch Bank, Williamsport, Pa., has made its appearance recently. It is described as bearing a Suspension Bridge on the left end, and Neptune and the Sea Nymphs on the right. Engraved by Rawdon, Wright & Hatch.

THE RECENT STORM.—The late storm was unusually severe in Georgia, the Carolinas, and some parts of Virginia, causing an interruption of intercourse between various points, and causing great injury to the crops of cotton, corn and tobacco.

Throughout Georgia it was extremely disastrous, and many planters on the finest and richest lands, lose four-fifths of their crops. In the vicinity of Milledgeville, and also of Newbern, N. C., the crops were almost entirely destroyed. At the latter place, three vessels lying at anchor, the Medal Platt, the Clara Fisher, and the Boutwell, dragged their anchors, and were driven ashore, but were gotten off the next tide, without having sustained any very serious damage. The Roanoke valley was also inundated to a most alarming extent, and the crops of wheat, tobacco and corn entirely submerged.

NOVEL LEGISLATION.—The Legislature of Wisconsin has recently passed an act by which any owner or lessee of land who shall knowingly, permit the Canada thistle to go to seed on such land, is deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, to be punished by a fine not exceeding five nor less than one dollar, with costs.

MARRIED.

On Thursday, 5th inst., by Rev. S. P. Lilley, Col. PETER KERN, a distinguished soldier of the U. S. Army during the Mexican war, and Miss SARAH JANE, daughter of Abel Davis, Esq., of Granville township.

[For a bountiful slice of the wedding cake, the parties, aside from other considerations, have our best wishes for their success in life. We cannot help adding, however, that the Col., after having braved the dangers and privations of a soldier's life, during which he withstood the ravages of disease and the missiles of war, has now fallen, as all soldiers should fall, in arms—the ladies.]

BEE HIVE DRUG STORE.

DR. E. W. HALE, having purchased the Drug and Chemical establishment recently owned and conducted by Dr. J. B. MITCHELL, will continue the Drug business at the old stand well known as the Bee Hive store, a few doors east of Francis' Hardware store, on Market street, where may at all times be found an assortment of the best and purest DRUGS and MEDICINES in the market. In addition, he will always keep on hand a well selected assortment of French and English

Chemicals, Paints, Oils and Dye Stuffs, together with a lot of superior PERFUMERY and FANCY ARTICLES. Physicians and Druggists from the country will find an extensive and well selected stock of goods from which to make their selection, and may rely upon having their orders promptly and carefully attended to, and upon terms as favorable and liberal as can be had elsewhere. Physicians' prescriptions carefully compounded. [Lewistown, Aug. 30, 1850-4t]

LEWISTOWN MILLS.

THE subscriber has again got his Mill started, and wishes to buy a LARGE QUANTITY OF ALL KINDS OF GRAYS, for which he will pay the CASH, as high as the market will afford, according to quality. Any person having good Wheat will do well to call and show a sample before they sell, as he thinks he can afford to give MORE than any person in the place. Those not wishing to sell and wanting to store, he will accept their harvest to be kept to the 1st of December, and after that time he will give a receipt to be kept to the 1st of August, as he will wish to close all his accounts twice a year, and will not keep any over unless he makes a written contract to that effect. If the person holding the receipt does not sell before the above days, it will be carried out to their credit at market price at the above named time. In giving a receipt, if the wheat is not good, he will mention the reduction per bushel in the receipt, so that when the owner comes to sell there will be no difficulty. All wheat left in store he will reserve the privilege of buying, when the owner wishes to sell, at 13 cents less than Philadelphia price when the canal is open, and 16 cents less when it is closed, and if he should not buy at these prices, he will only charge one cent per bushel for storage. No interest will be allowed on money left with him for grain, as he will be prepared at all times to pay the cash. He will keep all kinds of FLOUR and FEED for sale, but the orders must be left in the office in the mill, and the cash paid, before the Flour or Feed will be delivered. This arrangement is made to prevent any disappointment, as there is no person that has any privilege of selling but the Book-keeper, who enters it on the book and puts the order on a wire for the porter to deliver. This will prevent any mistake from being made in the filling of orders. JOHN STERRETT. Lewistown, June 28, 1850-4t
