THE SAN FRANCISCO EXCITEMENT OVER HIM SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—Many persons who have been supporters of the anti-Chinese movement now express the sentiment that rather than suffer a continuance of the evil results of the protracted agitation it would be preferable to have it out once for all, and the sooner the better.

"Machine" Arguments in its Favor. Extracts from Conkling's speech in the New York Convention.

Next year we will need two things. I mean when we come to have counted the electoral votes we shall need two things: first, a decided, unmistakable result, and second, a man with the country behind him; a man in whom this whole country has so much confidence that his resolution of policy and consistency will uplift its vote to make down his election.

The objection to a third term is that the occupant of the presidency can wield his official power to renominate and elect himself. This man is a private citizen; he has no official patronage or power; he has been absent in distant lands, not able to exert his individual influence upon men. The official patronage let me say—and I speak in the hearing of men who know the man—let me say that the official patronage of the nation has not been used for him. (Laughter and applause.) No, Mr. President, friendship for the ex-president is not, and it is not for more than three years, a passport of official favor. It is not, and it is not, suppose that the danger of employing official influence applies in a case like this; there is nothing of it.

I believe he can poll a larger vote in the state of New York than another man whose name I can spell. I believe more Republicans are for him than for any other Republican, and I believe that more Democrats will vote for him than will vote for any other Democrat. I believe that if any name, if that of any man, can break into the solid phalanx of the South and carry either Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama or Florida—every one of which is a Republican state as much as is Massachusetts—it is the name of Ulysses S. Grant.

Armed Literature. Mr. Arthur Sullivan has accepted the conductorship of the Leeds musical festival to be held in October next.

Tourgenief, the celebrated novelist, has left Paris for St. Petersburg, practically refuting the rumors of his banishment. His object is said to be to repudiate sympathy with Nihilism. He is exasperated at the vile calumnies launched at him.

Von Werner's grand historical painting of the Berlin congress, which is to be permanently hung in the Berlin town hall, is now all but completed. The figures of the plenipotentiaries are portraits taken from life.

The March number of Harper's adopts the sensible plan of giving the authors' names with their contributions. Heretofore no one but editors, who received separate slips with the names of the authors, knew who wrote what was given. To be sure that made it an open secret, but how much better is the present plan. It is pleasant for the readers and fairer to the authors.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS. January Adjourned Term. Wednesday Afternoon.—Com'th vs. William A. Baughman, fornication and bastardy. The commonwealth in rebuttal called two witnesses, who testified that they would believe the prosecutrix on oath. Cyrus Simmons testified that he was home two or three times during the day that the masons came to work for him; he went to Quarryville for bricks that day.

After the commonwealth closed the defense called more witnesses in rebuttal. Patrick Swisher, a stone mason testified that he first met Cyrus Simmons on the day he went to work at his place, at Joseph McClure's in the morning; witness did not see Mr. Simmons at the house that day; Simmons went to Quarryville several days after that for brick. James Swisher, another mason corroborated this witness.

John Picket testified that he was not at Cyrus Simmons's house with William Baughman on this occasion that Mr. Simmons said he was; the time he passed Simmons's house he did not see Hannah.

The testimony here closed and the counsel began addressing the jury to whom the case was given shortly after 5 o'clock. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty with costs for costs.

In the cases of com'th vs. George Williams, George Miller and William Miller, charges with felonious assault and battery on John Shew, verdicts of not guilty were taken for want of evidence.

Wednesday Evening.—Com'th vs. Amos Bruce, forcible entry and detainer. The prosecuter in the case was William Hagan, of Providence township, who alleged that he rented a blacksmith shop from the defendant in April, 1879, for a year. In November last the defendant nailed the shop shut while the prosecuter was away, leaving all his tools, &c., inside; since that time he has been unable to obtain possession of the premises.

The defense was that when Bruce first rented the shop he told Hagan he could have it as long as he did what was right. Soon afterwards he made some repairs to the shop at the request of Hagan; he then told him that he would rent the shop by the month and charge him $2 per month rent, a part of which he would take out in work; he gave Hagan work to do but he only did a portion of it; he did not pay any money and in November the defendant told him he must leave on the 15th; the next day he nailed one of the doors shut leaving the others open in order to allow Hagan to remove his tools; he has never asked defendant for the tools since.

Thursday Morning.—In the case of Com'th vs. Amos Bruce, charged with forcible entry and detainer, the court charged the jury this morning. They said that there was no crime proven, but they would leave it to them (the jury) to dispose of the costs. The jury divided the costs equally between the prosecutor and defendant.

The city of Lancaster plead guilty to a charge of neglect of duty, in not keeping South Duke street at the place known as "The Dump" in good condition.

In the case of L. Newton McCord, charged with fornication and bastardy, a verdict of not guilty was taken for want of evidence.

Com'th vs. Oliver D. Markley, assault and battery. On the night of the 27th of November a social dance was given at Elias Sheetz's hotel, in Pennville, Penn township. The music for the dancers was furnished by Edward Mohr, a fiddler, who is the complainant in this case; Mohr alleged that the defendant came to the hotel and persisted in raising a fight with him; he did not care particularly to have his face tattooed on that evening, so he refused defendant's polite invitation; finally when they were in the barroom Markley struck him on the head and he tried to escape by going behind the bar; the defendant followed, striking him on the second time.

The defendant and his witnesses denied that he struck the defendant; he asked him (Mohr) to have a talk; he refused to do so and he told him he must talk or take a whipping; Mohr finally consented to have a talk and they went out together; defendant did not strike him or at him during the entire evening.

Complaint is made that the street lamps—both gas and gasoline—have been burning very dimly lately, some of them emitting a flickering light scarcely better than that afforded by a "penny dip." It is even rumored that the lamp-lighters have received instructions to turn down the light to half a head whenever there is the slightest indication of moonlight; but this is probably only a rumor, as the contractors receive pay for a full head of light, whether the moon be shining or not.

Another complaint is that the glass lanterns in many parts of the city are shamefully dirty, and obstruct what little light otherwise would shine from them.

Trouble at a Bank. This afternoon a well dressed woman named Kate Flinn, was arrested at the banking house of Reed, McGrann & Co., on account of her persistent annoyance of the officers of the bank. She is possessed of a hallucination that she has money in this and several other city banks, and that the bankers are trying to cheat her. Her disagreeable visits have been so frequent and annoying that the officers were at length compelled to put a stop to them by having her locked up. She resisted arrest with all her power. When taken into custody she had in her pocket a note for $200 on Reed & Henderson's banking house, and a certificate of deposit for $80 with Bair & Shenk.

The Billiard Tournament. The billiard tournament which has been in progress at Power's saloon for some time having been finally concluded, the prizes were distributed last evening, being awarded in a fitting speech by an eloquent speaker on the bar. Their exact value was $200. First, a snakewood golf bag came to Casper Berner; second, an ebony, gold headed cane, to Walter S. Franklin; third, an inland cue, to Thad. S. Dickey.

Census Supervisor. It is rumored on the street to-day that Hon. A. Herr Smith, our member of Congress, has presented to Mr. Hayes the name of ex-Mayor William D. Stauffer for census supervisor, vice Joseph Samson, which was reported adversely. Mr. Stauffer says, however, that he knows nothing about it.

Dry Goods Found. At the mayor's office is a package of dry goods, wrapped up in one of Watt, Shank & Company's wrappers. The package, which was found in Centre square, contains about three yards of brown mixed pantalon goods, part cotton. The owner can have it by calling at the mayor's office and proving property.

Battle of Foot-Blacks. This morning about 10 o'clock quite an excitement was created by a fight in front of the court house between two bootblacks—John Jones, colored, and Wm. Wiley, white. They pounded each other right valiantly until the terrible cry of "police" scared them into flight. They were arrested soon afterwards and locked up.

Mrs. Wollige's Condition. It is reported to-day that Mrs. Wollige, of Mount Joy, was shot and seriously wounded by her husband, is somewhat better, and hopes are entertained of her recovery.

Police Cases. The mayor this morning committed to the county jail for 10 days one disorderly person, and discharged three vagrants who lodged last night in the lock-up.

Mr. Gus Bunzl, who was charged by A. Reissmann with assault and battery, and entered bail with Alderman Carr, his appearance to answer at court.

Officer Brady and His Pistol. Concerning the charge that P. R. R. Officer Brady, of Columbia, had fired upon a man named Wm. Knox, at the Gap, who fled from him and for whom it was alleged he had no warrant, Mr. Brady informs us that he had a warrant for Knox, regularly issued by Squire Frank, of Columbia, upon due complaint, for disorderly conduct at the Gap station, not for cruelty to animals; we have seen the warrant and Mr. Brady assures us that the only reason Knox did not see it is that he took to his heels before Brady got near enough to read it to him.

Lecture by Dr. Warren To-night. The high school course, numbering 150 or more members, had a satisfactory rehearsal at noon yesterday, in Fulton hall, preparatory to the lecture by Rev. Dr. Warren this evening. The singing will begin at 7:45, and the lecture at about 8:00 o'clock. Mr. Wm. Long, of Philadelphia, who handled the calcium light at the lecture by Rev. Dr. Warren, has placed his apparatus in position in the hall. The audience will be large, and seats in the gallery among the most desirable in the city.

Amusements. Mary Anderson.—There is no doubt that Mary Anderson will have one of the largest audiences of the season to-morrow evening, as the chart now shows that nearly all of the seats down stairs have been sold. The play of "Evident" will be given, and the star will receive support from a strong company, which includes Miles Levick, Atkins Lawrence, who was last year a member of the Walnut Street theatre (Philadelphia) stock company, and John W. Norton.
