

sent the case, which was purchased from Aug. Rhoads, to Mr. DeHaven in a neat little speech on behalf of the donors, which was responded to by Mr. DeHaven. The employees were all taken to John C. Speth's dining rooms immediately after the presentation by Mr. DeHaven and were nicely entertained.

On Saturday evening "Bobby" Kuhns, foreman of Bitzer & Zook's tobacco warehouse, was presented with a silver watch and chain by the employees of the warehouse, at William Rehn's saloon on West King street. A pleasant time was had by all present.

THE LINNEAN.

The Linnean society met in the hall of the Young Men's Christian association on Saturday last, President Stahr in the chair. Dr. S. S. Rathvon moved that the routine of business be dispensed with in order to allow an opportunity to offer the following testimonial of respect to the memory of their late departed fellow member, which was adopted, and Dr. Rathvon spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT: Mine becomes the sorrowful duty to-day of announcing officially to the Linnean society the death of Jacob Stauffer, our distinguished fellow-member and honored secretary. He died at his late residence, on East Orange street, Lancaster city, on Monday evening, March 22, about 8 o'clock, in the seventy-second year of his age. Naturally possessing a reasonably good constitution, he had been for so many years afflicted with chronic bronchial inflammation and spasmodic coughing, that those nearest, dearest, and most intimately associated with him, must have noticed the inroads which these exhausting affections were making upon his physical health, and that they must have ultimately terminated in death. But now that through the permission of Divine Providence he has been removed from this earthly stage, his removal seems sudden; and, under the impulses of natural affection and filial piety, we cannot but lament his "taking off," however humbly we may endeavor to yield a Christian resignation to the will and wisdom of Him who has seen fit to call him to a higher sphere of being.

Mr. Stauffer was one of the original founders of the Linnean society in February, 1862, and of its incorporators in 1864. For eighteen consecutive years he faithfully served as its recording secretary, chairman of the committees on ichthyology and herpetology, and also as associate member of other committees, especially that of botany. In all the duties relating to these several functions he was an industrious, cheerful and efficient worker; often manifesting a disinterested and youthful zeal, and nothing seemed to limit his efforts save physical disability. In the specialties of ichthyology and ophiology his loss to this society is irreparable. Our departed friend enjoyed a literary and scientific reputation that was not confined to the limits of this association, extending, as it did, beyond the borders of our country and our state, and to the most distinguished circles of love may be found upon the pages of many of the publications of our country. We confine our estimate of his character to this occasion, however, mainly to his relations to the Linnean society and organization for which he always manifested the deepest interest, notwithstanding the many discouragements by which it has been surrounded; and during his long connection with it he was seldom absent from his post of duty. To him who bears this imperfect testimonial, who had known him so intimately, and so long, he seemed like "another self," and the uniform and practical kindness which he always exhibited, his fraternal sympathies, his purity of life, and the general integrity of his private character, were such as to elicit the warmest esteem.

He was always ready by pen or pen to advance the cause of literature and science, not forgetting his duties as a Christian and a father; and from this standpoint, looking over his career as a member of the Linnean society, its early scientific meetings, its field meetings, its spring and summer explorations, in which he was a conspicuous figure—we only regret that on this earth we shall see him no more.

Of course Mr. Stauffer was in like to those faculties which are common to the very best specimens of humanity, and none were more sensible of this than himself. His physical energies were never quite able to ultimate the aspirations of his will or to free him from the limitations of circumstance. Had he possessed less versatility of talent he probably might have been enabled to accomplish more in any specific direction, but like all votaries of science who are compelled to "eat their bread by the sweat of their face," he could not do so, and so the means which he found within his reach; moreover, differently endowed, he would not have been able to satisfy the great diversity of demands all-most constantly made upon his time and talents. He was a man who truly knew his own limitations, and literally "died in harness." Less than five hours before his spirit fled an article appeared in the columns of the Lancaster INTELLIGENCER on a new fish discovered in the Susquehanna river, in which there is reason to believe, was written on the Saturday preceding the day on which he died, in which no abatement of his usual mental vigor is apparent.

Perhaps it could not be truthfully said that Mr. Stauffer never had an enemy; indeed, there are those, whose opinions are written on the columns of the INTELLIGENCER, who claim that it may be admitted to man's credit to pass through an active life in this world without exciting the enmity of some one; especially since the highest moral and human exemplar ever vouchsafed to the spirit was not without his enemies, and those few, of the most bitter and malignant character. And this need not be at all surprising when we reflect that the "carnal mind" itself is always at enmity with everything that is good and true. According to his own apprehension of his characteristic traits, he inherited a sanguine temperament, and fully an average share of combativeness. But during his maturer years the impulses controlling these faculties were happily held in subordination to his moral and religious sentiments; hence, all who truly knew him and could appreciate his motives, it may be safely said, were numbered among his friends. He was just and generous, and would have suffered himself rather than to have imposed suffering on another, and if he erred in the exercise of these, that error leaned to the side of mercy. His church has borne its testimony in relation to his character as a Christian; the community has spoken in reference to his status as a fellow citizen, and his scientific labors have long been recognized and recorded. His philosophical deductions were always antagonistic to those speculations which, under the name of progress, leaned toward infidelity, or militated against the authenticity of Scripture and man's moral accountability. We pass no empty complimentary to his worth when we say it will be a long time before we shall look upon his like again; for there is not a place made vacant by his removal that will not almost irrevocably miss him. Believing these sentiments to be in entire accord with the sentiment of the society, they are submitted as a humble tribute to the memory of our faithful and honored fellow-member, and a manifestation of sympathy and condolence with his bereaved family, the community, and our association, in the great loss which we all have sustained.

Therefore, Resolved, That this tribute be filed in the archives of the society; that all further business to-day be suspended; that committee be continued, and that out of respect to the memory of our departed fellow member, we do now adjourn until the next stated meeting.

Unanimously adopted and ordered to be printed. Remarks were also made by Dr. J. H. Dubbs and Rev. Prof. Stahr.

BURGLARY AND ROBBERY.

An Old Couple Robbed of $117. Last night about midnight a burglar broke into the residence of Christian Smith, at West Willow, and stole therefrom $117 in cash. Mr. Smith, who is about 80 years of age, sleeps upstairs, and his wife, a most old, sleeps down stairs, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Isaac Smith, who lives near by, is in the habit of sleeping with the old lady. Last night Mrs. Isaac Smith was awakened by the noise made by the burglar, but thinking it was old Mr. Smith, she went up to his room to see what he wanted. Then she discovered that the noise came from a down stairs room adjoining the one she had just left. She notified the old gentleman of her suspicions that thieves were in the house, but he was too feeble to attempt to interfere with them. Mrs. Isaac Smith then blew the dinner-horn, and Jacob Kreider, a neighbor, soon came to their assistance. But the thief had escaped, and an investigation of the premises showed that he had taken all the money; Mr. Smith received the money on Saturday and it is believed the thief is someone who was aware of the fact.

A Fearful Fall.

About 10 o'clock this morning Rev. Jerome Lindemuth, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, made a very narrow escape from death. Repairs are being made at the church, and the carpenters have torn away the banisters protecting the stairway leading from the vestibule of the basement to the vestibule of the church proper. Mr. Lindemuth was standing in the upper vestibule, and forgetting for a moment that the railing had been removed, he stepped backward and plunged headlong to the floor below, striking heavily upon the lower step of the stairway, between the wall and the newel post. In his descent his clothing caught in some of the spikes which held the railing before it was removed and tore his coat into shreds. To this circumstance, perhaps, Rev. Lindemuth owes his comparative safety from injury; for it would appear to be almost impossible for as heavy a man as he is to suffer so fearful a fall and escape without having any bones broken. He is badly bruised, however, and complains of pain in his arm and side.

Sale of Stocks.

Samuel Hess & Son sold at the Cooper house this afternoon: Ten shares of Lancaster County national bank stock, to Jacob Bachman at $96 per share. Nine shares of same to John S. Landis at $95.95 per share. Ten shares of Farmers' national bank stock, to George Schlott at $95 per share. Nineteen shares of same to H. H. Thsdy at $95 per share. Ten shares of Strasburg national bank stock to E. E. Musselman at $127.75 per share. Eighteen shares of same to Jacob M. Frantz, at $127.50 per share. Two $1,000 Lancaster city loan bonds to Jacob Bauman at $102.95 per $100. Ten shares of Bridgeport turnpike stock to — at $15 per share. Two shares of Big Spring and Beaver Valley turnpike stock, to Tobias Landis, at $8.05 per share. Two shares of New Holland and Waynesburg railroad stock to Anthony E. Roberts, at $4 per share.

Democratic County Committee Meeting. The meeting of the Democratic county committee this morning was one of the most largely attended that has ever been held and the best of good feeling prevailed throughout its proceedings. After some discussion it was resolved almost unanimously to hold the district and county conventions in this city on Wednesday, April 14, at 10 a. m., to elect delegates to the state convention and nominate a county ticket, except the candidate for Assembly in the city district, who is to be chosen under the rules of the city Democracy.

Almost Suffocated. On Friday night the family of Dr. M. K. Bowers, of Springville, made a narrow escape from suffocation by coal gas. The key in the pipe of the parlor heater had been turned so that the gas could not escape by the chimney, and it was thus forced back into the parlor, and ascended to the sleeping apartments above, almost asphyxiating the family before it was discovered. Dr. A. M. Hiestand was called and under his treatment the family are now pretty well recovered.

Thievery. Last night the residence of Jno. Snyder, esq., residing at the east end of Mount Joy, was entered by some person or persons, and a number of articles, consisting of a coat, pair of shoes, papers, etc., stolen therefrom. A number of plated spoons were not bene considerably, but evidently did not prove acceptable, as none of them were taken. The entrance was effected by hoisting a kitchen window.

Case Dismissed. The complaint of malicious mischief made against A. Reissman, tobacco packer, by James Collins, who charged Mr. Reissman with wadding Mr. Collins's tobacco so as to hurt the sale of it, was heard before Alderman Spurrier this afternoon, and dismissed, there being not a particle of evidence against Mr. Reissman.

Going West. C. Frank Hartmyer, of this city, has accepted an appointment as traveling agent of the well known house of Aschenbach & Miller, wholesale druggists and dealers in bakers' and confectioner's supplies, Philadelphia. Mr. Hartmyer will leave for the West in a few days, and his tour will take in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and perhaps Missouri and Kansas.

Reinstated. We understand that Dr. Levergood, chairman of the visiting committee of the northwest division of the school district, is issuing permits restoring to their seats the pupils recently suspended for misconduct, they having complied with the conditions required by the board.

A DISAPPOINTMENT.

No Balloon Ascension To-day. A great crowd of men and boys gathered in Centre square this afternoon in expectation of seeing the ascension of Prof. Lippott's big paper balloon, but the weather was so windy that the ascension could not be made.

Mayor's Court.

This morning the mayor discharged three bums and two drunks. Two more drunks, one of whom was a woman named Kate Wilson, who was making a great deal of noise on East King street when arrested by Officer Fulmer, were sent to jail for 30 days each, and another got 15 days in the same institution.

Struck by an Engine.

John Markley, a boy, was struck by a freight train at Woodbine station, below Downingtown, on the Pennsylvania railroad, this morning. He was badly cut about the head and had his left side hurt. At his own request he was taken to a hospital in Philadelphia.

Committed.

This morning Alderman McConomy committed Lewis Powell to prison for 30 days for drunken and disorderly conduct.

Postal Appointments.

John H. Bair has been appointed postmaster at Camargo, this county, and L. Thomas Jenkins at Oak Hill.

"The New York Store."

Watt, Shand & Co., having removed from No. 22 to No. 10 East King street, have now one of the largest and finest business houses in the city. Their store is 110 feet in depth by 26 feet in width, with lofty ceilings, from end to end, and a double row of counters extending from the front to the rear of the store, plate-glass show cases and hundreds of yards of shelving are literally piled with dry goods of almost every imaginable variety, from the coarsest silks and satins down to the most useful and durable domestic goods from the finest broad-cloths to the toughest homespun. Their largely increased space enables them to show to much greater advantage their immense and well-assorted stock of dress goods and domestics, and with much greater convenience to the customers as well as the salesman. Of hosiery, gents' furnishing goods, ribbons, laces, and fancy articles, their seems no end, while the stock of shirtings, sheetings, tickings, quilts, blankets, etc., is immense. The success which has attended the "New York Store" as managed by Messrs. Watt, Shand & Co., is a striking example of what can be done by energetic, fair dealing business men, awake to the wants of the public and with willingness to liberally advertise their wares.

New Marble Yard.

Charles Mackinson has opened a new marble yard at No. 38 Conestoga street, with much greater convenience to the customers as well as the salesman. Of hosiery, gents' furnishing goods, ribbons, laces, and fancy articles, their seems no end, while the stock of shirtings, sheetings, tickings, quilts, blankets, etc., is immense. The success which has attended the "New York Store" as managed by Messrs. Watt, Shand & Co., is a striking example of what can be done by energetic, fair dealing business men, awake to the wants of the public and with willingness to liberally advertise their wares.

Amusements.

The Minstrels To-morrow Night.—To-morrow evening the original New Orleans Minstrels will appear in this city, and as there have been no minstrels here since "away last fall" there should be a big house. Welby and Pearl, song and dance men, who were last seen here with Harry Robinson are members of this troupe. The instruments used by the band are made of bullion gold and are said to have cost $11,000. Baird's Minstrels.—On Friday, another minstrel party, under the management of W. Baird, which are also called New Orleans Minstrels, will be here. This troupe has eight song and dance men, and the same number of cloggers, vocalists and end men.

The Humaniati.—Mr. Geo. K. Goodwin, manager of the Walnut Street theatre, Philadelphia, writes to Rev. A. R. Horne, at Allentown, that the new play of "The Humaniati," with Mr. C. H. Kautz, as the hero, and Joseph Babson, nightly crowded that theatre to its utmost capacity and added to Mr. Bangs's reputation and popularity. New and brilliant costumes, scenic and spectacular effects, and a new and especially for the production of this play, which is a dramatization of the elder Dumas's historical novel of "Joseph Balsamo." It will be produced in this city on Wednesday evening, at the Walnut Street theatre.

Geo. G. Eppel, Esq., Palestine, Ill.—"I was in bed suffering from a swollen leg, and could not stand on my feet, when the St. Jacob's Ointment was used. It cured me, and I attended to my business again."

"Don't Worry Me with your complaints about your teeth," said an annoyed father to his "sweet sixteen." "I told you to buy the SOZODONT and use it, but you didn't, and your sweet sixteeners were all set, and you sent sweet sixteeners who act like her."

ESTATE OF MAGDALENA ZIEGLER. Deceased. The undersigned auditor, appointed by the Orphans' Court of Lancaster county, Pa., to distribute the balance remaining in the hands of Jacob L. Brubaker, and also of Mathias Ziegler, and among those legally entitled to the same, will attend for the purpose of settling the estate of the late Mathias Ziegler, in the Library Room of the court house, in the city of Lancaster, on the 29th day of March, 1880, at 10 o'clock, A. M. All persons interested in said distribution may appear in person, or by their attorneys, at the time and place above specified.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—For the Middle Atlantic states, clear or partly cloudy weather, preceded near the coast by light snow, northerly winds, stationary or higher temperature, rising barometer.

JUMPED THEIR BAIL. THE RIOT BRIBERS NON EST.

Keable, Petroff, et al., Fall to Appear in Court.—The issue for their Arrest. HARRISBURG, March 29.—The court convened at 2 o'clock, Judges Pearson and Henderson present. Kemble, Salter, Petroff, Crawford and Rumberger failed to put in an appearance, and their bail was forfeited. They were issued at once for their arrest. This will detain them wherever found within the United States, providing bail sees fit to so ordain it. The court house was densely crowded.

CONGRESS. Proceedings in the Senate. WASHINGTON, March 29.—Mr. Kernan's bill, providing for an international exhibition in New York in 1883, was discussed, after which the appropriations committee reported with amendments the deficiency appropriation bill. Placed on the calendar.

Proceedings in the House. In the House a bill re-affirming and applying the Monroe doctrine was introduced and appropriately reported. It recites the change of temperature which would ensue from a change in the course of the gulf stream consequent upon the cutting of the Panama canal, and deprecates such a course.

The "Immediate Deficiency" BILL. The Senate committee on appropriations to-day completed their consideration of the "immediate deficiency bill" and authorized Mr. Eaton to report it to the Senate with the amendments agreed upon on Saturday and an additional amendment appropriating $15,000 for the coast survey. This is the bill which contains the deficiency appropriations of $607,600 for United States marshals and their deputies, and $300,000 for the government printing office.

The Senate committee on railroads transacted no business to-day except to agree to hold a special meeting next Thursday, when Gov. Brown, of Tennessee, vice president of the Texas Pacific railroad, will be heard in advocacy of the bill to extend the time for its completion.

That Star Route Deficiency. The House committee on appropriations at their meeting to-day discussed at length the star route deficiency bill and instructed Representative Blackburn to report it back to the House with non-concurrence in the Senate amendments.

Condensed Telegrams. The Chevalier O'Clery sought re-election to represent county Wexford. Parnell named two others. The Chevalier's party, 10,000 strong, took possession of the platform, attacked the Parnell party and beat them.

In answer to an appeal to the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, to contribute to the Parliamentary election of Mr. Herbert Gladstone, she says she does "not feel disposed to join this movement because the country needs above all things a standing government, and since the dissolution of Parliament in 1874, by Mr. Gladstone, the Liberals have been too disorganized to offer such a government to the country."

Messrs. Weeks & Potter, Gentlemen.—I feel it my duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested in the treatment of the Blood, Skin and Scalp. They are, however, astonished at their universal success; for it was to be expected that the hands of some few would fall solely from spasmodic or ignominious causes.

They are unable to say without fear of contradiction that no remedies ever achieved in the treatment of the Blood, Skin and Scalp, were so successful as those performed by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.
