To make my quiet bliss complete. "I come," he wrote (his letter lies Before me in the sunshine fair), " I come with heart content to see The joy which God hath given to thee. My comrade true and tried :

I fain would see it with mine eyes, I fain would hear thyself declare How deep thine happiness, how wide, "I come because I long to see

The bonny English flowers a-bloom, Because a spirit of unrest Doth vex my lately-quiet breast With whispers in my sleep Of daisied meadow, breezy lea, Of April sunshine and perfume, Of heath-clad mountains grey and steep.

"I come because the rolling years Have stilled the passion of my youth, Because the rugged path of time Hath led me up to heights sublime, And I, who could not see Thy first great bliss for blinding tears, I say to-day in honest truth God's way was best for theeand me.

"I come to take thine hand, my friend, To look upon thy sweet wife's face, To see thy children fond and fair; To breathe again the blessed air That fanned me at my birth; Until (beside thee to the end)

I go from forth my dwelling-place

To find a grave on English earth. "I come, my friend." Ah me! sweet wife, What marvel that the tears run down? What marvel that these tender words Smite mournfully on true heart-chords, Since he, whose thoughts they bear,

He, who had loved us all his life, Who for love's sake laid down love's crow Hath parted from us otherwhere? He thought to see our happy home. Our wedded bliss, our children dear, He thought to see thee by my side, Who dared not look upon my bride,

Who lov'd thee in his prime: But o'er his grave, with crests of foun The wild Atlantic billows rear Their heads, and makes a mournful chim He will not see this home of ours,

This little Eden all our own, He will not bring within our door An added blessing to love's store Of cheerful sacrifice; And to the height of heavenly flowers Our precious blossoms will have grown Before they meet his kindly eyes.

He will not see, my sweetest wife, Thy radiant beauty past its morn, Nor tender traces of the tears, The sighs and smiles, the hopes and fears, Of wife's and mother's care. It through the mists of failing life, He saw thy tace, it must have worn The look that I remember there.

The April look of long ago, When all were young and thou wast free, And on the hawthorn-boarded way Beneath a sapphire sky; Ah, wife! then dawned love's summer glow. My beating heart sprang out to thee,

He was the worthler of the twain, His pulses beat as strong as mine, He looked on thee with lover eyes, And never sought to win the prize, But standing calm apart, Smiled brotherly upon my gain,

But my true friend went stlent by.

And pressed into my cup of wine The crush'd, ripe first-fruits of his heart, Ah, my lost friend! that tender debt Which we had purposed to repay, The debt which came with sweet love's birth Can never be repaid on earth. But thou hast surely found

A happy end to life's regret ; God's angel met thee by the way, And thou, indeed, wast homeward bound !

STOMACH BITTERS

Is exceedingly happy to announce to his numerous friends that his wife and self have safely returned from nearly a seven weeks' tour through a portion of ninestates, riding and sailing nearly 3,000 miles. Dr. Greene is now ready to help all sick persons to regain their health. His attendant says in one week of his absence 107 patients called to see him at his offices. The following appeared in the Columbia Courant of June 17, 1880: FROM THE BRINK OF THE GRAVE.

As nearly everybody in Columbia knows Harry Long has not for two years past been expected to live from one week to the other, nearly all of which time he has been in bed or propped up in an arm chair. During this time he has taken medicine enough to kill a dozen people—pounds of pills and powders and barrels of liquids, Mr. Wm. Paxson, and others who had been looking after the wants of Mr. Long, preliquids, Mr. Wm. Paxson, and others who had been looking after the wants of Mr. Long, prevailed upon him to try Dr. C. A. Greene, of Lancaster, and I am pleased to say the effect of Dr. Greene's treatment is magical. The sick man is now almost like one raised from the grave. He is now out visiting friends, and a few days ago was in Lancaster city to offer congratulations to Dr. Greene in person. Well! well!! Wonders never cease.

THY LOCHER'S RENOWNED COUGH

MEDICAL, Brandy as a Medicine.

The following article was voluntarily sent to Mr. H. Slaymaker, Agent for Reigart's Old Wine Store, by a prominent practising physi-cian of this county, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in his regular practice. It is commended to the attention of those af-flicted with Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE. This now much abused Alcoholic Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine of great potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victims. With a purely philanthropic motive we present to the favorable notice of invalids—especially those afflicted with that miscrable disease Dyspepsia, a specific remedy, which is nothing more or less than Brandy.

The aged, with feeble appetite and more or less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly, A Sovereign Remedy or all their ills and aches. Be it, however strictly understood that we prescribe and use but one article, and that is REIGART'S OLD BRANDY, Sold by our enterprising young friend, H E SLAYMAKER. This Brandy has stood the test for years, and has never failed, as far as our experience extends, and we therefore give it the preference over all other Brandies, no matter with how many jaw-breaking French titles they are branded. One-fourth of the money that is yearly thrown away on various impotent dyspepsia specifics would suffice to buy all the Brandy to cure any such ease or cases. In proof of the curative powers of Reigart's Old Brandy, In cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon numbers of witnesses—one case in particular we bers of witnesses—one case in particular we cite:—

A hard-working tarmer had been afflicted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour eructations constantly—uo appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Root Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as now, preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed carnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try Reigart's Old Brandy, In his case, he looked up with astonishment, but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stomach capable of digesting anything which helehose to eat. He still keeps it and uses a little occasionally; and since he has this medicine he has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the doctor.—A Practising Physician.
