A Pilgrim From the Latter Region Takes a Jaunt Through Lancaster County
—What He Thinks of It.

TILLING THE SOIL.

Meeting of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society.—The Late Fair—Reasons for its Failure—Crop Reports &c.

A Jaunt in Lancaster County by Our Alabama Correspondent.

For the INTELLIGENCER.

Not believing it a violation of the Sabbath to look at a beautiful country in the bright sunshine of an October day, the writer hired one of Reese's best teams and went on a voyage of discovery. We drove leisurely, and if it was a sin let it be charged to "Jake," as he would probably have hired his horse to some one who would have been less kind and would have driven harder.

We drove by the watch factory, looked at the academy of the Sacred Heart, peeped at the cotton factories and tobacco warehouses, took in Franklin and Marshall college. By the way, we had an amusing chat with a party of college lads, bright, well informed, progressive youngsters.
They talked well, and were no little surprised that a barbarian from down South could quote Homer and point an epigram by a witicism from jolly old Horace. All the F. & M. boys we saw were for Hancock and English.

We went by Willow Street and saw a Garfield flag, one hotel keeper and three other men looking lonesome under it.

Then through cultivated farms, along by handsome residences, through a beautiful country to Quarryville. Peace seemed to spread its Sunday gladness over all. To a stranger from the far-off South, where mile after mile of silent pine forest without a single habitation, succeeds each other, this continuance of farm, cottage and homestead was wonderful. We could not help lifting our hat and thanking God for the greatness, the peacefulness and the unity of the American people, for "of all the nations of the earth, we are of one blood." Away with sectionalism, and let each of these glorious states "go onward like a star without ceasing and without rest, ever fulfilling its God-given best," for the liberty, prosperity and happiness of the Union one and indivisible forever!

From Quarryville, with a fast team, and pleasant company, we rolled along the valley road, through continuous well-cultivated fields on either hand. We stopped and looked at the pretty residences and farms of the Montgomery brothers.
They reminded us of what we had read of Old England's gentlemen farmers; they made us feel like leaving our team, running out among the cows and calves, and in the gladness of boyhood playing with all we could find of froesome.

We stopped at a funeral—sad place for a holiday taker—but it gave us a chance to look at the people. What a handsome people! How well dressed, how well behaved, how gentlemanly in their department! It is no flattery to say the Lancaster yeomanry, as a class, are superior to the West, and are far above the mixed population of the solid South!

We looked at the iron beds and thought them poor. It looks like an inferior quality of red hematite. Through the mountains of Alabama are thousands of acres of better ore than this. It is lying untouched, surrounded with excellent coal, and can be bought for less per acre than common Lancaster farm land sells for.

We didn't talk politics—how the hundreds we saw will vote the 2d of November alone will tell. We presume the majority are Republicans, as this is one of their counties, but without regard to politics, race or condition, a stranger thanks them all for their courtesy.

A curious incident happened. A gentleman asked, "Do you know Jack R—?" He is my brother-in-law." Now it is funny that a Southerner coming here is supposed to know every man in the broad South, and a Northerner going South is supposed to know the whole populous North. But to the story. The reply was:
"I know one Jack R. Slightly. He lived in Holly Springs, Miss. Is a one-armed ex-Confederate, and now lives in Bremond, Texas. It is not probable he is your brother-in-law." Strange to say, he was the very man. Wounded in battle, the rebel was nursed in a hospital by a Lancaster county girl. They fell in love; and when the war was over the one-armed rebel came to Lancaster county, and carried his bonnie bride to the Lone Star state. There they live happily, raising up true Union children, to rise up and call them blessed in their old age.

Thus it is we are day by day being linked together by the bands of love. Thus it is, in spite of party stress, this country grows in love and faith and abounding charity!

It would be easy to write more, but it will not do to trespass on your space further, so good-night.

The Agriculturists.

Interesting Topics for Farmer and Gardener.

The November meeting of the Lancaster county agricultural and horticultural society was held in their room in city hall yesterday afternoon.

The following named members were present.

Joseph F. Witmer, president, Paradise; M. D. Kendig, secretary, Creswell, Manor township; Calvin Cooper, Bird-in-Hand; Johnson Miller, Warwick; James Wood, Little Britain; Dr. Wm. Compton, city; Dr. C. A. Greene, city; Daniel Smeych, city; John H. Landis, Manor; Frank Griest, city; Frank R. Diffenderfer, city; J. M. Johnston, city; C. A. Gast, city; Amos Groff, Conestoga Centre; C. L. Hun-sicker, Eph. Hoover, Israel L. Landis.

Hon. P. J. Roebuck, of Litz, was proposed and elected a member of the society.

Johnson Miller, from the committee appointed to attend the Berks county fair reported very favorably of that exhibition, commending the poultry, stock, agricultural implements, fruits and other exhibits. The thanks of the society were tendered the committee for their attendance and report.

President Joseph F. Witmer, from the board of managers, reported the receipts and expenditures of the late fair. The report showed that the total receipts amounted to only $189.95, while the expenditures, including premiums to exhibitors, amounted to $371.68, leaving a net loss of $181.73.

Calvin Cooper regretted that the fair had turned out so badly, but hoped that all debts incurred, including premiums, would be promptly paid. He stated that the society was entitled to county appropriations for two years past which, with the money in the treasury, would go far towards paying all the society's debts.

He moved that the treasurer be instructed to make a temporary loan sufficient to pay all bills due.

The motion was agreed to.

Dr. C. A. Greene discussed at some length the causes of the failure of the late fair. According due praise to the management for their good intentions and unselfish labors, he thought their action had not been well directed. With our great natural resources and manufacturing and mechanical enterprise, he could see no reason why Lancaster county should not annually have a fair unsurpassed by any other in the state. He referred to the great success which had attended recent Berks county fairs, and believed that with proper management Lancaster county could do as well or better. He would be willing to pay the society $500 over and above all the expenses of the fair, permitted to have the management of the next annual fair.

Mr. Diffenderfer moved that Dr.
Greene's offer be accepted, but after a running debate participated in by Johnson Miller, Calvin Cooper, Dr. Greene, Eph.
Hoover, President Witmer and others, Mr. Diffenderfer withdrew his motion and the matter dropped.

Crop Reports.

Crop reports being called for, Johnson Miller reported the early-sown wheat in his neighborhood in good condition, and while that sown later looked rather thin owing to the dry weather. There has been no improvement in the clover crop since last report. The seed sown in the spring was nearly all killed by the drought, and at this season after having not much better; the apple crop in his section was small, many of the apples having fallen off before ripening. Corn husking has commenced and the crop is turning out to be a very fine one.

Calvin Cooper reported the wheat to be rather delicate looking, some of that which was sown late not being yet out of the ground; the corn crop is the best grown for several years; winter apples scarce, the bulk of the crop having dropped off before ripening.

Johnson Miller wished to add to his report that much of the tobacco since it was hung up showed signs of having been damaged by insects. In answer to a question as to whether the damage was done to the leaf before or after it was hung up, Mr. Miller could not say with certainty; but the damage was not noticed until after it was on the poles.

Other gentlemen who had given the matter some attention expressed the belief that the tobacco was flea-bitten before it was cut off, but the small punctures in the leaf were not noticed until it was hung up, and began to dry out.

Mr. Kendig reported the rainfall for the last month 1 1/4 inches.

Certificates of Merit.

On motion of Mr. Cooper, F. R. Difenderfer and Dr. C. A. Greene were appointed a committee to select a design and have printed certificates of merit to be presented to those to whom such certificates had been awarded by the late fair.

On motion the corrected questions proposed last month for the meeting of the present meeting were postponed until next meeting, and the question, "Ought farmers to encourage picnics?" was dropped.

Dr. P. J. Roebuck presented to the society thirty-one volumes of the zoological surveys of Pennsylvania, and Dr. C. A.
Greene presented a volume of the patent office reports for 1881, containing a valuable article on insects by Dr. S. S. Rathvon and an article on the culture of the Pyrethrum Wilkesii, a plant out of which the most of the powder for killing insects is made. The thanks of the society were tendered Drs. Roebuck and Greene for their valuable donations.

On motion the society adjourned to meet on the second Monday of November instead of the first Monday, because of the excitement that will naturally attend the presidential election on Tuesday, the 2d of November.

Adjourned.

Columbia News.

[The following Columbia correspondence received yesterday was unavoidably postponed publication until to-day.]

A meeting of the teachers' institute was held on Saturday in the high school room at Fifth and Locust streets. The meeting was opened by reading from the Bible, when Mr. Ames addressed the institute upon the importance of attending the meetings regularly, remarking that he would rather have teachers absent from their rooms two days during the week than absent from the institute one day. These meetings give to him a most effective opportunity to make criticisms. In relation to school government he spoke upon the absolute necessity of securing attention; of the necessity of beginning where the pupil's knowledge ends; of the necessity of teaching pupils to be self-reliant, and upon the importance of suppressing the indiscriminate answering of questions. He spoke of the neglect of training the voice and of the in-attention to articulation. Miss Sauerber spoke of the necessity in teaching reading of having pupils read the thought rather than the words and also upon the evil of too much or trifling criticism. Miss Preston spoke upon the importance of teaching emphasis to pupils and requiring them to give reasons for such emphasis, believing that if they were privileged to bring periodicals or story books to read from this desideratum would be reached. Miss Baker then gave a very interesting lesson on "coal." She required her pupils to tell the reasons for such emphasis, believing
