

ROBERT J. EVANS' CASE.

THE RULE TO SHOW CAUSE WHY HE SHOULD NOT BE DISBARRED.

Argued on Wednesday afternoon in the presence of a large number of the members of the Bar—Decision will be rendered in August next.

All of Wednesday afternoon was occupied by counsel in the argument on the rule to show cause why Robert J. Evans should not be disbarred for conduct unbecoming his profession.

The argument of Evans' counsel was based on the answer filed by Evans, on the rule to disbar him.

That all these transactions were had with Henry Spedel as an individual, and without any knowledge whatsoever on his part that the money was for the estate of Lorenz Spedel.

That two suits are pending in the court of quarter sessions of Lancaster county, the one charging the crime of embezzlement, and the other of obtaining money by false pretenses.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

That the money was not given to Lorenz Spedel, but that it was given to Henry Spedel, and that the latter is now in possession of the same.

PATTI'S LONDON RECEPTION.

A Detailed Report of the Commemorative Exercises Held in Union Memorial Chapel.

What the Fair Exquisite said in Their Addresses—Excellent Music.

This morning at nine o'clock the beautiful little Dixon Memorial chapel of the Linden Hall seminary was filled to overflowing with a cheerful throng.

The exercises opened with the singing by the whole school of "A Welcome to My School," in well-learned chorus.

Then prayer was offered by Rev. Reineke, and Miss Dunlap followed with the salutatory.

She spoke of the many castles, in the old and new world, which were built by the hands of men.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

ELEVEN YOUNG LADIES GRADUATE AT FAIRBANKS OLD LINDEN HALL SEMINARY, LITVIA.

A Detailed Report of the Commemorative Exercises Held in Union Memorial Chapel.

What the Fair Exquisite said in Their Addresses—Excellent Music.

This morning at nine o'clock the beautiful little Dixon Memorial chapel of the Linden Hall seminary was filled to overflowing with a cheerful throng.

The exercises opened with the singing by the whole school of "A Welcome to My School," in well-learned chorus.

Then prayer was offered by Rev. Reineke, and Miss Dunlap followed with the salutatory.

She spoke of the many castles, in the old and new world, which were built by the hands of men.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

Then Miss Lehman began a forcible treatise on "The Beauty of Mathematics," in which she pointed out the beauties of the subject.

A WORKMAN'S AWFUL FATE.

HIS CLOTHING TRAPPED IN FLAMES FROM BURNING OIL.

The Terrible Accident to G. McDonald While Putting a Waterproof Preparation on a New York Hatting-Can of Hoosier Explodes With Fatal Results.

NEW YORK, June 24.—While G. McDonald and two others were engaged in putting a waterproof preparation on the side of the building, No. 11 Wall street, this morning, a can of benzine tipped over and came in contact with a lighted blow pipe, causing an explosion that scattered the oil in all directions.

McDonald, who was nearest the can at the time, was in a minute a mass of flames.

He seized the ropes which held the stage and began to climb to the roof, just as he reached it, he fell back, striking the telegraph wires in his descent and landing on the roof of the stock exchange, his clothes still a mass of flame.

C. Latten, a carpenter, who is employed by the exchange, caught McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

A WORKMAN'S AWFUL FATE.

HIS CLOTHING TRAPPED IN FLAMES FROM BURNING OIL.

The Terrible Accident to G. McDonald While Putting a Waterproof Preparation on a New York Hatting-Can of Hoosier Explodes With Fatal Results.

NEW YORK, June 24.—While G. McDonald and two others were engaged in putting a waterproof preparation on the side of the building, No. 11 Wall street, this morning, a can of benzine tipped over and came in contact with a lighted blow pipe, causing an explosion that scattered the oil in all directions.

McDonald, who was nearest the can at the time, was in a minute a mass of flames.

He seized the ropes which held the stage and began to climb to the roof, just as he reached it, he fell back, striking the telegraph wires in his descent and landing on the roof of the stock exchange, his clothes still a mass of flame.

C. Latten, a carpenter, who is employed by the exchange, caught McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

McDonald just as he was rolling from the street to the roof.

THE YORKE TRAGEDY.

The Victim Once a Resident of Rohersstown and His Relatives in This City.

John and the colored man who was killed in York Wednesday, Police Officer Powell, was born and raised in Rohersstown.

He was a son of Lewis Hood, a minister, who is now stationed in Mercurburg, Franklin county.

While in the past few years John had been in York and in this county at different times.

In 1881 he was employed as a coal hauler at the Rohersstown rolling mill.

On the night of March 7th, 1881, a serious row occurred at Amos Kaufmann's hotel in Rohersstown, in which John was engaged.

He was working at the rolling mill, took a prominent part. The other parties in the row were Thomas Smith and August Kirovne.

The latter two were carrying on a fight, and Smith in addition had one of his ears bitten off.

He alleged that Hood did not get out of the fight, and was returned to jail by Kirovne and his associates.

The case against Hood was called for trial on April 2d, and Smith testified that he was a witness to the fight.

When he fell to the floor Hood bit his ear off. The defense was that Smith and Kirovne had been fighting.

Hood denied having bitten off Smith's ear and claimed that his head being pushed in the fight against the sharp corner of the bar.

It was also claimed that Hood was carrying a knife, and that he had used it.

The jury rendered a verdict of guilty on the complaint brought by Smith, and divided the costs between the parties.

In the assault and battery case brought by Kirovne the jury found Hood guilty and imposed the costs on the prosecutor.

Shortly after this difficulty Hood left the town and returned to York, since which time he has resided there.

He has relatives and friends living in York, and it is thought that he will be able to keep order.

The jury rendered a verdict of guilty on the complaint brought by Smith, and divided the costs between the parties.

In the assault and battery case brought by Kirovne the jury found Hood guilty and imposed the costs on the prosecutor.

Shortly after this difficulty Hood left the town and returned to York, since which time he has resided there.

He has relatives and friends living in York, and it is thought that he will be able to keep order.

The jury rendered a verdict of guilty on the complaint brought by Smith, and divided the costs between the parties.

In the assault and battery case brought by Kirovne the jury found Hood guilty and imposed the costs on the prosecutor.

RANDALL ANSWERS REED.

THE LATTER REFERS TO TWO WINGS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

When the Philadelphia Statesman Declares That They Will Fly Together After a While—The Sundry Civil Bill Dropped and Now Under Consideration.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—[House.] Immediately after the reading of the journal this morning, Mr. Long, of Massachusetts, rose to correct some statements made by Representative Henley, in connection with the Union Pacific railroad company, which referred to Mr. Charles Francis Adams.

Mr. Long showed that in his speech Mr. Henley quoted Mr. Adams, and in that way attributed to him certain assertions which he had never uttered.

Mr. Henley admitted that his utterances were partially based upon what purported to be a correct copy of Mr. Adams' remarks in an arrangement of the Union Pacific company a good many years ago.

He agreed to the correction, but maintained that everything he alleged could be proved. The charges referred to irregularities in issuing bonds, &c., on account of the Union Pacific railroad.

After considerable talk the matter was dropped, and the regular order was called for.

Mr. Reed asked whether the sundry civil appropriation was to be taken up.

Mr. Reed replied: "Of course it is." Mr. Reed: "Perhaps the other wing of the Democratic party is going to object."

Mr. Randall: "The gentleman will find that the two wings of the Democratic party will together after a while." [Applause on Democratic side.]

The sundry civil bill was taken up and the Republicans laughed and applauded over the success of their tactics.

The clause making appropriation for printing United States notes was then considered.

The pending amendment was that of Mr. Weaver, that no money appropriated shall be used for printing notes of large denominations in lieu of notes of small denominations canceled or retired.

The amendment was agreed to 99 to 78. A substitute for the paragraph offered by Mr. Cannon, placing additional employees of the printing bureau under the civil service rules was ruled out on a point of order.

SILVER CERTIFICATES OF SMALL DENOMINATION. Without a division the committee of the whole incorporated an amendment in the sundry civil bill requiring the secretary of the treasury to issue certificates of the denomination of one dollar, and to pay out silver dollars now in the treasury in payment of appropriations made in the bill, and other expenditures and obligations of the government increasing salaries. The bill as amended was passed.

The bill repealing the law providing, limit of culture and preservation laws was then taken up and Mr. George took the floor.

The Senate Proceeding. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—When the Senate met to-day Messrs Sewell, Logan and others prominently identified with the advocacy and opposition to the Fitzhugh order of Alabama were taken up. It was expected that that bill would be considered. After the transaction of morning routine business on motion of Mr. Pugh, a bill providing for the appointment and compensation of a U. S. district judge for the Southern district of Alabama was taken up. Mr. Logan moved to amend by fixing the salary of all district judges at $5,000 a year. Mr. Kenna and Mr. George opposed the amendment.

The River and Harbor Bill Increased. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—The Senate committee on commerce has completed the river and harbor appropriation bill. Items in the House bill have been increased to the aggregate of $3,481,275, and others have been decreased to the aggregate of $615,500. Net increase $2,865,775. The Senate bill appropriates $1,910,775.

Commemorating the Custer Massacre. FORT CUSTER, Mont., June 24.—The ceremonies attending the 10th anniversary of the Little Big Horn massacre began here yesterday with a recitation by Gen. Godfrey, one of the survivors of the ill-fated Custer expedition. He described the events of the fatal day as far as known. Chief Gail and visitors from Forts Keogh and Yates arrived yesterday. A camp will be made on the battle-field, and will be visited on horseback. Gail and the Indians who were present at the massacre will show exactly how Gen. Custer and his brave troops met their fate.

No Change at the Lake Shore Yards. CHICAGO, June 24.—There is no change in the situation in the Lake Shore yards this morning. No work is being done or as yet attempted. At 4th street a crowd of strikers are congregated, and the signal of Lake park to amend by fixing the salary of all district judges at $5,000 a year. Mr. Kenna and Mr. George opposed the amendment.

A Protestant Bishop in Jerusalem. BETHLEHEM, June 24.—After a five years' deadlock between Prussia and England regarding the appointment of a Protestant bishop in Jerusalem the Prussian government has decided to dissolve the compact of 1811 by the terms of which Prussia and England were to alternate in the appointment of a bishop, and found a separate bishopric. Doctor Reitter, who for many years has labored as a missionary in Jerusalem, will probably be appointed to fill the new position.

A Special Horse Race. BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 24.—A special race was this morning arranged to take place on the Sheepshead Bay track on Tuesday next, between Miss Woodford, Barnum and Troubadour. The terms of the race will be sweepstakes of $500 each, with $3,000 added by the Coney Island Jockey club, over weights, distance one mile and a half. It is expected that the event will bring together the largest crowd ever seen on the track.

Killed Her Eighty-Year-Old Husband. LANCASTER, Wis., June 24.—On Tuesday evening Mrs. Sarah Tyrrell, of Mount Hood, killed her octogenarian husband, David Tyrrell, using a piece of scissoring as a weapon. The murder is the climax of domestic troubles which have existed for nearly all of their married life of 10 years. After the murder Mrs. Tyrrell fled to a neighbor's and on giving information of the deed, was taken into custody.

THE MONAHAN DOCTRINE OF OFFICE.

A View of the Public Service That Ought to Have Recognition.

From the Philadelphia Times. Robert E. Monaghan, a well-known Democrat of Chester county, has written an interesting letter to Chairman Hensel, of the Democratic state committee, declining to allow the use of his name as a candidate for governor. Mr. Monaghan sees certain responsibilities ahead in case of his election to the office, for which he is prominently named, and thinks he does not possess the fitness. His theory of public office is that which a high-spirited professional man holds concerning his profession. It is that a man should not be in the public service if he is better fitted for it than for anything else. Applied to public trusts, this theory not only requires that the public service be held by the best men for the office than for any other office, but that the office should be better fitted for him than for any other man; that no other man should be able to discharge its duties so well as he. This is Mr. Monaghan's doctrine of office-holding.

AN ESSAY ON "THE BEAUTIFUL."

Miss Webster treated of "The Beautiful" in a manner, and so well, that she has the love of the beautiful is natural in us by decking his person with barbaric ornaments, and God has made all nature so beautiful that the more refined and cultivated men become the more they appreciate the beauties of nature.

THE STUDY OF HISTORY.

Miss Henner, the class historian, spoke of history as the most popular of all their studies, and of the pleasure they had found in tracing the lives of great men and women through all their struggles and triumphs.

THE VOICES OF THE FUTURE.

Miss Baer forecast the future for her classmates. The abilities, the tastes and the aspirations that each has shown are in a sense forecasts of the future, and give evidence that will be spent in no selfish pursuit of happiness, but of duty.

THE VOICES OF THE FUTURE.

Miss Baer forecast the future for her classmates. The abilities, the tastes and the aspirations that each has shown are in a sense forecasts of the future, and give evidence that will be spent in no selfish pursuit of happiness, but of duty.

THE HOAX BARON'S DEATH.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Duke de Charles occupies the Comte de Paris to England and after a short stay will return to France. The other princes now at Chateau d'Eu return to Paris to-night.

THE HOAX BARON'S DEATH.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Duke de Charles occupies the Comte de Paris to England and after a short stay will return to France. The other princes now at Chateau d'Eu return to Paris to-night.

THE HOAX BARON'S DEATH.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Duke de Charles occupies the Comte de Paris to England and after a short stay will return to France. The other princes now at Chateau d'Eu return to Paris to-night.

THE HOAX BARON'S DEATH.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Duke de Charles occupies the Comte de Paris to England and after a short stay will return to France. The other princes now at Chateau d'Eu return to Paris to-night.

THE HOAX BARON'S DEATH.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Duke de Charles occupies the Comte de Paris to England and after a short stay will return to France. The other princes now at Chateau d'Eu return to Paris to-night.

THE HOAX BARON'S DEATH.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Duke de Charles occupies the Comte de Paris to England and after a short stay will return to France. The other princes now at Chateau d'Eu return to Paris to-night.