

BY L. WALLS BOON.

Terms: One year in advance... Official Paper of the County...

The Harper's Ferry Emancipation...

Gen. Brown bore himself, as will be seen by what follows, with cool, unobtrusive heroism...

How unfortunate his condition, or misguided his project of invasion, his heroic and calm endurance...

At half past ten o'clock in the forenoon of Tuesday, the 29th inst. John Brown and the other prisoners were conducted from the Jail to the Court House...

Was there ever a greater exhibition of cowardly fear than this?

Sheriff Campbell read the commitment of the prisoners charged with treason and murder.

Mr. Harding, State Attorney, asked that the Court might assign Counsel for the prisoners if they had none.

The Court assigned the prisoners had Counsel, when Brown addressed the Court as follows:

Mr. Brown—I did not say for any quarter at the time I was taken. I did not seek to have my life spared.

I have a severe injury in my back, or rather in one kidney, which enables me very much; but I am not in a very good state of health.

single slave has yet been implicated. Can you be stationed in front of the Court House, and an armed guard is patrolling around the jail.

Capt. Brown has consented to let Messrs. Faulkner and Bots act as Counsel. They are assuring him that they will defend him faithfully and give the advantage of every privilege that the law will allow.

Stevens declares he does not desire to be defended by Northern counsel—preferring Southern, and that the Court should name them.

There is decided sympathy for Stevens, not only on account of his suffering, but that he has shown none of that vindictiveness and haughtiness which he has manifested in the past.

The Court named Messrs. Faulkner and Bots as counsel for the prisoners.

The true bill was read against each prisoner—first, for conspiring with negroes to produce an insurrection; second, for treason to the United States; and third, for murder.

The prisoners were brought into Court accompanied by a body of armed men, and passed along through the street and entered the Court House.

advised against him, and that all proper shall be provided. Having received the report of the jury, the Court adjourned until Monday morning.

At 9 o'clock on Monday morning the consideration of the case was resumed.

Mr. Grindol, of Cleveland, opened for the defense, and was followed, on the same side, by Mr. Hunter, of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Hunter closed the argument for the prosecution.

That Brown is guilty, under the laws of Virginia, of an attempt to run off slaves, his own admissions, and the testimony showing nothing more.

That he was guilty of treason, or an attempt to excite a servile insurrection, or of murder, cannot be true, according to the testimony.

But he is a victim doomed. Prejudice, passion and vindictive wrath decide his case. The devilish spirit of slavery has no bowels of compassion.

See this sheet reaches all our County readers, John Brown, a Virginia gallant, has expiated the crime of loving freedom as ardently and of hating slavery too freely.

The cowards who fear to let him live in prison—who judicially murder him, will be executed when the day of passion and prejudice shall have passed, and reason, truth and justice resume their sway.

Then the history of John Brown will be written, and the gallows will attach no disgrace to his memory.

Speaker of the House. We notice that several of the Republican journals are speaking favorably of Hon. Richard C. Parsons, of Cayuga County, N. Y.

Richard C. Parsons, of Cayuga County, N. Y., is a gentleman of quick perception, intelligent and able, has legislative experience, and would, in our opinion, make an efficient and admirable presiding officer.

Correspondence of John Brown. A large number of letters are reported to have been found in Gen. John Brown's carpet bag, some of which are being published.
