

The bondholders and dogs are both exempt from the Equality.

Gold was selling in New York on Monday at $115. And yet Hayes is elected Governor, and the "rag-baby" is dead.

WOMEN MORMONIZING at Franklin, Idaho, have been indicted for polygamy.

The new Constitution of Alabama has been ratified by a large majority.

GRANT is closely closeted writing up the Radical platform for the next Presidential election.

THOUSANDS of voters of Indianapolis have signed a call for a green-back mass meeting.

A WAGON of the United States Express Company was robbed Friday in Chicago of goods valued at $800.

The mail stage between Corpus Christi and Brownsville, Texas, was captured and carried off Thursday night.

MONEY and SUNKY have closed their business in Philadelphia, and moved their traps to the city of Brotherly-love.

THREE is to be no more Bible reading in the pulpits of Chicago, the Board of Education by a vote of eleven to two having so determined.

HARRISON'S official majority in Pennsylvania is 11,903. Outside of Philadelphia Judge Perling has a majority of about 7,000.

A London telegram announces a terrible disaster on the railway between Stockholm and Alingsas, by which sixteen cars were completely smashed, and sixty passengers killed or severely injured.

In a quarrel about a hog a few days ago at Franklin, Va., Dacia Pantress shot and killed Poley Jayer. As both are white it will not be likely to set down as among the horrible Ku-Klux outrages by the Radical politicians.

The present debt of the City of Philadelphia is $69,390,463. In 1854 it was $18,000,000. The City has been for years under the control of a corrupt Radical ring. That's what's the matter.

The monument erected to the memory of the poet Edgar Allan Poe, in Westminster Church-yard, Baltimore, was unveiled and dedicated with appropriate ceremonies on the afternoon of the 17th.

In the case of the United States against O. H. Burbridge, charged with selling Government cotton and making no return, on trial at Louisville, the jury on Friday brought in a verdict for plaintiff of $36,654. The case has been in Court since 1868.

Attempts for taking photographs at night has been discovered in Europe. Bisulphide of carbon is burned with peroxide of nitrogen in a lamp constructed for the purpose; the light produced in this way will act on photographic paper in the same manner as sunlight, and with the same artistic effect.

The Boston Globe believes that the great body of intelligent and influential Catholic and Protestant citizens would be alike satisfied, if our system of public institutions were indeed wholly secular, and religious teachings were left to the appropriate instrumentalities.

On Friday W. R. Davis, Ex-Mayor of Carleton, Ill., a prominent citizen of that town, literally blew his head off with a shot-gun, during the funeral ceremonies of Paul Wright who shot himself in St. Louis three days ago, and whose remains were taken to Carleton, his former home, for burial.

The United States is defendant in the Court of Claims at Washington in suits amounting to over $47,000,000, of which about $16,000,000 is sued for on account of cotton confiscated or destroyed by the Union armies during the war. How Boss Shepherd and other friends as well as brothers-in-law of the government must mourn to see such chances for "addition, subtraction and silence" out of their control.

Why is it?—The bullionists assert that the "rag-baby" is dead and buried beyond the power of resurrection. Still the hard times continue and failures are the order of the day. Why is this? It cannot be ascribed to the triumph of the inflationists, for the contraction resumptionists claim to have everything their own way, and purpose to go steadily forward in their work of resumption. The "good times" they have so long promising are in the far off future.

M. M. POMEROY, better known as "Brick," has gone into bankruptcy. His liabilities are stated at $140,000, with no assets but his clothing, which is exempt. When he went to New York, a few years ago, he was reputed to be worth half a million dollars. And now comes the said Brick Pomeroiy, and pronounces the above story a base fabrication, and says he will prosecute the paper that started the story for libel.

THE WHISKY fraud trials still continue at St. Louis. On Monday General John McDonald, late Supervisor of Internal Revenue was convicted of defrauding the revenue. The jury found him guilty on all of the eight counts of the indictment and he was sent to jail in default of $50,000 bail. The extent of the whisky frauds that have been perpetrated upon the Government is astonishing.

A London dispatch says: It is believed thirteen vessels foundered in the Downs during the storm last night and forty or fifty lives were lost. From five hundred to six hundred vessels of all sorts are now anchored in the Downs waiting for fair weather. The coast between Yarmouth and Lowestoft is strewn with wrecks. Three vessels are ashore on Goodwin Sands.

The Third-Term Business.

Those who indulged the hope that the ghost of Caesarism had been effectually laid are likely to be most egregiously disappointed. Already a number of leading Radical papers and politicians are engaged in bringing prominently to the front the question of Grant's nomination for the third term. A little over a week ago Forney's Sunday Chronicle which was, once in the habit of indulging in a free criticism of the Administration, came out flat-footed in favor of the third-term. This is what it says on the subject:

Here we are again in precisely a condition similar to that in which the Republican party was placed eight and four years ago. It needs to be saved. It can only win a great victory on the personal merits of its candidate for President, not in a contest with Grant and Sherman, because his Roman Catholic identity are against him. It could not nominate Sheridan, because foreign birth excludes him. It cannot elect a civilian who would carry Pennsylvania, Ohio or New York. Chas. Francis Adams is the only civilian who has anything like a clear record in a personal and historical sense, to help in case he were nominated; but he could arouse no enthusiasm, and would be as dead a weight in carrying a great victory as the Roman Catholic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania. There is no escape from this view of the question of electing a President in 1876. The Republican Party, no longer affrighted with the absurd cry of Caesarism, are now looking to Grant as confidently as they look to Fremont and Fremont as they look to Grant.

The Democratic Party, no longer affrighted with the absurd cry of Caesarism, are now looking to Grant as confidently as they look to Fremont and Fremont as they look to Grant.

Such is our view of the aspects of the Presidential election as the nomination of candidates by the Republican party. So far as the President is concerned we have no interest beyond that of adhering faithfully to the truth of history and bearing testimony to the faithfulness with which he has discharged all the duties his countrymen have devolved upon him. For the rest we are quite willing to let the future take care of itself.

The Pittsburgh Gazette, the oldest and most influential Republican organ of Western Pennsylvania, is willing to fall in with the third-term project. In a recent article upon the subject it says:

"President Grant has great popular strength before the country, and it is not to be wondered at that any man to seek to promote his own advantage by fighting the President. We have been speaking plainly and frankly upon the subject, and must still say that, were either Secretary Bristow or Postmaster-General Jewell to make acceptable candidates, our belief is that either President Grant or Secretary Jewell will receive the nomination."

Thus the question is coming to the front, and it will not be long before those Radicals who have been led in their denunciations of the project will discover "circumstances" which will render Grant's renomination a "necessity." Wait a little longer.

The Radical leaders and papers are just now informing the people how villainously they are robbed through the instrumentality of paper money. They seem to forget that their party is the author of our present currency system and that the paternity of every rotten, robbing bank system ever foisted upon the people belongs to the opponents of the Democracy. They have now not the most distant idea of returning to a specie currency. It is only a scheme of the plunderers to give the entire management of the finances of the country into the hands of the National Banks, to commit the affairs of the nation to their kind care and keeping. Their talk about "honest money" is mere nonsense.

A decision and an opinion of the Supreme Court, important to National banks has been given to the public. It determines the penalty incurred by banks for charging or receiving a rate of interest exceeding that allowed by State law. The decision is that only the extra interest is forfeited.

PENNSYLVANIA was saved to the Republicans in the late election by Philadelphia, Pershing having a majority over Hartman outside that city. But the Republican ticket which carried that city was declared by a majority of the Union League of Philadelphia to be the offspring of "that diabolical band of men, nominally of both parties, but without true allegiance to either, which now rules and oppresses the city and is disgracing and destroying the Republican organization." And of such are Republican victories.

The Internal Revenue Report of Commissioner Pratt, just made, contains an interesting little passage which shows how faithfully the affairs of the people are attended to under this Administration:

"As an indication of the extent of frauds committed, let me be permitted to report that documentary evidence is in possession of this office which has warranted the seizure of twenty-four distilleries and thirty-seven rectifying houses, and implicated over fifty United States Gaugers and Storekeepers. This evidence also shows the issue between July 1, 1874, and May 1, 1875, of fraudulent invoices by the duplication of 20,000 proof gallons, containing, probably, 1,200,000 proof gallons, and by aid of false gauging to the additional amount of 1,600,000 proof gallons. This, of course, is but a portion of the fraud actually committed, but in itself indicates a loss of revenue to the Government in that city to an amount not less than $1,650,000. More than fifty establishments have been seized, and more than fifty agents of the United States have been engaged in helping them to swindle the Government out of nearly two millions a year. And the frauds discovered are unimportant compared with those undetected. If Congress next winter will investigate, it will discover that the Whisky Ring, which stops scarce a yoke of the White House, has swindled the Government out of more than one hundred million dollars. Let Congress investigate.—Eng.

Death of Vice President Wilson

On Monday last dispatches from Washington announced the sad news of the death of Henry Wilson, Vice President of the United States, which occurred at 7:15 o'clock that morning at the room in the Capitol which had been occupied by him since his first attack, about three weeks ago. His death was quite unexpected, as, on Saturday the dispatches announced that he was gradually recovering, and it was said he would be able to leave for the North this week. He rested well the night previous to his death, awoke at seven in the morning and expressed himself as feeling bright and better. He sat up in bed to take his medicine, lay down on his left side, and expired in a few moments without a struggle. A post mortem examination was made, and apoplexy was pronounced the cause of his death.

Henry Wilson was born at Farmington, N. H., Feb. 16, 1812, and was therefore sixty-three years and nine months old when he died. His parents were poor, and at the age of ten years he was apprenticed to a farmer with whom he remained until he was twenty-one years old. During this time he received but about twelve months schooling, but having a taste for books he made good use of his leisure hours, as it is said he read over 1,000 volumes, mostly historical and biographical which he borrowed in the neighborhood. At the close of his apprenticeship he went to Natick, Mass., where he served two years in learning the shoemaker's trade, and having acquired a little money he returned to New Hampshire and for a while was engaged at an auctioneer at Stafford, Wolfborough and Concord, and returned to Natick and resumed his trade in 1833. His first active participation in politics was in the contest of 1840, when he was an earnest supporter of General Harrison. He afterwards served several terms in the Massachusetts Legislature. In 1848 he was a delegate to the Whig National Convention which nominated General Taylor from which he withdrew and joined the Free Soil movement. In 1853 he was nominated as the Massachusetts candidate for Governor of Massachusetts and defeated. In 1855 he was elected United States Senator in place of Edward Everett, and was re-elected to the position in 1859, 1865 and 1871. In 1872 he was elected Vice President on the Republican ticket with General Grant. He had written several works on the subject of slavery and for several years has been engaged on his great work entitled "The History of the Anti-Slavery Struggle in the United States," which he leaves unfinished.

Death of a U. S. Senator

Orrin S. Ferry, Senator in Congress from Connecticut, died at his residence in New York, last Sunday afternoon, from a disease called softening of the spinal marrow, from which he had suffered for several years. He was born in Bethel, Conn., August 15, 1823; graduated at Yale College in 1844; had held several state offices; served with distinction as Colonel and Brigadier General in the late war, and was elected United States Senator in 1860 and re-elected in 1873, leaving four years of his time unexpired.

The report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue contains matter of a great deal of interest to a large class of readers. For them it will not be too cumbersome for perusal, and we shall not therefore make an elaborate synopsis of it. The receipts for the year ending June 30 were $110,445,192.93. This shows a considerable increase over the revenue of last year, which only amounted to $102,644,749.80. The result is due to the increased rates of duties levied by the act of March 3, 1875. The receipts of the current fiscal year are estimated at $122,000,000. Of this amount $9,144,004.41 was from the tax on fermented liquors and $37,303,461 from the tobacco tax. The rest of the internal revenue is mainly derived from the sale of spirits, liquors, and other articles.

The Greenbacks Depreciated by a Republican Congress.

The greenback of the war contained a promise and a contract as follows: "This note is a legal tender for all debts public and private, except duties on imports and interest on the public debt, and is exchangeable for United States six per cent. treasury notes, redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after five years." This contract and promise held the greenback equal to the bond, land, interest convertible with it. In 1864 this convertibility was destroyed else the greenback to-day would be equal to the interest bonds which are six per cent better than gold. On this point Chief Justice Chase delivered an opinion from which we quote:

"The best support for note circulation is not limitation, but repeatability, especially for loans bearing no interest. It is plain that the government supports a note circulation more than the loans; in other words, below the general credit of the country. It will rise or fall with it. At the present moment, the notes were received for five per cent. bond, they would be at par. In other words SPECIE PAYMENTS WOULD BE RESUMED."

Some banks of New York, Philadelphia and Wilmington have issued circulars, asking signatures to a petition to Congress for a repeal of the law requiring stamps on checks.

At Trenton, N. J., on the night of the 20th inst., a kerosene oil lamp exploded in a shoemaker's shop, kept by Conrad Zeller, injuring six persons, one of whom will probably die.

A BAPTIST preacher, well known in Southern and Western Ohio, was arrested in Urbana, Friday night, charged with assaulting and making improper proposals to a lady of the city. He will have a preliminary trial to-day.

The Mississippi Democrats talk like

Their opponents and patriotism over their heads. Nothing could be better than the language used by the Mississippi Democrats in their attack upon the Union League. They have granted us, they say, all the people of this State, of every age, sex, color and race, and every political creed shall have cause to rejoice that we have won this victory. We are now responsible that Mississippi pursues the path of peace and prosperity. She has again emerged from darkness; so let the glorious light of her redemption shed its effulgence over all the whites and blacks, that all may live in harmony, and be blessed with contentment and peace. Then shall we have indeed won a victory whose glory can never fade."

A Suggestion as to Government Lands

Commissioner Burdet, of the General Land Office, will, in his forthcoming report, strongly recommend that all the lands owned by the Government be appraised and thrown open to purchase at not less than their appraised value. He is of opinion that such a course would be a most judicious and profitable one for the Government. He also suggests that the land of its timber under private guardianship be sold to the Government, and that the proceeds be used for the benefit of the poor.

One of Them

Among the stumppers imported into this State to advocate "honest money" during the late canvass, was Col. Wm. M. Grosvenor, of Missouri. It has recently been reported that he had received $1,000 of the "honest money" of the "ring" that has recently been robbing the Government by means of "crooked whiskey." This Grosvenor denies and asserts that he only "borrowed $500 from Joyce, which he expects to pay with interest." This little excuse he copies from the pious patriot, Garfield, and his associates in the great Credit Mobiler swindle. J. P. McCullough, of Louisville, Ky., Globe-Democrat, in a card in that paper, tells what he knows of this champion of "honest money." The following are the closing paragraphs:

"William M. Grosvenor is not a competent witness against any man, or in any cause. He is destitute of every qualification for a witness, and is not respectable. He has disgraced every public cause with which he has ever been connected, and he has polluted the name of his country, to the knowledge of the family to which he belongs. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than cowardice. He has disgraced his journal, and his practices ranging all the way from discredit to feloniousness. He has disgraced politics with shame and ignominy. He is a man who should be known to the family to which he belongs, and to the public. He has disgraced the army of the United States with cowardice, and a depravity which was worse than coward