

BEAD!
3 and 6 Cents

Same size Loaves that have been sold heretofore at 5 and 10 cts. ea.

Brown's Bakery

Cleveland & Pittsburgh Div.
Pennsylvania Lines

Schedule of Passenger Trains-Central Time. Table with columns for Northward, Southward, and various stations like Pittsburgh, Erie, and Buffalo.

Between Bayard and New Philadelphia. Table with columns for Bayard, New Philadelphia, and various stations.

ERIE LINES. TIME TABLE. Adopted Nov. 25, 1894.

ERIE LINES. TIME TABLE. CENTRAL STANDARD TIME. IN EFFECT JAN. 6, 1895.

ERIE LINES. TIME TABLE. CENTRAL STANDARD TIME. IN EFFECT JAN. 6, 1895.

ERIE LINES. TIME TABLE. CENTRAL STANDARD TIME. IN EFFECT JAN. 6, 1895.

ERIE LINES. TIME TABLE. CENTRAL STANDARD TIME. IN EFFECT JAN. 6, 1895.

ERIE LINES. TIME TABLE. CENTRAL STANDARD TIME. IN EFFECT JAN. 6, 1895.

THE DAILY COURIER. RAVENNA, O., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1895. VOL. 27, No. 31. WHOLE No. 1383.

CLEARANCE SALE AT CUT PRICES. Having sold a large portion of my business and am to give possession April 1, to reduce stock prior to that time, I will make VERY LOW PRICES on anything in our large and varied stock.

Buggies in great variety. We have something new and very neat to show you.

Road and Spring Wagons. ROAD AND SPEEDING CARTS. Also a full line of Agricultural Implements including South Bend, Oliver, Imperial and other plows, harrows of different kinds, cultivators, land rollers, &c. Standard and Domestic Sewing Machines in different styles. A line of BICYCLES. Also a large stock of our own make of Single and Double Harness Light and heavy. Having made contracts for a large amount of FERTILIZER, it also must be closed out. This is manufactured by Swift & Co. and guaranteed strictly pure animal matter. Come in and examine. We will make it an object to anticipate your wants and buy now.

A Reasonable Credit Given with Good Security. T. F. THOMPSON. Ravenna, O., March 9, 1895.

THE LEADING DRUG STORE. IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, FINE TOILET SOAPS, BRUSHES COMBS, ETC. FANCY ARTICLES; PERFUMERY IN GREAT VARIETY OF ODDS; MIXED PAINTS AND PAINTERS' BRUSHES.

W. T. MCCONNEY. PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS CAREFULLY COMPOUNDED. RUPTURE. Of men, women and children permanently cured without pain or the slightest inconvenience by the FIDELITY METHOD. Every case guaranteed. Patients need not pay a dollar until completely cured. The truss discarded forever. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years. Consultation free.

THOS. J. KISNER, M. D. Will visit Etta House every Friday forenoon. Brompt. Com. early. Office, Suite 15, Ervin's Block, near Postoffice, Canton, O.

GRAND DISPLAY. IT WILL PAY YOU TO VISIT OUR STORE AND SEE THE LARGEST LINE OF FURNITURE, CROCKERY.

Lamps, Glassware, NOVELTIES and FANCY PIECES! PLATED WARE & C. To be found in one house in the State. Our Prices are Below Competition! Our New Upholstered Rockers are Dandies, FROM $2.50 UP. In CROCKERY Finest Line ever shown AND LOWEST PRICES. Our Bargains in Lamps you should not let pass. Our UNDERTAKING DEPARTMENT IS IN CHARGE OF A. B. FAIRCHILD. Which is a Guarantee that it will be well done. W. A. JENKINS & CO. No. 6, Phenix Block.

Boots and Shoes for the People.

Our Spring Offerings Comprise An immense assortment of thoroughly new goods. Having come in close touch with the needs of the trade during the past season than ever before, we believe we have a new line for spring that will appeal strongly to every buyer of FINE FOOTWEAR. OUR STOCK includes several of the best manufacturers, all held at prices which enable us to lead the trade. No trouble to show goods. COME AND SEE US! Expert Foot Fitters.

Smith and Brigham. The Old Place. Only a tiny hollow, a moss-grown stone and a wandering wandering brier where the footstone used to be. A wide and lonely field, where the hawkived the sun and the wind that blows from the sea. Once upon a slender steepie flattered that here stood the preacher, his lifted eye above the singing seats where my darling used to sit. Your eyes, O happy people that heard her, heard angels!

HIS ABNORMAL AMBITION. Just after the memorable three days of July, 18-- the floating population of Paris was modestly increased by the arrival in that city of a young man, a handsome, not ugly, fat nor lean--the type, in fact, that one daily elbows on the boulevards and never looks at twice. I need not add, of course, that such was not his own opinion; on the contrary, he was deeply impressed with the consciousness of his own charms, and equally determined to profit by them for the attainment of the object of his ambition--notoriety.

Everything is in my favor, I said to "good looks, money, and a determination to succeed. All I want is a short cut to celebrity, a duel will give me that." The next evening while he was treating himself to a bavaroise at Tortoni's, a short, muscular individual, dressed in the latest mode, with a bristling mustache and a self-satisfied air, took his seat at an adjoining table.

WITNESSES OF THE CARETAKER. Caretakers of houses, which are in the market, either to be sold or to be let, regard, as a universal privilege, the compensation they get: is the privilege of living in the premises rent free. Consequently, the sale or lease of the house would result in their being turned out of doors. The result is that the intending purchaser will have the bad points of the premises pointed out in place of being concealed, and everything calculated to be made conspicuous. This is done adroitly when the caretaker is a diplomatist, and the auctioneer, who is usually a blunt fellow, is made with reluctance.

WITNESSES OF THE CARETAKER. Caretakers of houses, which are in the market, either to be sold or to be let, regard, as a universal privilege, the compensation they get: is the privilege of living in the premises rent free. Consequently, the sale or lease of the house would result in their being turned out of doors. The result is that the intending purchaser will have the bad points of the premises pointed out in place of being concealed, and everything calculated to be made conspicuous. This is done adroitly when the caretaker is a diplomatist, and the auctioneer, who is usually a blunt fellow, is made with reluctance.

WITNESSES OF THE CARETAKER. Caretakers of houses, which are in the market, either to be sold or to be let, regard, as a universal privilege, the compensation they get: is the privilege of living in the premises rent free. Consequently, the sale or lease of the house would result in their being turned out of doors. The result is that the intending purchaser will have the bad points of the premises pointed out in place of being concealed, and everything calculated to be made conspicuous. This is done adroitly when the caretaker is a diplomatist, and the auctioneer, who is usually a blunt fellow, is made with reluctance.

WITNESSES OF THE CARETAKER. Caretakers of houses, which are in the market, either to be sold or to be let, regard, as a universal privilege, the compensation they get: is the privilege of living in the premises rent free. Consequently, the sale or lease of the house would result in their being turned out of doors. The result is that the intending purchaser will have the bad points of the premises pointed out in place of being concealed, and everything calculated to be made conspicuous. This is done adroitly when the caretaker is a diplomatist, and the auctioneer, who is usually a blunt fellow, is made with reluctance.

CLIFF DWELLERS' VILLAGE. Recent arrivals from the Bradshaw mountains report the discovery of a cliff dwellers' village in one of the most inaccessible canyons of that range which has never before been seen by white men, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

Recent arrivals from the Bradshaw mountains report the discovery of a cliff dwellers' village in one of the most inaccessible canyons of that range which has never before been seen by white men, says the San Francisco Chronicle. The discovery was made by two prospectors, White and Williams, who did not attempt a thorough exploration, but from their description this is the largest village of the ancient people that has ever been discovered.

Deaths of Editors. This is an extract from Joe Howard's lecture on journalism: "When I began to work in 1860--and it seems as though it were yesterday only, partly because I have good health and have always maintained a high moral tone--the editor of the New York Tribune was Horace Greeley. He died in a mad-house. The editor of the New York Times was Henry J. Raymond, the best friend but one I ever had. He was found dead, cold and stiff, in the hallway of his house. The best writer in New York then was Charles D. Cooke, who was the editor of the New York Citizen. He suffered from a neuralgia tooth and went into the Astor house one day, and was found there, over his head and in the majority.

Deaths of Editors. This is an extract from Joe Howard's lecture on journalism: "When I began to work in 1860--and it seems as though it were yesterday only, partly because I have good health and have always maintained a high moral tone--the editor of the New York Tribune was Horace Greeley. He died in a mad-house. The editor of the New York Times was Henry J. Raymond, the best friend but one I ever had. He was found dead, cold and stiff, in the hallway of his house. The best writer in New York then was Charles D. Cooke, who was the editor of the New York Citizen. He suffered from a neuralgia tooth and went into the Astor house one day, and was found there, over his head and in the majority.

Deaths of Editors. This is an extract from Joe Howard's lecture on journalism: "When I began to work in 1860--and it seems as though it were yesterday only, partly because I have good health and have always maintained a high moral tone--the editor of the New York Tribune was Horace Greeley. He died in a mad-house. The editor of the New York Times was Henry J. Raymond, the best friend but one I ever had. He was found dead, cold and stiff, in the hallway of his house. The best writer in New York then was Charles D. Cooke, who was the editor of the New York Citizen. He suffered from a neuralgia tooth and went into the Astor house one day, and was found there, over his head and in the majority.

Deaths of Editors. This is an extract from Joe Howard's lecture on journalism: "When I began to work in 1860--and it seems as though it were yesterday only, partly because I have good health and have always maintained a high moral tone--the editor of the New York Tribune was Horace Greeley. He died in a mad-house. The editor of the New York Times was Henry J. Raymond, the best friend but one I ever had. He was found dead, cold and stiff, in the hallway of his house. The best writer in New York then was Charles D. Cooke, who was the editor of the New York Citizen. He suffered from a neuralgia tooth and went into the Astor house one day, and was found there, over his head and in the majority.

Deaths of Editors. This is an extract from Joe Howard's lecture on journalism: "When I began to work in 1860--and it seems as though it were yesterday only, partly because I have good health and have always maintained a high moral tone--the editor of the New York Tribune was Horace Greeley. He died in a mad-house. The editor of the New York Times was Henry J. Raymond, the best friend but one I ever had. He was found dead, cold and stiff, in the hallway of his house. The best writer in New York then was Charles D. Cooke, who was the editor of the New York Citizen. He suffered from a neuralgia tooth and went into the Astor house one day, and was found there, over his head and in the majority.

Deaths of Editors. This is an extract from Joe Howard's lecture on journalism: "When I began to work in 1860--and it seems as though it were yesterday only, partly because I have good health and have always maintained a high moral tone--the editor of the New York Tribune was Horace Greeley. He died in a mad-house. The editor of the New York Times was Henry J. Raymond, the best friend but one I ever had. He was found dead, cold and stiff, in the hallway of his house. The best writer in New York then was Charles D. Cooke, who was the editor of the New York Citizen. He suffered from a neuralgia tooth and went into the Astor house one day, and was found there, over his head and in the majority.

Deaths of Editors. This is an extract from Joe Howard's lecture on journalism: "When I began to work in 1860--and it seems as though it were yesterday only, partly because I have good health and have always maintained a high moral tone--the editor of the New York Tribune was Horace Greeley. He died in a mad-house. The editor of the New York Times was Henry J. Raymond, the best friend but one I ever had. He was found dead, cold and stiff, in the hallway of his house. The best writer in New York then was Charles D. Cooke, who was the editor of the New York Citizen. He suffered from a neuralgia tooth and went into the Astor house one day, and was found there, over his head and in the majority.

FIRE! FIRE! Insurance a Specialty. E. M. WALLER, who has bought the M. A. King Fire Insurance Agency--the largest in the County--and is now giving his entire time to the insurance business. Reasonable rates and honest dealing in the strictest sense. In Phenix Block, over J. C. Clark Dry Goods Store, Ravenna, Ohio.

Highest of all Leavening Power. Latest U. S. Gov't Report. NEW YORK BAKING POWDER. ABSOLUTELY PURE.

NO MORE SOAP. When Count Telesi and Lieut. von Hohenzollern on their long and dangerous expedition into eastern Africa they had with them a pet monkey, Hamis, who afforded them endless amusement, and also, as the way with all such pets, proved a frequent trial to their patience. One of his most annoying exploits is thus narrated by Lieut. von Hohenzollern: "An eagle, attracted by the ape, who was playing in a tree under which the count's tent was pitched, swooped down and settled upon a branch without a sign of shyness. Hamis, little guessing the danger he was in, was for plucking a feather or two out of the visitor's wing, treating him as he would do in the habit of treating the fowls we sometimes had in camp. Count Telesi seized a gun, however, and a shot brought down the would-be thief. As usual, Hamis repaid us by ingratitude. The eagle was no sooner dead and deprived of its beautiful long wing feathers than the ape was down from his perch, intent upon mischief. He had a good look at his dead enemy, and then, as if everything new or strange, and then hopped into his master's tent and seized what was perhaps for the moment his master's greatest treasure, his last bit of soap. The count saw him and shouted, 'Leave that alone, but too late. Hamis was at the top of the tree again, with the precious soap in his teeth. We called him by all the endearing names we could think of, hoping to entice him away from the branch he had chosen, which overhung the brook, but all in vain. Not fancying the taste of the soap, he dropped it into the water, and it was hopelessly lost. The brown flood bore it away, although the half a dozen negroes dived for it for a long time. Picturesque Economy. A peculiar appearance in the front windows of an aristocratic boarding-house on one of the leading avenues caused a discussion among passers-by. In each pane was a square of white muslin with embroidered edges, which was apparently glued to the pane. 'That's a queer way of keeping out the light,' observed one citizen to another. 'Must be some new method of decoration,' remarked another. 'Don't you know what that is?' said a young woman to her husband. 'That's a window blind, and it's been there ever since the house was built. It's the way ladies who board wash their fine handkerchiefs. You see, it dries and irons them at the same time.' 'I see,' answered the young man, 'that they adhere like postage stamps. How do they do it?' 'Oh, you first catch your window then you put the panes and place the handkerchief against them, wringing wet. They stick like a plaster, and when they come off as smooth as satin. In that way every woman can be her own laundress.' 'I see,' said her husband, thoughtfully, 'so many families board.' Detroit Free Press.

Earthworms Six Feet Long. The giant of the earthworms is a creature of Australia known to scientists as Megalocricus Australis. Although it is a monster, from four to six feet in length and from one inch to one and three-fourths inches in diameter, it is as harmless as our common angworm, which it much resembles, both in color and in bodily structure. Like our common angworm, it can be removed from its burrows with great difficulty. If a portion of the creature's body be uncovered and grasped, with the intention of pulling it from its sinuous burrow, the experimenter is likely to be disappointed, because the worm can hold to the sides of his den until his body is pulled to two. How They Grew a Bell. At the beginning of the last century the only church bell at Grosswaslau, Germany, was so small that its tones were not sufficient to penetrate to the ends of the village. A second bell was badly wanted but the village was poor and there was the money to come from? One Sunday, when the schoolmaster, Gottfried Hays, was going to church, he noticed growing out of the churchyard wall a flourishing green stalk of corn, the seed of which must have been dropped by a passing bird. The idea suddenly struck him that perhaps this one stalk of corn could be made the means of procuring the second bell they wanted so much. He waited until the corn was ripe and then he plucked the six ears on it and sowed them in his own garden. Next year he gathered the little crop thus produced and sowed it again, till at last he had not enough room in his garden for the crop, and so he divided it among a certain number of farmers, who went on sowing the ears until, in the eighth year, the crop was so large that when it was put together and sold they found that they had money enough to buy a beautiful bell.--Harper's Young People.

No Temptation to Fib. "And didn't George Washington ever tell a lie?" asked little Willie. "No, dear," said his mother, "why do you ask?" "Wasn't ju' thinkin'," said little Willie, "that his mother must have been a mighty poor hand at puttin' up 'em services or else she always kept 'em locked up in her chest, 'cause she couldn't get 'em out?" --Brooklyn Eagle.

Awarded Highest Honor: World's Fair, DR. J. C. WALKER'S BAKING POWDER. MOST PERFECT MADE. Pure Grape Gum of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia. Use only after adult years, 40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Ingorsoll's Income. The highest amount that Col. Robert G. Ingorsoll ever received for delivering a single lecture was $3,600, in Chicago. At another time, in the same city, he received $2,400. His receipts for a Sunday night lecture in New York, 70 per cent of the gross receipts, amount to from $1,200 to $1,500. In small cities the receipts are from $500 to $1,000. The colonel's liberal fashion of entertaining prevents him from becoming as rich as most men would be with his opportunities, and, while he is financially well-to-do his worldly possessions are not large in proportion to his income.

A Willing Mercury. First Boy--"Wot's the rush?" Second Boy--"I heard pa buyin' an old clock to dinner and I'm hurryin' home to tell mamma." "Did y'r father send yeh?" "No." "Then wot you runnin' y'rself to death for?" "Cause, if mamma knows company is comin' we'll have a better dinner." --Good News.

The Spartan phalanx was commonly deep; the Athenian, 8, 12 and 35.