

be found in almost every section of the country; and the finest quarries of sandstone and free stone are to be found on the banks of the Colorado, and in the neighborhood of Austin. Mineral springs are also to be met with in various parts of the country. The population of Texas at present, he stated, amounted to about 200,000, consisting of American, French, Irish and Dutch.

After Dr. Archer had concluded his extracts, he received the thanks of the meeting for his valuable communication.

Execution.

The two brothers, Hodges, were executed at Burlington on Tuesday last, in accordance with their sentence. On this occasion our Territory was disgraced by a public execution, and it is computed that at least eight thousand persons—one thousand of whom were females—we almost said ladies—witnessed that spectacle, a majority of them with as much interest and moral reflection as they would a circus or a travelling menagerie. The young men—one aged 23, the other 25—died protesting their innocence. One of them appears to have been a Mormon preacher, delivered a lengthy address from the scaffold, in which he severely censured the jury—called himself and brother the victims of prejudice, and assured that they might have proved an alibi on their trial but they were conscious, their witnesses, being Mormons would not be believed. We understand they left letters which were not to be opened till after their death. Upon the question of their guilt or innocence we have nothing to say. The evidence against them was mainly circumstantial, and until farther developments are made, there must exist in the minds of many, a painful conviction that, possibly, two innocent men have been murdered according to law. Meanwhile we cannot avoid asking ourselves how much better off are community, and how much more the ends of justice have been subserved, that they would have been had these two young men been doomed to solitary imprisonment for the remainder of their natural lives—how much the execution tended to refine the feelings, improve the habits, and elevate the understanding of the spectators—and how much it exalted their ideas of the efficiency, purity, justness and beneficence of our existing laws upon the subject of capital punishments. It will be remembered that a brother of these men was murdered, soon after their trial, in the streets of Nauvoo.—Bloomington (Iowa) Herald.

THIRD EXPLORING TOUR TO THE PACIFIC.—The expedition to the Rocky mountains under command of Capt. J. C. Fremont of the United States army, being the third exploring tour of that officer, left Westport on the 26th inst. Capt. Fremont is assisted by two junior officers of the Topographical corps and employs eighty men. The design of this expedition is to complete the survey of the plains and mountains intervening between the western boundary and the Pacific, heretofore partially accomplished by the Exploring Squadron and the two former expeditions of Capt. Fremont. As far as we can learn, this party will proceed to survey the Arkansas river to its source, after completing which, the party will be divided. One division will then return by the way of the head of the Rio del Norte, through the country of Camanche Indians on the source of the Red River, and by the lower waters of the Arkansas. The main division under Capt. Fremont will cross the Colorado, complete the survey of the great Salt Lakes, then penetrate by the waters of Mary's River, (which flows westwardly through Upper California; in the vicinity of the 43d degree parallel of latitude, and is lost in a lake at the eastern base of the California mountains.) It is believed that from a point on Mary's river, some days journey above its mouth, the head of the Sacramento may be reached in two days travel. The Sacramento penetrates the main chain of the California mountains and forms a practicable pass direct to the Bay of San Francisco. This is already known. It is also known that a practicable route exists from the head of Sacramento, in a northerly direction, by the heads of the Klamet, Ckuttes and Wallamette rivers on the California. The route then by which Capt. Fremont proposes to penetrate to the Pacific is the shortest and most direct from the head of the Arkansas to the head of the Sacramento, about 450 miles in distance—is as yet unexplored by the white man, and is generally designated as the great "California desert." None of its waters, excepting the Colorado, reach the ocean—they are absorbed or disappear by evaporation.

After passing the winter among the American settlements in upper California, the exploring party will if the country be found practicable, pass round by the lower route from California, crossing the Colorado below the great "Kennon," and return to the Arkansas by the waters of the Gila and St. Juan, large tributaries of the lower Colorado, which have their sources west of the mountains of New Mexico. This sketch contemplates a route of five or six thousand miles. It will probably eventuate in the discovery of a new and strait road to both Oregon and California, passing for the most part through our own territory, diminishing the distance some three or four hundred miles, and the time two months. The country to the right and the left will be examined, and its geography, at present a blank, somewhat understood. The importance of these contemplated explorations is very great—every confidence is reposed in the energy and ability of the commanding officer. We shall hope for their success, and look anxiously for their safe return towards the close of the year 1846.—Western (Mo.) Expositor.

AGRICULTURAL LIFE.—Our fathers have left us a noble inheritance, and it is our duty to improve it. What surer basis can we have for national wealth than a learned and enterprising agriculture? How can we more effectually strengthen the ties of interest that bind the extremities of our country in indissoluble union, than by augmenting the number and value of their useful productions? How can the intelligence of a people be more favorably developed, than by an art which gives so wide a scope to comparative sagacity, and which brings its conclusions to the test of immediate experience? Who are more likely to be devoted to their country, than those who have attached the hopes of their children to its soil? There is, besides, in the profession of agriculture, something so congenial to republican manners, that we should naturally expect to see the freest country the best cultivated. Remote from the contest of sordid passions, and surrounded by all that is necessary for his happiness, the husbandman has no inducement to count the interest upon political corruption. A laborious life spent in the open air, in the majestic presence of nature, lends a corresponding simplicity and elevation to his character. In public stations, a patriot is often driven from his purpose by the jealous opposition of his rivals; or by the invincible prejudices of his age, he must at least sacrifice his freedom to the duties of his office; but in a life devoted to agricultural improvement, the purest sources of rational enjoyment are united: the first want of a generous spirit is that of being useful to mankind, the second is that of liberty.—Midkuz.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.
The Democratic Electors of the Township of Ravenna are requested to assemble at the Hall of J. H. Stoops, on Saturday evening, August 9th at 7 o'clock, P. M. for the purpose of taking into consideration the subject of a change in the Post-Office in this place and of recommending a suitable person for that station.
Per order of the Township Committee.
Ravenna, July 23, 1845.

Anti-Slavery Notice.
We respectfully invite our fellow citizens of the County of Portage, who are opposed to the further existence of Slavery in these United States, to meet with us in Convention at Ravenna on the 9th day of August at 10 o'clock, A. M. and participate in the organization of an Anti-Slavery Society. Our object is to act morally not politically. We wish, if possible, to concentrate the Anti-Slavery power of the county and thus give to it all the strength that there is in Union. Come friends of Liberty let us take counsel together. Old fashioned Abolitionists! Liberty party men! Garrisonians! New Converts! Come one and all—surely we can find some common ground on which to stand. Let us occupy it forthwith and do our part in the great battle that is to free our favored land from the blighting curse of Slavery.

DR. DUNCAN'S EXPECTORANT REMEDY, FOR CONSUMPTION

Colds, Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, Pain in the Side, Breast and Chest, Whooping Cough, Croup, and all diseases of the Liver and the LUNGS.

BEWARE of that fall disease which perceptibly fastens upon your system the threads of destruction, and hastens you to the grave. Read the following certificate from one of the most respectable farmers of Licking county.

In the fall of '41, I was attacked with a severe cough, and more or less pain and soreness thro' the chest, which continued unabated through the winter. As warm weather approached I became somewhat relieved, but still the soreness and cough did not entirely leave me. At the commencement of the winter '42-3, I began to get much worse; great soreness through my whole chest, difficulty of breathing, severe and constant cough, followed in a short time by a copious expectoration of matter, rapid emaciation, &c. These symptoms continued to grow worse and worse, until I was so much prostrated as to be mostly confined to my room, and scarcely able to help myself. Having little confidence in the ability of physicians to relieve or cure a consumption which I supposed to have become already seated upon me, I had entirely neglected the use of any prescription whatever, until I saw in the Advocate an advertisement of Dr. Duncan's Remedy for Consumption, which induced me to purchase of Mr. Beigg, who was then agent, one bottle of his medicine, hoping it might afford me some relief from my sufferings, although I expected nothing more.

In March '43, I commenced using it, and in four days time soreness in my chest was entirely removed, my cough was much relieved, expectoration freely, and began to mend in every respect. In short, I continued taking until I had used ten bottles when I found myself entirely cured and have remained so until the present. I need not say that I consider the expectorant a most valuable medicine for lung affections, and as such have, and do still most cheerfully recommend it.

WESLEY BLIZZARD. Newark, April 1845.

The above testimonial from Mr. Wesley Blizard of our township, who is personally known to many of our citizens we presume will be read with interest.—Constitutionalist.

Mr. Vernon, May, 1845. Dr. Duncan.—Dear Sir, Having had occasion to witness the effects of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy on Mr. Bill Young in the case of pulmonary consumption I feel it my duty to make a statement in order that others that are or may be afflicted with the same complaint may be benefited by the same remedy. He was attacked with inflammation on the left lobe of the lungs in March, 1843, attended with acute pain, great difficulty of breathing, and a severe cough which proceeded rapidly to suppuration, and notwithstanding the use and application of the best remedies prescribed by our authors, the complaint in a few days began to exhibit evident symptoms of necrosis.

In this distressing stage of the complaint, I had recourse to Dr. Duncan's expectorant Remedy for Consumption, which had the effect of checking the disease immediately, and in a few days the pain ceased, the breathing became free and easy, the cough left him, and the expectorations subsided the consequence of which was that in using six bottles of the medicine he has recovered and is restored to his family and friends.

J. UPSON, M. D. I do hereby certify the above to be a true statement of my case as far as comes within my knowledge.

ELI STRONG. The case of Mr. Young is also known by many persons in the town of Mt. Vernon. Those wishing any further information of the wonderful efficacy of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy, are requested to call upon the following gentlemen:

G. A. Jones, Jno. Hamer, Samuel Jessel, Esq. Mt. Vernon, Amos Hixley, Wm. Findly, Morris Tp. John Rose, Pike Tp.

Be careful and call for the above Medicine at the Drug store of SWIFT & HATCH, Ravenna, Ohio, who are the only agents in Portage county. 5w5.
