

PLAIN AND ORNAMENTAL PRINTING.

Printed and Published for the Proprietors at the Printing Office of E. Cowles & Co., No. 102 Superior St., St. Louis, Mo.

Patrons Desiring to Advertise.

The California must be in high favor with capitalists abroad—over the left. They held out in the hey-day of their prosperity the tempting bait of high interest, and indeed large investments by Eastern money men who like everybody else became crazed to have the "golden stream sudden and violent."

The "dry and dry channel" has already appeared to some, for the Legislature of California has passed an act consolidating the debt of Sacramento County and City, ordering the eight per cent and ten per cent bonds to be surrendered, and new ones to be issued at six per cent. This California mode of putting down the rate of interest is a novel one, and what adds to the insult is the fact that the last interest is still due, and the act provides that it shall not be paid until the holders of the bonds consent to this change.

When Legislatures thus step in and impair the validity of contracts, repudiation of both principal and interest may next be looked for.

Crime and Violence in Washington.

It will be recalled that during the session of Congress crime and violence became so rampant at Washington that the Administration made strong efforts to obtain the passage of a law to provide for an additional police force, a sort of mounted regiment, to be paid for from the public treasury. The bill was debated, and the most terrific pictures of Washington society were drawn by members, who, in some instances, set examples in Congress that could not be assigned to the streets to prison, indictment and punishment.

As all things come to an end, so did Congress, and since then quiet and security appear to have returned to Washington, so much so that in accordance it is claimed with public opinion President Buchanan has resigned James Powers, the convicted robber, who was one of the leaders of the gang of robbers and street-fighters that so terrified nervous M. C.'s. There certainly is no pressing occasion for expending a quarter of a million annually beyond the present cost of maintaining the police force in Washington, so long as the sentence of the law on convicted felons is subject to the clemency of the President.

How Enforcement of Law Works.

At the recent Court of Common Pleas of Lorain county, T. Pangburn, of Elyria, who was nominally in the custody of the Sheriff awaiting sentence on a conviction for selling liquor in violation of law, suddenly left and has not returned. When the Court adjourned, an order was entered upon the journal, commanding the Sheriff to arrest him and keep him in custody until the next term. This would preclude the possibility of his being released on bail, and of course he dare not come back, though he strongly desires to. The Democrat says:

Last week he made a proposition, through his attorney in Cleveland, to this effect: that he would entirely abandon the traffic hereafter in spirituous liquors, in this county, and would become a partner of any person who sold them; that he would pay to the County the sum of seventy-five dollars, in addition to the twenty-five dollars he had already paid, and would also pay the Sheriff's fee in full; that as a security for the fulfillment of his promise, he was willing that the indictment now issued against him should remain in force, asking only that he be permitted to return, without being arrested, in order to fulfill in good faith his promise; and that the suit on the forfeiture of his bail should be discontinued.

There is some division among temperance men in Lorain as to what should be done in Pangburn's case, and the Democrat, who we think, very properly advocates that the concessions he asks should be granted. The great desideratum is to get rid of the traffic, and thus afford protection to humanity.

The Bogus Lottery Business.

The extent of the community has been awfully by means of the facilities heretofore afforded by Post Masters and the Department to bogus lottery dealers and kindred knaves, may be judged from the telegraphic report yesterday from Washington. It is that the Post Office Department has prepared a statement of letters returned to the Dead Letter Office extending back to the 1st of April, addressed to bogus lotteries and other similar firms. The letters number one thousand six hundred and nineteen, and the enclosures in cash and drafts amount to upwards of NINE THOUSAND DOLLARS!

Iowa Republican Convention.

The Republicans of Iowa assembled in large numbers at Iowa City on Thursday last. The proceedings were enthusiastic and harmonious. The following nominations for State officers were made with great unanimity:

Secretary of State—Elijah Seils, Muscatine county.

State Auditor—James W. Callett, Cedar County.

State Treasurer—Wesley Jones, Hardin County.

Register of Land Office—Amos B. Miller, Cerro Gordo County.

Attorney General—Samuel A. Rice, Nebraska county.

Commissioner of Des Moines River Improvement—William C. Drake, Wayne county.

Effects of Liqueur.—The "Attacks Blues," a colored military company in Cincinnati, went on a picnic to Glendale on Wednesday.

On the return by the cars a colored man named Reuben Jones took a bottle of liquor from his pocket, imbibed freely, and created disturbance, when a man named Brown seized the bottle and threw it out of the window. In the quarrel which ensued, Jones stabbed H. C. Jackson, a well known Cincinnati barber, severing the main artery of his thigh. He soon bled to death, and Jones was committed for the homicide. It is supposed that the fatal blow was not intended for Jackson, as he had taken no part in the difficulty except as pacifier.

There can now be made at Marquette axes or any thing else in iron, of surpassing excellence, but the rules of science must be observed. The hammering out of a pig into an axle, and a poor pig at that, is too great an absurdity to be published in a paper. It is hoped for the credit of the L. S. one that no more such axes or such pig iron as came from the Pioneer Furnace will be sent into this market where the sales of the ore are desired.

Richard Grain Prospects.—Old Richard is one of the granaries of the State, and the Mansfield Herald of the 23d says—"The corn is coming forward splendidly. The wheat promises better than for many years past—being very heavy on the ground, and the cool rains of the last month having kept out the weevil until it is now comparatively out of danger. Oats and grass were never better."

Hard Times in Davenport.—Some 2000 laborers in Davenport, Iowa, formed in procession on Friday, and marched to the office of the Mayor and to the residences of several of the wealthiest citizens, demanding work, and declaring they must have work, become a charge upon the county, or starve. The Mayor and others promised to devise some method for their relief, if possible. It is said some of the men refused to go to work on farms at 50 cents a day and board, starting as they professed to be.

Hard Times in Columbus.—The Fact announces that the Ohio Tool Company has in contemplation a reduction of its numerical force in its department proper of construction, in view of the accumulation of manufactured articles, which the dullness of the season has more than ordinarily augmented. The Columbus Machine Company has determined to reduce their force, for a month or two, as business at this time will not warrant the continuation of full work.

What is this Section.—One of the best Rockport farmers informed us yesterday that his wheat looks magnificently, and that on careful examination he did not detect the presence of a single weevil.

The Public Finances—Appropriations.

The Washington Union puts down the appropriations of the session of Congress just closed at $88,000,000, though it does not claim entire accuracy in its figures. It is, however, as the organ of the Administration, proceeds to glorify Mr. Buchanan for the "economy of his government."

Of the appropriations fourteen and a half millions are for the Navy; seventeen millions for the Army; and three and a half millions for the Post Office Department.

The Washington Republic puts down the appropriations for the next fiscal year at $90,000,000, but says that the indifiniteness of many of them, however, renders exact accuracy impossible. The following facts touching the appropriations, finances, and action of the Administration, should be pondered by the people. We quote from the Republic:

The appropriations, as a whole, fall considerably short of the specific estimates of the Executive Department, and very much short of the estimates of the House of Representatives, which, by the leading measures recommended in the President's annual message had been concurred in by Congress.

For the Army, the House has appropriated $100,000,000, and the Executive estimates and recommendations, upwards of a million dollars.

For the Navy, Congress granted only seven millions of dollars, while the Executive asks for $100,000,000, and refused to allow the fifty millions for which the President's organ, the Union, whined so piteously in behalf of the contractors and hangers on, who constitute the Swiss guard of the Administration.

The daring measure of Mr. Buchanan was the increase of the army, and in that he failed altogether. His five regiments, which would have constituted a permanent charge upon the country of between seven and eight millions of dollars, were disbanded, and the three regiments of volunteers have been quietly abandoned.

Forty millions of debt have been contracted, or authorized, and authority for ten millions more will be needed before the first day of next February. It is very easy to get the carefully considered estimates of Mr. Howard, of Michigan, of the Committee of Ways and Means.

The financial result of two years of Mr. Buchanan's Administration will therefore be, the issuing of a surplus of twenty-four millions of dollars, and the creation of a debt of fifty million, with no possibility of shifting the responsibility upon Congress, which has kept far within the recommendations of the Executive, and if even the surplus of twenty-four millions of dollars, it would only be the transfer of blame from a President to his party. The friends of the President controlled both branches of Congress, and especially the Senate, which distinguished itself by the enormous loans of the President's general appropriation bills in the shape of amendments.

And all this profusion of expenditure, which brings patronage and plunder with it, the party in power set itself in studied array from first to last, and in the shape of amendments of the President and Cabinet, against the payment of all claims upon the Government. The whole aggregate allowed in private bills is a mere bagatelle.

From the beginning to the end, not a single reform, or economy, has been recommended by the President, or attempted by his party. No salaries have been curtailed, no establishments have been reduced.

On the side of the revenue, not only has nothing been done to increase it, but the Administration has actually interfered to prevent any increase. The President, in his annual message, expressly advised against any alteration of the tariff of 1857, and down to within a month of the opening of Congress, this policy was reiterated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Upon a view of the whole case, the financial management of the Administration seems to be characterized by absolute fatuity. They wholly misunderstood the nature of the monetary crisis which came upon the country last summer and fall, and they seem, even now, to be blind to the duty which it imposes.

Five Photographs.

Mr. North, our well known Artist, has discovered a new method of preparing the photographic paper, and is now making the most brilliant and clearly defined plain Photographs ever seen. His rooms are in the Melodeon Building.

The Homicide at Lawrence.

We have the third day's proceedings in the examination of James H. Lane for the murder of Col. Jenkins, at Lawrence. The examining Court is composed of Justices Ladd, Otterson, and Soule. Counsel for Territory, Messrs. Collier, Wood, Stanton, and Stafford, Prosecuting Attorney, For Gen. Lane, Messrs. Young, Christian, H. & T. Ewing, Jr., and Hutchinson.

The prisoner on the third day appeared to be in good health and spirits. The testimony discloses about the same facts in regard to the unfortunate homicide as were given in the news paper accounts published at the time of its occurrence.

Judge Ayer, of Kansas, who was present the first and second days of Lane's examination, is in Chicago on the 22d. The Tribune says:

He thinks that Lane will be bound over, afterwards tried and acquitted on the plea of justifiable homicide, and that he will be retained in Kansas. He thinks that Lane will leave the Territory after he has had his trial.

For the Leader.

The following is from the Marquette Journal, and is going the rounds of the papers:

New Experiment with L. S. Iron.—Mr. Gay has ventured upon an experiment, at the Collins' Co.'s works, from which highly beneficial results are anticipated. He takes the pig from the Pioneer Furnace, heats it almost to liquidation, and hammers out and fashions it into a bar. Quite a lot of them are lying upon the dock to be shipped to different parts of the country to be tested. He has, himself, as he thinks, tested them severely, with entire success, by letting fall a four hundred pound hammer, from a height of twelve feet, two hundred times, first upon one side, and then an equal number of times upon the other side, without breaking them. They present to the eye a very smooth and handsome appearance.

This is the same Mr. Gay who induced men in Cleveland to build a Furnace to try an experiment of his in making pig metal at a cost of some thousand dollars, and failed to produce a single pound.

The thing was without form and bulk of materials that did not last an hour, and this experiment to make cast axes is equally absurd. Some things intended to be in the similitude of axes have been brought here by Ford & Otis' Forge to be worked over.

There can now be made at Marquette axes or any thing else in iron, of surpassing excellence, but the rules of science must be observed. The hammering out of a pig into an axle, and a poor pig at that, is too great an absurdity to be published in a paper. It is hoped for the credit of the L. S. one that no more such axes or such pig iron as came from the Pioneer Furnace will be sent into this market where the sales of the ore are desired.

Richard Grain Prospects.—Old Richard is one of the granaries of the State, and the Mansfield Herald of the 23d says—"The corn is coming forward splendidly. The wheat promises better than for many years past—being very heavy on the ground, and the cool rains of the last month having kept out the weevil until it is now comparatively out of danger. Oats and grass were never better."

Hard Times in Davenport.—Some 2000 laborers in Davenport, Iowa, formed in procession on Friday, and marched to the office of the Mayor and to the residences of several of the wealthiest citizens, demanding work, and declaring they must have work, become a charge upon the county, or starve. The Mayor and others promised to devise some method for their relief, if possible. It is said some of the men refused to go to work on farms at 50 cents a day and board, starting as they professed to be.

Hard Times in Columbus.—The Fact announces that the Ohio Tool Company has in contemplation a reduction of its numerical force in its department proper of construction, in view of the accumulation of manufactured articles, which the dullness of the season has more than ordinarily augmented. The Columbus Machine Company has determined to reduce their force, for a month or two, as business at this time will not warrant the continuation of full work.

What is this Section.—One of the best Rockport farmers informed us yesterday that his wheat looks magnificently, and that on careful examination he did not detect the presence of a single weevil.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22, 1888.

The few days past have driven nearly all strangers from this city save a few office seekers. Perhaps I ought not to call three or four hundred "a few," but compared with the number who have been here for the year past, the army is small.

Nearly all the members of Congress have left, as many of them have interests at home to attend to by way of nominations, &c. It would be better for the country, however, if the people only, aside from politicians, would manage the conventions for the nomination of public officers; and let the office seek the man, and not the man the office. Such a state of things is too much to expect in these times. But whether the people or politicians make nominations for members of the National House of Representatives, this fact should be kept in mind, that it requires a service of two or three terms in that body for a man to gain a position and make himself familiar with its rules and routine of business. It also needs much experience to be able to meet successfully the resorts to trickery, brow beating, and gaining generally which has grown up under the fostering hand of Democratic rule.

If Republicans are wise they will discard no member of Congress who has spent his life in the struggle to principle, the times, and the occasions when he has acted for his party.

If the Republican party had an honest, open, fair dealing enemy to contend with, it would do to send imprudent men home to meet them in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

Kansas Unhealthy!

We are glad to learn that Kansas has become unhealthy. The St. Louis Democrat of the 22d says:

John Canfield Calhoun, and John B. Clark, formerly Post Master at Lawrence, were arrested at this city some days ago for Kawas City, Mo. After remaining at that point a short time, they returned to Lawrence, and thence to the Missouri route for Nebraska, keeping on the Missouri route. There is no doubt that greenbacks considered the western or Kansas side of the river, rather unhealthy at the present time for travelers of their character.

Terrible Fire in Canada.—We learn from The Quebec Chronicle of Saturday, that a dreadful fire, caused by the clearing of lands, has occurred in the County of Chicoutimi, and has been carried by a strong wind and blowing up in the time over the greater part of nine townships in that county, consuming all before it, and rendering desolate and homeless over one hundred families, equal to seven hundred souls.—By a notice of the fire, it is said, more than one hundred thousand dollars worth of property has been destroyed, besides an immense extent of fencing, with several costly bridges. More than a third of the seed sown this Spring has also been destroyed, which will be very severely felt by the settlers, owing to their inability to procure seed and re-sow so late in the season.

Five Hundred Dollars' Damage for Returning a Colored Man's Vote.—A suit which has heretofore excited no little interest, has just been decided by Warren County. At the election for state officers on the 14th of October, 1856, a colored man named Jesse Beckler, some few shades darker than alabaster, offered his vote at the Fourth Ward polls, and it was refused by the Judges, Rufus K. Paine, W. H. Glass and Michael Cleary, upon the ground that he was not "a citizen of the United States," according to the meaning of the act of Congress. Beckler had taken several friends among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a man select an attorney from among a set of men who never looked inside of a law book or a court room, as for the Republican party to send men here as Congressmen who have had no experience in legislation, as conducted by the present Democratic party in the House of Representatives. It will not do to send to the House of Representatives a man who is not a citizen of the United States, and who is not a citizen of the United States.

As well might a