

POETRY.

ON SEEING CHILDREN AT PLAY.

BY WILLIS. I love to look on a scene like this, Of wild and careless play, And persuade myself that I am not old, And my looks are not yet gray: For it stirs the blood in an old man's heart, And it makes his pulse fly, To catch the thrill of a happy voice, And the light of a pleasant eye.

I have walked the world for fourscore years, And they say that I am old, And my heart is ripe for the reaper death And my years are well nigh told. It is very true, it is very true, I'm old, and I bide my time, But my heart will leap at a scene like this, And I half renew my prime.

Play on play on: I am with you, there, In the midst of your merry ring, I can feel the thrill of the dashing jump, And the rush of the breathless swing, I hide with you in the fragrant hay, And I hoop the smothered call, And my feet slip on the seed floor, And I care not for the fall.

I am willing to die when my time shall come, And I shall be glad to go, For the world, at best, is a weary place, And my pulse is getting low: But the grave is dark, and the heart will fail In treading its gloomy way; And it wiles my heart from its dreariness, To see the young so gay.

The Doctor at Fault, and a Police Superannuated Nonplussed.—On Friday last a seemingly serious accident occurred in Gallowgate. A poor Irishman, while riding a spirited horse, was thrown from his seat, and taken up "kilt" quite dead on the spot. A doctor was sent for, who declared he could do nothing for the poor fellow, as life was totally extinct, & advised that a hurley should be got to take the corpse to the Police Office. A hurley was accordingly procured, and put under the charge of a Police Superannuated, "a tacent lad from the North."—On their way to the office however, the corpse disturbed no doubt by the jolting of the carriage, sprung up upon one elbow, and demanded where they were taking him to—"To ta Ollish, to ps surely," replied the nattie cult: "tont you know that you are dead, and we must take you there to get you puried?" "Blood and wounds!" cried Pat, "I'm no more dead than your ugly self—and would you bury me alive?" "Come, come," cried the Gael, "none of your plarney, Mr Pat: ta doctor says you are dead, and she wd pelieve ta tacent mans before she wd pelieve a sousand of you; so lie still, and ps puried in peace, and ps—to you!" Poor Paddy, seeing that nothing would serve the substitute but that he must be buried alive, sprung from the hurley dashed through a close, and made his escape by London street, leaving the supernumerary gaping with wonder and disappointment, and crying out, "Co'pe my life, when ever saw a tacent mans running as fast before?"—Glasgow Liberator.

Fourth Year of Waldie's Library. BOOKS BY MAIL! Prospectus of two new Volumes for 1836.

THREE years have now elapsed since the proprietor of Waldie's Select Circulating Library laid before the public his original prospectus for a valuable library, the great features of which were cheapness, and the facility of a rapid transportation by mail. The most ample success has attended the enterprise, and it is believed, have been wholesome.

The fourth year will commence on the first Tuesday of January 1836, at which period it will be necessary to determine the additional amount of copies to be printed, subscriptions being taken only from January of each year. The entire success of the Library is the best guarantee that can be given of its continuance. It was the first to supply books by mail at a mere per centage of their former cost; it has outlived more than thirty similar attempts at imitation; and has now an extensive list of patrons who are of the most solid and valuable class of citizens in every part of the Union, as well as in foreign countries.

The object of Waldie's Library, its use and its purpose, is enjoyment liberal and intellectual. To all who love a mental banquet, without being compelled to depend on places of public resort, this publication furnishes a most valuable desideratum, supplying polite literature of character to enlarge and improve the mind. The time and attention of the editor, himself a reader from inclination as well as duty, are devoted to the procurement of works of an elevated standard of intellect which may be admitted into every family without hesitation by the most fastidious, and become a rallying point for all its members, promoting social belles lettres reading and conversation, the variety thus collected from the whole mass of published works, mostly new, embraces Biography, Novels, Voyages and Travels, Sketches, Tales, and Select History, personal memoirs of extraordinary individuals, and curious adventure, &c. &c. An amount equal to fifty London duodecimo volumes is thus annually furnished in weekly numbers, at a cost only equal to one of the London works. The plan thus embraces the whole range of popular literature, and the work has now become so universally diffused in every part of the Union as to form no inconsiderable portion of literature of the country, and with which an acquaintance has become really necessary for those who mix in society.

The Library is now conducted disseminates books to all parts of the country in from five to six weeks after their issue in London. Five dollars per annum expended in this way will supply good reading for a whole circle or family; for a cent and a half a day, postage included, a duodecimo book is sent every week, making in the course of the year more than three volumes of Rees's Cyclopaedia. One volume of the Library, containing from fifteen to twenty entire works, can be bound at an expense little exceeding that of binding either separately, and constitutes a concentrated collection forming a never failing resource of amusement and instruction, and which must always be worth the price that has been paid for it. The most ample testimony has been spontaneously afforded that this work has contributed, to the pleasure of thousands, who but for the resource it afforded, must have been left with minds unoccupied, or thrown into unprofitable and uncongenial society. This immense supply of periodical reading has thus been welcomed every where as a means of improvement, and a substitute for the small talk of idle listless ness so apt to employ a large portion of the time of the many.

Waldie's Library is published every Tuesday, accompanied by a cover of four quarto pages, entitled, The Journal of Belles Lettres, containing reviews of new books, literary intelligence of all kinds, tales, lists of new books, &c. thus combining the advantages of a Library, and amusement of a magazine and newspaper; the whole for $5 per annum, or clubs of five individuals obtain five copies for $20, a reduction which pays the postage. Payment always in advance.

Waldie's Port Folio and Companion to the Library. This periodical contains half as much matter as the Library, at half its price; or both are furnished to clubs of five for $6. Its contents consist of a reprint of the best matter from the London Magazines and Reviews, more especially Chamber's Edinburgh Journal. Its object is popular instruction and amusement, combined in such a manner as to enlist the feelings of every member of the social circle. It enjoys an extensive circulation; price to single subscribers not taking the Library, $5 50, postage paid.

A very limited number of complete sets of Library and Port Folio, at the original subscription price, may be had for a short period. The Library has been published three years and the Port Folio one; an individual may now form a club by himself, and by paying for the past three years and the volumes for 1836 of the Library, and the Port Folio for 1835 and 1836, the whole can be had for $20. For this an amount of matter may be procured which public approbation has stamped as truly valuable and unique of its kind. This privilege must, however, be of brief continuance.

Address, post paid, ADAM WALDIE, Seventh, two doors South of Chestnut street, Philad.

The Museum of Foreign Literature and Science, price $6 00 per annum, the Library and Port Folio will be all supplied for $12 00.

THIRD VOLUME OF THE OHIO FARMER AND WESTERN HORTICULTURIST.

In presenting a prospectus for the third volume of the Ohio Farmer to the public, the Editor conceives it unnecessary to enter into a minute detail of its character and object. These have been clearly evinced since its commencement, and from the high testimonials received from Agriculturists and Horticulturists of the first standing and intelligence, he is not without a hope that his labors have been of some service to the cause of Western Agriculture, and that there has been, at least partial satisfaction to those who patronize the work.

There was never a period of deeper interest to the cultivators of the soil in the great valley of the Mississippi than the present. There never was a time when intelligence could be put to better uses—when knowledge was of greater advantage. It is the era of advancement in the art and science of the cultivation of the earth, and the improvement of useful animals. And he who refuses to keep pace with the times, by informing himself of what is transpiring around him, will lose more than half the pleasures and advantages of his own age.—The certainty of a ready market and a rich reward for all the productions of the earth should be a double stimulant to increase the quantity.

The OHIO FARMER will be devoted to ORIGINAL ESSAYS, and articles selected from the best works, and occasionally illustrated by ENGRAVINGS. No agricultural work ever published in the West has been so liberally supplied with original articles, the most of which have been copied and received a wide circulation in other papers. The culture of soil—improvement of animals—of garden vegetables—of Agricultural implements, and Geology Botany, Chymistry, &c. &c. will receive due attention.

SILK—As the culture of this new article of wealth and industry, is exciting universal interest through the whole country, we contemplate devoting a sufficient portion of the Volume of the Farmer to this subject, to give all new beginners a fair start, who may wish to enter into the business, either on a large or a small scale, from the sowing of the mulberry seed to the reeling and manufacturing of the cocoons, colouring &c.

Each Volume of this paper is furnished with a Title Page and Index, expressly for binding, and will make about 200 pages. The first number of the Third Volume will be published on the 1st day of January, 1836.

CONDITIONS. The Farmer is published twice a month at $1.00 in advance. All notes on solvent Banks received. Payment may be made at our risk, free of postage. Persons obtaining 5 subscribers and forwarding the money, shall receive a copy for their trouble.

Editors, who wish to receive the Third Volume will please publish the above, and forward their papers for exchange. Columbus, Ohio, November, 1835.

A reasonable REWARD will be given to any person who may have found said pocket-book, and will return it with its contents to the subscriber. JOHN SALMON, Dec. 18th, 1835.
