and whose example of moral integrity, and steadfast fidelity to the claims of the enslaved, is worthy of all imitation.
The Business Committee offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted.
Resolved, That we prefer to our faithful friend and unfiring conductor, PARKER PILLSBURY, the deep-felt sympathy of this Society, in view of the serious prostration of his health in a foreign land; and that his complete convalescence will be very speedily realized, and he enabled to bear an uncompromising testimony abroad against the damning sin of our land; and at last be safely returned to his family and friends, and to the field of his old conflicts and triumphs.

HATTIEN SOCIETY AND CUSTOMS.
The N. Y. Ev. Post is publishing a series of interesting letters from Haiti, from one of which we extract the following:
Though the hour fixed for the company to assemble was four o'clock, I was assured, that if I arrived at five I would be in ample time; and so it proved. Not half of the company had assembled at five, and the ceremony did not take place till a yet later period. When we entered there were not more than a dozen in the room, and but one or two women. Our host and hostess were both quite black. Elaine—I name her first because she was the head of the house—was a first-awakened, amiable and well-conditioned black woman, apparently about forty years of age. Her husband, her faithful consort, was not near as intelligent, nor quite so fat, nor quite so tall, nor quite so dignified as Elaine; but he was much blacker, his face and mouth higher polished, and his teeth and eyes showed a great deal more white than hers. His whole heart was evidently in the gaiety of the occasion, and his whole dependence for his enjoyment of it, seemed to repose upon the administrative and municipal affairs of the country. To each other and the public, though not peculiarly, need a brief explanation, to be intelligent to the American readers. She is the capitalist of the concern, owns all the property, and does all the business. He has no more to do with the direction of the affairs, than if he were her child. She is worth from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars, all of which she has made as a dealer in provisions.

The Sugar Creek Water Cure. TWELVE miles South of Massillon under the charge of Dr. Freese, is supplied with pure soft spring water, and conducted on pure Hydropathic principles. We give no drugs. They are only hindrances to the radical cure of disease. The success which has thus far attended our efforts to alleviate the sufferings of humanity, enables us to speak confidently of the virtues of pure soft water, a proper diet, &c. Terms, $5 in ordinary cases, payable weekly. Dr. T. L. Nichols, of the American Hydropathic Institute, and Editor of the Nichols' Health Journal, in noticing the Water Cure movements of this country, says of us— "Dr. Freese, a most thorough and energetic physician, has a Water Cure at Sugar Creek, Falls, O. His terms are very moderate, but there are few places we could recommend with greater confidence. Address, Dr. S. Freese, Deardoff's Mills, Tuscarawas Co., O. August, 1853.

Resolved, That the one grand vital issue to be made with the Slave Power is the dissolution of the existing American Union.
This was discussed by Henry C. Wright, and M. Irving of New York, and incidentally by Chas. L. Remond.

Resolved, That an Anti-Slavery conscience which is bounded by 36 degrees 30 minutes north latitude, instead of presenting any barrier to the extension of the Slave Power, may safely be disregarded and soiled at by the South, as hypocritical in its pretended opposition to Slavery, cowardly in its spirit, and spasmodic in its action.
Mr. Purvis, of Pennsylvania, asked leave for a few words, in explanation of the remarks made personal to himself at yesterday's morning meeting, by his friends the president of the Society, and Dr. Furness, of Philadelphia.

Dear Sir: The above communication reached me last week, and in replication, I beg leave to state that if I have ever done anything worthy of the immortality your magazine is likely to confer upon me, I am not conscious of it. However, as true merit is always modest, it may be to that virtue that I owe my ignorance at all events, and I am anxious the world should know it, I have not sought fame, but fame has sought me, as Alexander Smith, the poet, would say,
" Fame! Fame! thou'rt the grandest word of God!"
In taking a retrospect of my early days, I can find nothing worthy of record, unless it be the stealing of a few apples, and the riding of a horse which I was beaten with many stripes, or the riding of a few quarter races, for which I received an occasional and solitary ginger cake, or adventures of a similar import.

SUFFERINGS OF COL. FREMONT AND PARTY.
A correspondent of the Salt Lake News thus notes the arrival of Col. Fremont at that place:—
" On the 6th of February, the man on the look-out at Parowan reported a company supposed to be Indians, coming into the north end of the valley, and that he had seen a man of female appearance at Parowan, and about 11 o'clock in the morning of the 7th, Col. John C. Fremont, with nine white men and twelve Delaware Indians, arrived in Parowan in a state of starvation; one of his men had fallen dead from his horse the day previous, and several more must inevitably have shared his own fate had they not had succor that day. They reported that they had eaten twenty-seven broken down animals; that when a horse or mule could go no further, it was killed and divided out, giving one-half to the Delaware and the other to the Colonel and his men; the hide was cut in pieces and cast lots for. After the bones had been made into soup they were burned and carried along by the men for luncheon. The entrails were shaken, and then made into soup, together with the feet and eyes; thus using the whole man. They stated they had travelled forty-five days living on this kind of fare.
" Although Col. Fremont was considered by the people an enemy to the saints, and had no money, he was kindly treated, and supplied on credit with provisions for himself and men, while at Parowan, and instead of the usual provisions to pursue his journey, and went on the way rejoicing on the 20th of February. The Colonel was sanguine in his opinion that he had found the best route for the great national railway.
" Your brother in the gospel covenant,
" J. C. L. SMITH."

THE HAIR THEORY OF PETER BROWN.—Mr. Peter Brown, to whose physiological investigation of the hair of the American pretender to the Bourbon crown we alluded to a short time since, has applied his theory to the question, whether the people whose remains are found in the mounds are identical with the existing race of American Indians. His conclusion is that they are, which he founds upon the identity of form between the horizontal section of the hair of the former, and that of hundreds of specimens of the latter.
Mr. Brown divides the hair of the human family into the cylindrical, the oval, and the eccentrically elliptical, as characterizing the various races. Mr. Brown has examined the hair of the mummy of a young American Indian, supposed to be a female of about ten years old, from Pachacamac, Temple of the Sun, five leagues from Lima, South America. This mummy has not been used since the Spanish conquest, previously to which (according to Herrera), it was kept sacred for the nobles and other dignitaries of Peru. The hair of this Indian, which is in good preservation, is cylindrical, diameter 1-36th of an inch. Mr. Brown has also examined eight other specimens of Indian hair and finds similar results.
On the other hand, he has submitted to the most critical investigation the hair found upon the mummies of Egypt and Thebes, and has found them to be oval, without a solitary exception.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Resolved, That in the recent death of James W. Walker, of Ohio, our cause has lost one of its ablest and most devoted advocates—by whom no sacrifice was deemed too great, no peril too imminent to encounter, no labor too arduous to be done, for its advancement and complete triumph over all opposition; to whom thousands at the West are indebted for their conversion to the principle of immediate and unconditional emancipation; and that the time to-morrow be devoted to a strictly business meeting of the Executive Committee, and of the members of this Society and its auxiliaries.
