

THE ANTI-SLAVERY BUGLE.

MAKE A NOTE OF IT.

Our Republican friends think it very strange that after they have nominated for the Presidency a man who is possibly a shade nearer the anti-slavery complexion than is either Douglas or Bell...

As no exceptions appear to have been taken to this avowal, and as it is approvingly published in the Cleveland Leader we take it for granted that its orthodoxy is undoubted.

Horren rails and broken planks are the emblems of the two great sectional parties of the country. Louisville Journal.

GIVE US THE PROOF.

The Painesville Press and Advertiser has at the head of its editorial columns what purports to be

THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

To man, his birthright; to labor freedom; to him that wants to labor, work and independence; to him that works, his dues.

Now, either we have read the Republican platform for very little purpose, or else the editor of the Press is greatly mistaken, or he designs to palm off for general circulation a spurious bill of Republican principles and obtain votes under false pretences.

Does the Republican platform propose to give to the four millions of American slaves their birthright? On the contrary, does it not unequivocally declare that each State has the right to control its own institutions, knowing that slavery is a State institution in one half of the Union, and that by it, one sixth of our entire population are denied the possession of their birthright?

The Republican platform denounces the efforts of all past and all future John Browns to give freedom to labor, and pronounces such efforts "as among the greatest of crimes."

IT TAKES.

Lincoln's nomination takes with the party, and enthusiastic ratification meetings are being everywhere held. As there was never yet made a nomination by any party but what was just the thing, and as no nominee was ever received with a lack of enthusiasm...

We were never broken in as a politician, and it is probably owing to this fact that what seems to us mean and contemptible, a violation of truth and bare faced chicanery, is to the partisan justifiable deception, and a trick of trade necessary to secure success.

Take for instance the testimony of the St. Louis Democrat, which says: 'The effect of Lincoln's nomination at the South is little less than miraculous. It seems to have tranquillized all the angry elements in that quarter, the Democratic party alone excepted.'

From this it would seem that Lincoln is a man to suit the South; that to them his election promises the subsidence of that agitation which the abolitionists have labored earnestly to promote; and that his conservatism is a guarantee of returning peace throughout their troubled border, and the restoration of order in their rebellious West.

The Chicago Convention has promulgated a programme of principles which, with a few exceptions, would apply quite as readily to one portion of the country as another.

Home AGAIN.—We are again at our post. The Bugle has done so well during our absence that it is possible we may subject it ere long to a similar experience, seeing that we have been urged to take the lecturing field for a short time.

What wonder that the nomination and the platform 'takes' even in the South, who see neither in the Candidate nor the Confession of faith, anything to threaten the permanency of the peculiar institution where it exists, and who have themselves used enough of 'the glittering generalities' to be able to comprehend that these mean nothing practical and are used as Latin quotations often are, for sound only and not for signification, their meaning being hidden in a dead, a very dead language.

A PRISONER RELEASED.

We have read of a man who won an elephant at a raffia, and though he at first exulted in his good luck, was afterwards sadly puzzled what to do with the animal. He had no suitable place in which to keep it, no fodder on which to feed it, could find no one to buy it, or who would accept it as a gift, and he dared not turn the beast loose.

The United States Senate has been in almost as bad a predicament in regard to Thaddeus Hyatt. When it appointed its Mason committee it expected it to gather up facts that would astound the nation, and to make a report which would have a far more startling effect than the report of John Brown's raffles in Virginia.

The Committee had completed its labors, and the summing up of the result was represented by a formidable array of cyphers. And the question 'What shall be done with Mr. Hyatt?' was perplexing to the Honorable body as it was to the M. E. Church the query 'What shall be done for the extinction of slavery?'

And the question 'What shall be done with Mr. Hyatt?' was perplexing to the Honorable body as it was to the M. E. Church the query 'What shall be done for the extinction of slavery?'

I can and I won't, I will and I won't. I'll be damned if I do, I'll be damned if I don't. There was certainly no use in imprisoning Mr. Hyatt unless he could be brought to terms.

FROM THE LECTURING FIELD.

Our meeting at Unfield last week was not largely attended, as the evening was rainy, and like most other County Seats, it seems abandoned to moral indolence and prostration.

At Berlin District we had the pleasure of meeting a large number of men and women, full of loyal faith and good works, who have not shrunk from the heat and burdens of the day, struggling with the spectres of a pro-slavery religion, and doing desperate battle against social and political institutions, that deny to the slave his birth-right and heaven inspired freedom.

At Berlin center we found no difficulty in obtaining the M. E. Church for an Anti-slavery meeting—and were it not, that the same inequitable spirit that twenty years ago mobbed, and tarred and feathered one of God's representative children, (who still rejoices in the blessed sunlight of the great part allotted to him; and of the great talent given him for the same) and that to day is still trimming and trucking before popular favor, with a miserable medium of success—we might have addressed a much larger, though surely, not more appreciative audience, than we had the pleasure of meeting.

The reflection seemed irrefragable that while the all devouring spirit of persecutions, that hurled its thunders and its fire, at the new-born utterance of Anti-slavery truth, is departed—sun to silence, like a taper flamed; from that chaos Anti Slavery is creating practical men and women, who a inspired words, are to abide in living hearts, as the life and inspiration of thinking, born and unborn. 'Let us work then, as these work—' Like a star unobscured, yet unsetting.'

I have requested each one who ordered the surf to write and report progress—I give extracts from a few letters received. M. Goscher, Vigo, Co. Ind., says: I confess I had no more faith in your cure when I wrote than was necessary for a man's salvation, but I have been both surprised and astonished at its results in what cases we have tried. Another: "It has cured my boy and girl of Ague, and father of Rheumatism."

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY UNEXPECTEDLY MADE BY A FARMER'S WIFE.—It has been lately, the opinion of all our most skillful Physicians, that the Fever and Ague, Neuralgia and Rheumatic Affections, are caused by the destruction, or absence of a certain vital principle, or quality in the Blood. This theory has recently been confirmed, in a truly simple discovery by a Farmer's Wife. This lady was suddenly, and at the time, to every one, unaccountably cured of Neuralgia, which had afflicted her for over a year; while handling a well known vegetable, found growing on every farm in the country. Since then it is only found necessary to cure either of these complaints, that a small Poultice be prepared by mashing fine the green herb, and placing it upon the Pulse of the wrist on retiring to rest at night. It appears to be absorbed into the circulation of the blood, and thus this vital quality of Principle is carried to every part of the system. It was thus myself and a number of others have been at once relieved, after having undergone the usual and vexatious years of medication, to only a temporary advantage. To my knowledge there has been no instance of recurrence or failure. This plant when taken on an empty stomach in tea or otherwise, appears to possess none of these curative qualities.

A young man cleared over a month's wages in a flying trip to Western Ohio to see a friend, in April. Since he has returned, and with a full stomach, he shall make over $100 in May, and there is but any charge for boarding; besides they frequently pay me five times my charge for the cure, which is generally $1 a piece. They do this because they are astonished out of their wits at its simple way of curing them so soon. I have not time half gone over this county yet, &c. &c.

While fortunes have been realized out of Patent Medicines at $1 a bottle, not I believe, to be compared with this—this costs nothing and stands invitingly at every farmers door. I am allowed, and will, for the general good, send (for four weeks only) to any village or neighborhood where two or more will club together and send me $3—full particulars so that any one, even a child may apply it.

It can be applied without detection if desired. To editors inserting this one time I will send particulars. Respectfully, J. D. COPELAND, Columbiana, Ohio, June 9, 1860.
