Resort to Gross Deceit.

The extent to which the Democratic Press Bureau is driven in order to find some basis for attack upon the Willis administration is shown by the statement sent broadcast this week by the Democratic Publicity Bureau, to the effect that more than twice as much money was appropriated for the new Agricultural Commission under the Smith-Mallow act as has been appropriated for the old Democratic high salaried Commission which has been abolished. Figures given by the Democratic Publicity Bureau purport to show that $830,000 had been appropriated per year for the new Commission, as compared with $419,000 for the old.

These figures would be decidedly interesting if they had any basis in fact. A mere glance, however, at state reports issued under the Democratic administration which this press bureau endeavors to defend shows how false are the statements made in this regard. On pages 90 and 91 of the report of Democratic State Auditor Donahey, it is stated in clear figures that the total appropriations for the Agricultural Commission in 1913 totalled $869,732.29 and that the amount actually spent in 1913 totalled $845,966.70.

The budget submitted by Budget Commissioner W. O. Hefferman shows specific appropriations available for the Agricultural Commission in 1914 of $877,695.42 and estimated receipts in addition appropriated in a lump sum of $390,000, a total available for the Department of $1,267,695.42. This report shows that for the three quarters of a year ending November 15, 1914, the Agricultural Department had spent $651,273.22.

Under the old appropriation system as carried out by the Cox administration, large appropriations were concealed in lump sums in the provision that "receipts and balances" should be expended in addition to the specific appropriations. In the case of the Fish and Game Commission these receipts in 1914 amounted to $179,664.53. Under the new appropriation this form of expenditure which led to gross abuse in almost every department of the state in which it was permitted has been abolished and every department has been told exactly what it could spend. The $6,000,000 concealed under receipts and balances in the preceding two years cannot be repeated now. The last legislature, considering every want, decided that $834,638.65 would amply leave a considerable balance to be lapsed into the treasury. It is provided, for example, that the Fish and Game Commission can only spend its receipts, and if the receipts do not reach the amount appropriated the expenses must be less than the appropriations.

It is certainly a sorry spectacle when a press bureau is driven to use ludicrous falsifications in or-

To England Concerning America.

BY CALVIN DILLS WILSON.

(In reply to the verses "To America Concerning England," by William Watson, the British poet, in which he censures American Neutrality, blaming the republic for not aiding Britain in the war.)

Art thou a Mother then, who aimed at birth
To slay the Babe, which looked on eyes of hate?
Who hired the savages to kill the child?
Was't thou who struck the stripling in his teens?
When Man full-grown, was't thou who hoped the sword
Would cleave him sundered in the Civil Strife?
When in the trial hour had we thy love?
Art Mother of our millions who ne'er saw
Thine island?
Critic-censor thou, thy scorn
And wrath have followed all our upward way,
Our lamps of thought all thine? The flames of Greece,
Of Rome and Palestine? The children we
Of Europe, not of one lone isle aside.
Our fathers cleared the woods, and thou the toll
Wouldst take. They grew a Washington, and thou
Wouldst pare him down to Captain of thy guards.
We thank thee for the good. We thank all lands
From which came light and warmth. We bless all those Who brought the fire from heav'n. We thank all men
Of thought, invention, art, of every place.
Didst thou discover Man, his speech, his mind?
Invent his letters, laws? Was Adam born
In England? Homer? Socrates? The Christ?
Thy little thousand years are not our Past,
But all the countless ages man has climbed.
We love fair England well, but Man the more;
Our Mother is the Earth, our Brethren Men;
We've many brethren, and thou art but one.
Neutral? With infamy we'd stain the flag
To take a part in quarrels thou and all
Thy foes have guilty share in fostering.
Thou reignest o'er four hundred million souls;
Thine allies are three hundred millions more;
Thou rulest the seas; thou bringest from Ind,
From Africa, every corner friends to help;
Thou need'st no more to war with kingdoms twain—
An hundred-fifty millions 'gainst thy hosts.
Now thine own battles fight. Ours we have fought
Even with thee, for right and leave to be.
But at the last, with all our might we'll aid
The Briton, Teuton, Russ and Gaul by peace,
And stand for equal justice, right for all.
Our guns are silent. The Republic waits.

THE GREAT CROSS ROADS WHERE BUYER AND SELLER MEET

There's a good cheer among rural folks. Harvest is generous. Ohio State Fair is the cross roads where buyer and seller meet. The business farmer makes wares visiting America's greatest exposition.

Premiums are liberal. Catalog may be had by asking. A trip to the State Fair is a profit shopping tour. All signs now indicate record attendance and exhibits. The grounds are beautiful, made so by the art of the landscape gardener. The many requests for space assure that the ground will be filled with the newest and the best.

Donahey Issues Another Statement.

Columbus, Ohio, July 17, (Special)—The entire force in the department of Auditor of State Donahey was kept busy today preparing and mailing out a mimeographed statement attacking the Republican party. Mr. Donahey submitted this statement to the printing commission for publication at state expense and upon the refusal of this commission to so expend the state's money for partisan purposes, put his entire force at work mimeographing it and mailing it out.

The report, which purports to deal with state finances, is a gross partisan statement prepared, it is said here, at the demand of the Democratic State Committee which, it is stated upon authority, has sent an ultimatum to Mr. Donahey that he must get busy attacking the present Republican administration if he expects support for the re-nomination, which he has already announced he covets next year.

The statement in question was prepared by Mr. Tannyhill, a Democratic publicity agent installed in Mr. Donahey's department as statistician at a salary of $2000 a year, as compared with the salary of $1350 per year paid the statistician, who actually worked, before Mr. Donahey took office. No statistics, however, appear in the last report of the auditor of state, so there is much curiosity about the state house as to just what functions Mr. Tannyhill performs aside from those of a Democratic publicity man in that department.

Mr. Donahey, in his statement, says that "Governor Willis is being deceived and misled by Republican politicians just as Governor Cox was by Democratic politicians."

The general opinion here is that Mr. Donahey, at the demand of Chairman Finley, has set about a deliberate campaign of misrepresentation to bolster up his desire for a second term.

The statement issued today is so manifestly partisan in its allegations that it will probably not be given much consideration.

Nervous Diseases.

A person may have nervous disease without trembling or shaking. Nervous affections affect the mind as well as the body. Some have morbid fears and melancholy. The will power is weakened and sometimes almost entirely lost. The memory is often poor and sleep does not give rest. There is often lost the disposition for work, and it is more and more a painful effort to perform the daily duties, and when there is palpitation of the heart and loss of muscular strength, with resulting poor circulation, the victim of nervous disease is in need of immediate help. Better consult a specialist. Who will you consult? Dr. Kutchin has been visiting your county for over twenty years. You may consult him with confidence. If he does not think he can help you he will tell you so. Dr. Kutchin's next visit to Greenville, will be on Thursday, July 22, at the Hotel James. —Adv

Gettysburg.

C. J. Miller and wife are doing Chicago to extract some enjoyment from investigating what it has for excursionists. It is presumed it has soda fountains, etc., from which to dispense refreshments in need of some to appease the appetite and refresh the body.

J. H. Moul and wife were visitors at Bradford yesterday among relatives, so also was Mrs. Ola Brandon.

P. B. Miller and wife were guests of D. Moul and family of Pleasant Hill yesterday, and becoming rain-bound remained over night, returning home this morning.

This appears to be a season with plenty of rain. Wheat is not all cut yet, and very little stored in the barn. Much loss has resulted to the crops on account of the frequent and copious rains. Much of the corn and tobacco planted on the low land will be killed or drowned out.

F. P. Lehman has become something of a ditcher, finding it necessary for the proper drainage of his cellar to cut a ditch of considerable length and to a depth of eight feet in some places.

C. O. Martin moved his family into the Presbyterian manse today as a place to abide for a time indefinite. Occupying that tenement will not convert him into a pastor for that church.

The vaudeville that had been furnishing entertainment for our people for two weeks, besides supplying them with the needful to improve their health, folded its tent and departed the place, and a serious question now presents itself as to how our people will survive the shock of getting along without it. We hardly know how we are to adjust ourselves to a change devoid of the excitement that that performance furnished. The question, of course, would not be so serious were it not for the fact that such large numbers of our people attended. The adjustment will be the more serious on account of the large number involved, but I suppose this will be like many other accidents of life, time will adjust it. Time is a great factor in determining many things.
