The celebrated Wabash ditch case was won in the Supreme court last week by Darke county. A couple of years ago this case was started, when Mercer county sued to recover an assessment against this county, for its alleged share of this improvement, amounting to $12,208.90, placed against the county by the Board of Awards, appointed to make the assessments. The Mercer county court of common pleas found in favor of Mercer county, but the court of appeals of that county reversed the decision of the lower court, and last week the supreme court affirmed the decision of the court of appeals. The supreme court held that after the matter had been agreed upon by arbitration, it was not proper to raise the question of constitutionality, as Mercer county did.

Obituary.

John Hawkins was born at Richmond, Ind., September 18, 1836, and departed this life November 8, 1915, aged 79 years, 1 month and 20 days. He was the son of Nathan and Sarah Hawkins. He lived at Richmond until the call of his country came for volunteers, and he enlisted in Co. I, I. V. I., and served nearly three years, being honorably discharged November 23, 1864, by reason of wounds in battle. He was united in marriage to Martha A. Jessup January 26, 1865, and lived happily together until May 3, 1913, when she was called to the spirit world. To this union were born five children—one daughter, Sarah B., who resides at home; four sons—William H. of Greenville, Ohio, Charles N. of Darke Co., Ohio, John E. of Ashtabula Co., Ohio, Oliver M. of Lynn, Ind., thirteen grandchildren also survive, one preceding him to the glory world; and he leaves one sister and four brothers. Most of his life was spent on a farm; for 21 years he lived on his farm in Darke county, O.; then retiring from active farming, he moved to his late home in Spartansburg, Indiana. Shortly after his marriage, while living in Illinois, as he had served his country, he decided to serve his God and Master, and was converted and joined the M. E. church and has always been a member ever since. He was a man of few words, but of deep convictions. For the last few years he had been blind to the things of this world, but when talked to about the heavenly things said everything was bright to him. Jesus, while our hearts are bleeding, O'er the spoils that death hath won, We would at this solemn meeting calmly say, Thy will be done.

Card of Thanks. We thank our many friends and neighbors for their assistance during the sickness and death of our father, also for the beautiful floral offerings.
