Hats and Fixings.

If one possesses a good looking tailor-made from last fall's outfit it is quite possible to use it to advantage, with smart new accessories that draw attention to themselves and the wearer rather than to the costume. Care and attention given to the selection of smart small belongings are worth while for up-to-date-ness in minor points often counts very large in the sum total of one's appearance.

New Bags.

One smart shop here reports sending a buyer on a flying trip to Paris lately, just to secure the last thing in bags, blouses and neck fixings, and the way the women surround these counters in that particular place bears witness to the worth-whileness of their effort. Beaded bags are first favorites for dress wear. Some of them done in steel on dark silk or leather, suit any time of day, while others suggest the vivid color creations of the famous Russian ballet, which is again entrancing the eye of the metropolis. Nothing is too elegant or gorgeous to pose as a bag, and no accessory adds more in effectiveness, if well worn, or relieves the sombreness or monotony of a costume more gratefully, but used with a fussy background such articles cease to be smart or attractive.

Neck Fixings and Pelerines.

Collars have become capes or fichus in the newest dispensation, have assumed the hues of rainbow, and added to themselves vests in many instances. Chin-Chin ruffs continue modish and nearly meet the small turban shapes with which type of hat they usually go best. Spanish influence is no doubt responsible for the mantillas and pelerines that have broken out in very deluge of taffeta fabrics, in colors so dainty and folds so voluminous that they are a joy to the eye. For general wear these garments are made up in black, which goes with anything anywhere, but for wear with fussy frocks no color is too delicate, and changeables are to the fore again. Faille and satin are used for long coats that cover the costume where a bit more warmth is demanded and trimmings of marabout are favorites with these.

Pagodas.

With the introduction of the Chinese note in this season's fashions, pagoda suggestions are prominent in hats and parasols. The latter come in many ribbed forms and are quite as apt to be square as circular, and duplex rather than single, as are many of the hats with trimmings nestled under the overhanging part. Chin straps and long ends of ribbon or velvet or tulle hang from the back of the hat or are disposed about the throat at the whim of the wearer, and many of these ends are ornamented with small nosegays or other devices.

Spanish Combs and Fans.

To go with Spanish motifs in dress design, huge combs adorn the coiffure and the fan assumes unusual importance. A fan of white ostrich feathers held flat against the frame has little tips fluffing softly at intervals, the long wooden handle finished with a small rosette in silk of vivid color. Another has a handle of yellow tortoise shell and natural peacock feathers and is set with brilliants. Tulle scarfs, just two yards, cut off the piece unhemmed, are worn by everyone in the evening and fashion points to the coming of the straight heeled Spanish shoe.

Rheumatic Pain Stopped.

The drawing of muscles, the soreness, stiffness and agonizing pain of Rheumatism quickly yield to Sloan's Liniment. It stimulates circulation to the painful part. Just apply as directed to the sore spots. In a short time the pain gives way to a tingling sensation of comfort and warmth. Here's proof—"I have had wonderful relief since I used your Liniment on my knee. To think one application gave me relief. Sorry I haven't space to tell you the history. Thanking you for what your remedy has done for me."—James S. Ferguson, Philadelphia, Pa. Sloan's Liniment kills pain. 25c at druggists. —Adv

Palestine.

The first tractor plow ever put in use at this place was in J. B. Wilcox's field, south of town, last week. It attracted quite a number of spectators.

C. E. Harris and wife visited T. J. Wilson's last Sunday.

Owing to the sudden attack of illness of Mr. Cresger the performance of the play scheduled by the Mountain Maid Co., to be given at Spartansburg last Saturday night, was postponed.

Pupils of the primary and intermediate grades of our school observed Arbor and Clean-up Day last Friday.

Miss Gladys Perry entertained a party of her young friends last Sunday.

Mrs. George Harris is visiting her father at Columbus, O., at present.

Gettysburg.

On last Saturday morning we beheld a scene resembling mid-winter so much that if we had not known we were in the April zone we would readily have concluded the lines had fallen to us in January. The ground was covered with several inches of snow, the temperature pretty low, the wind chilling and the snow drifted to a considerable extent. This closed the outside shops and work was suspended for the day. Since then a more favorable aspect has been enforced, but overcoats and wraps have been in large demand.

D. Moul of Pleasant Hill was a visitor here last Thursday night, and attended Masonic lodge meeting.

On last Friday afternoon this place enjoyed some rather unique, not to say novel, entertainment. A contest in Domestic Science by the pupils in both the township and village. The larger and the smaller pupils, while it is no part of the curriculum of the schools, yet it was undertaken to show what children can do when tried and for which a premium was paid for the best, and strange to say, one little girl, aged about seven years, took a first premium on cake, and all did so well that it was difficult to distribute the honor to whom honor was due. But this is the first experience in this direction and we reasonably expect some improvement in the next attempt. A mistake was made in not classifying the contestants. As done, the small pupil had to contest with the larger, an act without fairness. Let a different rule prevail hereafter and the tot will reap some consideration and fair treatment.

Our Christian Ladies' Aid of the Beech church held a bazaar and market here last Saturday afternoon and feel quite elated over the success they secured in the sale of their products and the liberal sum they realized, which amounted to more than $50. They will doubtless feel an inclination to duplicate their venture.

On next Saturday afternoon and evening our M. E. ladies will serve some sort of refreshments and a good social time in the basement of our M. E. church. May they have the generous support of our community. It is a foregone conclusion that they will be equal to the occasion, and render liberal support as surely will be deserved.

Miss Lizzie Moul and Homer Miller of Pleasant Hill were visitors here over Saturday and Sunday among relatives and friends.

The third quarterly conference and meeting of this circuit will be held at Horatio next Sunday in an all-day meeting. The superintendent of this district will be present to conduct the services in the administration of the sacrament and the baptism of persons desiring the rite.

Easter is approaching, and it is needful to begin taking thought about it. It is on that day that our M. E. Sunday school expects to have an attendance of two hundred, more rather than less. Some excellent music and interesting exercises will make the occasion worth while. Let everybody be there and show their appreciation of the purpose to have a large school.

The Bishops of the M. E. church have adopted a scheme whereby to increase mission funds by prescribing self-denial from luxuries for one week, and the money that would be so expended diverted into the mission fund. This, of course, applies only to members of that church, but suppose it does, and they all respond, think of the vast fund it will make. That week is designated as next week. This is an experiment, and suppose it should be generally adopted, may it not be said everybody would be the better for such abstinence? Let it be tried and see results. This may be done not only by M. E. people, but may be observed by everybody.

Avoid Spring Colds.

Sudden changes, high winds, shifting seasons cause colds and gripe, and these spring colds are annoying and dangerous and are likely to turn into a chronic summer cough. In such cases take a treatment of Dr. King's New Discovery, a pleasant Laxative Tar Syrup. It soothes the cough, checks the cold and helps break up an attack of gripe. It's already prepared, no mixing or fussing. Just ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. Tested and tried for over 40 years. —Adv

Test Your Seed Oats.

The seed laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture has recently made germination tests of seed oats from the states of Indiana, Iowa and Kansas. These should represent a fair average of the seed that will be sowed this spring, as the seed came from farmers in response to requests for samples of the oats they are going to sow themselves.

The average germination was lowest for Indiana and highest for Iowa. Of the 2,900 samples tested from the three states 268, or over 9 per cent, germinated less than 75 per cent; 122 samples, or over four per cent, germinated less than 50 per cent; and 54 samples, or nearly 2 per cent, germinated less than 25 per cent. This shows that much of the seed oats intended to be used this spring germinates poorly and that germination tests should be made in all cases before sowing.

At the same time that the above tests were made 576 samples taken from car lots of commercial oats were tested, the average germination being 78 per cent. This shows that where commercial oats must be depended on for a seed supply it is even more important to test the seed for germination than when local supplies are relied on.

Seed showing a low germination should either not be sowed or enough extra seed should be used to insure getting a good stand.
