GREENVILLE, OHIO, THURSDAY, MAY 18, 1916

No. 46.

Savona.

The seasonal weather of the past few days has been of great benefit to the farmers in this vicinity. Some corn is being planted, but there is much plowing to do yet.

George Bowen of Crete, Ind., and Robert Davidson of Greenville made a social call on our genial grain dealer, J. C. Cole, last Monday.

B. H. Clay did paper hanging for Cliff Drew last week.

Garden making has been the leading industry with our citizens the past few days.

J. C. Cole and family, B. H. Clay and son Eugene and Herman Warner did shopping in Greenville Saturday.

David Smith and wife entertained relatives last week.

Cliff Drew and family entertained his father, brother and brother-in-law and their families Sunday. S. M. Odell was an after-dinner caller.

J. W. Ashbaugh and wife entertained friends from Brookville Sunday.

The attendance at our Sunday school yesterday was 165. The school is growing, both in attendance and interest, each Sunday.

A very appropriate and pleasing Mothers' Day program was rendered at the close of the study period, consisting of essays and declamations, and a quartette composed of Mrs. Sylvan Jenkinson, soprano; Miss Stella Wright, alto; C. M. Wright, tenor; and Grover Browder, bass; sang that beautiful, soul-stirring song, entitled "Tell Mother I'll Be There," in a very impressive manner and many were the tears shed by the audience.

We wish to commend the thought expressed in the paper read on the subject, "Mothers as Home-Makers." The speaker emphasized the fact that the mother is the greatest factor in the home life. She alone can create and formulate the atmosphere of the home. What is home without a mother? What a blessing it would be to the world today if all womankind could realize the responsibilities and duties resting upon them. But it is a sad fact that there are many women in this age who do not comprehend the great purposes of an all wise Creator, or at least their actions and mode of life do not correspond to the thought.

The rubber flip-jack in the hands of the small boy is becoming somewhat of a nuisance and we think ought to be dispensed with before something serious takes place.

J. C. Cole and family spent Sunday out of town.

C. O. Martin and wife of Greenville attended Sunday school here and spent the afternoon with friends near here.

Robert Davidson and party of friends motored through here Sunday afternoon.

Palestine.

Mrs. Alice G. Hoyle of Sidney, O., inspected the Palestine Temple of Pythian Sisters last Friday night.

H. D. McCabe and family and A. S. Parent and family visited John Parent Sunday.

Herman Throp and sisters of Kokon, Ind., visited O. V. Metzcar's last Sunday.

Mrs. Hattie Harris gave a very impressive address at Mothers' Day exercises at the Disciple church Sunday.

John Tobin and F. P. Harding are the owners of new Fords.

T. J. Wilson and wife motored to Ansonia and other points last Sunday afternoon.

The time for the decoration of the graves of our soldier dead is close at hand. Let us not forget our duty to them and to those who are still with us. When we cover the graves of departed friends with flowers, let us remember with deeds of kindness, and flowers also, the living who can appreciate them. Let us remember that this is a solemn, a sacred and a sorrowful day, not a day for boisterous mirth and picnics. At least we should observe decorum proper for the day.

"Because of lack of training, the Arabians are extremely poor," said Dr. Paul W. Harrison, recently a medical missionary in Arabia, who spoke in the chapel of the Ohio State University Wednesday. "I have been told," Dr. Harrison continued, "of one Bedouin who wore one garment for five years, and when it began to drop off he bought a new one, but put it on without removing the old one."

The Arabians, according to the speaker, are by no means an inferior race, but lack of opportunity has handicapped them. For this reason, it was shown, missionary workers in this field were necessary.

In discussing the character of the country, Dr. Harrison went on to say that the seasons are determined by the great numbers of insects which prevail at different times. The fly season comes first, during which time the flies are so thick that more can be found on one square foot than can be found anywhere else on four square feet. The following season is marked by the coming of the fleas.

The Arab in spite of his many inconveniences remains cheerful, and even the poorest of them feels a contempt for other men, whom he regards as infidels.

Gettysburg.

Rev. Jacob Keller and wife of Dallas Center, Iowa, are here for a visit and clerical duty among relatives and friends for a week or more.

D. Moul, wife and daughter Lizzie, of Pleasant Hill, were visitors here yesterday.

Frank Luzena is now the owner of an auto and is extracting a good deal of pleasure out of it, but expects a larger measure of enjoyment from it after he becomes more expert in running it.

It requires some tact to run the vehicle with success.

I. B. Miller returned home from Chicago last week where he had been to buy a supply of furniture sufficient to meet the wants of our community.

Mothers' Day was duly observed here yesterday in our M. E. church with a sermon by the pastor appropriate for such occasions. The emblem of the white carnation was in evidence, pinned on every mother, and some who are not mothers. It was all very fitting and the sermon quite appropriate and it met a favorable response and endorsement from the audience, which consisted of a well-filled auditorium.

Our M. E. Sunday school had an attendance yesterday of 119. This can be improved upon if the people who fail to attend or attend with large breaks in their habit. The people are here but for some cause, though insufficient, fail in performing their religious duty in giving a worthy example to their fellows.

Amos Root, an aged resident of Franklin township, died very suddenly while alone in his home last night. When church hour came he and his wife discussed the subject of going and he not feeling quite as well as usual, said to her that she should go without him and he would remain at home and upon her return, about 9 o'clock, she found him lying on the bed: life had gone out but a short time before her arrival home. In the midst of life we are in death. There is no telling when the messenger of death may come. Interment will be made Wednesday in Abbotsville cemetery.

Keith Canan of Cincinnati is circulating among relatives and friends here for a short time.

Lieut. E. L. Bigler, wife and children, of Norfolk, Va., are here spending a month's vacation among relatives and friends of his native heath.

It seems a spirit of improvement has again visited our village authority and a considerable improvement in sidewalks is planned for the convenience of the people. Let them come as fast as needed.

Protect the Birds.

It has taken more than twenty years of steady work by the National Audubon Society to demonstrate the economic value of the birds to agriculture, and the result is seen in our state laws protecting song birds and the federal laws protecting migratory game birds. Incidentally, bird sanctuaries have been established in several places. Henry Ford's, near Detroit, and Avery Island, on the gulf coast, given by Mrs. Russell Sage, are noteworthy.

Several state preserves have been set aside for the same protection. The bird club movement strives to save the birds, with objects both economic and esthetic. Bird club organizations have taken firm hold in several of our largest cities, and have brought about increased attractiveness to parks and residential sections by reclaiming the wild native birds.

The methods include planting trees and shrubs suitable for nesting places and bearing acceptable fruit for food, and the provision of drinking fountains for bird use.

The methods have proved successful—and does anything add more charm to outdoors in a city than bird songs?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Aches of House Cleaning.

The pain and soreness caused by bruises, over-exertion and straining during house cleaning time are soothed away by Sloan's Liniment. No need to suffer this agony. Just apply Sloan's Liniment to the sore spots, rub only a little. In a short time the pain leaves, you rest comfortably and enjoy a refreshing sleep. One grateful user writes: "Sloan's Liniment is worth its weight in gold." Keep a bottle on hand, use it against all Soreness, Neuralgia and Bruises. Kills pain. 25c at your druggist. —Adv

New Jersey's Champion Angler. The official records of the Asbury Park (N. J.) Fishing club for the season just closed show that the biggest fish caught off the Jersey coast was landed by Jacob Wertheim of New York city. Mr. Wertheim landed a 286 pound tuna. It took him an hour and seventeen minutes to land the monster tuna.

According to the official scribe of the club, the fish dragged Mr. Wertheim's boat three miles before he was brought to gaff.

Mr. Wertheim also landed the largest striped bass. The fish weighed 45 pounds 13 ounces and was caught by Mr. Wertheim from his private pier at Deal.

CRIME AGAINST CHILDHOOD.

Bellaire, O.—(Special).—Superintendent Gillespie of the Belmont County Children's home says in a statement that when Belmont county was dry, the number of children in the home decreased until there were but 48. When the county became wet the number of children in the home began to increase, and now there are 118 inmates. Superintendent Gillespie further says that 90 per cent of the children in the home are from here; 10 of drunkards.

TOLEDO LIQUOR MAN SHOWS IGNORANCE

Says License Money Helps Support the Schools.

Toledo, O.—(Special).—Quite a flurry has been caused in this city this spring because the children in the public schools have been writing essays on the evils of the liquor traffic. A number of older persons have taken up the discussions in the newspapers. A liquor dealer in writing to a local paper says in his letter of protest:

"I am a liquor man and proud of it, with several children in our public schools; and the only effect these essays have is to prejudice these children against those of saloon men. I wonder how many of these same children realize they are procuring an education from the taxes derived from the business they are so ignorantly trying to condemn."

This saloonkeeper, and all others who do not know, should understand that not a dollar of the liquor tax in this state is expended on the schools. Not only is this Toledo saloonkeeper ignorant, but there are many engaged in the business who frankly proclaim they are proud of the traffic.

CHILDREN OF DRINKERS ARE HANDICAPPED

Juvenile Court Official Gives Interesting Experience.

Dayton, O.—(Special).—Marie J. Burch, probation officer in the juvenile court of Montgomery county, has rendered an opinion based on conditions as disclosed by the cases brought before that court. In the letter this probation officer says:

"At least 75 per cent of the cases brought into this court may be attributed directly or indirectly to intoxicating liquors as the cause. Almost every family with which we have to deal are in the habit of having beer at home and allowing the children to drink it. The children of parents addicted to the use of intoxicating liquor are usually incorrigible. This view, I may say, is based on the observation of children whose parents are moderate drinkers. In the home of the confirmed drunkard the children degenerate rapidly."

OFFER NOT ACCEPTED

Moving Picture Magazine Makes Proposition to Liquor Dealers.

New York.—(Special).—Following the action of the National Liquor Dealers' association in adopting resolutions protesting that the moving picture industry untruthfully magnifies barroom scenes, thus prejudicing its patrons against the liquor traffic, liquor journals have opened fire on the movies for what is termed their injustice to the saloon interests. The Photoplay Magazine for May comes back with this shot, which staggers the whole liquor camp.

"We hereby offer to run a set of pictures fully descriptive of any big thoughts, high ideals, public spirited actions, or types of splendid manhood, which the saloon business may have evolved or will evolve."

The offer, needless to say, has not been accepted.

Brewery Did Not Want Drinker. Cincinnati, O.—(Special).—The daughter of John Moerlein, president of the Moerlein Brewing company of this city, in suing her husband for divorce, charges among other things that because of his drinking proclivities her father dismissed him from service in his brewing company. The brewers complain when other lines of business and industry refuse jobs to men who drink. They want others to take care of the derelicts made by booze.

Washington's Big Saving. The state of Washington is figuring her savings under prohibition. Under license the drink bill of the state was estimated at $2,750,000 a month. Permits to import liquor for personal use are issued under prohibition. In January of this year 3,277 of such permits were issued. In the full quantity and the maximum cost these permits involved the expenditure of $10,000, or less than half of 1 per cent of the amount paid for liquor under license. No wonder the people of Washington are delighted with the big saving.
