

Religious Miscellany.

LEAVE IT WITH HIM.

You leave it with Him, And He will do it. And they grow in the dew— They grow in the dew— They grow in the dew—

They grow in the dew— They grow in the dew— They grow in the dew— They grow in the dew—

Sunday-School Lessons.

July 29—Isaac defeated at Ai. Josh. 7:1-29 Aug. 5—The Healing of the Leper. Luke 14:1-11

RIDDLES SOLVED BY RELIGION.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

It is a superficial allegation often made that religion but solves the riddles of existence by resolving them into another riddle.

For Young Readers.

ARCHIE'S MISTAKE.

Archibald Stone is Archie's name. And Daley Stone, that's Daley; Mamma and Papa's are just the same.

Daley and I are twins, you know, Exactly eight years old; We are just alike from top to toe, And our hair is just like gold.

TAKING CARE OF THE BABY.

Yes, Nora is a bother. I don't mind taking care of Agnes one bit, for the mind around and is real good-natured.

My! how hot and dusty it was! Sam was real good when we got to the field, and went up the tree quick as a flash and picked lots of cherries.

She fretted and cried and swallowed a cherry-stone, and nearly choked to death. She then set the pall that had all filled!

It was pouring and thundering and lightning, and the wind was blowing and there was an awful storm.

I thought I could hear Nora crying, but she was not there. I looked under the blackberry bushes and everywhere, and I called at the top of my voice, but nobody answered.

When I ran by the stable, I saw Sam's feet sticking out at the window in the hay loft, and I climbed up the ladder, with my heart going flippity-flop, so I could hardly breathe.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

he had little girls of his own; so he wrote a reply, by the return mail, that the ostrich was at once to be given to its rightful owner, who lost no time in getting well.

Does anybody ask: "How can Aunt Marjorie make a bit of advice out of this?" Well, you know we were pills up in sugar; and so we tell stories, and hide lessons within them.

A brave heart is always a tender heart, children. No matter how busy you are, you may, like Sir John Lawrence, take time to do a kind act for some one who is weaker than yourself.

Well, last Saturday Jimmy Jones' grandfather promised me ten cents if I picked cherries enough to fill two pails for him, and Sam said he would help me to do it.

Tommy looked about, and soon found three bugs, which he placed near the house, and then stood back a short distance to see the result. Soon the bugs began to move away.

The next evening Tommy went again into the garden, and soon found the object of his search ready for his supper. At first the toad was shy, but he soon learned to sit still while Tommy picked the cherries.

Now, let us pick up and go to some summer resort. I will pass by the work of getting ready and also the cost, also the journey, which may be very pleasant or very disagreeable, according to circumstances.

It was pouring and thundering and lightning, and the wind was blowing and there was an awful storm. I ran home and never thought of baby till I saw Aggie in the hall.

I thought I could hear Nora crying, but she was not there. I looked under the blackberry bushes and everywhere, and I called at the top of my voice, but nobody answered.

When I ran by the stable, I saw Sam's feet sticking out at the window in the hay loft, and I climbed up the ladder, with my heart going flippity-flop, so I could hardly breathe.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

The Parsees of India.

The Parsees of India are the descendants of the ancient Persian "fire-worshippers." They claim a history back to Abraham. The Zendavesta is their holy book, and the venerated Zoroaster, who flourished B. C. 550, is their great prophet.

A brave heart is always a tender heart, children. No matter how busy you are, you may, like Sir John Lawrence, take time to do a kind act for some one who is weaker than yourself.

Well, last Saturday Jimmy Jones' grandfather promised me ten cents if I picked cherries enough to fill two pails for him, and Sam said he would help me to do it.

Tommy looked about, and soon found three bugs, which he placed near the house, and then stood back a short distance to see the result. Soon the bugs began to move away.

The next evening Tommy went again into the garden, and soon found the object of his search ready for his supper. At first the toad was shy, but he soon learned to sit still while Tommy picked the cherries.

Now, let us pick up and go to some summer resort. I will pass by the work of getting ready and also the cost, also the journey, which may be very pleasant or very disagreeable, according to circumstances.

It was pouring and thundering and lightning, and the wind was blowing and there was an awful storm. I ran home and never thought of baby till I saw Aggie in the hall.

I thought I could hear Nora crying, but she was not there. I looked under the blackberry bushes and everywhere, and I called at the top of my voice, but nobody answered.

When I ran by the stable, I saw Sam's feet sticking out at the window in the hay loft, and I climbed up the ladder, with my heart going flippity-flop, so I could hardly breathe.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

been placed on the tower, and half a hundred greedy vultures had gorged themselves with human flesh, and were sitting stupid and satiated, lazily waiting for another grand meal. The Parsees defend this mode of disposing of the dead on sanitary grounds, especially in large cities, and look with disgust on other customs. But give us the bible method of burial, and the grave for our departed, with the dear old formula: "Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust." Following our Savior into the tomb, we have the glad hope of a glorious resurrection.—Cor. Troy (N. Y.) Times.

A Foundling Hospital in London.

The Foundling Hospital, situated in Guilford Street, was founded by Mr. Thomas Coram, a mercantile captain, who became interested in the fate of the numerous infants who a century and a half since were so frequently to be seen exposed in the streets, where they were left to perish by their parents.

Well, last Saturday Jimmy Jones' grandfather promised me ten cents if I picked cherries enough to fill two pails for him, and Sam said he would help me to do it.

Tommy looked about, and soon found three bugs, which he placed near the house, and then stood back a short distance to see the result. Soon the bugs began to move away.

The next evening Tommy went again into the garden, and soon found the object of his search ready for his supper. At first the toad was shy, but he soon learned to sit still while Tommy picked the cherries.

Now, let us pick up and go to some summer resort. I will pass by the work of getting ready and also the cost, also the journey, which may be very pleasant or very disagreeable, according to circumstances.

It was pouring and thundering and lightning, and the wind was blowing and there was an awful storm. I ran home and never thought of baby till I saw Aggie in the hall.

I thought I could hear Nora crying, but she was not there. I looked under the blackberry bushes and everywhere, and I called at the top of my voice, but nobody answered.

When I ran by the stable, I saw Sam's feet sticking out at the window in the hay loft, and I climbed up the ladder, with my heart going flippity-flop, so I could hardly breathe.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Where it Was Hot. "Come from the tropics, I reckon." "The Isthmus," replied the seedy man; "you seem to know me. Did I ever meet you there?" "Never saw you before."

"I thought you might have been there during the hot spell of '67. The heat was so thick that we couldn't tell who was around at that time. That was the year I got this black eye. Run agin a door, and the heat shivered up so that I didn't even know I'd struck a door until the following winter! Any objection to my closing the transom gentlemen? I think I feel a draught!"

"Must be pretty hot in that climate," remarked another of the party. "Warmish," assented the seedy man, with a shiver. "I was in the laundry business there for a time, and I run everybody else out of the trade. None of the rest could get along without scorchin' things, but I just went ahead with pieces of hot ice and made my eternal fortune!"

"Got any of it now?" asked another moving up to give the seedy man room. "No, sir," returned the seedy man with a sigh. "I was in the laundry business there for a time, and I run everybody else out of the trade. None of the rest could get along without scorchin' things, but I just went ahead with pieces of hot ice and made my eternal fortune!"

"How did you get out alive?" asked the host, after offering the seedy man's glass replenished for the fourth time. "That's one of the most curious things you ever heard of," replied the seedy man. "I seen the lightning rod on my back expandin', and that put me up to somethin'."

"I understand," began the President of the Lime-Kiln Club, as the meeting opened in due form, "dat quite a number of the houses surrounding it, and with which the hospital is connected, are made as to the truth of his statements to the exertions of his benevolent founder. Something also is obtained from collections made in the chapel. In the last annual report, for 1880-1, the income was stated to be £11,630, and the number of children maintained by the institution was 404."

The placing of a child in the Foundling Hospital is not effected without trouble. Application must be made before the infant is a year old, and a printed form is then given to the mother to fill in, stating her name, age, occupation, inability to provide for her offspring, the father's name and when deceased, and before which a basket of infant's clothes is enclosed. These are made as to the truth of his statements to the exertions of his benevolent founder.

When I ran by the stable, I saw Sam's feet sticking out at the window in the hay loft, and I climbed up the ladder, with my heart going flippity-flop, so I could hardly breathe. Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can. Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can. Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can. Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.

Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can. Do your best. This is the duty of all, anything less than this is betraying to any man. Whatever your business, never be satisfied with anything less than the very best you can do at the time; and do better next time if you can.