HIS LUNG LEAKS.

W. H. Hohmair, by his attorneys, Gardner & Naylor, has entered suit in the court of common pleas against Dr. W. F. Lenoix for $10,000 damages, says the Galena Republican. In his petition Hohmair alleges that about January 1, 1900, Dr. W. F. Lenoix was employed to attend him in his sickness and that defendant said that plaintiff's illness was caused by an abscess on the lungs and that an operation alone would save his life; that in performing said operation, and in attempting to remove the abscess, through his negligence and unskillfulness, defendant's knife penetrated the plaintiff's lung about four inches, leaving an opening which defendant so negligently left in such a condition that it has never healed, but stands open and allows the air from his lungs to pass out.

A Yorkshire draper found a sixpence on the floor of the shop. There was nothing startling about this, but like the shrewd man he was, he resolved to turn the incident to account and put a notice in his window to this effect: A sum of money found in shop Tuesday last. Owner can have same by stating amount. One by one, nervously and cast down in look, came a perfect throng, amounting to about 200 people, who out of shame-faceness bought something. So each had lost money, some 5s, some more up to 20, but no one had lost sixpence. A splendid advertisement, cheaply obtained, and entirely due to shrewdness.

W. S. O'Brien of Parsons was examined before the pension examiners at Erie, Wednesday. He was a Spanish-American volunteer, and was shot through the top of the head in the battle of Pisig in Luzon. There is a sunken place in the side of his head, where the ball entered half an inch deep and where it went out on top in a place 2½x3½ inches where there is no bone, and the pulsation of the brain can be plainly seen. Besides losing that much of his skull, the shot cracked it in several places.—Parsons Palladium.

W. A. Collins, Monroe, La., writes: "I was completely run down and suffering from nervous trouble that made life a misery; since using Beggs' Blood Purifier I am a well man." For twenty years it has been preventing disease and making sick people well. DeWitt & Thompson.

"Laying on of hands" is said to be a sure cure for the cigarette habit if attended to in time. The left hand should be placed upon the neck of the youngster, with a gentle though firm pressure forward and downward, bringing the urchin in a proper attitude over the maternal knee; then apply the right hand where it will do the most good. Two or three treatments will effect a cure.
