FRISCO GOES TO MAT WITH STREET RAILWAY

(By United Press.) San Francisco, Feb. 26.—When the case of the United Railways against this city is argued in the United States supreme court in March, Senator Hiram Johnson will be one of the attorneys representing the city. Damage suits against the city totaling nearly $7,000,000 are indirectly involved. Johnson's fee will be $10,000.

The United Railways company is suing because the city established a street car system on Market street, paralleling the company's tracks. The city's cars took many thousands in fares that otherwise would have gone to the private concern. The company seeks an injunction to prevent the city operating these lines. Incidentally, San Francisco's street car fare has remained at five cents, while fares in many other cities have jumped to six cents. Friends of the municipal line claim competition is the reason for this.

W. F. DUNN'S ADDRESS

men, and by the stoopiduous and the paid officials of the Anaconda Mining company, and, as I intend to show to you, gentlemen, this prosecution is a result of that persecution. The first issue of the Bulletin was published on Dec. 15, 1917, as a weekly paper, and as we published issue after issue, week after week, we could see the opposition develop, and from whom did it come—from the Employers' association, an organization that is dominated and controlled by the Anaconda Mining company, and the cause of that strength is based this way: One vote for your membership, one vote for every thousand dollars of your payroll, and in the county of Silver Bow, it is not hard to see who runs the Employers' association.

Who are the people that are interested in this case? Who are the people that are furnishing the evidence, such as it is? Who are the people that are encouraging and upholding the hands of the prosecution, and who are the people who are responsible for the election and the appointment of the gentlemen whom I have criticized?

Do you see the gentleman over there with the glasses on? That is Mr. Roy Alley, who is John D. Ryan's private secretary, and head of the Anaconda Mining company. That gentleman (indicating) with the gray hair is Mr. Flannery, who has been employed for a number of years in different positions by the Anaconda Mining company. I could tell you a number of things about him, but I don't care to do so; I don't care to attack a man's personal character. Those are the people interested. Mr. Roy Alley is the best politician and the most influential man in the state of Montana, either with the republican or democratic parties. He goes out to the legislature and to the senate and tells those men down there to jump through the hoop, or lay down and play dead, and they do so. Not only tells the legislators, but tells the high state officials, and I can count on the fingers of that one hand without using all of them, the officials in this state who will not take their orders from Mr. Roy Alley.

It was under these conditions, gentlemen; it was under the demand by the employe of the financial interests of this state that legislation would be passed that would enable them to do something with the only paper in the state of Montana that dared to challenge the Anaconda Mining company on their own territory—on their own ground. That means all this legislation was passed. Counsel for the prosecution tells you about the wonderful work the Montana Council of Defense did in connection with the war. I have here their report made to their legislature in the session sitting here now. They issued 17 orders during the period of the war. I am going to read those orders to you and show you how important they are; how much they assisted the United States in winning the war, and what a terrible act, terrible crime was committed by anyone who wrote anything that might be considered as hampering them in the execution of those orders.

Here is order No. 1. It starts off like this: In order to prevent as far as possible— The County Attorney: Just a moment; pardon me. I don't want to appear to interrupt the defendant, because I have a peculiar hesitancy about doing it. His argument is going to be a matter of an assault upon the Anaconda Mining company and going so far as to point out parties in the audience and to hold them up to contempt. I don't care about that. He is going to read some of the orders, and, except that I be permitted to reply in kind and to go outside the record the same as Mr. Dunn—that if he is permitted to read the orders I be permitted to read the Bulletin to show whether these orders—anything he previously did, was based on the attitude towards the council, or his feeling towards this government, generally. That is, if he goes outside of the record, I would like to be permitted to go outside of the record at the close. Mr. Wheeler: At this time we desire to ask for an exception to the remarks of counsel, not based on anything in the evidence, and as prejudicial wherein he states he would like to introduce and read from newspapers to show what his attitude is towards the war, as counsel knows it to be absolutely beyond any right or authority of this court at all, and we ask for an exception to his remarks, and that the court admonish the jury. The Court: The court is fortunate in having two counsel addressing him at the same time. Now, no one of Mr. Dunn's remarks, except one or two, are pertinent to the issues in this case. No objection was made. If objection was made I would stop the argument. Let him confine himself, as I intimated at the start, to the issues involved in this case, and nothing else. The County Attorney: I did not like to stop him because it might appear I wanted to object to anything he said. All I want is the right to answer on the same line of stuff that he is. The Court: Go ahead and confine yourself to the issues, Mr. Dunn; you haven't done it yet. Mr. Dunn: Well, I will try to, your honor. Do I understand that report of the Montana Council of Defense could not be introduced? Counsel for the prosecution referred to it in his argument. Mr. Wheeler: It is absolutely a legitimate argument and answer to the argument made by counsel for the prosecution, wherein he referred to—as a matter of fact, there was not a scintilla of evidence in this record with reference to the work of the Montana Council of Defense; in this record, Counsel has been pointing to the boys in France, and we say to your honor, that this argument of Mr. Dunn is a legitimate argument in answer to the arguments proposed by the counsel for the prosecution. We did not interrupt him when he did that, and on the general proposition we think the defendant should be entitled to answer the argument of the prosecution. The Court: You have a right to do so. But the argument must be confined to the issues as I intimated here. You may go ahead and do it. If objection is made, why, the court will rule upon it. Mr. Dunn: Then, gentlemen of the jury, counsel for the prosecution called your attention to the eminent respectability of the gentlemen, the members of the Council of Defense, who testified here before you. I have no objection upon that score. I believe they are all eminently respectable. Mr. Lease, Mr. Logan, Mr. Sansborn, lawyers, farmers, contractors and so on, in their own line of work, which is legitimate, they are at least reasonably good citizens and good neighbors to those who live near them, but Mr. Campbell, you will remember, told you here very frankly, though he was somewhat

THE MODEL CITY OF THE WORLD

(By United Press.) Valdez, Alaska, Feb. 26.—Because not a single arrest has been made in this city during the last seven months, Valdez claims the honor of being the model city of the world. The officials had a bad scare last night when United States Marshal Brennan gathered in Fred (Copenhagen) Christensen for alleged intoxication. It looked as though the proud record had been shattered. But "Copenhagen" is the best mimic of a drunken man off the vaudeville stage. He couldn't resist pulling off a little histrionic stunt after having heard the officials boasting about the no-arrest record. Marshal Brennan says he'll smell their breath before running them in after this.

exercised at the time it is true and possibly did not mean to say exactly what he said, but he said that the reason he wanted to see me in jail was not because that I said anything seditious; that I was a menace to the government, but because I had been instrumental in raising the wages of the miners in Silver Bow county, and that when the wages of the miners went up, and he employed printers and had to pay more money, Mr. Campbell told you gentlemen very frankly, flat-footed, that he wanted to see me put in jail and the Bulletin out of business because, as a result of our activities, it cost him more money for his printing labor. He said nothing whatsoever about the charge and, in my opinion, gentlemen, Mr. Campbell is one of the influential members of the Council of Defense.

Why didn't counsel for the prosecution call to this stand Mr. C. J. Kelly, president of the Daly bank that is owned by the Anaconda Mining company, who is also a member of the Council of Defense? He didn't call him for the reason that he wanted you gentlemen to think the council was composed exclusively of harmless civil spoken gentlemen in the humbler walks of life who have no influence in the state of Montana. That is the reason he didn't call Mr. C. J. Kelly, nor has he ever referred to him when speaking of the Montana Council of Defense.

Does it seem peculiar that I should be here opposed by the most powerful political and industrial combination in the state of Montana? Does it seem peculiar that all of the process owned by the copper interests in this state, with all of their legal talent, with all their money, is at the disposal of this prosecution, as you know it is because most of you have read the papers of this state, the daily papers, article after article, concerning myself and my activities. Mr. Campbell testified that I was a dangerous man, a most dangerous man, the most dangerous man in the state of Montana, he said, the most dangerous man at large. Well, now, if I am dangerous, I am only dangerous to some interests. It is possible that I am dangerous to the corrupt political interests in this state and the people whom I referred to in that article, in that editorial, as the "slimy political gang that dominated the State Council of Defense," an opinion that I still have and that I will not recede from. Anyone who reads the history of Montana cannot help but believe that I am dangerous. Who is it that plans the campaigns? Who is it that furnishes the money? Who is it that owns and controls the newspapers? We know who it is, but most of us are not free to say so. I have at times expressed my opinion, and in Silver Bow county there are quite a number of people who believe as I do, because they sent me here to the legislature in spite of the fact that I was opposed by the three company papers in this city. In spite of the fact that I never spent one cent for advertising; that I never made a speech; in spite of the fact that before election this same seditious charge was filed by the county attorney of Lewis and Clark county; in spite of the fact that after I came back from attending the democratic convention in this city I was arrested at 10:30 at night, taken to the city jail, I went to sleep and slept until 12:30, in a cell. They came and woke me up, put a pair of handcuffs on me; never told me where I was going; never showed me a warrant; threw me into an automobile and started me out from the city jail without knowing where I was going or what was going to happen to me, and they brought me to Helena. Why? Because they knew that in Silver Bow county, the people that know me, and know the circumstances, they could not get a conviction. They bring me over here among strangers, among people who are absolutely prejudiced, among people whose minds have been poisoned with the ravings of William Campbell and the Helena Independent, and who are all, more or less, indebted to the political machine of this state, and they hope to railroad me to the penitentiary. It is up to you, gentlemen, whether they do so or not.

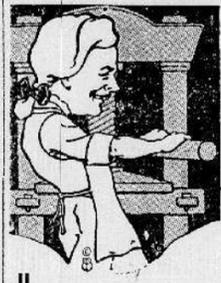

They have an additional reason; it is the rumor that I am to run for mayor of Butte in the spring election. Of course, if I am convicted of this charge it will be impossible for me to file for the nomination; because of the fact that if convicted you cannot hold any office.

You, gentlemen of the jury, the Anaconda Mining company, William

Campbell, their press, the corrupt and rotten—the rottenly corrupt gang of politicians who have bartered the interests of people of this state for years and years, are all praying that I will be convicted on this charge; they hope so, because they think if they convict me and send me to the penitentiary that the thorn in their side will be removed; that they can then go on possibly for still longer without somebody telling the people from time to time the things that they are trying to do to the people of the state of Montana.

The Butte Daily Bulletin is the only paper in the state of Montana that fights the copper interests of this state; that fights them on their own ground openly and fearlessly. It is financed by the people of Silver Bow county and of this state; they have over 10,000 stockholders; they have subscribed their money from a dollar up to $150 and $200, and the average is less than $10. It is owned by the common people of this city, and I, as the editorial writer of that paper am trying to express the sentiments of those people to see if we cannot do something to counteract the actions, and the plans and contrivances of the corporations of this state who are slowly and surely enslaving every man, woman and child in the state of Montana.

As a citizen of the United States and of the state of Montana, I not only have the right to express my opinion of a duly constituted state or federal authority or of the Montana Council of Defense, and if I think, as I said in that editorial, that they are not upholding the interests of the people of the state, it is not only my right, but it is my duty, to inform the people of those circumstances, and that is what I did, and what I will continue to do as long as I have a pen with which to write and a tongue with which to speak.
