THE FIGHT FOR A FREE PRESS

should be done, but that the imperative, "It is ordered" is the peremptory of the courts and the legislature. The case against the Bulletin is the more flagrant when it is remembered that the counsel of defense during the whole of its existence never once attempted to curtail the profane profiteering, the nobility and the shameful activities of the political apaches, which disgraced this state during the war period, but did endeavor to curtail the activities of public demonstration by the forbidding of parades and the refusal to allow public meetings, without permit.

For the editorial in question W. P. Dunn, editor, Bruce Smith, business manager, and Leo Daly, advertising manager, were arrested and taken to the Lewis and Clark county jail. Every trick was tried to evade habeas corpus proceedings, and no chance left that the defendants might go before a Butte jury.

The Trial.

By some mental gymnastics a charge of sedition was filed against the defendants and the case brought to trial before Judge Lee M. Word at Helena, W. P. Dunn was first tried and from the beginning, the court overruled most of the objections put up by the defendant's counsel, B. K. Wheeler and Attorney Baldwin. The jury, we understand, voted five for acquittal and seven for a verdict of guilty and finally compromised on a fine of $5,000.

We do not wish to pose as legal authority, neither are we criticizing the court, but we fail to understand upon what basis a verdict of sedition could be reached. From the evidence submitted, if the people of this state are to be tried upon such charges and the intent, not taken into consideration, then the way is open for all sorts of private revenge to be satisfied.

It is claimed, of course, that the intent of the editorial was to hamper the United States in the prosecution of the war, and this, as we understand it, constitutes sedition, but if every public body, utility of mail franchise and the direction of its powers in assisting private interests to extend their hold on the producers is to be allowed to shelter behind this thing we are in the midst of chronic anarchy.

A case in point would read something like this: A public body appointed to do a certain task, violate the terms of its creation by open, favoring a great corporation to the detriment of the rest of the people. The body in question threatens that whoever criticizes it or refuses to obey its mandates becomes immediately guilty of sedition. The body in defiance of the United States troops when as a matter of fact, the troops is actually serving the United States by attacking one of its worst enemies. In like manner a criticism may come from an enemy agent with the object of encouraging the enemy people, to believe that discontent and disorder prevails in the country of which he speaks. Thus in the first case the intent is to assist the government, in the second to hamper it, and in any event to injure the country. It is the second of these intentions, its patriotic effort all through the war is evidence enough for any reasonable person.

The Real Reason.

The real reason for the instigation of this attack, however, is shown with startling clarity by the editor of the Helena Independent, who is also a member of the state council of defense and the secretary of the Montana Loyalty League. He says: "Dunn is a trouble maker in Montana. He starts something in Butte demands exorbitant pay for miners sets the scale of wages for the entire state on a way. When the miners get a raise of $1 other trades expect it whether the employers and the industries can afford to pay it or not. His disturbances in Butte are not confined to Silver Bow county—they result in this state setting the pace for all other troubles in Montana. He gains $1 for miners in Butte, the workers in that city demand a proportionate increase and every local union in the state, regardless of earnings, demands a proportionate increase. Some of the smaller towns, such as Helena can not pay the Butte scale, and as a result Dunn's trouble making program has a statewide effect.

"I consider Dunn the most dangerous man in Montana because of his radicalism. I consider that it is my duty as a member of the state council of defense to help prosecute him when he breaks the law."

By which it appears, Mr. Campbell still believes that an order of the state council of defense is a law, a thing which any student of democracy knows to be untrue.

Mr. Campbell evidently thinks a union man striving to overcome the cost of living should be persecuted as a dangerous individual, but is remarkably reticent over the plunderers who fatten by forcing up the cost of food.

It is seen then, that the matter in dispute is really the old, old battle between master and worker.

A Subtle Attack.

The Loyalty League and the Employers' association who hoped to gain complete control by destroying the independent press, have arranged the thing with a good deal of skill. They know that the Butte Bulletin must exist by virtue of the workers' support. They know they have used every means possible, to keep advertisers from using advertising space the paper offers, and the court proceedings were started, it is said, with the end in view of destroying the Bulletin's finances, so that it would be compelled to cease publication.

The legal proceedings, the cost of defense, the possible fine and the fervently hoped imprisonment of the managers of the Bulletin, they expect to accomplish this result. Or was this all, coincident with the trial of Dunn, they were introduced into the senate a bill for the establishing of a state board of charity, which forbade

GALLANT FRANK MAUDESLEY

Frank Maudesley, a steward on the liner Canopic, photographed on the arrival of the vessel in New York. Maudesley served 14 years in the British army. He served in the Boer war, the Boer war, in various campaigns in India and in the great war, completed pending the arrival of relatives. The remains are at the Daniels & Bilboa undertaking parlors. Funeral announcement will be made later.

The solicitation of funds without the consent of this board, the object being, of course, to raise upon those who are today championing the unions and individual citizens to finance the Dunn trial. The bill did not pass, but if it had, the Bulletin would have been in desperate straits.

Free Press Cannot Be Killed. The hopes of the reactionary copper crowd are in vain. The sentence of Dunn brought with it a spontaneous uprising of indignation men and women, who pledge themselves to his support. The Bulletin will continue and extend its circulation for although many of its champions disagree in toto, with its policy, they are not prepared to allow the suppression of one of our few independent papers.

Each country seems willing to join the league of nations, but you'll notice no country is throwing away any gains.

Advertise that room for rent in want columns of the Bulletin.

GUARD TO SPOIL GOOD KIDNAPPING? NEVER!

(By United Press.)

Berlin, Feb. 6.—(By Mail).—It is not every day that you can have 20 men totting rifles and grenades as your personal bodyguard, and not have to pay anything for them. The United Press correspondent was offered such a bodyguard.

Early one morning a representative of the "Kommandantur" arrived at the hotel with order "to warn the English and American correspondents there that a plot had been discovered to kidnap them as a means of drawing entente troops to Berlin."

The representative accepted a cup of "ersatz tea" and raised the acceptance of 20 good fighters, who would station themselves outside the door as a bodyguard. The offer was turned down.

"Well, then you'd better just go with them when they come to capture you," said the jovial uniformed representative of the commander. "Better not fight. Get the hotel to telephone us, and we'll come and rescue you. Let us do the fighting. It's better."

Bright prospects of a good story before night—but they never materialized. The kidnapers did not come.

While we talk everlasting peace, men continue to invent more efficient tools for butchering.

The old home town paper records the arrival home of Private Willie Helder. Our guess is that he will.

STILLMAN'S EXCOMMUNICATION.

A few days ago the house and senate solemnly instructed the sergeant-at-arms to elect from the galleries or body of the halls the person of A. D. Stillman, as an answer to Mr. Stillman's very pertinent and very insistent criticism of the Butte election frauds and some other matters. This is quite in line with the type of mind which senses a great industrial unrest, and applies as an answer thereto, futile legislation about the color of somebody's flag; or seeing a person suffering with a frightful internal cancer, smears the surface with white ointment, and then sits around with a bland smile of satisfaction as though they had cured the complaint.

The point is not whether the senators and representatives are hurt in their dignity or any other portion of their anatomy, but, is what Stillman says true? Let them answer that; let them institute a searching and honest investigation into the Butte and Valley county election frauds, and let them come before the people of the state with clean hands, rather than with self-manufactured perfume in lieu of cleanliness. There is something said about a whitened sepulcher to which we respectfully refer our legislators, with the request that a little more real desire to be clean, and a little less application of the whitewash brush, would suit the people of Montana much better.
