Brutality International.

The Germans made a sorry record for humanity in the late war. And their enemy has taken good care that the record be promptly published. Well, here is some more brutality which we think should be published—and the blame for it be laid neither upon the Germans nor the bolsheviks.

After the armistice, France took immediate and effective charge of affairs in Alsace-Lorraine. France intends to keep Alsace-Lorraine willingly. She says so herself. Self-determination can go to hell, says France, so far as Alsace-Lorraine is concerned. As soon as she took charge, France promptly begins to deport to Germany proper all the citizens of German birth—German birth, not merely of German race.

Some of the inhabitants of Alsace-Lorraine are of German race. France deports not only the people of German birth but also those born of parents who were of German birth, although many of them were born and grew up and married in Alsace-Lorraine, had intimate and friendly and long-established association with Alsacians, owned property and conducted business in Alsace-Lorraine, and were estimable citizens in every way.

You see, France is simply pursuing her ruthless will in making absolutely sure of Alsace-Lorraine—regardless of the dictates of humanity. Now comes the story of the "Death Train."

We have heard of this "Death Train" before. We heard about it when it reached Nikol'sk 750 passengers shy—that many having perished on the 41-day journey across Siberia, perished of cold, hunger and disease and been dumped from the doors of the freight cars in which they were crowded.

You see, the Czech-Slovaks, in the service of France and ordered by France, captured the town of Samara in European Russia from the bolsheviks. The Czech-Slovaks found a string of empty freight cars in the yards, and, not wanting to feed their prisoners and having already killed so many persons they were sick of killing, the Czech-Slovaks drove 2,100 prisoners into the cars and started the train east. It was winter, Siberian winter. The cars were cold, especially at night. The prisoners had nothing to eat except what they could induce their guards to steal, beg or buy for them during those interminable stops at sidings. Most of the prisoners had no money, anyway. A good many died from exposure. It isn't pleasant to die from hunger, it isn't nice to be cold, to be constantly, unendingly cold till you die because you are cold. The women—there were a few women, a woman doctor or two and a stenographer or two, and a few others—the women stood it better than the men. They generally die.

Well, after 41 days the train reached Nikol'sk, near Vladivostok, and we heard about it and about the 750 that didn't reach Nikol'sk but lay in the snowdrifts along the Siberian railway.

Now, we hear about the "Death Train" again. The allies, among the other our own United States forces, have sent the train back to Samara, across the waste of Siberia again in mid-winter, with no more provision for the safety and maintenance of the prisoners than the Czech-Slovaks made when they started the train east. You see, these prisoners on the "Death Train" are bolsheviks—and it doesn't matter about bolsheviks. The woman doctor and the stenographers are still in the freight cars, which are being dumped across Siberia in winter at the command of France.

A "general strike" on election day would accomplish more in one day than by the old method in one year.

IN WHICH SENSE "I hear the sheriff is after Maude." "Yes, I believe he has an attachment for her."

BUTTE BRIEFS

$100 reward will be paid to anyone proving we do not put in the best mainpring for $1. Mayer, 37 North Main street.—Adv.

The new law of the general assembly just adjourned requiring all steps in the process of selecting juries to be taken with the names of persons selected for jury service enclosed in black capsules secure from any possible knowledge on the part of jurors to be chosen, has been the cause of delay in court business to some extent. The capsules thus far used are not found satisfactory in view of the fact that the gelatin from which they are made "sticks" in the process of manipulation, in many cases requiring the breaking of the capsule in order to get at its contents. A better quality is on the way under rush orders from the clerk of court.

Charley Swanson, one of the candidates on the democratic ticket for police judge in the coming election, has this to say in regard to his qualifications for the office. I have held office under Mayors Duggan, Kenyon, Miller Valentine. I was court officer under Judges Newbeck and McParry. Was a member of the Butte police force and Butte was a bear spot of ground. I am a taxpayer at 1801 Oregon avenue. I am a married man. I have two daughters that are married, two that are single, and one boy 14 years old. If elected to the office of police judge I will give to the people of Butte the same fair treatment that I gave to them in the past. If my past record as a fearless officer who was not afraid to do his duty is of any account to the voters of Butte, then give me your support.—Paid Adv.

A special address to young people, touching upon their everyday problems, and helpful to all ages, will be given at the chapel car on Friday evening of this week, beginning at 8 o'clock. There will be special singing. Admission free and everybody is invited. The car is located on Utah avenue at old B. A. & P. station.

Tim O'Connor, well known in former days as clerk in Judge John V. Dwyer's division of the district court, who resigned his position, however, to do the uniform of Uncle Sam, has returned and resumed his old station, relieving Chief Deputy Clerk Robert Downing, who has officiated during his absence.

Edward J. Hickey, son of Edward Hickey, president of the Toolhume Copper Mining company, has arrived at New York from Butte, according to advices received by his father, and is en route home. He participated in the battle of the Argonne in the infantry branch of the service.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. William Jane, 147 Missoula avenue, a son.

ing of the campaign. "I take this opportunity to repeat what I already have stated, that it is the intention of the treasury department to carry on the same kind of intensive campaign for distribution as heretofore. It would be a most unfortunate occurrence, if the people of the United States failed to take these notes, thus placing the burden of subscription on the banks. The banking system for credit purposes, to carry on its operations and if this credit is absorbed to a large extent by the purchase of government securities, there will be many limitations placed on the supply of credit for business purposes. Our merchants and manufacturers need ample credit for setting the wheels of industry in motion for peace time production and distribution and the wage earner is directly interested in seeing that these wheels are kept moving at a normal rate in order that full employment at good wages may continue and where readjustment conditions have necessitated a slowing down of industry, it is vitally important that activity be resumed and labor re-employed at the earliest possible moment. Up From the Ranks.

(Contributed.)

Up from the ranks! It has a splendid sound, has it not? How we used to thrill to it when we were little boys? Up from the ranks! How splendidly democratic! Sure! We all may come up from the ranks, may we not? There is no law forbidding it. Everybody may come up from the ranks—if he can. Ha, ha! There's the rub. So many can't. So very, very many can't! Indeed, if they could and did, what would the hogish people do for ranks to come up from?

But we have jumped the rail. It is so splendid to start in the ranks! Well, Dunn started in the ranks. What is more, Dunn's father started in the ranks, was maimed in the ranks—by a runaway—and died in the ranks—a cripple.

And little Dunn, in the ranks at 10 years old, with smaller brothers and sisters to help support—climbed his little fists and stamped and cried in impotent fury, because children who thought they were in a rank a trifle above his rank made fun of his homemade clothes. It wouldn't be so bad to be in the ranks, if everyone else were in the ranks too, and no one could make out his rank as being a little above someone else's rank, and grab the bigger share of life with the sublime assumption that he is entitled to it.

Yes, Dunn started in the ranks—holed woods amid the ranks of corn in Minnesota, in August, when you can get along nicely without an overcoat though a net fine enough to keep the gnats out of your eyes and ears would add materially to your comfort. And Dunn merrily piled the axe amid the ranks of trees in the Minnesota forests, and hopped about on the baffling logs in those joyous river drives, where you seldom have to work more than 24 hour a day.

Yes, Dunn started in the ranks. Dunn is still in the ranks. Dunn expects to stay in the ranks. But Dunn doesn't intend that the men in the ranks shall always get all the work—and the fellows above the ranks all the profit.

Mexico will not be allowed to join the league of nations, says Senator Hitchcock. If the statesmen get too exclusive, isn't there danger of the countries left out of the coalition forming a rival league of their own? The only object of a world state is to reconcile the whole world.
