THIS PROPHECY REMARKABLE

Originally Published by the Paris Figaro From Document Written in 1600 by a Monk, Brother Johannes.

The veritable Antichrist will be a monarch of his time, a son of Luther, he will invoke God's name, and proclaim himself his enemy, this prince of His will take his oath on the Bible, and will exploit himself as an arm of the Most High, sent to chastise the corrupted people of the world. He will be one-armed, but his army, which will be as the sands of the seashore, will take for their device, "God with us." For a long while he will carry out his policy, by ruse or by felony; his spies will cover the countries of the world, he will be master of the de-ceives of the powerful.
He will have in his pay doctors and professors, who will prove and certify his celestial mission. War will give him an opportunity to disclose himself. This will not be made against a French king, but another well known, and it will be so violent that in two weeks the conflict will become universal. It will draw in all Christian people, Mussulmans, and even men from distant lands.
The armies will gather from the four quarters of the world, for the angels will open the souls of men, and in the third week they will realize that Antichrist has come and that slavery will be the fate of the conquered. He will be recognized by several traits. He will massacre, above all, priests and monks, women, children and old men. To none will he show mercy. Torch in hand, he will pass like a savage, invoking the name of Christ, and while his words are those of a Christian, his acts will be the acts of Nero and his Roman persecutors.
He will have an eagle for his arms and an eagle will be the crest of his accomplice, the other wicked monarch. This latter, however, is a Christian, and will die with the curse of Pope Benedictus, who will be elected at the outbreak of Antichrist.
No more will priest and monk confess and absolve the combatants; for the first time in the world's history they will take their place in the combat with other citizens and Pope Benedictus, having proclaimed his malediction upon Antichrist, his holiness will proclaim that those who fall in battle will rise as martyrs.
The bell will resound throughout the world, giving courage to the soldiers, and sounding the knell of Antichrist's accomplice. To vanquish Antichrist will require more men than Rome ever held. The efforts of every kingdom, "the cock," "the leopard" and "the white eagle" will not avail, without the prayers of the Christian world assist them. Never will the human race have met so great a peril, for the triumph of Antichrist would be the victory of the devil.
It will come to pass in the twentieth century, after the incarnation of the Word, that the beast will menace the earth with its scourge. Toward the two thousandth year the great army of Antichrist, numbering in its ranks some who are Christians, will oppose the army of the Lamb, with whom will fight Mammedans and "savage" soldiers. All will be blood red, the heavens, the earth, the sea, the air, for blood will flow in all the elements.
The "black eagle" will hurl itself against the "cock" and rob it of many plumes, but the "cock" will fight gallantly with its talons. It would be crushed but for the claws of the "leopard." The "black eagle" will surprise and invade the land of the "cock," covering almost half of its territory; while the "white eagle" in its turn will overrun the realm of Antichrist from boundary to boundary. Then the "black eagle" will be forced to leave the "cock" to engage the "white eagle"; the "cock" will pursue it to give aid to its ally. When the "black eagle" sees all is lost it will grow furious, and the "white eagle" will beak, the "leopard's" claw and the "cock's" talons will be buried in its flesh.
Rivers will run blood, and only the precious and the great captives will be buried. The dead, piled high, will seem like hills and divert the streams from their course. In the carnage the brave will fall, and those who survive the battle will succumb to pestilence and famine. Several times will Antichrist seek to make peace, but the seven angels that march before the Lamb have decreed that only with his extermination can peace be restored. "He shall be crushed like a straw under the (hall)." He shall lose his crown, and his kingdom shall be split into twenty-two states, and none shall possess either arms, or ship, or stronghold.
The "white eagle" shall trace the crescent out of Europe and install himself in his abode. Then shall begin the era of prosperity. The Lamb shall reign and the joy of humanity begin. Happy he who, escaping the perils of this wounded period, may partake of the fruit of the reign of the Spirit and the sanctification of humanity, which cannot be accomplished save by the destruction of Antichrist.
Note—The symbolic "leopard" may cause some difficulty in identification, but the "leopard" is well known in British heraldry. The Gallic "cock" as French on the other hand is quite familiar, and the "black eagle" as German and the "white eagle" as representing America are easily recognizable.

RETURNED SOLDIERS

TO HELP A. C. M. LOWER WAGES MADE NULL AND VOID BY ACT OF CONGRESS.

Discharged soldiers may keep clothing and equipment used while in the service. They are not required to send them back to the war department.

Several inquiries by soldiers have been made at the local office regarding a former order to the effect that all clothing and equipment must be sent back. The following order has been received by all postmasters:
"Postmasters are hereby advised that a recent act of congress permits discharged soldiers to retain clothing and equipment which they take away with them, and that, therefore, postmasters should not accept parcels containing these articles for return to the war department. Postmasters will please give this matter publicity."

RETURN OF SOLDIERS WILL BOOM SPORTS

By TOM LEWIS.
(Sport Editor United Press.)
New York, March 15.—One of the most interesting and significant features in connection with the return of the American fighting man is his keen interest in clean sports of every conceivable kind. Sport-lovers see in this unprecedented boom in sporting events throughout the United States and Canada.
Huge transports, arriving in New York harbor almost daily, are bringing back countless thousands of American soldiers and practically every one of these is an out-and-out sport booster. The reason is not far to seek. These men have been living an athletic life such as few of them had ever dreamed of living, and now that they have got a flying start they are eager to keep up the good work.
"These men will go in strong for boxing, wrestling, baseball, football and all kindred sports," said Lieutenant-Colonel Malcolm Andrus, who has just returned from Europe. "Furthermore, the men will want their favorite sports legalized and I am inclined to believe that they will demand Sunday baseball. They fought on Sunday, without complaint, and they will want to know why they cannot witness a game on Sunday if they so desire."
All sports will boom, the speaker added, but he predicted that baseball in particular will enjoy a tremendous impetus when the fighting men get home.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR BELOVED MISS

One of the largest funerals ever held on the east side was that of Adeline McClellan, the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McClellan of Tabor avenue, which took place yesterday from the home, proceeding to the Inman Presbyterian church where service was held, conducted by the Rev. R. G. Williams. The church was filled to capacity. The choir rendered appropriate music, including a special duet by Mr. and Miss Hughes, and a solo by Richard Tregidga. The floral offerings were many and showed, with the large attendance, the high esteem in which the deceased was held. She was a member of the church and Sunday school, whose life, though young of years, told in influence of the reality of the Christian faith. Her Sunday school class sang a select hymn at the service which elicited tears of sympathy from the whole audience. Interment was made in Mount Moriah cemetery. Much sympathy is felt for the bereft parents.

JEAN JORDAN BACK IN UNITED STATES

Jean Jordan, son of Rev. Walter M. Jordan of this city and at the time of his enlistment a newspaper reporter, arrived at Camp Stewart, near Newport News, Va., last week. Jordan enlisted early in the war in the coast artillery and went with the 48th regiment of heavy artillery to France, arriving too late to see any action except as a member of the army of occupation. Jordan has compiled a history of the war, gathered first-hand, from service men "over there," including the activities of his own organization. In a letter to his sister, Miss Merle Jordan, the young artilleryman writes that he expects to be sent to Fort Logan, near Denver, Colo., to be mustered out and probably will be back in Butte within a few days.

SAYS FORMER CANNIBALS
"EAT UP" THE MOVIES

(By United Press.)
Los Angeles, Cal., March 14.—New Zealand Maoris, native Javanese and the cannibals of the South Sea Islands have developed a voracious appetite for American movie stars.
Their appetite, however, doesn't crave blood. They want them on the screen. It is going to take a fourth of the 7,000 miles of film to be manufactured here in 1919, to satisfy this appetite, distributors estimate.
In the last few years the American movie has won its place in the far corners of the South Sea, in China, Korea and the federated Malay states.
"The New Zealand Maoris" (who cannot read or write a word beyond their native jargon), writes Frank Boyd in a survey of the field, "insist on giving their screen favorites advice as to how to avoid impending danger. When their favorite finally triumphs, they give vent to lusty cheers."
When "Tess of the Storm Country" was played at Rotoura, Boyd was the only person in the house who could read the subtitles. But near-barbarians could read the language of the pictures and received it "by standing on their chairs at the finish and cheering in their native language."
Comedy of the better variety rules a favorite in the South Seas.
Few of the inhabited corners of the South Seas and Orient are without their movie houses. The more enterprising natives oftentimes are the proprietors.

THE CANDIDATES

Election time is coming fast, in fact, it's almost here.
And the issues are quite certain, they stand out plain and clear.
Captain Cutts, the noble man, the hero of the spruce,
Has started out to get the votes, with his campaign of abuse.
But to his wild ravings the voters turn deaf ears.
For his is the same old plaint they have heard for many years.
He has printed a little book, where his record he has laid bare,
But if you wish to read that book a gas mask you should wear.
He rushed into the army when he heard his country's call,
For the working of the draft law made patriots of us all.
He was filled with martial zeal, of this he loudly rants;
He was a full blown hero, but he didn't go to France.
He tells of his glorious record with the army over seas,
Or was it in the spruce camp picking gum from off the trees?
All these things to the voter very strange may seem;
But this man says he's a hero, but that's only in his bean.
Was he not made a captain for his bravery in the field,
For it takes desperate courage to break up unions in the field.
The flagwavers and the profiteers stand by him in this race,
But he will have to show more speed, or he won't get to first base.
For the workers of Butte city have opened their eyes
And they won't fall for the same old bunk in such a thin disguise.
So he spews out his venom and hate, does this noble hero Cutts,
But he won't meet Dunn in debate, for he hasn't got the guts.

New York, March 17.—Efforts of private boat owners to break the harbor strike by individual settlements with the men were blocked yesterday when Thomas L. Delahanty, president of the Marine Workers affiliation and other leaders "stampeded" a conference of the owners with members of the Masters, Mates and Pilots' union.
Invitations had been extended to navigators to attend the conference, but when representatives of the boat owners appeared they found Delahanty and the other leaders in the midst of men who had accepted the invitations.
The "stampeded" continued until the owners' representatives left the hall.
Strike leaders said they had received word the owners were willing to meet a committee of marine workers today.

PROTEST TRAFFIC IN GERMAN CROSSES

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
With the Third Army on the Rhine, Feb. 20.—(By Mail.)—The lively traffic in Iron Crosses has raised a storm of protest from discharged American soldiers and civilians. Over a score of letters of protest from people in Coblenz have reached Third Army headquarters. And now the newspapers have taken up a campaign against the sale of Iron Crosses to American troops for souvenirs.
Despite the fact that their own townpeople are encouraging the traffic by procuring and selling the decorations at stiff prices to Americans, the objectors want the American army to put a stop to the sales. When the American troops first entered Coblenz and Trier, they found the windows of jewelry shops full of the prized Iron Crosses. The supply was quickly exhausted, at the existing prices of five and seven marks class respectively. The dealers then scurried around and bought fresh stocks. But the prices were jumped to 13 and 20 marks, and still the "doughboys" bought them by the handful.
Then the discharged soldiers began to come home—nearly everyone wearing an Iron Cross. They found that nearly every American soldier in Coblenz had a half-dozen or more. Hence the bitterness.
The "Koenigsche Zeitung" published long editorial upon the subject, quoting a letter written by an iron cross manufacturer in reply to an order from a dealer. The manufacturer refused the order and severely rebuked the retailer for the "disgraceful traffic."
"It appears to us," declares the newspaper, "to be an absolutely unworthy practice for German concerns to be selling iron crosses, which our troops earned in the field by shedding their blood. The German people is proud of its emblems of honor won by its soldiers, but if this emblem is to become a commercial product, indiscriminately thrown upon the market, the things for which it stands will entirely be lost sight of."
So far the protests have had no effect, and plenty of Iron Crosses are still changing hands at 13 and 20 marks.
