The Man That Gets There

Why do some men, apparently less talented and versatile, surpass their more gifted brothers in attaining position, influence and wealth?

How often have you not said to yourself: "I am more competent than this man. I don't think it fair of the world to favor individuals."

Friend reader, the reason is not one of influence so much as of stock-to-it-iveness.

Take the matter of saving, for instance. You think of saving, but do you? And if you do occasionally, do you save regularly? And then do you bank your money? Ah! there's the rub—for you don't.

Resolve you'll be a man that gets there. Four per cent paid on all savings and certificates of deposit.

MAYOR STEPS IN AND HOLDS WITH WHARTON

Police Deserted by Stodden in Controversy With Car Company Over the Fare Question.

The controversy which has raged between Mayor Wharton of the Butte Electric Railway company and members of the police department for the last two months, over the question of whether policemen not in uniform must pay fares to ride on cars, came to an abrupt ending yesterday afternoon when, acting under orders from Mayor Stodden and City Attorney Clinton, Police Judge Grimes pulled in his horns and dismissed the case against Conductor John Harrington.

Harrington was arrested a month ago by Officer Van Orden when he refused to carry that officer free. It was brought out at the first police court hearing that Van Orden, while wearing a policeman's uniform, also wore a civilian hat and a civilian overcoat, and this fact brought up a lengthy and learned discussion between counsel for the railway company and Deputy City Attorney Juttner, as to what actually constitutes a uniform.

Now, however, everything is settled. Mr. Wharton and the mayor and the city attorney having reached a state of unanimity on the matter, with the unanimity in favor of the railway company, of course.

So now, it is expected, the city council will be asked to add to the already extremely extravagant cost of the Stodden administration another expenditure, that of an appropriation to buy street car tickets for officers not in uniform who still are on duty.

BAPTIST HOLD MEETING AND ELECT OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Southern Montana Baptist association was held last night at the First Baptist church. The officers elected were:

The Rev. J. M. Hamstra was elected moderator; Mrs. Ben Hamilton of Anaconda was chosen clerk; and the Rev. C. A. Cook of the First Baptist church of this city was appointed on the apportionment committee.

The Rev. E. B. Reed, Mrs. R. R. Rathbone and the Rev. C. A. Cook were named for the time, place and preacher committee; C. H. Burrill, Mrs. Ben Hamilton and the Rev. J. F. McNamee are members of the committee on resolutions, and Mrs. Svenson and Mrs. Setzler compose the committee on enrollment.

START BEAUTIFYING NEWEST PARK SITES

Work of removing rocks preparatory to seeding grass and planting shrubbery and trees on the park sites recently acquired by the city from the Anaconda company was started yesterday. Work was started first on the Harrison school site on the Woodville road and later on the site near the Franklin school. The other sites on which work must be done are on the Parrot flat and at the old Decker place.

SITE FOR PUBLIC COMFORT STATION

The basement of the Rialto building, formerly used for a cafeteria, has been tentatively selected by Mayor Stodden as the site of the public comfort station for which the citizens of Butte voted $35,000 in bonds last year. The mayor's selection will be put before the members of the city council at tomorrow night's regular meeting of the council.

BRINGS BACK BRIDE.

Maurice Daniels, an employe of the Butte Electric Railway company, returned yesterday from Great Falls bringing with him Mrs. Daniels, a bride of a week. The bride, who was Miss Dora Wilkinson of Great Falls, was one of the popular members of the younger social set there. Mr. Daniels lived in Great Falls before coming to Butte.

"Your honor, the criminal is all the more dangerous on account of his ignorance!"

In Jail Nineteen Months, for What?

Workers of America! Do you know that twenty or more innocent workmen are now being slowly tortured to death in the Bastilles of Kansas? The men in question are those that have been held for 19 months without trial, on what is known as the Wichita indictment. The charges of conspiracy against these victims are so vague that to the average fair-minded individual, it seems incredible that such an injustice can be imposed. But the fact of the matter is that this group is undergoing the persecution at Hutchinson, Kansas. Remember, all these defendants are being slowly murdered by the powers that be!

During this 19-month period these men have been held under excessive bail, with such conditions imposed that it was impossible to meet them. Recently, however, a very few of the men obtained bond reductions and are not all released yet. But why are not the rest of the men admitted to reasonable bonds? Why this petty persecution and discrimination? Have not the constitutional rights of the men been trampled upon? Can't you see that these innocent victims are in the hands of the most vindictive frame-up gang that can be conceived of?

Workers of America! Wake up! Arise in all your splendid might! What the industrial tyrant are doing to these men today, they may do to you tomorrow, unless you protest! Assert yourselves like men in behalf of these victims! Publicity is needed, now! Don't keep still until they are free! Shout it from the house-tops! Demand the immediate release of all Industrial and Political Prisoners! Now is the Time! Strike the Blow while the Iron is Hot!

The Coal Miners' Demands

BY CHARLES GILDEA.

In the latter part of March President Hayes of the United Mine Workers of America, at a meeting of the international executive board and district officers from all of the districts, delivered an address in which he set forth the policy that should govern the coal miners of the country in establishing new and better conditions of employment and life. To quote from his address, the following is one reason for the notorious conspiracy of silence by the capitalist press, except an occasional line or so of criticism which will soon degenerate into vituperation and abuse of the most malicious description:

"The old social order can no longer exist. The day of master and slave can be no more. Labor must now come into its own, must take its rightful place in all the civilized nations of the world. Too long have we been ruled by the privileged few—by those born to the purple and splendor of high estate; by those who through inheritance or excessive exploitation of the poor have been able to shape the destinies of men and to direct governmental policies which affect the lives and happiness of all human beings."

He then recommended a six-hour work day; five days a week; substantial wage improvements; nationalization of coal mines; etc., etc. The program as outlined has its limitations, but it is evidently going too far to meet with the approbation of many persons whose radicalism was so pronounced but a few years ago. We frequently hear the remark: "Hayes does not mean it. He is only catering to a radical element. When it comes to a show down he will be unwilling to push the demands, etc."

To the individuals who are in that antiquated mode of thought and lack of reasoning as to depend alone upon some superman to spring up and lead us to the enjoyment of life at the fountain spring of youth, such senseless statements, such rank suspicion of motives finds lodgment. Hayes as but president can only recommend. The power that must achieve the results outlined must be the rank and file of the United Mine Workers of America. Even though the gathering he addressed, which was composed of the official heads

The Earl of Selkirk, "Father of Manitoba."

The Earl of Selkirk, who is known to history as "The Father of Manitoba," and whose Red River Settlement of a little over a century ago was the beginning of the agricultural development of western Canada, made many and powerful enemies by the stern and uncompromising course which made him so well fitted to be the advance agent of civilization. His "war" with the agents of the Northwest Company led to subsequent verdicts against the Earl for false imprisonment, and his enemies in England made the most of these charges. Earl Selkirk has not only to fight the powerful fur company and the forces of nature, which sent devastating plagues of grasshoppers and terrible blizzards down upon the infant colony, but he had also to contend with the easy chair critics in England.

If the Earl had numerous enemies, however, he also had a multitude of firm friends, and not the least influential of these was Sir Walter Scott, the novelist and poet, who had been a close friend of Selkirk at college. In a letter from Scott to Lady Halkett, dated one hundred years ago today, June 10, 1819, the distinguished author paid his tribute to the "Father of Manitoba." He said: "I never knew in my life a man of more generous and distinguished disposition, or one whose talents and perseverance were better qualified to bring great and national schemes to conclusion." It was Sir Walter's purpose to write a defense of his friend, but Lord Selkirk died in 1820, and a few years later the novelist was called upon to face the herculean task of redeeming a debt of $500,000, incurred by the failure of a publishing house in which he was interested. History has fully justified Lord Selkirk, however, in all his actions, and a great city and a wealthy and prosperous province are monuments to his memory.

Uncle Sam's First Foreign War.

The first foreign war in which the United States was engaged began 118 years ago today, June 10, 1801, when Tripoli issued a declaration of war against the New World republic. The ruler of the practical African state had learned that the United States had paid larger sums to Algiers than to himself, and demanded a large annual tribute. This was refused, and on June 10, 1801, he declared war. An American squadron under Commodore Richard Dale, was dispatched to the Mediterranean, and was followed by squadrons commanded by Commodore Morris and Commodore Preble. The war continued until 1805, and was characterized by several feats of valor performed by American sailors. The Boy of Tripoli and the other Barbary rulers, who had long preyed upon the commerce of America and Europe, were brought up with a short turn.

Prior to the Tripolitan war the United States and France fought several sea engagements, but the war was not officially declared, and the difficulties were settled without recourse to open and avowed hostilities.

Atlantic Cable.

The American steamship Niagara began to lay the Atlantic cable sixty years ago today. An attempt to lay the cable had been made the previous year at Valentia, in Ireland, but after a few miles the cable snapped. A second attempt failed after 300 miles of wire had been paid out, and the project was abandoned until the June of 1858. After overcoming many obstacles the British and American vessels employed in the epochal task were successful, and on Aug. 5, 1858, the first two messages, from the Queen of England to the president of the United States, and his reply, passed over 2,051 miles of cable stretching from Newfoundland to Valentia. The event caused great rejoicing on both sides of the Atlantic, but it proved to be premature, for the insulation of the wire gradually became more faulty, and within a month the power of transmitting messages finally ceased. While this failure was naturally a disappointment, the promoters were not downhearted, and in 1860 a new company was formed, and six years later a successful cable line was in operation. It is estimated that there are now 320,000 to 350,000 miles of cable lines in operation throughout the world.

COURT PROCEEDINGS

Two suits of the Henningsen Produce company against F. H. Reynolds were vacated this morning in Judge Dwyer's court.

In the case of the state against Rachel Miller, a default was entered. Her unclaimed hoove will be destroyed.

L. S. Grossman lost his suit for ownership of the two-foot strip of ground, on a lot on Grand avenue. The jury decided that it belongs to his neighbor, Leo Benz.

George McAllister was granted a decree of divorce from Dolly E. McAllister.

MAY BRING TAFT HERE.

An effort will be made to have either former President Taft, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood or Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt make the dedicatory address here on the occasion of the completion of the Y. M. C. A., it is stated. In addition, it is expected that a number of noted Y. M. C. A. workers from various sections of the country will be present to assist in the exercises.

HAYES INQUEST TOMORROW.

Coroner Dan Holland has announced that the inquest into the death of Morris Hayes, who died Sunday morning as the result of wounds supposedly received when he was shot by William Amerin, will be held tomorrow afternoon.

BARNES CIRCUS IS ON ITS WAY HERE

Hoop la! Spring is surely here, for circus days are upon Butte or will be soon, with the coming of the A. G. Barnes big four-ring wild animal show.

The Barnes circus will open here June 18, and will give two performances, being ushered in by a street pageant.

The Barnes outfit has many attractions, chief among which is Venus Fashion, a girl lion tamer. The diminutive Miss Fashion is a British subject, and this is her second season in the show world. She comes from India, where her father was a soldier, and where she is credited with having gained her uncanny mastery over lions and other jungle beasts.

THOUSAND COLD ONES BUSTED.

While Officer Jack Melia and an interested squad of thirsty ones looked on with dripping lips, 1,000 bottles of beer—the real old-fashioned product with the real old-fashioned kick—were smashed against the retaining wall on the courthouse grounds yesterday. The stuff was a part of the stock of the Hanson's saloon at Melrose, which was raided recently.
