

HOUSE CLEANING COMING IN STATE LABOR FEDERATION

Silver Bow Trades and Labor Council and Cascade Trades and Labor Assembly Endorse Candidates to Take the Places of Those Now Holding Office in Montana State Federation of Labor

Two communications before the Silver Bow Trades and Labor council last night, one signed by a committee appointed by the Cascade Trades and Labor assembly to make recommendations as to endorsement of candidates for office in the Montana Federation of Labor; the other a communication from the Cascade central body endorsing the candidates recommended by the committee, were acted upon favorably.

The candidates endorsed are men who have long been active in the labor movement of the state, and who have always put the interests of the rank and file first and foremost, rather than their own personal interests. That the Montana Federation of Labor has long been in need of officials who would function for the man who toils is generally well known, and the interest being manifested in the coming election presages a much-needed change in the official personnel of the federation.

For vice-president—J. C. Whiteley, Butte, Mont.
 For secretary-treasurer—J. T. Taylor, Leligh, Mont.
 For executive board member, Cascade district—Charles Heximer, Great Falls, Mont.

In submitting the above names, the Cascade Trades and Labor assembly begs to point out that the immediate future promises to be of such a nature that only by the strongest and closest organization amongst the workers can they hope to resist the encroachments of capital, drunk with war profits and reckless in its greed for more, and we therefore feel that the strongest possible men should be elected to these important offices, and we consider the above-named brothers of the caliber necessary for the arduous tasks which will be thrust upon them.

Trusting you will also see your way clear to endorse these names and to work for their election, we are,

Yours fraternally,
 CASCADE TRADES AND LABOR ASSEMBLY,
 A. BUDDEN, President,
 M. MURPHY, Secretary.

The communications follow:
 Great Falls, Mont., June 3, 1919.
 To all Central Bodies, Councils and Local Unions:

The enclosed endorsement of candidates for officers for the Montana State Federation of Labor is submitted to you as a result of the work of the committee on the Montana Federation appointed by joint conference early this year, with instructions to make recommendations on the matter, after going over the whole ground.

The committee realizes that many unions and central bodies are not at this present moment affiliated with the Montana State Federation of Labor, but feels that this should not deter them from working in the interest of the submitted candidates. The committee suggests that such locals and central bodies which are not at present affiliated, endorse the candidates and write locals that are affiliated to that effect, asking their cooperation in this important matter.

The committee wishes to urge upon all members of organized labor the necessity for a stronger and more powerful state body than at present exists, and believes that the election of the candidates named will be a long stride in that direction.

(Signed) C. J. ROUNDS,
 E. G. STEWART,
 A. BUDDEN, Committee.

Great Falls, Mont., June 3, 1919.
 To all Central Bodies, Councils and Local Unions:

The Cascade Trades and Labor assembly having considered the matter of the election of officers of the Montana State Federation of Labor have endorsed and earnestly suggest the endorsement by all other interested parties in the state of Montana of the following brothers:

For president—Steve Ely, Sand Coulee, Mont.

THEATERS

AT THE AMERICAN.

"From Police Headquarters" is a powerful drama dealing with another of the problems presented by the decaying social system under which we live.

Rose Peters (played by Anita Stewart) whose father is police detective, is in the employ of a young broker—a national product of bourgeois culture—a libertine, seeking only the pleasures of the moment and never reckoning the consequences of his ephemeral joys.

His insidious tactics soon win the confidence and love of the innocent girl, who in her happiness forgets all else. She is soon cast aside, however, for another and in a moment of desperation seizes a paper knife and strikes her employer down in his own private office.

Her father, a good-hearted man, but obsessed with the false idea that law and justice go hand in hand, is placed on the "murder" case, which eventually leads him to the door of his own home.

With the recovery of the libertine, who emerges from the shadow of death a wiser and a better man, a double tragedy is prevented and with the awakening of a nobler emotion for the girl who still loves him, the story is given a happy ending to comply with the demands of "movie" audiences.

"From Police Headquarters" is, however, a valuable picture and superbly presented. It portrays a great problem in a forcible manner and should inspire much constructive thought in these days of birth-pains of the new society.

HOW THE UNITED PRESS

vice, suggestion and direction had much to do with the solution of the multifarious problems that arose constantly.

Many do not understand the nature of these difficulties. A correspondent at the fighting front has witnessed a great allied advance. News becomes ancient history after it is a few hours old. The correspondent's first duty is to get it to the readers at home. He must choose the fastest route. Probably he is many miles from a telegraph wire and must move miles from the end of the cable. Is this town more likely to furnish fast transmission to the cable than that town? Where is wire traffic least congested? What are the facilities for transmission at these towns? Or would it be wiser to drive back to army headquarters and file the dispatch? He must know and he must decide quickly. Delay would be disastrous.

These were a few of the many questions behind each news agency dispatch from the front during the whole war, and it was questions of this sort that the United Press men answered so well.

After the signing of the armistice, the foreign correspondent's problems became less warlike but scarcely less arduous, with the necessity of covering the Paris Peace Conference and its multiplicity of conflicting interests and aspirations. Simultaneously, the Central Empires were recognized as a direct news source to the American correspondents. Frank J. Poynter, with his knowledge of the German, French and Italian tongues, was sent there to reopen and reorganize the United Press Bureau after two years. This he succeeded in doing before transferring the bureau to Carl D. Groat, formerly of the Washington staff, who has just taken charge in Berlin.

SAYS MECHANIC'S SKILL

There is a scarcity of skilled mechanics in Montana at this time, according to Labor Commissioner W. J. Swindhurst, who was in Butte last night from Helena. The commissioner stated that the shortage in farm labor had been overcome, mainly through the return from army service of many men.

COHEN SUES COUNTY FOR ALLEGED SALARY

Sets Forth Items of Service. Investigated 24 Cases in April. Bill O. K'd By Fabian, Denied by Auditor

A. B. Cohen yesterday brought suit in Justice Doran's court against the county of Silver Bow for $208.07, the amount which he claims is due him for special services rendered to the county last March and April, at the special request of the county commissioners. It is the figure, he alleges, which the commissioners agreed to pay him.

The bill was O. K'd by County Commissioner J. M. Fabian and sworn in as correct and justly due by A. B. Cohen himself; but it was disapproved by County Auditor Sullivan.

His work started March 20. In March he made out, he states, 690 cards showing names of those getting aid from the county. In addition he investigated 11 cases.

During the 30 days of April he investigated 24 cases and 29 houses.

GUILTY, BUT IS TURNED LOOSE

Violet Cooney Escapes Punishment for Assault Upon Mrs. Sullivan. Charge Is Dismissed.

This afternoon, Justice Robert Ormsby in his court room at Front street and Utah avenue, gave his decision on the case of the state against Mrs. Violet Cooney, who was charged with second degree assault upon County Auditor Nellie Sullivan. The assault occurred May 24 in the hallway of the Van Doozer apartments at No. 8 South Montana street, where Mrs. Sullivan lives.

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Cooney, which took place a week ago, passed much interest. At its conclusion Justice Ormsby announced that, in view of the great publicity which the affair had received, he would advise with himself for a week before deciding whether to hold Mrs. Cooney over to the district court or to dismiss the case.

In his statement this afternoon he said, in effect, that he found Mrs. Cooney guilty as charged in the complaint, but that he did not consider the evidence sufficiently strong to warrant him in holding her for the district court. The charge was dismissed.

SEA AND SHORE MEET IN AL G. BARNES' SHOW

Neptune and the land meet in the Al G. Barnes big four-ring wild animal circus coming to Butte June 18. Among the many feature acts by wild and domestic animals which is the Barnes specialty is a school of sea lions in amazing juggling and balancing feats. Dick Grime, favorite of the school, rides a galloping horse while juggling a large ball upon the tip of his nose. Nancy, gaily flips through clown tricks and other members each take a prominent part. A peculiar quality of these aquatic animals is the fact that they will not perform unless given a tit-bit after every effort. They are keen on "showing off" but want their efforts appreciated and will generously applaud one another at every instance. Captain Stonewall who has full charge of the sea lions, is an old sea whaling captain and it was while working in this capacity that he learned to teach sea lions to perform.

Quite frequently baby seals would be brought aboard for pets, so when his ship went on the rocks off the shores of Washington he had a couple of seal pups he was very fond of and which he managed to save. Mr. Barnes happened to see the captain playing with his pets and seeing the novelty of them as features on the show succeeded in persuading the captain to join him. These are the only animals of the Barnes big aggregation that he himself does not personally superintend the schooling of.
