BAND MUSIC IN NEW AIR SHIPS

(By United Press.)

Pullman, St. Mary, Edg.—(By Mail).—"Music in the air" is no longer a figurative phrase.

No longer does the serenading lover have to stand below a lady's veranda and play romantic music. All he has to do now is to get himself an airship, locate himself over his lady-love's home and while his pilot jingles the ship, he can serenade. Also on a hot summer's evening—if the sailor can afford it—instead of canoeing up a river while he plays the mandolin, he can rent an airship and twang his instrument as he whizzes through the air.

Excursion steamers will be back numbers. Excursion airships which will fly from London to Paris; New York to Niagara Falls or Detroit; Chicago to St. Louis, Minneapolis or Des Moines in a matter of a few hours, will be the big attractions. They will have everything to offer the steamer can, such as dancing, singing, food, moonlight effects, etc.

This is the prediction of A. E. Halford, bandmaster of the British airship R33, which boasts the world's first aerial band.

Halford, who has been in the British army for 27 years, and played under shellfire at the British front in France in 1917, says that within three or four years huge super-airships will be built which will be able to carry orchestras which will furnish dancing and concert music for passengers.

"At present space aboard the R33 and R34 is too cramped to permit of more than a military band of 12 aboard," said Halford. "I have just that many men in my R33 band. Our bandstand is on the machine gun platform of the airship. We gave our first concert when we flew over London during the recent Victory loan campaign. Though some of the men had to hang on with one hand, we managed to give a creditably good performance. The band consists of a drummer, two side drummers, fluters and clarinettes.

"It is hardest to play as the airship leaves the ground. The tilting causes many of us to lose our balance, but that will be attended to in time.

"Music aboard airships will be common within a year. When the manufacturing of airships has reached the stage where it will compete with ocean liners for travel, orchestras can be placed aboard for concerts and dancing. The airship rides steady and dancing will be as easy as on a liner.

"To play aboard an airship at present, it requires strong lungs, as the air is different than that encountered on the ground. The breathing is hard and as the ship moves the air rushes into the horns of the instruments and it takes strong blowing to put through a note. Eventually the time will come when the band will have shelter and do away with the wind pressure, but air breathing will, of course, require strong lunged men."

UNCLE SAM AGAIN ON TRAIL OF TRUSTS

Supreme Court Will Take Up Important Cases Affecting Industrial Life.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Oct. 11.—With the convening of the supreme court today the government's big trust-busting campaign, postponed on account of the war, was on in full swing in its final stages.

Seven cases of anti-trust prosecution are before the court for final decision, and the result of the suits undoubtedly will have a far-reaching effect on American business. Much depends on the construction the supreme court puts on the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws, under which the suits were brought.

All of the cases are near the top of the docket and will be argued as soon as a few special cases are disposed of. Decisions are expected early in 1920, if the court does not take longer than the usual time allotted for deliberation after the verbal battle of the government and big business attorneys. The suits were postponed during the war because the government felt it could not interfere in any way with production of materials that might be necessary for the war.

Attorney General Palmer, however, has now given notice the cases will be prosecuted vigorously.

Some of the cases represent nearly nine years of legal battles between the government and the corporations. The first case on the new court docket is the United States vs. the Lehigh Valley railroad, while No. 3 is the government against the Reading railroad. These are the celebrated authentic coal cases, the railroad lines being charged with having a monopoly of the anthracite coal production and shipments. The government lost both of these cases in lower courts.

The noted struggle of the steel government against the United States Steel corporation, known as the "Steel Trust," is No. 6 on the docket. Here again the government is on the defensive, having lost in the lower courts. Cases against the Eastman Kodak company and the Associated Bill Posters follow closely, both of these being victories for the government so far. Numbers 12 and 14 are the suits against the American Can company and the Quaker Oats company, both victories for the corporations so far. The case against the Keystone Watch company is also near the head of the docket.

The session of the court opening today is expected to be one of the most important in history. Many puzzling war questions will be up for settlement besides the trust cases. It is certain that the court will be asked to rule on questions arising from the present industrial strife, and clearly define the legal rights of capital and labor.

Speculation in Foreign Money

Wall Street Has a New Gamble on Which It Expects to Realize Big.

(By United Press.)

New York, Oct. 11.—People who want to make money—there being several of them in the vicinity of Wall Street and elsewhere in this city—are struggling to adjust patriotic scruples with possibilities of "cleaning up" on the low exchange value of the German mark.

The marks have hit the bottom in their spectacular drop, it is felt by many, who have followed the tumble in value of the German unit of exchange from 25 cents to 3 1/2 cents. Much exchange on German banks is being bought at the low price.

Most of the purchasers are bank employees, people connected with business houses, and those who "play the game" on the outside looking in at Wall Street. Many bankers consider the mark a good buy, but cannot purchase, except as individuals, since reliable and conservative banks cannot speculate on unproductive values.

Speculating on the mark is considered purely a gamble, but usually a good one, since the exchange depends largely on trade, and it is thought trade will begin gradually. It is thought by many that the mark should rise to 10 cents in value in the side of two years, enabling trebling of money invested. However, conservatives point at the Russian ruble, in which many people invested, and which is now down to practically nothing in value. Many people who invested in marks last spring when they were around eight cents are rueful of the drop to three cents.

The system of buying most in vogue is to purchase exchange in Berlin banks. The receipt can either be kept here, and sold later, or can be sent to Berlin, where the marks can be on deposit at interest. It is said the Germans are not averse to the enormous buying of marks even at such low prices, since it will enable them to acquire low quantities of the dollars they thus secure in American exchange, and will stimulate trade. Furthermore, demand for marks will send their value up.

There is a very general feeling, despite the low price of the mark, that the Germans will come back industrially very quickly, perhaps more so than the French and Italians, due to the Teutonic mania for work.

Some who would otherwise "take a fling" at the money market, hesitate because of anti-German feeling. The idea of abstaining from buying anything German seems to have been pretty generally forgotten, however, in the jumble of new popular problems which have arisen.

Buying of French exchange is almost as spectacular as the German. The French franc has dropped to about half of its original value, with relation to American money, and many people are acquiring money of France, as a speculation. In most cases, the French exchange is sent to Paris, to be held on deposit until the franc sees better days. The Italian lire is low, but is not a popular buy at present, on account of lack of confidence in the Italian government, or else lack of familiarity with Italy on the part of the public.

U. S. SUBS ARE BETTER THAN GERMAN U-BOATS

(By United Press.)

Washington, Oct. 11.—Tests conducted by the navy department show that the much-praised German cruising submarines were inferior in efficiency to American vessels of the same class.

The many-craft had less speed above and below water, and had a smaller cruising radius.

The best of five German submarines brought to the United States by the Victory Liberty loan campaign were used in making the comparison—the U-111, built at Kiel in 1918. In competition with it was the S-3, built at Portsmouth in 1913.

The maximum speed developed by the U-111 was 12.8 knots, while the S-3 made 14.7 knots. Submerged, the U-111 made 7.8 knots, and the S-3 made 12.4. The U-111 can cruise 8,000 miles at 11 knots, compared with a radius of 10,000 miles at 11 knots, of which the S-3 is capable.

Both boats can carry 12 torpedoes. The U-111 mounts two 4-inch guns, while the S-3 carries one, in accordance with the navy department's practice.

The U-111 is congested and complicated. The S-3 is comparatively "roomy" and much simpler in design.

OPEN HOUSE TONIGHT

BY AMERICAN LEGION

The Butte post of the American Legion will hold open house tonight at the city auditorium in the library building. The use of the top floor was granted last spring by the city council to the returned soldiers until such a time as they would be able to procure permanent quarters. The Rotary club has donated $2,500 to the legion for the purpose of furnishing the hall. Other citizens have also contributed. Conspicuous in the legion, formerly the Army and Navy club, which embraces in its active membership many of the most prominent of Butte's returned soldiers and sailors, has been able to transform into a comfortable and attractive clubroom what was once only a large shabby public hall for public gatherings.

At tonight's house-warming, music will be provided and dancing will be free. The entertainment will be continued tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon.

NEW ALL-ROUND CHAMP

FROM ATHLETIC STOCK

(By United Press.)

New York, Oct. 11.—Seven years ago a slim, muscular school boy walked from an athletic field in Pasadena, Cal., with an ambition to become the nation's greatest athlete. At the age of fifteen he had taken the colors of the Pasadena high school into an all-around championship meet and been crowned the victor.

Recently at Jersey City, this small lad, grown now to a six-footer, a superb build, was crowned the nation's premier athlete in the national A. A. U. "all-around" championship meet.

This is Samuel Harrison Thomson, star Princeton athlete of Los Angeles, Cal., and late of the American expeditionary forces.

The new champion is 22 years of age. He comes of athletic stock. Six years ago at Princeton his brother, Rev. Fred C. Thomson, became the national champion and set the record of 7,411 1/2 points which still stands.

In bringing the second championship title to the family, the youngest Thomson accumulated 6,133 1/2 points after a battle with Larry Karimo, the noted Finn of Detroit.

The Californian won the running high jump at 5 feet 10 1/2 inches; the 800 yards walk in 3:27 4-5; the 16-pound hammer throw with 114 feet 7 1/2 inches. He was second in the 100 yards dash finishing only behind Dan Shea of the East time (N. Y.). A. C. in 11 1-5 seconds; second in the 16-pound shot-put with 28 feet 5 inches; second in the pole vault with 9 feet 5 inches; second in the 120 yards hurdle behind Karimo who went the distance in 16 3-5 seconds; second in the 56-pound weight event with 18 feet 7 1/2 inches; fourth in the running broad jump with 18 feet 11 1/2 inches and fourth in the one-mile run at 5:31 2-5.

The new champion is no Thorpe in ability or physique but he does approach close to the type of the ideal American athlete. He has size, grace and ease of movement almost to the point of laziness. In the high jump he would rise from a squatted position on the ground and leap leisurely to the bar and clear it with an exertion. The same confidence and ease of action was apparent in all his efforts.

In commenting upon the championship meet it is but fair to pay tribute to the Princeton representative, the Detroit Young Men's order, Larry Karimo, who finished second in the meet. Without attempting to detract any from the credit due to Thomson's victory it is said in justice to the Finn that the Detroit man beat himself out of the championship that his all-around form proved he deserved.

Karimo lost the championship by being disqualified in the 800 yards walk. His indulgence in a running walk caused his disqualification and the loss to the Princeton representative. He has been due to a case of "rattled nerves" as there was no reason for his violation of the rules. He was in fourth place comfortably and instead of playing shrewdly for sure points he had one of those so-called "balloon ascensions" and got out of his gait.

However, cool nerves and steadiness may be an attribute of a champion and in this respect Thomson proved himself far the superior and it enabled him to win what was a very closely matched contest.

BLACK LIZ" SUCCEEDS AT LAST TO OLD AGE

"Black Liz," born a slave in the south, died yesterday at the county poor farm. Her name was Elizabeth Preston. She came west with General Custard as his cook, shortly after the Civil war.

For many, many years she was a well-known character in the red light district of Butte. But old age finally forced her to take refuge at the poor farm.

SHIP'S MAST A LIBERTY POLE FOR CIVIC CENTER

(By United Press.)

Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Plans were complete today transposing the old home of Admiral Farragut and the grounds of the Zion church into a civic center here and to erect there as a "Liberty pole" the mainmast of the U. S. S. Hartford, the admiral's flagship.

The church grounds recently were given to the Grace Episcopal church here by Mrs. W. W. Fowler of Parkville, S. C., following suggestion of Rev. Porjace E. Clute, pastor, who had been working on the idea for several months.

Carrying out of the plans will depend on the decision of the navy department to allow use of the obsolete ship's mast. It is understood, however, no difficulties will be met, Clute said.

Admiral Farragut lived here before the war and Zion church was built with prize money won by the admiral in the capture of Confederate blockade runners.

Harry O. Brown, historian, who learned that the Hartford had been relegated to the scrapheap, asked Assistant Secretary Franklin D. Roosevelt for its use.

SHIP'S MAST A LIBERTY POLE FOR CIVIC CENTER

(By United Press.)

Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Plans were complete today transposing the old home of Admiral Farragut and the grounds of the Zion church into a civic center here and to erect there as a "Liberty pole" the mainmast of the U. S. S. Hartford, the admiral's flagship.

The church grounds recently were given to the Grace Episcopal church here by Mrs. W. W. Fowler of Parkville, S. C., following suggestion of Rev. Porjace E. Clute, pastor, who had been working on the idea for several months.

Carrying out of the plans will depend on the decision of the navy department to allow use of the obsolete ship's mast. It is understood, however, no difficulties will be met, Clute said.

Admiral Farragut lived here before the war and Zion church was built with prize money won by the admiral in the capture of Confederate blockade runners.

Harry O. Brown, historian, who learned that the Hartford had been relegated to the scrapheap, asked Assistant Secretary Franklin D. Roosevelt for its use.
