CABRERA WALLOPS INTERVENTION CRANKS

Says if Mexico Had Joined with Allies in War She Would Have Been Absorbed by United States. (Special United Press Wire.) Mexico City, Dec. 17.—Minister of the Treasury Cabrera, in a lengthy speech to the press, declared that if Mexico had joined with the allies in the world war, she would have been absorbed by the United States, both politically and economically. "The present attitude of the (American) interventionist press will result in the eyes of Europe and South America," he said, "American imperialists interpret the Monroe doctrine as meaning that Mexico is an exclusive camp for American expansion and the wisdom of remaining neutral in the war is now proven." Cabrera said that interventionist American papers claim Mexico initiated a campaign favoring Great Britain to the disadvantage of the United States, through granting special concessions to the British. "This is absolutely false," he said. "We are now endeavoring to renew world relations everywhere." He knocked the heavy blade from the hands of his murderous assailant. She said her husband then picked up the knife, but that it was again knocked to the floor. Each of the men stabbed him, she said, and then after Manos had fallen to the floor they went after him "like wild beasts" and covered his body with wounds. Following the crime, she said, she helped the men clean up the blood from the floor and concealed the knife in her bodice. A woman shoe case was obtained and the body wrapped in heavy wrapping paper, nailed in it. An auto was then secured, she said, and the body taken to the spot on the railroad west of the school of mines, where it was found later. Monday night George Paulos and Nick Kasoulas were arrested and a third man, said to answer a description given by the woman of the third of the alleged murder trio, also was arrested. The third man was later released, it appearing that he was not the party sought. The man wanted is believed to have fled from the city and efforts are being made by the police to apprehend him.

UNCLE SAM URGES BUDGET TO LOWER HOUSEHOLD COSTS

In an effort to assist the housekeeper in lowering the average family expenses and at the same time to practice consistent saving, the War Savings Organization of the Ninth Federal Reserve district, assisted by the Department of Home Economics of the University of Minnesota, has prepared for free distribution blanks for the application of the budget system to the home. In a pamphlet under the title of Facts, Figures and Forms, the War Savings Organization has, in addition, suggested budgets for FAMILIES OF FOUR. On income of $100 a Month. ZINC MINES REOPEN ON MONDAY--GILLIE

In a statement to the Bulletin representative this afternoon, Manager of Mines John Gillie, of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, stated that the zinc properties of the company would resume operations on Monday. He stated he could make no prognostications as to when the other properties of the company would be reopened. He said, however, that as soon as sufficient reserves of coal were on hand the mines would probably resume operations.

AN OPTIMIST

Tuesday night with the injunction of I knew an old man many years ago. Whose hair was white as the drifted snow. His kindly face never wore a frown. When things went wrong was never cast down. But would chuckle and rub his wrinkled chin. "Say—it ain't as bad as it might have been."

A SOLDIER'S IDEA OF SIBERIA

When the Lord was designing creation, Distributing oceans and lands, Setting up nation by nation, With no time to spit on his hands As anyone will in a hurry, He let little things slip now and then. With all of the bustle and hurry That he should have worked over again. Rather than mess up the outfit, He saved every blunder and blot And laid them aside in a corner For use in some out-of-way plot. On the sixth and last day of his contract, (His bones expiring that day), He scooped up the dregs of creation And shoveled the litter away. He scraped up the scraps and the offal, The sewage and seum of the sump And made the west shore of the Arctic A great international dump. He jammed the thing through in a jiffy. And because of the rush he was in He christened the foul mass Siberia, And Siberia it always has been. Feeling somewhat discouraged and tired, (He worked late that Saturday night), He picked out the dirtiest corner, And called it Vladivostok for spite. It is here they do everything back ward And the mud doesn't dry between rains; Where there's money and sawdust: It is plenty, And thievery is thicker than brains. It's the home for all yellow-skinned harpies. The heron and mud-colored crows Impressions of eastern Siberia Are gained through one organ—the nose. It's back to the States for yours truly, Without wishing anyone ill. Put Kolehak can hang for all I care, And really I think that he will. Yes, it's back to the States for yours truly. A sadder and wiser young chap: For the Lord played a joke on creation When Siberia was placed on the map. B. H. W. An ex-service man who knows.

WOMAN RELATES

(Continued From Page One) the night in question she was in the Creek coffee house on East Park street where her husband had been employed. She said her husband and the two other men got into an argument with Manos over a debt they claimed he owed them and that they had taken a ring from him valued at $600, which they declared they would keep until he paid up. About midnight, she said, they all left the coffee house and repaired to Manos' room on East Park street. She said she sat on the bed in the room while the man quarreled over the money and the ring. A fight started and Manos' jaw was broken by a blow from the fist of one of the combatants. With his jaw hanging limply Manos then put up a fight for his life, one of the trio of his assailants having drawn a knife. "The first thrust stabbed Manos in his left side," she said, "while the second thrust caught him near the back. With his jaw broken and his life blood flowing from the two wounds Manos put up a desperate battle with his assailants and final

The letter of Michael Sapper, one of the defendants, described how a mob smashed open the doors of the union hall in Tulsa Okla., and destroyed the furniture and how union men were held for vagrancy. Thomas Howe, department of justice agent, admitted on the stand that the "wobblies" use of the word "barbarian" might mean a police officer, sheriff or anyone else who arbitrarily and in violation of the law deprived men of their legal rights, ran them out of the neighborhood tarred and feathered them or beat them up. Early yesterday morning the defense rested its case. The lawyers for the defense then began reading from the Fort Scott, Kansas "People's College vest pocket edition of the United States Industrial Relations commission's report." This booklet, according to the government's witnesses, was found in raids in Augusta and other Kansas oil towns in 1917. Six hundred copies of it were found in one place, it was stated. The government's attorneys were discomfited as the reading continued. Judge Pollock declared the massacre at Ludlow, Colo., was not an issue in the present case, when that part of the report dealing with the Rockefeller company's atrocities in that state was reached. A conclusion of the noon recess. Attorney Moore for the defense announced that the defense would rest. This came as a complete surprise to the prosecution. The defendants, at a vote taken in the jail on Monday night, had decided to let the case go to the jury without calling any witnesses for the defense. A motion by the defense for a dismissal of the case, which was denied, as was the motion for a directed verdict of "not guilty."

SCHOOL BOY WRITES POEM ON "THRIFT"

In a prize essay contest on the subject of "Thrift," the following poem was submitted by Asa Powell, an eighth grade pupil in the Emerson School at Bozeman, Montana: "I wonder," said the chipmunk, From his perch so high, As he watched the big black clouds Go scurrying through the sky. "I had better begin to get my winter store of nuts," said he. The clouds hung low in the sky And we're having autumn weather." So to his home he scurried With a nut in either cheek, Nor stopped until he had enough "To last for many a week. Don't you think we better follow His example then; so good— Save and help to gather in The winter store of food?"

Books Which Deal With the New Realities

- AFTER THE WHIRLWIND Charles Edward Russell. Author of "Why Am I a Socialist," etc. "Mr. Russell's book is interesting because of his views of labor's attitude toward the great world problems of today and it is notable for the clear-visioned review of the causes leading up to the great war for the settling demands of German Imperialism—he glories in the crushing of Germany as a sincere well-wisher of the German people."—The Dial. Net, $1.50. SIX RED MONTHS IN RUSSIA Louise Bryant. She lived in Revolutionary Russia as one of the people; she knew Kerensky, "Protzy," and the women of the Battalion of Death; she attended the inner councils of the Soviet, and bears a vivid and sympathetic presentation of Russia. "Miss Bryant has boundless faith in the Revolution. She presents its case clearly and dramatically."—The Dial. Net, $2.00. AMERICAN LABOR AND THE WAR Samuel Gompers. President of the American Federation of Labor. "This exposition is of the nature of a report of labor in its bearing upon social and economic readjustment."—Washington Star. Net, $1.75. CIVILIZATION: TALES OF THE ORIENT Ellen N. La Motte. "She looks beneath the outer appearance of things, political and social in the East and writes of inner motives and meanings in a frank fashion likely to make political and social so-called civilized countries feel uncomfortable."—The Star. Net, $1.50. BANNERS Babette Deutsch. "There is the spirit of challenge and revolt, calling old standards and traditions into question—proceeding fearlessly in the new fields of thought and emotion. This spirit is nowhere better shown than in 'Banners,' the title poem written in celebration of the Russian Revolution."—New York Tribune. Net, $1.25. OUT OF THE SHADOW Rose Cohen. "Of this book which throws such an unparal- leled light on Ghetto sweatshop life and child labor, Lillian Wald writes: 'It will be accorded as a social document transcending in value the volumes of the academically trained searchers for data on these conditions.'"—The Star. Net, $2.00. THE FIELDS OF THE FATHERLESS Jean Roy. "A source book of poverty" is what the Chicago Tribune calls this self-revelation of a servant girl. It is the tale of her wanderings, her experiences as laundress, a sweatshop worker and as a servant. A human document of surprising realism."—The Star. Net, $1.75.
