JUDGE JONES IS PIONEER MATRON GIVEN A COOL RECEPTION AT DIVIDE IS DEAD

Defeated Candidate Now With Myers' Renegades Wastes Energy in Visit to Manhattan.

(Special to The Bulletin.)
Manhattan, Oct. 19.—Judge George Jones, who was defeated for renomination at the democratic primaries for district judge by a Nonpartisan league candidate in Rosebud county, received a cold reception in Manhattan last Thursday night, when he came over to tell about the "awful" conditions in North Dakota under the Nonpartisan league government. He could not secure a man; neither a reactionary republican nor a reactionary democrat, to preside and introduce him to the audience of 60 men and women, most of them Nonpartisan leaguers, who went for curiosity's sake to hear what the opponent of progress really had to say in opposition to Wheeler and the democratic candidates nominated by the farmers and workers.
There are a few out and out reactionaries in Manhattan, but the local farmer-owned paper, the Rocky Mountain American, has taken the wind out of them and they are afraid to come out and fight in the open. The American said: "When the farmers, the best patrons of local merchants, hold a meeting and invite them to attend, they will never show up, but when the Devilment association calls a meeting the business men will break their necks to get there. Next issue we will finish this editorial and give the names of those business men that attended."
The man slated for chairman of the Jones meeting "ducked" and never showed up. The one who billed the meeting and arranged for the theater "ducked" also and did not appear. In fact, there was not a business man present.
The speech was a re-hash of Jerry Bacon stuff, such as had been published in the Montana Loyalist during the past year.

JOHN L. LEWIS REFUSES TO COMMENT ON HOWATT

(By The Federated Press.)
Chicago, Oct. 19.—Upon receiving Alexander Howatt's version of the situation regarding his candidacy the Federated Press wrote to President John L. Lewis of the U. M. of A. that "it has been the policy of the Federated Press whenever one faction to a controversy makes a statement to refrain from publishing that statement until we can also send out a statement from the other faction," and invited Mr. Lewis to comment upon the Howatt allegations.
To this Mr. Lewis replied: "In my judgment the Federated Press should refrain from publishing partisan articles from anyone concerning the internal affairs of the United Mine Workers of America. I am personally disinclined to enter into any public controversy involving the question of veracity of anyone and, consequently, do not care to make any comments on the statement from Kansas, copy of which you so kindly enclosed."

AUSTRIAN WORKERS MAKE THREAT TO SEIZE PLANTS

(By The Federated Press.)
Vienna, Oct. 19.—The example of the Italian metal workers has kindled some of the workers here to imitation.
The furniture industry which claims that it is going through a grave crisis of over-production due to a dearth of purchasers, has laid off a certain number of employees.
The dismissed workers have established a committee of action which threatens to take possession of the factories so that the workers can run them for themselves, if they are not at once re-employed.

HOWATT ASSERTS ALLEN SOUGHT BIG OFFICE

Mine Workers' District Chief Says Kansas Governor Attempted to Ride on Workers' Backs.

By MARY GAWTHORPE.
(Special Correspondent for the Federated Press.)
Taylorville, Ill., Oct. 19.—Governor Allen of Kansas expected to ride into the White house on the back of organized labor in his capacity of state coal operator and author of the industrial court, declared Alexander Howatt, president of the Kansas district of the United Mine Workers, here today before a memorial demonstration in honor of miners shot down by operators at the Virden mine near here 23 years ago.
Every year the 12th of October is set apart by the miners as a memorial holiday in commemoration of the great sacrifice to the cause of labor of the miners who were shot down from behind a stockade at the entrance to a shaft when protesting against strike-breakers imported from Alabama.

Three thousand miners with their wives filled the auditorium. Large delegations came from the surrounding districts of Pawnee, Nekoma, and Topeka. Duncan McDonald, farmer-labor candidate for congress in the Twenty-first Illinois district, Mrs. Alice Engert of Chicago, and Mary Gawthorpe of the educational department of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America were on the program. The two women are conducting the farmer-labor party campaign in the mining districts of Illinois and Indiana.

Howatt thanked the Illinois miners for their action in sending $100,000 to the miners of Kansas early this year in their fight against Governor Allen's plan for ending the strike by taking over the coal mines of Kansas in the name of the state.

"Allen learned," said Howatt, "that there is one thing union miners would not do. They would not scab for a government any more than for an operator. Allen was insulted so he called on his patriotic volunteers to take the miners' places and save two million of people from freezing to death."

Howatt roused gases of understanding laughter in his description of Allen's 1,000 patriotic volunteers who came from Lawrence and Topeka but hastily departed after a brief experience in the strip mines, saying they would return as soon as their hands got hard.

Kansas has deep mines accommodating 12,000 miners where real danger can be met but patriotic volunteers never saw these mines though Allen boasted he had 15,000 volunteers. Evidently 14,000 were in reserve.

The thousand strike-breakers with 2,000 soldiers to guard them learned a few things in the Strip mine where the governor had put them. "If we have a strike this winter," said Howatt, "they are likely to tell Allen to go into the mines and dig coal for himself."

The coal dug by the volunteers cost the taxpayers of Kansas $200,000 a ton. "Governor Allen is some operator," said the speaker. After this failure to coerce the miners a special session of the legislature was called and with the assistance of corporation lawyers he developed the bright idea of an industrial court to put an end to strikes by compulsory arbitration and to chain the workers to their jobs like slaves.

This move was characterized by Howatt as part of the nationwide drive against labor now being carried on by chambers of commerce and the corporation press. The speaker declared that Governor Allen has toured the country and has harangued state legislatures to have the Kansas industrial court law passed.

"There will be no surrender," Howatt said. He quoted Wendell Phillips to the effect that "any law that failed to give justice was only fit to be trampled on." The Kansas law will get no more consideration than we received from those who passed it.

"We are not crazy about striking, but we know what it means if we ever surrender the right to strike. The miners will strike regardless of the governor rather than to submit like slaves."
"We have been charged," he continued, "with violating the Lever law but do 2,000 per cent profiteers are behind the bars because of the same Lever law."

Howatt called on labor to work night and day as the chambers of commerce are working. He emphasized the need for a labor press so that the workers may understand the issues. "When their eyes are open," he asserted, "labor on the farm and labor in industry will unite at the ballot box."

MILITARY HONORS PAID TO SERGEANT NED GRADY

Full military honors were paid at the funeral this morning of Sergeant Ned Grady, the first of Butte's soldiers in the world war who died overseas, to be buried here. Ritualistic services of the American Legion were conducted at the home of P. M. Grady, 520 South Dakota street, after which regular high mass was celebrated at St. Patrick's church.
Sergeant Grady died in France just as he was about to embark for the United States. His body arrived from France Sunday and laid in state in the Grady home yesterday. Interment was in the old Catholic cemetery. A firing squad was supplied by the regular troops now in the city.

Good times for all can only be the product of good work by all.

PEOPLE FLOCK TO BIG SALE OF FOOTWEAR

Butte Folk Respond to the Chance to Get Away From Continual Profiteering in Shoe Prices.

That the people of Butte are anxious to take advantage of real bargains in shoes is amply indicated by the complete success of the shoe sale now in progress at 43 East Park street, which began this morning. Huge crowds of persons thronged the store all day and bigger crowds are expected tomorrow.

"People in Butte have been profited for so long on shoe prices," said Manager Keen of the store, "that they are quick to respond to any offer which promises to shoo them at reasonable prices."

"Continued high prices for footwear," he said, "are impossible. On my recent visit east for the purpose of buying new stock I found the market glutted and the manufacturers over-stocked with goods and with few buyers. Any buyer who offers cash for their stocks can have as many shoes as he wants at his own price. I took advantage of that condition, offered cash, and got a huge shipment of shoes at prices so low that I am able to sell them here at prices exceptionally lower than has been the rule for several years."

POLICE CHARGE PRISONER MADE WHISKEY INTO R.

Turning water into wine is considered difficult, but C. L. Duggan, alias C. L. Tripp, alias C. L. Baker, according to the police, performed the feat of turning whisky into water to the vast enrichment of his own bank account and to the sorrow and loss of a number of residents of our little oasis in the desert of Montana.

Duggan was arrested last night by Chief of Detectives Larkin and Police Captain Mike O'Donnell. He was charged with bucconing persons who thought they were purchasing barrels of whisky from him, when as a matter of fact the barrels contained only water.

In the rooming house where Duggan was arrested, according to the police, several kegs were equipped with a device to pump prospective whisky purchasers. A container was fixed inside the bung hole of the barrels which, they say, was filled with a small quantity of whisky that was drawn through a siphon as a sample for the purchaser. The remainder of the barrels, in practice, contained only hydrant water.

CAPITALISM IN EUROPE IS FALLING

Scott Nearing Returns From Abroad Convinced Workers Building up New Order on Ruins.

(By The Federated Press.)
New York, Oct. 19.—"The capitalist system of Europe has reached the stage of falling to pieces," so declared Scott Nearing, who has just returned to this country after a tour of several months in France and England.

While the imperialistic diplomats are whining about the bankruptcy of their respective countries to evoke sympathy and aid, the workers are steadily building up a new order upon the ruins of the old and dying state, Nearing declared.

The Italian workers have well demonstrated the new spirit that envelopes all of Europe, he said. The return of the shops and factories to the owners by the Italian workers is not a policy of backing down on their part, as the press is trying to make out.

"I understand that press reports here have declared that the workers were miserably beaten in their attempt to sovietize the cities of Italy. That is not so," said Nearing.

"The workers were showing the employers just what they can do. It was a warning to the employers. They took the factories over in a quiet, orderly way. They raised the red flag and let it wave for as long as they dared to let it down. No threats came to them from the outside. There were no troops and no police for the government to call. You cannot order workers to fight against themselves.

"In southern Italy the soldiers themselves seized the land, surveyed it and parcelled it out to agricultural workers. The rule of the workers in Italy is not broken at all. Such an assumption is entirely false. In the next move that the Italian workers will make, and they will make one soon, Giolitti will either step out or be stepped upon."

"In England and France, and particularly in England, there is a tremendous amount of unemployment. The shipbuilding industry, the steel making industry, the textile industry, in fact, all the fundamental industries report a terrible scarcity of employment. This means that the economic foundation of these countries is shaking, industrially as well as financially. All the capitalistic industries are looking to the United States. And the United States is holding up its hands.

"The people in France are looking forward to the winter in utter hopelessness," Nearing said.

"The constructive efforts of the younger group are admirable. They are forming producers' co-operative building guilds in various parts of France. These are all socialist and some like that of Marseille, none but a communist can become a member.

"France also has a tenants' league which in four years has grown to 150,000 members. Their purpose is the socializing of houses and as such is here to get a square deal from the landlords. They furnish free legal advice, moving service, maintain a co-operative furnishing service and have an inspection staff that goes to examine sanitation of the houses.

"The conditions surrounding the Third International, Nearing said:

"Since the sending of the nine conditions to France and the 21 conditions to Germany and the letter to the independent labor party of England, the tendency has been to resent Russian interference. There is the feeling that Russia is assuming the dictatorship. Of course, the Second International is dead. On that everyone is agreed. It has moved its home office to England. The third is the only international, and a possible fourth. The French are not and outside interference—and a fourth international may be born as a result.

"Samuel Gompers and Eugene V. Debs are the important figures in American labor who are well known to the labor movement of Europe today. The workers of Europe regard Gompers as extremely conservative.

"The labor movement of Europe regards Debs as the greatest man in the United States. Debs is not better known in Europe than in the United States, but the labor movement of the United States cannot possibly feel more warmly toward Debs than does the labor movement of Europe.

SID JOHNSTON CUTS WIDE SWATH, DEPUTY ALLEGES

Sidney Johnston, arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant issued in Musselshell county, charging grand larceny, cut a wide swath through Montana, according to Deputy Sheriff H. P. Nelson of Roundup, who took charge of the prisoner last night.

Nelson says Johnston purchased a Ford car at Lewistown, giving in part payment a personal note for the balance owed on the machine. Later he traded the Ford for a Hupmobile, again giving a personal note for a part of the payment. The Hupmobile was traded in later for a Hudson car, in which deal, says Nelson, another personal note figured. Then after the Hudson had run over a child in Great Falls, Johnston put up $100 bond for appearance and jumped to Roundup, where the deputy alleges, he passed several alleged worthless checks.

PLOT OF FRANCE AND HORTHY IS REVEALED

Hungary's Man Power, Body and Soul, Bound Over by Dictator to French Financiers.

(By The Federated Press.)
Berlin, Oct. 19.—Amazing stipulations of the treaty concluded between Horthy and Hungary and the French government, which practically sign the wealth and man-power of Hungary over to the capitalists of France are revealed by Az Embler, a bourgeois paper published here.

The real intent of the whole transaction is made shamelessly clear in a provision which states outright that "in the campaign against Soviet Russia" the French shall have complete control of the Hungarian army.

Some of the economic terms of the treaty follow:
The Hungarian railroads are leased for 50 years to a French company formed by the stockholders of Maison Schneider and the company of Creusot, on a basis of 30 per cent of the shares, participation in the profits of at least 40 million francs each year. The Hungarian government is obliged before January to raise the passenger rates 500 per cent and the freight rates 300 per cent. If the Hungarian parliament does not ratify the treaty, the national assembly will be dissolved and the treaty will be put into effect by decree.

The political provisions grant the Hungarian government permission to maintain universal military service and to call out the classes from 1910 to 1920. The French government is authorized to control the Hungarian military forces.
The French government is pledged to intervene with the league of nations for the revision of the frontiers of Hungary as assigned to it by the peace treaty.

The third portion of the document concerns military conditions. Hungary is obliged to keep in readiness an army of 150,000 men while France is responsible for its maintenance and armament. This army is to be under French command in the campaign against Soviet Russia.

POINTS TO INCOMPLETE REPORT BY MAJ. LEJUENE

(By The Federated Press.)
New York, Oct. 19.—Moorefield Story, former president of the American Bar association, and president of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People, has issued a statement declaring that the Lejuene report on the American occupation of Haiti, contained no specific denial of the atrocity charges that have been lodged against the American occupation.

Story says that the charges of Herbert J. Seligman and James Weldon Johnson that American marines had killed 2,000 Haitians were hardly disposed of by General Lejuene's mere assertion that some of the Haitians are grateful for the American occupation.

ARGENTINE LONGSHOREMEN STRIKE FOR DEMANDS

(By The Federated Press.)
Buenos Aires, Oct. 19.—When the members of the Argentine Patriotic league here today undertook to load the American steamship Pandey for shippers, who have been boycotted by the port unions, the union stewards quit work.

Attempt was made today to reach an agreement. Representatives of the unions and shippers went over the points of differences, expressing the hope that the strike would not spread at this time.

While expressing disinclination to call the strike in other ports or continue it longer than necessary, labor officials made it clear that their demands were imperative.

LABOR MIXED UP IN ELECTION IN IOWA

Gompers' "Reward Your Friends" Policy Cause of Tangled Situation as to Balloting.

(By The Federated Press.)
Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 19.—Iowa workers who accept the "reward your friends and defeat your enemies" policy of the A. F. of L. are trying to memorize the names and parties of their candidates so that they can mark their ballots correctly on election day. For some offices one votes republican, for some democratic.

The difficulty arises from the fact that none of the old party candidates offer spotless records on labor issues. Fred A. Canfield, president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor, in an address here defended the action of the executive board of the federation in selecting candidates from both camps.

Claude E. Porter, democratic candidate for United States senator, was endorsed because his opponent, Senator Cummins, is joint author of the anti-labor Cummins-Esch railroad law. Wisconsin labor recently removed Congressman Esch from the political scene by defeating him in the primaries, and Senator Cummins is losing sleep of nights. Canfield admitted that the board had little light on Porter's labor record.

Nate E. Kendall, republican candidate for governor, was endorsed by the federation despite his approval of the Cummins-Esch law. Canfield says Kendall is a friend of labor since he says "we must not attempt to take away the right to strike for the correction of grievances." Clyde Herring, democratic nominee for governor, is spurned in spite of his professed belief in collective bargaining. In his plant in Des Moines Herring maintains the "open shop."

MEXICAN FEDERATION MAY JOIN THIRD INTERNATIONAL

(By Linn A. E. Gale.)
Mexico City, Oct. 19.—A movement is on foot to have the Mexican Federation of Labor ("Confederacion Regional Obrera Mexicana") apply for admission to the Third International.

The unions comprising the federation have, for the most part, always been radical, the conservatism of the organization being due to the attitude of the leaders rather than the feeling of the rank and file. In the last few months, however, Louis N. Morones, its leader, and most of the other prominent members have frankly declared they were Bolsheviks. Today the organization stands really committed to the overthrow of capitalism instead of simply to higher wages and shorter hours.

It is expected that a new constitution will be shortly adopted, putting the federation formally on record in favor of the principles of the Communist International and that affiliation will then be sought. The federation is the largest labor organization in the country.

Williams, formerly publicity director of the Rand School and the Peoples' Council, and a writer whose work has covered a wide range of radical subjects, is critically ill in St. Luke's hospital. He was taken there several weeks ago on his return from Pennsylvania, where he had spent the summer in an effort to regain his health. Williams was formerly the managing editor of the Kansas City Post.
