

The Memphis Appeal

PUBLISHED Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly by JOHN B. McLANAHAN, MANAGER, and W. D. DILL, Editor.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION: Daily, $1.00 per week; Tri-Weekly, $2.00 per month; Weekly, $3.00 per month.

MISCELLANEOUS: TO THE Cotton Planters OF MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA.

General Orders No. 9. HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF, JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, June 22, 1862.

PARTISAN SERVICE. General Orders No. 10. HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF, JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, June 22, 1862.

NOTICE: OFFICE OF MISSISSIPPI CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY. Notice of the suspension of the Memphis and Jackson Railroad.

SOUTHERN LITHOGRAPHIC AND GENERAL MAP PUBLISHING ESTABLISHMENT. 111 Broadway, New York.

RUNAWAY CAUGHT! A runaway slave named JAMES H. BROWN, who was taken from his master, Mr. J. H. BROWN, of Memphis, Tennessee.

RUNAWAY CAUGHT! A runaway slave named JOHN W. BROWN, who was taken from his master, Mr. J. H. BROWN, of Memphis, Tennessee.

JAILOR'S NOTICE. Notice of the arrest of a runaway slave named JOHN W. BROWN, who was taken from his master, Mr. J. H. BROWN, of Memphis, Tennessee.

THE BATTLE OF RICHMOND.

THE GREAT BATTLE!

THE ENEMY IN FULL RETREAT! BRILLIANT VICTORY! DETAILS OF THE FIGHT.

STORMING OF MECHANICSVILLE.

Capture of Elyson's Mills.

THE BATTLE OF HEAVY DAM CREEK.

THE FIGHT AT GAINES MILLS.

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, June 30.

When Gen. A. P. Hill had steadily driven the enemy from Meadow Bridge, and had taken up the line of march toward Mechanicsville, the blow of the Federal army was directed against a battery which took up a position on the right of the main line.

At 12 o'clock last night we conversed with an aid to one of our generals, who informs us that we have driven the Yankees from all of their strong positions, taken a large number of prisoners, and captured their arms and baggage.

The attack of our men on this position was impetuous and daring, but the loss was great. It was impossible to get them properly. Their loss was severe. Gen. Featherstone's adjutant-general, Col. Taylor, was killed while leading his regiment into the action.

From prisoners captured, both positions were proved to be in the hands of the enemy. It was ascertained that we might expect stout resistance at Gaines Mills, since three or four whole divisions were reported to be in the neighborhood.

THE GREAT BATTLE!

THE ENEMY IN FULL RETREAT!

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT. STORMING OF MECHANICSVILLE. Capture of Elyson's Mills.

THE BATTLE OF HEAVY DAM CREEK.

THE FIGHT AT GAINES MILLS.

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, June 30.

When Gen. A. P. Hill had steadily driven the enemy from Meadow Bridge, and had taken up the line of march toward Mechanicsville, the blow of the Federal army was directed against a battery which took up a position on the right of the main line.

At 12 o'clock last night we conversed with an aid to one of our generals, who informs us that we have driven the Yankees from all of their strong positions, taken a large number of prisoners, and captured their arms and baggage.

The attack of our men on this position was impetuous and daring, but the loss was great. It was impossible to get them properly. Their loss was severe. Gen. Featherstone's adjutant-general, Col. Taylor, was killed while leading his regiment into the action.

From prisoners captured, both positions were proved to be in the hands of the enemy. It was ascertained that we might expect stout resistance at Gaines Mills, since three or four whole divisions were reported to be in the neighborhood.

THE GREAT BATTLE!

THE ENEMY IN FULL RETREAT!

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT. STORMING OF MECHANICSVILLE. Capture of Elyson's Mills.

THE BATTLE OF HEAVY DAM CREEK.

THE FIGHT AT GAINES MILLS.

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, June 30.

When Gen. A. P. Hill had steadily driven the enemy from Meadow Bridge, and had taken up the line of march toward Mechanicsville, the blow of the Federal army was directed against a battery which took up a position on the right of the main line.

At 12 o'clock last night we conversed with an aid to one of our generals, who informs us that we have driven the Yankees from all of their strong positions, taken a large number of prisoners, and captured their arms and baggage.

The attack of our men on this position was impetuous and daring, but the loss was great. It was impossible to get them properly. Their loss was severe. Gen. Featherstone's adjutant-general, Col. Taylor, was killed while leading his regiment into the action.

From prisoners captured, both positions were proved to be in the hands of the enemy. It was ascertained that we might expect stout resistance at Gaines Mills, since three or four whole divisions were reported to be in the neighborhood.

THE GREAT BATTLE!

THE ENEMY IN FULL RETREAT!

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT. STORMING OF MECHANICSVILLE. Capture of Elyson's Mills.

THE BATTLE OF HEAVY DAM CREEK.

THE FIGHT AT GAINES MILLS.

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, June 30.

When Gen. A. P. Hill had steadily driven the enemy from Meadow Bridge, and had taken up the line of march toward Mechanicsville, the blow of the Federal army was directed against a battery which took up a position on the right of the main line.

At 12 o'clock last night we conversed with an aid to one of our generals, who informs us that we have driven the Yankees from all of their strong positions, taken a large number of prisoners, and captured their arms and baggage.

The attack of our men on this position was impetuous and daring, but the loss was great. It was impossible to get them properly. Their loss was severe. Gen. Featherstone's adjutant-general, Col. Taylor, was killed while leading his regiment into the action.

From prisoners captured, both positions were proved to be in the hands of the enemy. It was ascertained that we might expect stout resistance at Gaines Mills, since three or four whole divisions were reported to be in the neighborhood.

THE GREAT BATTLE!

THE ENEMY IN FULL RETREAT!

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT. STORMING OF MECHANICSVILLE. Capture of Elyson's Mills.

THE BATTLE OF HEAVY DAM CREEK.

THE FIGHT AT GAINES MILLS.

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, June 30.

When Gen. A. P. Hill had steadily driven the enemy from Meadow Bridge, and had taken up the line of march toward Mechanicsville, the blow of the Federal army was directed against a battery which took up a position on the right of the main line.

At 12 o'clock last night we conversed with an aid to one of our generals, who informs us that we have driven the Yankees from all of their strong positions, taken a large number of prisoners, and captured their arms and baggage.

The attack of our men on this position was impetuous and daring, but the loss was great. It was impossible to get them properly. Their loss was severe. Gen. Featherstone's adjutant-general, Col. Taylor, was killed while leading his regiment into the action.

From prisoners captured, both positions were proved to be in the hands of the enemy. It was ascertained that we might expect stout resistance at Gaines Mills, since three or four whole divisions were reported to be in the neighborhood.

THE GREAT BATTLE!

THE ENEMY IN FULL RETREAT!

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT. STORMING OF MECHANICSVILLE. Capture of Elyson's Mills.

THE BATTLE OF HEAVY DAM CREEK.

THE FIGHT AT GAINES MILLS.

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, June 30.

When Gen. A. P. Hill had steadily driven the enemy from Meadow Bridge, and had taken up the line of march toward Mechanicsville, the blow of the Federal army was directed against a battery which took up a position on the right of the main line.

At 12 o'clock last night we conversed with an aid to one of our generals, who informs us that we have driven the Yankees from all of their strong positions, taken a large number of prisoners, and captured their arms and baggage.

The attack of our men on this position was impetuous and daring, but the loss was great. It was impossible to get them properly. Their loss was severe. Gen. Featherstone's adjutant-general, Col. Taylor, was killed while leading his regiment into the action.

From prisoners captured, both positions were proved to be in the hands of the enemy. It was ascertained that we might expect stout resistance at Gaines Mills, since three or four whole divisions were reported to be in the neighborhood.

THE GREAT BATTLE!

THE ENEMY IN FULL RETREAT!

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT. STORMING OF MECHANICSVILLE. Capture of Elyson's Mills.

THE BATTLE OF HEAVY DAM CREEK.

THE FIGHT AT GAINES MILLS.

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, June 30.

When Gen. A. P. Hill had steadily driven the enemy from Meadow Bridge, and had taken up the line of march toward Mechanicsville, the blow of the Federal army was directed against a battery which took up a position on the right of the main line.

At 12 o'clock last night we conversed with an aid to one of our generals, who informs us that we have driven the Yankees from all of their strong positions, taken a large number of prisoners, and captured their arms and baggage.

The attack of our men on this position was impetuous and daring, but the loss was great. It was impossible to get them properly. Their loss was severe. Gen. Featherstone's adjutant-general, Col. Taylor, was killed while leading his regiment into the action.

From prisoners captured, both positions were proved to be in the hands of the enemy. It was ascertained that we might expect stout resistance at Gaines Mills, since three or four whole divisions were reported to be in the neighborhood.

THE GREAT BATTLE!

THE ENEMY IN FULL RETREAT!

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT. STORMING OF MECHANICSVILLE. Capture of Elyson's Mills.

THE BATTLE OF HEAVY DAM CREEK.

THE FIGHT AT GAINES MILLS.

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, June 30.

When Gen. A. P. Hill had steadily driven the enemy from Meadow Bridge, and had taken up the line of march toward Mechanicsville, the blow of the Federal army was directed against a battery which took up a position on the right of the main line.

At 12 o'clock last night we conversed with an aid to one of our generals, who informs us that we have driven the Yankees from all of their strong positions, taken a large number of prisoners, and captured their arms and baggage.

The attack of our men on this position was impetuous and daring, but the loss was great. It was impossible to get them properly. Their loss was severe. Gen. Featherstone's adjutant-general, Col. Taylor, was killed while leading his regiment into the action.

From prisoners captured, both positions were proved to be in the hands of the enemy. It was ascertained that we might expect stout resistance at Gaines Mills, since three or four whole divisions were reported to be in the neighborhood.