

Daily Appeal.

BY McCLANAHAN & DILL.

GRENADA, MISS.

FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 19.

TO OUR FRIENDS. Gentlemen who arrive from the United States with late papers, will confer a favor by leaving them at the counting room of the APPEAL, office, or at the editor's room, over GEO. LANE'S store, next door north of the Collins House. In these days of uncertain mails from the South send a blockade on the North, our facilities to furnish the latest news from all quarters can be greatly increased by a little attention on the part of our friends, for which we shall ever remain grateful. Parties from above will confer an especial favor by furnishing us any Northern papers in their possession.

THE ONLY PRO-SLAVIC MANIPULATION. The radicals up North are clamoring for a proclamation from Old Abe, emancipating the negroes of the South. If the Old Gentleman should attempt it, we would suggest that, while his hand is in, he also decree the freedom of the slaves of Cuba and South America. He has just as much right to do the one as the other, and we see no use in mining matters, especially as he is fond of undertaking "big jobs."

PROVOST MARCHALS. In our summary of Congressional proceedings, published this evening, will be found a communication from the Secretary of War defining the duties of provost marshals. It will be seen that they have no authority whatever over persons not in the army, except where martial law is in force, and it can only obtain by order of the President; also, that "whether martial law exist or not, they are expressly prohibited by a general order from exercising civil jurisdiction." These need be no conflict hereafter between the military and civil authorities, and it is to be hoped the latter will at once vigorously assume and exercise their Constitutional powers.

BATTLE IN MARYLAND. The dispatches which we publish this evening show very clearly that there has been a protracted engagement in Maryland. Although the messages of McCLELLAN claim a victory for the Federal, we think their general tenor indicates a defeat. It may be some days before we receive authentic accounts from our own army generals, but we shall await them with great anxiety and the fullest confidence of their favorable import. JACKSON has not been heard from, but he will be seen in the rear of McCLELLAN, at the present moment. The Federal army, as mentioned in the "whisperings of the enemy" at the appointed time. So we predict.

OUR ARMY IN MARYLAND. Up to the present writing we are ignorant as to the position of our army in Maryland. From Kentucky our own opinion is that General Lee will march upon and capture Harpersburg, Pa., which he will hold as a pledge against the destruction of Baltimore by the guns of Fort Mifflin and Federal Hill, which he shall move on that day. The telegraph may probably throw some light on the subject before going to press. As yet a few days more must elapse to give us intelligence of the most thrilling import. Both our own and Federal armies are now in a position and position of affairs where they cannot remain idle.

THREATS TO CAPTAIN S. R. HAYMAN, of the Confederate States army, recently at prisoner of Johnson's Island, for a late Chicago paper. His friends will rejoice to learn that he is again in his place. McDOWELL is it stated in Washington that the letter of General McDowell, which we published this evening, was a "sinking stone" to his operations. He has materially changed the impression of the public against him, founded upon the letter of Colonel Bragg.

ON the 11th inst. we were entertained at Shreveport, Illinois, by the friends of the State and the State had furnished all the aid possible. The Northerners have such an army as they possibly do to take care of their frontiers at present.

SUMNER is circulating a prospectus throughout New England for a new paper. The name of the new candidate for public favor is "We are in favor of the Union as it was," but it was meant to be, and must be. Under such patronage, and with such a crew, the character of the concern cannot be doubted.

ABANDONED WOMEN AT WASHINGTON.—The Washington Star calls for agents among the army of abandoned women at the national capital, who are corrupting the morals and destroying the health of the soldiers. It says "quintessence may be the need of the Confederate army, but quintessence is certainly the necessity of ours."

GENERAL PERRY'S NEW DEPARTMENT.—The Department of the Northwest, to which Major General P. P. has been assigned, includes Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and Dakota, with the troops raising and to be raised there under his command—his headquarters being at St. Paul, Minnesota.

ADMINISTRATIVE.—The Missouri News of the 17th inst. has been shown a private letter, dated at Richmond, 18th inst., from a gentleman well known in Mobile, and in a position to know the facts and circumstances of the case. They were yesterday (Thursday last) sent to Frederick City; Jackson was in the way through Carlisle to Harpersburg and Philadelphia.

MARYLAND WITH THE MOUTH.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

FEDERAL VICTORY CLAIMED.

Special to the Appeal. SENATORIAL, September 19.—The Memphis Bulletin, of the 18th, just received, contains the following dispatches from McClellan to the War Department: FIRST DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: I have just learned from General Hooker, who is in the advance, that the intelligence is perfectly reliable, that the enemy is making for the river in a perfect panic, and that the advance into their territory. It is really quite amusing to see the Baltimore American giving its readers a positive assurance that a single rebel company has captured the Potomac, at the very moment that General Lee has seated himself in his comfortable Frederick headquarters to rest and to receive the congratulations of his government, and the victorious regiments of Manassas encamped around him. McClellan too announces for the comfort and quietude of the "universal Yankee nation," that all the rebels have been captured, and that the city of Washington has been carefully guarded, that the rebels have not crossed the river as yet, and that should they attempt to do so, they will catch it. Our friend George B. is in a dilemma, from which it will be difficult to extricate himself. Either he was stupidly negligent and fast asleep in allowing the main body of our army to pass the Rappahannock without his knowledge, or else knowing full well that he had reached Frederick, he deliberately published a trumping lie, a lie of the first magnitude. If he did this only to keep up the morale of his army, he may, perhaps, have succeeded, but as a general, he is in the center and on the right, and resulted in his getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement on all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with little resistance from our artillery, very strong positions, defended by artillery and infantry.

SECOND DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: Information this moment received, completely confirms the report and demoralization of the rebel army. Loss reported wounded and killed. Hooker alone has over a thousand prisoners, seven hundred having been sent to Frederick. It is stated that Lee gives his loss at fifteen thousand. We are following as rapidly as men can march. GEO. B. McCLELLAN. THIRD DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: I am happy to inform you that Frederick's success on the left was as complete as that in the center and on the right, and resulted in his getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement on all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with little resistance from our artillery, very strong positions, defended by artillery and infantry. I don't think our loss is very severe. The corps of D. H. Hill and Longstreet were engaged with our right. We have taken a considerable number of prisoners. The enemy disappeared during the night. Our troops are now advancing in pursuit. I do not know where the enemy will retreat. Signed, GEO. B. McCLELLAN.

FOURTH DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: The Bulletin also contains the following: LOUISVILLE, September 18.—Reliable information is received that Bragg is now at Hopkinsville. Two deserters from Bragg's army say Bragg was at Sparta, Tenn., on Tuesday last, with 10,000 men, and marching toward Kentucky. LOUISVILLE, Ky., September 18.—Captain Morris, just returned from a scouting expedition, reports five hundred rebel cavalry at New Castle. They captured the telegraph operator at this place, and threatened to hang him unless he gave them his instruments. The news again is that the city of Nashville is in a state of the highest excitement, and the report is current and generally believed that the city is to be evacuated by the Federal forces, and the whole Union men who remain behind. "What," exclaimed a quiet Democrat just now, "abandon us to the rebels? Why, there is not a second man who would not laugh when he shot down in cold blood by rebel soldiers, if they come here."

FROM BIRMINGHAM. A special messenger says the Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

LETTERS FROM RICHMOND.

Special Correspondence of the Appeal.

Special to the Appeal.

Special to the Appeal. SENATORIAL, September 19.—The Memphis Bulletin, of the 18th, just received, contains the following dispatches from McClellan to the War Department: FIRST DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: I have just learned from General Hooker, who is in the advance, that the intelligence is perfectly reliable, that the enemy is making for the river in a perfect panic, and that the advance into their territory. It is really quite amusing to see the Baltimore American giving its readers a positive assurance that a single rebel company has captured the Potomac, at the very moment that General Lee has seated himself in his comfortable Frederick headquarters to rest and to receive the congratulations of his government, and the victorious regiments of Manassas encamped around him. McClellan too announces for the comfort and quietude of the "universal Yankee nation," that all the rebels have been captured, and that the city of Washington has been carefully guarded, that the rebels have not crossed the river as yet, and that should they attempt to do so, they will catch it. Our friend George B. is in a dilemma, from which it will be difficult to extricate himself. Either he was stupidly negligent and fast asleep in allowing the main body of our army to pass the Rappahannock without his knowledge, or else knowing full well that he had reached Frederick, he deliberately published a trumping lie, a lie of the first magnitude. If he did this only to keep up the morale of his army, he may, perhaps, have succeeded, but as a general, he is in the center and on the right, and resulted in his getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement on all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with little resistance from our artillery, very strong positions, defended by artillery and infantry.

SECOND DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: Information this moment received, completely confirms the report and demoralization of the rebel army. Loss reported wounded and killed. Hooker alone has over a thousand prisoners, seven hundred having been sent to Frederick. It is stated that Lee gives his loss at fifteen thousand. We are following as rapidly as men can march. GEO. B. McCLELLAN. THIRD DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: I am happy to inform you that Frederick's success on the left was as complete as that in the center and on the right, and resulted in his getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement on all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with little resistance from our artillery, very strong positions, defended by artillery and infantry. I don't think our loss is very severe. The corps of D. H. Hill and Longstreet were engaged with our right. We have taken a considerable number of prisoners. The enemy disappeared during the night. Our troops are now advancing in pursuit. I do not know where the enemy will retreat. Signed, GEO. B. McCLELLAN.

FOURTH DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: The Bulletin also contains the following: LOUISVILLE, September 18.—Reliable information is received that Bragg is now at Hopkinsville. Two deserters from Bragg's army say Bragg was at Sparta, Tenn., on Tuesday last, with 10,000 men, and marching toward Kentucky. LOUISVILLE, Ky., September 18.—Captain Morris, just returned from a scouting expedition, reports five hundred rebel cavalry at New Castle. They captured the telegraph operator at this place, and threatened to hang him unless he gave them his instruments. The news again is that the city of Nashville is in a state of the highest excitement, and the report is current and generally believed that the city is to be evacuated by the Federal forces, and the whole Union men who remain behind. "What," exclaimed a quiet Democrat just now, "abandon us to the rebels? Why, there is not a second man who would not laugh when he shot down in cold blood by rebel soldiers, if they come here."

FROM BIRMINGHAM. A special messenger says the Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Special Correspondence of the Appeal.

Special to the Appeal.

Special to the Appeal. SENATORIAL, September 19.—The Memphis Bulletin, of the 18th, just received, contains the following dispatches from McClellan to the War Department: FIRST DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: I have just learned from General Hooker, who is in the advance, that the intelligence is perfectly reliable, that the enemy is making for the river in a perfect panic, and that the advance into their territory. It is really quite amusing to see the Baltimore American giving its readers a positive assurance that a single rebel company has captured the Potomac, at the very moment that General Lee has seated himself in his comfortable Frederick headquarters to rest and to receive the congratulations of his government, and the victorious regiments of Manassas encamped around him. McClellan too announces for the comfort and quietude of the "universal Yankee nation," that all the rebels have been captured, and that the city of Washington has been carefully guarded, that the rebels have not crossed the river as yet, and that should they attempt to do so, they will catch it. Our friend George B. is in a dilemma, from which it will be difficult to extricate himself. Either he was stupidly negligent and fast asleep in allowing the main body of our army to pass the Rappahannock without his knowledge, or else knowing full well that he had reached Frederick, he deliberately published a trumping lie, a lie of the first magnitude. If he did this only to keep up the morale of his army, he may, perhaps, have succeeded, but as a general, he is in the center and on the right, and resulted in his getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement on all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with little resistance from our artillery, very strong positions, defended by artillery and infantry.

SECOND DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: Information this moment received, completely confirms the report and demoralization of the rebel army. Loss reported wounded and killed. Hooker alone has over a thousand prisoners, seven hundred having been sent to Frederick. It is stated that Lee gives his loss at fifteen thousand. We are following as rapidly as men can march. GEO. B. McCLELLAN. THIRD DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: I am happy to inform you that Frederick's success on the left was as complete as that in the center and on the right, and resulted in his getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement on all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with little resistance from our artillery, very strong positions, defended by artillery and infantry. I don't think our loss is very severe. The corps of D. H. Hill and Longstreet were engaged with our right. We have taken a considerable number of prisoners. The enemy disappeared during the night. Our troops are now advancing in pursuit. I do not know where the enemy will retreat. Signed, GEO. B. McCLELLAN.

FOURTH DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: The Bulletin also contains the following: LOUISVILLE, September 18.—Reliable information is received that Bragg is now at Hopkinsville. Two deserters from Bragg's army say Bragg was at Sparta, Tenn., on Tuesday last, with 10,000 men, and marching toward Kentucky. LOUISVILLE, Ky., September 18.—Captain Morris, just returned from a scouting expedition, reports five hundred rebel cavalry at New Castle. They captured the telegraph operator at this place, and threatened to hang him unless he gave them his instruments. The news again is that the city of Nashville is in a state of the highest excitement, and the report is current and generally believed that the city is to be evacuated by the Federal forces, and the whole Union men who remain behind. "What," exclaimed a quiet Democrat just now, "abandon us to the rebels? Why, there is not a second man who would not laugh when he shot down in cold blood by rebel soldiers, if they come here."

FROM BIRMINGHAM. A special messenger says the Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

THE WAR IN MARYLAND.

Special Correspondence of the Appeal.

Special to the Appeal.

Special to the Appeal. SENATORIAL, September 19.—The Memphis Bulletin, of the 18th, just received, contains the following dispatches from McClellan to the War Department: FIRST DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: I have just learned from General Hooker, who is in the advance, that the intelligence is perfectly reliable, that the enemy is making for the river in a perfect panic, and that the advance into their territory. It is really quite amusing to see the Baltimore American giving its readers a positive assurance that a single rebel company has captured the Potomac, at the very moment that General Lee has seated himself in his comfortable Frederick headquarters to rest and to receive the congratulations of his government, and the victorious regiments of Manassas encamped around him. McClellan too announces for the comfort and quietude of the "universal Yankee nation," that all the rebels have been captured, and that the city of Washington has been carefully guarded, that the rebels have not crossed the river as yet, and that should they attempt to do so, they will catch it. Our friend George B. is in a dilemma, from which it will be difficult to extricate himself. Either he was stupidly negligent and fast asleep in allowing the main body of our army to pass the Rappahannock without his knowledge, or else knowing full well that he had reached Frederick, he deliberately published a trumping lie, a lie of the first magnitude. If he did this only to keep up the morale of his army, he may, perhaps, have succeeded, but as a general, he is in the center and on the right, and resulted in his getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement on all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with little resistance from our artillery, very strong positions, defended by artillery and infantry.

SECOND DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: Information this moment received, completely confirms the report and demoralization of the rebel army. Loss reported wounded and killed. Hooker alone has over a thousand prisoners, seven hundred having been sent to Frederick. It is stated that Lee gives his loss at fifteen thousand. We are following as rapidly as men can march. GEO. B. McCLELLAN. THIRD DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: I am happy to inform you that Frederick's success on the left was as complete as that in the center and on the right, and resulted in his getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement on all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with little resistance from our artillery, very strong positions, defended by artillery and infantry. I don't think our loss is very severe. The corps of D. H. Hill and Longstreet were engaged with our right. We have taken a considerable number of prisoners. The enemy disappeared during the night. Our troops are now advancing in pursuit. I do not know where the enemy will retreat. Signed, GEO. B. McCLELLAN.

FOURTH DISPATCH. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18.—(By telegraph, 6 A. M.) To Major-General Halleck: The Bulletin also contains the following: LOUISVILLE, September 18.—Reliable information is received that Bragg is now at Hopkinsville. Two deserters from Bragg's army say Bragg was at Sparta, Tenn., on Tuesday last, with 10,000 men, and marching toward Kentucky. LOUISVILLE, Ky., September 18.—Captain Morris, just returned from a scouting expedition, reports five hundred rebel cavalry at New Castle. They captured the telegraph operator at this place, and threatened to hang him unless he gave them his instruments. The news again is that the city of Nashville is in a state of the highest excitement, and the report is current and generally believed that the city is to be evacuated by the Federal forces, and the whole Union men who remain behind. "What," exclaimed a quiet Democrat just now, "abandon us to the rebels? Why, there is not a second man who would not laugh when he shot down in cold blood by rebel soldiers, if they come here."

FROM BIRMINGHAM. A special messenger says the Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

FROM CHARLESTON. There were numerous rumors about the city, such as the capture of Baltimore, etc., but we were not to resort them. LATER.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th says: No definite intelligence from our army was received yesterday. The Richmond Examiner of the 12th reached the city last evening with dispatches to the President, from General Lee, at Frederick city. These dispatches, we understand, relate to matters which would add but little to the gratification of the public curiosity. The messenger brings the intelligence that General Lee is exceedingly well pleased with the reception by the people of Maryland thus far, and is sanguine of the most successful result of the advance into the territory of our sister State. The army movements are still kept "under the rose."

THE WEST—FEDERAL REPORTS.

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Times.

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Times.

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Times. CINCINNATI, Sept. 19.—The rebel army reported within six miles of Covington on Wednesday, and during Thursday considerable skirmishing was kept up. In this event, the rebel army, together with a lot of better equipped men, were reported to have been taken by the Federal cavalry, who are in pursuit. The rebels are making a hasty retreat, the road being strewn with dead horses, etc. They number 20,000 men, including 200 cavalry, and 35 pieces of artillery. It is believed that they will retreat from the State of Kentucky, and will be followed by the State of Kentucky. They succeeded in retreating largely during their stay. Preparations are making to go in. The skirmishes yesterday afternoon resulted in the capture of twenty rebels. The prisoners reported that the rebel army in good spirits and anxious to advance on Cincinnati. They are determined by them that they were to fall back in the direction of Florence, to draw our forces out of their intrenchments. They are now in the hands of the Federal cavalry, who are in pursuit. The rebels are making a hasty retreat, the road being strewn with dead horses, etc. They number 20,000 men, including 200 cavalry, and 35 pieces of artillery. It is believed that they will retreat from the State of Kentucky, and will be followed by the State of Kentucky. They succeeded in retreating largely during their stay. Preparations are making to go in. The skirmishes yesterday afternoon resulted in the capture of twenty rebels. The prisoners reported that the rebel army in good spirits and anxious to advance on Cincinnati. They are determined by them that they were to fall back in the direction of Florence, to draw our forces out of their intrenchments. They are now in the hands of the Federal cavalry, who are in pursuit. The rebels are making a hasty retreat, the road being strewn with dead horses, etc. They number 20,000 men, including 200 cavalry, and 35 pieces of artillery. It is believed that they will retreat from the State of Kentucky, and will be followed by the State of Kentucky. They succeeded in retreating largely during their stay. Preparations are making to go in. The skirmishes yesterday afternoon resulted in the capture of twenty rebels. The prisoners reported that the rebel army in good spirits and anxious to advance on Cincinnati. They are determined by them that they were to fall back in the direction of Florence, to draw our forces out