

MEMPHIS APPEAL

Office--No. 13 Jefferson Street.

CITY MATTERS.

FAIR at the Tabernacle to-night. Admission free.

THE WEATHER was again clear and beautiful yesterday.

WE ARE indebted to Mr. Felix Cross for the late Southern and Eastern papers.

Can-Can,--The New Memphis Theater Monday.

MINCE MEAT and Sweet Cider at Finnie & Buckham's.

CARPETS and FURNITURE--Just received and for sale cheap by Ames, Beattie & Co., 396 Main Street.

200 Nice Overcoats, from $7 50 to $15, at Rice & Engel's, 233 Main Street.

ATTEND THE SALE this morning by W. H. Pasmore, & Co. at their public auction room 231 Second Street.

500 No. 1 Saffron seeds, $7 50 per suit, at Rice & Engel's.

New Superhouse Molasses at Finnie & Buckham's.

Gent's good Coat Boots 55c, Gen's Clothing extra low, 65c, Good white k. Under hints and Dr. W. H. P. Co., 231 Main Street.

FREE--Yesterday morning about eleven o'clock a fire occurred on the Thompson avenue, entirely consuming the house of J. B. Brown, E. Q. Thomas, and was insured for four thousand.

THE Grand Parisian Ballet Troupe with the White Fawn.

CARPETS and FURNITURE--Just received and for sale cheap by Ames, Beattie & Co., 396 Main Street.

EMMETT SAVINOS INSTITUTION, No. 6 Madison Street, has for sale City, County, and School Strip, in amounts to suit buyers.

THE LADIES are respectfully invited to attend a sale on to-morrow, Tuesday morning, of fashionable hats just received from the Eastern market by W. H. Pasmore & Co., Auctioneers, No. 231 Second Street. Call and examine the stock to-day.

We understand the Western Union Telegraph office in this city was in receipt of communication with Chicago, D. T., last night, via Louisville, Chicago and Omaha, the distance being nearly eighteen hundred miles.

100 Dozen pairs Cotton Half Hose at 10c per pair, at Rice & Engel's, 233 Main Street.

CARPETS and FURNITURE--Just received and for sale cheap by Ames, Beattie & Co., 396 Main Street.

THE MISTAKE ONE OUPHER MADE--It was $150,000 that was wanted. Dr. Hillman says he is glad the presumption follows that he caught, thinking $15,000 would buy the use of the Great General Restorative, in Cuba, etc. Well, all right, this is a thing for millions, sure.

ASSIGNMENT OF SALES OF Books, Notes, Bonds, Claims, Choses in Action, etc., belonging to estates of J. S. Johnson, G. M. French, Coolidge & Cooper, H. H. Walker & Co., A. A. Barlow and H. F. Farnsworth, bankrupts, at door of U. S. Court, Walden Block, at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

HANS MADSEN AGAIN--This irascible individual was again arrested yesterday. This time he was registered as simply "disorderly" at the First Division. He will meet the familiar eye of the Police Commissioner to-day, and will no doubt drop a few dollars into the public fund.

LADIES! All kinds of Dress Goods, lower than any place in the city, at Rice & Engel's.

The Great $30,000 Spectacle, White Fawn.

BROKE THINGS--A couple of young gentlemen who went out to take a walk yesterday, were compelled to walk to the city last night, as they were in a wretchedly bad way, and were accompanied by about ten miles out in the rural districts. Blistered feet and a pair of mill of some 50c are part of the day's doings.

ST. PATRICK'S FAIR--The festival in aid of St. Patrick's Church will be continued at the greenland Hall this evening, when the handsome medals in honor of the fair will be sold. The quadrille band will be in attendance for the accommodation of the dancing. The fair will close to-morrow evening.

Good 10-4 all wool white Blankets $4 50 Fine Blankets $5 50, at Rice & Engel's, 233 Main Street.

JOE LOCKE, 233 Main Street, has for sale, Godey's, Dime, Harper, Galaxy, Lippincott's Lady's Friend, also, a large assortment of the latest monthly weeklies and dailies from everywhere. Stationery, base balls, etc.

FIVE PER CENT. SAVED BY PAYING TAXES WEEK--City, school and police men and country wanted in sums to suit tax payers, can be obtained at the lowest rates at the Memphis City Savings Bank, corner of Jefferson and Front Streets.

WRIGHT NOT RIGHT--George H. Wright, who was found in a wonderful state of intoxication, was incarcerated yesterday to a cell, and was in a wretched condition when he was taken to the charge of being a confidence operator, of which he is strongly suspected. He is in a wretched condition, and is in the North and South on "J. N.'s" standstill.

DRUGS--A boss druggist named Welsh, who lives on Market Street, and is the habit of getting drunk and disturbing the neighborhood, went home yesterday and brutally beat his wife, who had just been confined. The incident, however, was not yet one hundred hours old, was no protection to the poor woman, who is unfortunate enough to be tied to such a brute.

MEMPHIS, MISSISSIPPI & CO. are prepared to furnish, at the very lowest prices, steamboats, hotels, factories or private dwellings, and to erect a building of any quality. Call at their office, corner South Court and Main Streets, and leave your orders for fact.

OLD CLOTHING MADE NEW--Thos. H. Hunt & Co., No. 246 Second Street, are prepared to do all kinds of cleaning, dyeing and repairing. They will make your clothes look as good as brand new, and that at a cost which, compared with new ones, is almost nothing. By a new process the original luster and shape of the garment is preserved in an astonishing manner. Gentlemen will consult soon, by sending Hunt & Co. their old garments.

The greatest transformation scene of the age. New Memphis Theater.

50 Dozen good Men's Hats at $1, at Rice & Engel's, 233 Main Street.

Price of Morgan's self-binding flour, by the barrel, is reduced to nearly the same price of any first class flour. A great saving to consumers.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY.

To-day is the feast of St. Andrew, one reverently observed by all Scotchmen and their descendants the world over.

St. Andrew was the son of Jonas, a fisherman of Bethsaida, in Galilee, and was the brother of Simon Peter, but whose name was changed to Andrew, and was one of the twelve apostles of Jesus Christ.

On hearing these words, we are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day. They afterwards followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

We are informed that the two individuals in question followed Jesus, and having accepted him, were invited by the Savior to remain with him for that day.

After the ascension, the name of St. Andrew is not mentioned in the New Testament, but he is believed to have traveled as a missionary through Asia and Europe, and is supposed to have passed through Thracia, Macedonia, and Epirus into Achaia; and at the city of Patras, in the last named region, to have suffered martyrdom about 70 A. D. The Roman pontiff, it is said, first honored him as a saint, and the Greek, the latter pontiff being the one who first honored him as a saint.

WHY AM I A CATHOLIC?

Dr. Rogers' Lecture Last Night.

The Greenlaw Opera House was never better filled than it was last night, to listen to the lecture of the Rev. Dr. Rogers on the subject, "Why Am I a Catholic?"

From every part of the city, and from the suburbs, more than two hundred people assembled to hear his discourse, and this immense audience was held spell-bound by the eloquence of the reverend gentleman for two hours.

The discourse was divided into five parts. The first part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The second part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The third part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The fourth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The fifth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The sixth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The seventh part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The eighth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The ninth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The tenth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The eleventh part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The twelfth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The thirteenth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The fourteenth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The fifteenth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The sixteenth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The seventeenth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The eighteenth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The nineteenth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The twentieth part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was to speak, and the immensity of the number of the Catholics from all parts of the world.

The twenty-first part related to the audience, the vestry of the subject upon which he was