

MEMPHIS APPEAL

FRIDAY MORNING, JAN. 30, 1874.

THE DEATH-PENALTY FOR MURDER.

The crime of murder is one of the most heinous characters that, ages ago, men of very different civilizations, and of the most opposite shades of religious belief, agreed in exacting "a life for a life." In modern times the justice, or policy, of this award has been called into question, and what is regarded as a more merciful punishment has been pleaded for.

Senator Clayton, who is anxious to secure the free-delivery system for Little Rock, called, the other day, on Postmaster-General Creswell, who had partially promised, but had neglected to comply with his demand.

San Francisco shows a record of property, during the past year, not exceeded by any other city in the Union. The population has advanced from 180,000 to 200,000, while buildings have been erected at a cost of $5,000,000.

THE Nashville exposition building is to be sold, therefore there will be no disposition. We regret to chronicle this, and hope for the sake of the name for enterprise which our fellow-citizens of Nashville are just now making, it will prove untrue.

THE colored citizens of Knoxville desire the three congressmen from that city to vote for the supplementary civil rights bill.

JAMES S. RIDGELY will not be a Democratic candidate for mayor of Philadelphia.

THE Union and American of Saturday says: "A one-thousand dollar bond of the Mineral home persuasion found its way to the capitol yesterday. It was known by its back, and taken in out of the coil, without compensation in turn."

THE vexed question, what to do with the Alabama and Chattanooga railroad, has for the time being, been settled by Judge Woods, of the United States circuit court of Alabama, who has decreed its sale in the interest of the first-mortgage creditors, but no bid to be taken under five millions two hundred and twenty thousand dollars.

legislature of Georgia by Mr. Williams, of Baldwin, calling a State convention to revise the constitution of 1868, will be thrown out for one providing simply for a submission of the question of a convention to the voters of the State at the next election.

THE New Orleans people are just now very jubilant over the arrival there from Waterloo, Illinois, of fifteen car-loads of flour. This, the New Orleans people think, an event of more than common importance—an experiment, but a successful experiment, inasmuch as the whole train of fifteen cars was through from Waterloo without breaking bulk, and at a rate which proves that this route, the Mississippi Central, under the control of Mr. McComb, can defy the competition of any of the great eastern lines.

THE Jefferson Democrat says a question in the future school history of Texas will be: "What supreme judges in this State hastened their judicial honors to political favor?" Answer—"Ogden, McAdoo and Walker."

THE Connecticut and New Hampshire elections are next in order. The Democrats expect to be triumphant in both, with the aid and assistance of the Liberal Republicans.

IOWA last year erected and paid for two hundred and forty-six schoolhouses, exclusive of those built to replace those which had become unfit for use. What a glorious record.

KANSAS is cursed just now with office-seekers of the higher order, having no less than thirty candidates for the United States senate.
