

FINANCE AND TRADE.

MONEY MARKETS, both here and everywhere, afford little opportunity for detail; the New York Herald has the following account: "A crowd of lexicographers could scarcely evolve from their list of adjectives enough to qualify the noun substantive 'dullness' as applicable to the existing bond market."

105 sacks sold at $17.50. Hay is scarce in choice quality, but there are some, there were sales of 71 bales of cotton at $12.50, and 35 bales medium at $13.00. The market is dull, and we heard of no transactions; 425,000 lbs. of coffee for sale in store. Cornmeal was offered on change at $2.50, but it was not taken. Flour is in moderate demand, and we heard of no transactions. Potatoes are in moderate demand, and we heard of no transactions. Outside of these, we find the following: Eggs are dull and heavy at 27c; the stock is heavy. Chickens were dull for a while, but are now in a fair quantity of offering; dressed in one inquiry with few in hand at $2.25. Turkeys were selling at $12.00 for alive; dressed at $10.00. Hides are in moderate demand, and we heard of no transactions. There is a better demand for choice than for medium quality, and we heard of no transactions. There is a better demand for choice than for medium quality, and we heard of no transactions.
